THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Matthew 3; Luke 3:1-23a; 7:19-28; John 1:15-34.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Luke 1:59-67, 76-80.

No Greater Prophet

Lesson for January 23, 1949

"OF ALL the characters in history, which one do you admire most?" We know how Jesus answered that interested question.

Dr. Foreman

He had a great array of personages from whom to make his selection. But he took as the Great Man of all time, up to his own generation, no heroic figure from the past, no king, general, scholar or prophet. The greatest man, for Jesus —or at least one so great that he could think of none greater—was one of his own contemporaries, a cousin of his who was in jail at the time when Jesus said of him, "Among those born of women none is greater than John." Known to us as John the Baptist, that is, John the Baptizer, we seldom realize either his greatness or the close connection between his life and that of Jesus.

* * *

John of the Jordan

WE DO not know how much Jesus himself owed to John. We do know that John was the man who first called the public's attention to Jesus. John it was who gave some of Jesus' most important disciples their first training; John who introduced to Jesus, and turned over to him, some of his own followers. It may be significant too that Jesus' first preaching was identical with that of John (compare Matthew 3:2 and 4:17).

Some Christian scholars have gone so far as to suppose that it was John's preaching that stirred the young carpenter from Nazareth to leave his shop and begin his great work as teacher.

Whether this is so or not, we do know that it was the baptizing by John which led to the baptism of Jesus, and that Jesus' baptism was the turning-point between Jesus' private life and his short and stormy public career. It is quite clear that if there had been no John the Baptizer, the story of Jesus would have been very different from what it actually was.

* * *

Only a Voice

JOHN'S own picture of himself is not a picture at all. When they asked him to say what he was, and half-expected him to declare that he was the Messiah, the long-looked for King, John said only, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness."

John, so far as we know, never accepted dinner invitations, he was never under the roof of any friend, and he had no roof of his own. People even called him demon-possessed, he was so far removed from ordinary life.

But Jesus was always in people's homes. That is one reason why the greatness of John fades before the greatness of Jesus, for a Voice makes a poor companion. Jesus had the human sympathy that John lacked, and John well knew this. "He must increase, but I must decrease," he said.

* * *

Repentance Seed and Fruit

NEVERTHELESS the Voice spoke truth. John must have been a powerful preacher, for his meetings were held miles from the nearest town, so that to reach him from Jerusalem one would have to travel through wild country infested with bandits. Few modern preachers, without benefit of advertising, music or choir, without even a tent, would dare to start a revival meeting 15 rough miles out of town. But John did—and the people came in crowds. We do not have the full report of his preaching that we have of the preaching of Jesus, but we do know that he broke the hard crust of his listeners' conscience.

He made them see how unfit they were for the Kingdom of God for which they prayed; he broke down their pride till they went down to the Jordan and were baptized under the open sky, in public confession of their sins.

When men asked him, What shall we do? John did not have the fuller, higher message that Jesus later had. But he did make plain two things about the good life, the life that pleases God: it cannot even begin without repentance and confession of sin, but it does not end there. Repentance is not a simple granite milestone on life's way; it is a seed which if it is real will bear fruit.

The Senate knocked everyone except president, vice president and speaker of House out of a bill to raise pay of top federal officials. President's salary will be $100,000 instead of $75,000.

Start Garden Preparations Now For Early Vegetables

Getting anxious for the first taste of fresh home-grown garden produce? Looking forward to having tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, lettuce, and onions from your own garden? If so, it is time to go to work and get the hotbed or coldframe in action. Many of these garden crops may be harvested much earlier in the season if the plants are started in advance of the outdoor gardening season.

Marylanders who do not have a hotbed or coldframe can get complete information on construction and use by asking their county agent for Farmers' Bulletin 1743 or by writing the bulletin room at the University of Maryland. Those who have the equipment can profit by the suggestions offered by Edward K. Bender, vegetable specialist for the Extension Service.

He states that plants such as lettuce, cabbage, cauliflower, and broccoli may be started at relatively low temperatures. Crops such as tomatoes peppers, eggplants, muskmelons, summer squash, celery, and cucumbers need a higher temperature. In most of the state the first group of plants may be started after February 15 while the second group should not be started until around April 1. Onion seed may be planted by the middle of January.

The soil used in either hotbed or coldframe should be good rich loam with plenty of humus in it. This should be supplemented with lime and a 5-10-5 fertilizer.

Potato Seed Recommendations Listed By Jehle

Problems of potato growers—poor stands, premature dying of vines, poor yield, scab, and rot in the tubers—may be remedied by the use of certain improved practices. The most important of these practices to be considered at this time of year is the use of good seed of suitable varieties, according to Dr. R. A. Jehle, of the plant pathology department at the University of Maryland. He reminds growers that now is the time to plan for their 1949 seed and offers to supply lists of sources of good seed.

He recommends certified seed be used whenever possible. In the event that such seed—grown under conditions which meet certification standards for freedom from disease—is not available, there are other types of seed that may be planted.

Growers who want to use their home-grown seed should do so only if it meets the following requirements: Select clean seed from a bin of potatoes showing little rot or scab and grown under these conditions (1) vines not killed prematurely, (2) good yield, and (3) field examined at blossom time by an expert and found fairly free of recognizable virus diseases. He advises the use of number two potatoes only from fields that passed certification standards this past year.

Heading the list was Wilson A. Heapes, who was elevated from the Vice President's position to President. C. E. Wise, Jr., was retained as Secretary-Treasurer.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 72. OAKLAND'S HUNDREDTH YEAR THE REPUBLICAN'S SEVENTY-SECOND OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., JANUARY 27, 1949. NUMBER 48.

Sales Tax Use . . . . . .

When the state two percent sales tax went into effect the statement was made through the columns of The Republican that IF the money was used for the purposes for which it was originally intended, all would probably be well and good. But if it was going to be used for various programs and schemes, merely because the money was in the treasury, it would be a misrepresentation to the citizens of this state and an unworthy method to dig further into the taxpayers' pockets.

It was generally believed that the sales tax receipts would be used primarily for the betterment of the educational system in the state, for more and better roads, and when these two items were taken care of, to eventually reduce the property tax.

Already we are beginning to see signs of wanting to use the money for other purposes. The tax has brought in more revenue than at first suspected, and what is being done? Some legislators right now are advocating some of the money be used to pay a soldier bonus. Without going into the merits or demerits of a state soldier bonus at this time, the fact remains that such a suggestion is only the beginning.

Unless the taxpayers themselves bring pressure to bear, to make sure that the money goes for what it was intended, it will be scattered to the four winds and they will never see the day when their property tax will be reduced. The idea of penalizing a person just because he owns his own home, or increasing his taxes because he has initiative enough to make improvements to his farm, never did seem a just way to reward the enterprising and progressive.

If there is going to continue to be a sales tax, let's be sure that we get our improved roads and schools, and eventually a reduction in property tax.

Honored at Regional Farm Gathering

Regional and County winners in the Farming for Better Living program from the 16 counties of the Upper Monongahela Valley region were honored at a banquet in Clarksburg on January 22. Included in the region for the first time was Garrett county, and the county winners, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Schlossnagle, were present for the banquet. Others attending from this area were Mrs. W. W. DeWitt, Dorsey Guard, and Denzel M. Bowyer.

Two hundred and forty-seven persons saw Joseph E. Sites of Pendleton county, receive the regional award, a registered calf, contributed by the Carnation company. Four counties were awarded certificates for 100 percent completion of their enrollment. They were Doddridge, Lewis, Barbour and Pendleton. Each of the 4-H clubs in the counties received $25 to be added to their treasuries.

There were 1,113 farm families enrolled in the twenty-four counties in West Virginia, one in Ohio and one in Maryland.

A pamphlet distributed at the dinner contained the pictures of each county-winning family, with an account of their farm activities which led to their selection as the county winner.

Mr. and Mrs. Schlossnagle have been on their 90-acre farm at Hoyes for nine years. Upon advice of the farm security supervisor, the county agent, soil conservation technician and others, Mr. Schlossnagle began a reorganization program. He has contour stripped the farm, and applied generous applications of lime and fertilizer to all crop fields and pastures.

They have 17 good grade dairy cows, producing 80,218 pounds of milk in 10 months. There are six dairy heifers and five heifer calves on farm, and by breeding to proven sires in the artificial breeding cooperative the herd is building up fast until all cattle seen will be purebred Guernseys. The herd is T.B. and Bangs accredited and his dairy barn is modern.

A new silo is kept almost full of grass silage. A new machine shed has been built, as well as a garage and manure pit. The dairy barn has been remodeled and modern stanchions and drinking cups installed.

Mr. and Mrs. Schlossnagle have 450 laying hens. They raised 1,700 chicks the past year. Pullet replacements were raised and they sold broilers.

Mr. Schlossnagle is a director of the farm bureau and recently retired from a three-year term on the farm home administration advisory committee. Mrs. Schlossnagle is vice-president of the Homemakers club and is active in community activities.

The local FBL council is already at work on plans for the 149 program and a council meeting is to be called soon to name new officers.

Tree Stock Surveys Will Be Continued

Area foresters will continue a program of tree stock surveys in state forests this year, William A. Parr, district forester, has announced.

The surveys, which were begun last year, aid foresters to determine the volume of different species and sizes of trees, and are useful in preparing a forest management plan.

A crew of forest workers is now continuing the survey in Swallow Falls State forest, Parr said, adding that four crews completed a survey in about 7,000 of the forest's 7,500 odd acres last summer.

The Swallow Falls survey should be completed in the next two or three months. Last summer a survey was completed in about 1,000 acres of Potomac State forest which has a total area of about 12,000 acres.

This year three three-man crews will resume work in Potomac State forest and three crews will begin a survey in the 51,000 acres of Savage River State forest.

Cutting on any area, Parr said, will be determined by the value of the area as a watershed protection or as a recreational area. No cutting will be allowed in recreational areas and cutting in watershed protection areas will be lighter than in flatter areas.

April in January

January of 1949 might be termed more like April than April really is, judging by the weather of the past ten days.

Rain has fallen on six consecutive days, January 21 to 26, inclusive, for a total of 3.35 inches.

The sun did actually shine last Thursday, but it also rained three days previous to that, making a total of 9 days out of 10 in which rain has fallen, according to Ralph E. Weber, weatherman for this area.

In the lower sections of the county over the week-end there was some ice and sleet which made travel dangerous. Several traffic tieups were reported in the Grantsville area.

Youth Tells Story Of Efforts To Save Carr Boys

John Helmick, Davis, W. Va., 17, who lived through five cold and hungry days in Tucker county, yesterday told all he "could remember" about vain attempts to save the lives of Eston and Robert Carr, who froze to death. "I wish I wouuldn't have left the two younger boys," he told Sheriff D. E. Croston. "Maybe they would still be alive."

"I was too scared and wondered if anybody would ever find us. I told the boys to stay where I left them and I would go for help."

Helmick told the sheriff of eating snow to satisfy thirst, of tearing the pockets out of his water soaked clothes to build a fire, "but the matches wouldn't light.

The little one, Robert, cried so much "he couldn't keep up with us," Helmick related, "so I had to carry him a lot of the time. He said he was hungry. We walked for miles and I knew something was wrong, but I never told the boys. They knew it though," Helmick assured the sheriff, "I could tell by the look in their eyes."

Helmick said one night he cut pine tree branches and made beds for the two boys. Then he put his jacket over the smallest one to keep the snow off of him.

Helmick told the sheriff that he never got cold and his feet didn't hurt. "I could see my feet swelling up and watched them break the stitches in my shoes, but they didn't hurt."

Helmick was seventeen yesterday and physicians in the Elkins hospital were preparing to amputate his feet so they could save his life.

Record Budget Is Proposed by Lane

Governor Lane proposed a record one-year budget of $130,846,152 for Maryland's state government in his annual budget message before a joint session of the legislature on Tuesday.

Two Good Reasons for March of Dimes

—Republican Engraving.

Here are two good reasons why people of Garrett county should support the March of Dimes campaign generously. Both are victims of the disease which struck in Garrett county last year.

The boy standing is Marvin Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Arnold, of near Gorman. He is still receiving treatment at Kernan's hospital in Baltimore. The other is Dan Friend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Friend, of near Friendsville. He is now at home and just recently experienced also an attack of chicken pox.

Without funds from the March of Dimes these children would not have been cared for and given a chance to overcome their physical handicaps.

Miss Susy Smith gave a reading and the scouts sang a number of songs. Elaine Graham expressed appreciation of the scouts to the Civic club for its sponsorship of the troop. Several of the former leaders were honored as special guests, Mrs. Walter E. Dawson, Miss Susy Smith, Mrs. H. L. Bennett and Mrs. S. T. Naylor.

At a short business session the Civic club voted to contribute $10 each to the March of Dimes and the American Red Cross.

Mayor Hinebaugh said the proposed installation of such gates at the Second street crossing here would be discussed at length at the next meeting of the Town Council. He said the gates entirely covered the roadway, making it next to impossible to get through and cause a collision with any train.

After the council agreed to the installation, several citizens voiced their objections at a recent meeting, so this further study was undertaken.

Chairman Asks That Contributions Be Returned—Benefit Dances Planned

An urgent appeal to the public to return filled coin cards to their local March of Dimes headquarters or to make their contributions in the coin collectors, was issued yesterday by Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, chairman of the 1949 March of Dimes campaign.

With only four days to go before the end of the campaign, Dr. Baumgartner said it was vital that everyone contribute. "The last day January will determine whether or not we will be able to cope with a polio epidemic in Maryland next summer," he said. "We have been asked by our State Chairman to raise this year's contributions by 50 percent. How well we have answered that plea cannot be ascertained until a complete report is made."

In Oakland the women of the Oakland Civic club are completing their house to house canvass and will report to the chairman in the near future.

At a benefit party held last Thursday at the Manhattan hotel, sponsored by the Democrat club, $126.50 was raised which is being turned over to the March of Dimes fund. The room for the occasion was contributed by Thomas Sheehe. A number of persons contributed cakes.

Admission is 15 and 50 cents, with 10 cents extra for the picture for the children. Proceeds from this party also will be added to the March of Dimes.

G.I. Marriage To Filipino Girl Declared Invalid

Blair Robinette, former army recruiting sergeant in Oakland, had his war-time marriage to Jesusita Torres Y Cordero of the Philippine islands declared invalid by Judge Baker in the Circuit court at Morgantown, W. Va., last Friday. He testified the marriage was illegally performed in September, 1944.

Robinette, whose army enlistment expired a few days ago, had been in the service for about 10 years. When war broke out with the Japs he was located on the Bataan peninsula, Philippine islands, and was among those captured by the Japs and forced to participate on the "death march." He and several companions escaped and joined the guerrilla forces there.

According to information brought out at the hearing, Robinette and his companions arranged for a "pretended" marriage ceremony with the Filipino girl whom he met during his fighting with the guerrillas. The ceremony was performed by the priest under coercion of the American Guerrillas, it was stated, although no marriage license had been obtained and no marriage certificate was given.

Robinette said he returned to the States in 1945, and brought his Filipino wife with him. They lived in Pennsylvania and then came to Oakland where they resided for two years. He stated on Tuesday that by mutual agreement his wife and two children returned to the Philippine islands by air last June 23rd, and that he believed they were living somewhere near Manila at the present time.

Judge Baker held that no marriage license was issued and that Robinette was entitled to an annulment.

Robinette, here this week, said he had established residence in Morgantown and that his plans were uncertain. He said he might re-enlist.

Legislation Designed to Combat Communism Introduced In State

Legislation designed to combat Communism in Maryland, prescribing severe penalties for any individual or organization found guilty of advocating the overthrow of the government of the State or of the United States by force or violence, was introduced into the Legislature last week. The bill, presented simultaneously in the Senate and House of Delegates, followed exactly recommendations submitted to Governor W. Preston Lane, Jr., by the Commission on subversive Activities, headed by Frank B. Ober, Baltimore attorney, after an exhaustive study of subversive problems as they exist in Maryland.

The statute which is proposed in its report is designed to implement the constitutional amendment which was passed at the November 2nd election, an amendment which prohibits the employment by any political division of the State of any person belonging to an organization favoring the overthrow of the existing government by force or violence.

The proposed statute is in two sections: Section No. 1 would make sedition a felony with penalties ranging up to fines of $20,000 or 20 years imprisonment or both for anyone found guilty of violating the law under the section and, No. 2 which provides for loyalty tests for present or future state, city or county employes (above the rank of laborer) and for candidates for political office.

Under Section No. 1 of the law individuals would be subject to the penalties if they were found guilty of:

Committing or attempting to commit or aiding in any act intended to overthrow the State or Federal government by force or violence; advocating or influencing any individual to commit an act; conspiring towards such an end; helping to form, participating in the management of or contributing to the support of any subversive organization. Knowing it to be subversive; destroying the books, records or files secreting any funds of any subversive organization.

Under Section Two, the loyalty section, all public office holders whose duties include the employment or appointment of state employes are directed to make certain that prospective employes are not engaged in subversive activities. This includes applicants for teaching positions. The law would require applicants to sign statements to such effect, with misstatement subject to the penalties for perjury. It further requires all employes on public payrolls as of June 1, 1949 to sign similar statements, with the same perjury provisions. Reasonable grounds to suspect that any such employe is actually supporting subversive activities shall be sufficient for dismissal, but the statute provides that the case be taken through the normal channels governing the dismissal of public employes.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT.

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

In Washington, there is very little difference in the view now taken of Russia. No one, of course, wants war; but, in and out of official circles, almost every man sufficiently informed and experienced to have a worthwhile judgment is convinced the Russian leaders do not want to cooperate in achieving world peace; that they do not want to make the United Nations an effective instrument but to destroy its usefulness.

They are furtner convinced that these men are not men of good will nor good faith; that they cannot be relied upon to live up to any agreement nor trusted to tell the truth; that they are inherently hostile to the capitalistic countries — particularly the United States— and their real object is to undermine them by promoting economic chaos. For out of chaos comes Communism. Though all those who hold this view cannot proclaim it publicly, nevertheless it is an accurate reflection of opinion. The record of the last three years seems fully to sustain every conclusion herein made.

There is no real dissent. The only difference is in the length of time it took different individuals to reach them. Some, like Mr. William C. Bullitt, Ambassador to Russia from 1933 to 1936—and 'an exceedingly friendly one—reached them ten years ago. In 1946 he set them forth in a book. Others, like Mr. B. M. Baruch, reached them after many months of patient negotiation on the vital matter of atomic control, during which he exhausted every avenue of conciliation, quit only when convinced of the complete futility of further effort.

Many others, starting out with hope that it was only necessary to understand and sympathize with the Russians in order to secure results, long ago abandoned that idea. Even Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is discouraged and irritated. A week ago at the State Department, among other things, she declared that "I don't think I will ever compromise with them again—even on words. The Soviets look on this as evidence of weakness rather than a gesture of good will." Ex-Senator Warren Austin, of Vermont, who, before his illness, was our chief representative in the United Nations and started out with the utmost optimism concerning Russian cooperation, ended his service in a state of pessimism on that score.

So has nearly every other optimist. Gradually, almost without exception, they have come to believe the Russians do not intend to co-operate, negotiate or agree. All they intend is to delay, obstruct, exasperate, and irritate, always adding vastly to the cost, the confusion, the futility and frustration of our attempt to promote permanent peace and individaul liberty throughout the world. Perhaps if we had grasped these facts right after the Russians began to nullify the United Nations with their silly vetoes we might have saved vital time, much labor and money. Perhaps, then, we might have avoided the sucker role for 3 years. Certainly, if we had taken the advice of Mr. Churchill, given here more than two years ago, we at least would have saved two years, much stress, strain and expense —and been in much better position.

As things stand today, thoughtful men here are almost unanimous in this view, which explains why the recently reported "peace offensive" of the Soviets has met with so cold and cynical a reception. For one thing, while the French Communists, invariably inspired by their Moscow masters, vigorously insist that peace between East and West is possible; that war is not inevitable and peaceful existence of "socialism" and "capitalism," side by side, is not illogical; that peace, not war, is the best ally of "socialism," simultaneously the Moscow Pravda continues to call on Communists everywhere to develop "a burning hatred of capitalism and all aspects of bourgeois ideology." Also Pravada, official organ of the Cominform, continues to declare that American and Britain are the centers of world reaction, that their capitalism is tottering to its inevitable downfall and that this will be followed by the Communist conquest.

Thus, it is impossible to regard this "peace offensive" as anything but the usual Communist "double talk." The Soviet leaders appear to be pursuing a planned zigzag course, "retreating," as the New York Times says, "for a breathing space in preparation for a new attack." Reviewing the record, the only possible way of treating their latest move is with complete skepticism. It would be absurd to warm up to them until they speak not in words or propaganda but in acts calculated to restore confidence in Soviet good faith. Such acts, for example, would be an abandonment of the Berlin blockade and a cessation of the virulent anti-American propaganda with which the Soviets have been trying to poison the world against us. Let them give those evidences of good faith and they would not have to complain about lack of warmth in our response. We have every reason to be eager for better relations with Russia; but without deeds, their words are worthless and we would be fools to turn optimists again.

AURORA-EGLON

Fnueral rites were conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Accident church by Rev. D. B. Spaid for the one month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bennett, who died Monday morning after a short illness. Survivors are the parents; one small brother and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. McClennen Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder, all of the Accident area. Burial was in the Accident cemetery.

Word was received that Mrs. Bernice Conn, of Mt. Top, who was a medical patient in an Elkins hospital was able to leave the institution Wednesday and go to the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Milan Evans in Elkins.

Mrs. Lottie Kight, of near Mt. Grove, daughter of Rev. Emra T. Fike, formerly of near Eglon, fell Sunday morning and dislocated a shoulder. She was treated by a local physician.

The twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour Fike of near Eglon are ill of bronchial pneumonia.

TABLELAND FARMING

A weekly discussion devoted to the Land and Farms of Garrett County, edited by John Carter, County Agent, and W. W. Nace, Soil Conservationist.

An old friend of mine used to have a standard greeting for use during a January thaw. "Is winter over or did it just let go to get a better hold?" This year it has not had a good hold —yet. But we have one sure sign of Spring, and that is seed catalogs. Some farmers have already ordered seed for spring sowing and many more will do it soon.

So maybe now is a good time to talk a little about seeds, especially grasses and legumes. In the first place, it pays big to use good seeds. Poor results with a hay seeding will waste a lot of time and expense put into land preparation and treatment with lime and fertilizer. And, what is sometimes worse, a poor seedling will mess up a rotation and sometimes lose a year's use of the land.

Besides being of good quality, you have to get the right varieties. Alfalfa is a good example. Here we should always use one of the variegated varieties. The most common of these are Grimm, Canadian Variegated, Ranger and Buffalo. The Ranger and Buffalo are new varieties and still very expensive. A good grade of certified Grimm is likely our best bet. Common Alfalfa might stand our climate if the seed comes from Montana or North Dakota. But it's straight root system is not so good for most of our types of soil. If you go around the County and talk to the farmers who are growing good alfalfa you'll find that they are practically all using certified Grimm seed.

Ladino Clover is growing in popularity for hay-type pastures and on land that will be used for a combination of hay and pasture. All Ladino Clover is supposed to be the same, but some stands seem to grow a lot bigger than others on the same kind of soil with the same treatment. Here, again, your best protection is to get certified Ladino seed from a reputable firm.

There can be a lot of argument about what kind of grass to use, and no one grass is best for all purposes or locations. If hay stands are mowed only two years, then Timothy is still likely the best bet. For use with Alfalfa or Ladino Clover most of the Experiment Stations recommend Orchard Grass. It has a lot of good qualities and some drawbacks. If you get a scattered stand of Orchard Grass it will form a tufty sod. It matures very early—sometimes too early for good haying weather. It is not as palatable to stock as timothy. On the other hand, Orchard grass is better adopted to a wide variety of soil conditions than timothy. In stands that will be mowed twice a season or pastured, it will come back better than timothy. Being early, it matures more nearly with Alfalfa than does timothy. Cut at the right stage, it is very nutritious, in spite of not being so palatable.

Smooth Brome Grass is one that has recently become popular in some parts of the country. A few local farmers have tried it and it seems to be satisfactory, although it is too early to make definite recommendations. It is a leafy grass, not quite as early as Orchard and more palatable. It comes back well after mowing or grazing. It does especially well with Alfalfa or Ladino Clover. You might want to try a little of it on an experimental basis. If you do try it, be sure to get the Lincoln or Southern Strain of Smooth Brome. It is bulky, chaffy seed, difficult to get on the ground.

Mixtures to seed depend a lot on the kind and condition of the soil, the amount of lime used, and the use that will be made of the grass. Specific recommendations for seedings on each field are part of the conservation plans that the District helps farmers develop. Technicians working with the District keep in touch with the State Experiment Stations and Agronomists. And many times we find out things about grasses from local farmers who have tried new kinds or different treatment.

Grasses and legumes are Garrett County's most important crop. We all need to know more about them.

SCHOOL of CRIME

Crime in America has long since passed the stage where its most dangerous aspects were those relating to the individual criminal or to small groups of criminal associates. It has become an organized business—big business—grossing many millions of dollars annually and covering a wide range of lawlessness from petty theft to kidnapping, murder, and treason.

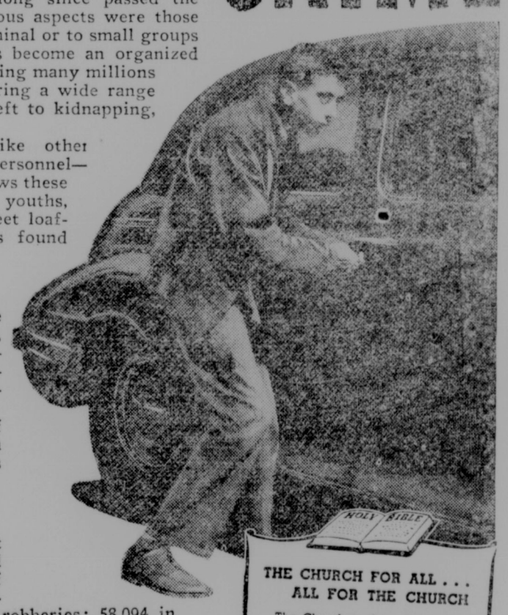
Criminal organizations, like other businesses, require working personnel—trained operatives—and it draws these from the ranks of shiftless youths, neglected boys and girls, street loafers, and the moral derelicts found in every community. Under the tutelage of older criminals, they are trained in the techniques of crime and soon become experts in some particular line.

Last year 734,041 youths of both sexes — many of them from supposedly good homes —were drawn into this great American school of crime and started on criminal careers. Of this number, 6,571 were involved in killings; 21,509 in robberies; 58,094 in assaults; 38,128 in burglaries; 64,213 in larceny; 18,294 in automobile thefts; 37,332 in sex offenses —and so on to the dismal total quoted above.

There is no single answer to the juvenile delinquency problem, because there are so many contributing factors to be reckoned with. Its worst phases could be wiped out, however, through an aroused parenthood, better home conditions, better training in religion and spiritual living, more stress on morals in the public schools, and more adequate community recreational facilities for boys and girls.

The churches of America are striving to stem this tide of disaster and save boys and girls from the pitfalls of delinquency. They stand ready to cooperate with parents, civic groups, and communities in combatting those influences which lead young people astray. Relatively few youthful criminals come from homes where the influence of the Church is dominant.

Talk to the leaders of your Church. Enlist today in the battle to save American childhood and youth from the perils that beset them in these dark times.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

No Iron Curtain

"We read a lot these days about an Iron Curtain maintained by a certain nation. In contrast, Woodcraft's motives are crystal clear, completely unselfish . . . there is no Iron Curtain here.

"All may see the relief in a widow's eyes . . . when the Society's check is handed to her. All may observe how fraternity is made practical when a Camp harvests an ill member's crop . . . presents a flag to a school . . . a medal to a student of history. Nor is there any secret when they establish a blood bank, present a wheel chair, or unveil an historical marker." —From an editorial by President Farrar Newberry in Woodmen of the World Magazine.

'Yet Without Sin'

Lesson for January 30, 1949

YOU will never feel the current if you never swim upstream. If you are a drifter through life you can hardly know what the word "temptation" means. And Jesus was no drifter. If ever a powerful purpose, devotion to God, a noble mind and a pure heart could set a man free from all temptations, Jesus would have been that man. But he had his temptations all the same. After the great day of his baptism, when the heavens opened and he felt the Holy Spirit as plainly as a bird from the sky alighting on his shoulder, we are told that he was "full of the Holy Spirit." Surely no temptation could reach him now! Yet the spirit led him to the wilderness were Satan waited for him.

Dr. Foreman

The Devil Is Smart

SATAN is a persistent devil. He never takes no for an answer, he will be back again with the same temptation in another package. It was so with Jesus. We must not think that Jesus was tempted to low and ugly sins. People are tempted on the level where they live.

After the Baptism, if not before, he was fully awake to the fact that he was God's beloved Son, that it was his responsibility to begin the "Kingdom of God;" he knew he had a position and a power that no one else on earth had ever had. The problem was: How should he use this position and this power?

Each of the three temptations in the wilderness had something to do with that problem. Two of the temptations, at least, were not to do anything wrong in itself. Each time Jesus was tempted to choose something less than the best. And choosing less than the best, when the best can be had, is sin.

* * *

All Temptation Sounds Good

"TURN stones into bread," the tempter said. And why not? People were hungry all around; Jesus grew up in a land where most people were lucky to get one square meal a day, let alone three. Jesus would be the Divine leader of the Kingdom, the Founder of the New Age. Why not make it the Age of Plenty? Why not abolish hunger from the earth? It could be done; it sounds good.

So does that other temptation — "Throw yourself down, the angels will see that you are not hurt." Perhaps many worshippers at the Temple expected that the Messiah, God's King to be, would fly down out of a cloud.

Then that temptation which seems at first reading so ridiculous—fall down and worship Satan. It was not so ridiculous as it appears. What did Jesus want but to be King of Kings and Lord of Lords? What difference does it make how we attain our ambitions, if we only reach them? All other world-conquerors had achieved their pinnacles of power by "worshipping Satan," that is by using violence and trickery.

But Jesus, being full of the Holy Spirit, knew that not everything that sounds good, is good.

He saw clearly that not even he could bring in the Kingdom of God simply by feeding people, or astonishing them with aerial stunts, and still less by using those ancient methods of the world-conquerors, the tools of Satan, violence and lies.

* * *

Defense Weapon

JESUS met his great enemy and beat him down with a single weapon. Every time, Jesus comes out with a quotation from the Bible, incidentally always from Deuteronomy, evidently a favorite book with him. We have the same weapon at our disposal today, and more besides.

There is nothing magical in a Scripture quotation. The point is not that Jesus had memorized these verses so that he could quote them; anybody could do that even without believing a word of them.

What Jesus did was to make those truths his own, they were part of his mind, actually his own convictions. Do you really want to rise proof against temptations? Do as Jesus did: make God's ideas your own. The sharpest lie will blunt itself against the keen edge of Truth.

New Corn Hybrid Recommended For Limited Planting

A new corn hybrid is being recommended to Maryland farmers for limited trial plantings this year. Dr. R. G. Rothgeb, who is in charge of the hybrid corn testing program at the University of Maryland, says, "The most noteworthy new hybrid which has given excellent results in our 4-year test is U. S. 505. It has consistently out-yielded the widely grown U. S. 13 and we feel that many farmers should try it as a small part of their 1949 acreage. This year's sources of the small supply of seed may be found in the seed certification list available from county agents or from our office.

The new hybrid is said to have better standing ability and better foliage than the popular U. S. 13. However, it matures about a week later. Ears are similar in size and shape to those of U. S. 13, but the kernels are much more flinty. The poorer the crop, the more pronounced is this characteristic. Because of its longer growing season, U. S. 505 is expected to have the most success as a grain corn in eastern and southern Maryland, but Dr. Rothgeb states that it also has promise of a silage corn.

COMMISSIONERS' MEETING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN That the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Maryland, will be in session for the transaction of all routine business that may properly come before them on

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
FEBRUARY 7 and 8, 1949.

By order of the Board.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Walter C. Sowers
vs.
Viola Bylon and Joseph Bylon, her husband, et al

No. 4075 Equity in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate located in Garrett County, Maryland, and for the payment of certain claims.

The bill states:

That Walter C. Sowers contracted with Viola Bylon and Joseph Bylon, her husband, to construct and furnish lumber and other materials for a dwelling house located on all that lot, piece or parcel of land situate, lying and being in Garrett County, Maryland, containing the quantity of 2.80 acres, more or less, and being the same which was conveyed unto the said Viola Bylon and Joseph Bylon, by deed from Annie E. Hawkins, and husband, bearing date the 2nd day of March, 1946, and recorded in Liber A. G. R. No. 139, folio 183, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland; that complainant fulfilled his part of the contract by furnishing labor and supplies necessary from the 29th day of April, 1946, to the 1st day of August, 1946, as set forth in the Mechanic's Lien filed by said complainant duly recorded, the original of which is filed with the bill of complaint, marked "Complainant's Exhibit No. 1", and that said labor was performed and materials were furnished by complainant less than six months before the filing of his Mechanic's Lien claim aforesaid, to-wit, on the 22nd day of January, 1947; that the complainant further shows that his claim for labor and material furnished aforesaid is long overdue, and the defendants, Viola Bylon and Joseph Bylon, have failed and refused to pay the amount due complainants as aforesaid; that said complainant duly filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland his claim as a lien against said dwelling and the lot of ground upon which said dwelling is erected, and so much other ground immediately adjacent thereto and likewise belonging to the owners of said dwelling, as may be necessary for the ordinary and useful purposes thereof, which claim contains an accurate description of the location of said property and sets forth the labor performed and the amount of material furnished by said complainant and the total amount claimed to be due thereon, whereby it appears that there is due to complainant the sum of $1017.93, with interest from January 22, 1947; That James F. McGuire has a first mortgage on said property in amount of $1500, and said property will be sold subject to said mortgage.

The bill then prays for a decree for the sale of said real estate, for the payment of the claims mentioned therein, for general relief, for the writ of subpoena against the resident defendant, and for the order of publication against the non-resident defendants, Viola Bylon and Joseph Bylon, her husband.

It is thereupon this 21st day of January, 1949, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, in Equity, that the complainant, by having a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25th day of February, 1949, giving notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 12th day of March, 1949, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Along the Potomac to Washington

By J. Glenn Beall

The President's uncomplimentary references to Communists and Communism in his Inaugural Address made a good impression on most Congressmen, regardless of political affiliation, and it's evident that Mr. Truman is becoming more aware of the great differences between our form of government and the Russian tyranny.

Some seasoned capital observers believe that the President's strong words may be a harbinger of a change in technique. During the recent political campaign, Mr. Truman planned to send Chief Justice Vinson to Moscow for direct talks with Stalin, but pressure from the Secretary of State prevented this ill-fated venture.

Now, it appears that the President definitely has given up the idea of such a junket, despite the recent rumors that he would resurrect his proposal. He didn't give any evidence of "softness" toward Russia in this first speech of his new term.

The speech also seemed to forecast more expenditures overseas. He promised to implement the so-called Marshall Plan and he gave a hint of vast new expenditures for weapons of defense, apparently to be given to the nations of Western Europe already getting huge sums from the Economic Cooperation Administration.

If so, it seems that the whopping budget he already has recommended will have to be revised upward, instead of downward, as so many had hoped. The President did not specifically mention new expenditures, but he implied further aid to other nations.

In view of the President's stand, it is difficult, to say the least, to understand the Democratic sabotage of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The Democratic leadership, through a subterfuge, tossed Representative John L. Rankin (D.-Miss.) and Representative F. Edward Hebert (D.-La.) off the Un-American Activities Committee. This was accomplished by the single ruse of having the Democratic caucus pass a rule providing that only lawyers could be appointed to the Committee.

Representative Hebert, who has gained a reputation for honesty and fair-mindedness, apparently was too much opposed to Communists in the federal government, as well as Communists overseas.

His scorching criticism of the Democratic leadership for bouncing him off the committee deserves reprinting:

"I sought only the truth . . ." he asserted in a speech in the House. "I was elected as a Democrat by the people of Louisiana and shall conduct myself according to their wishes and instructions. The denials of reprisal and punitive action are not convincing in view of the facts. The inescapable truth of the matter is that a precedent was broken in failing to reassign me to the Committee on Un-American Activities."

"The practice of the political purge is not a new art. It has always been indulged in as a means of liquidation by those who refuse to recognize the right of an individual to think and act for himself."

"I shall continue to say what I think and do what I say."

Majority Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr. (R.-Mass.), who ridiculed the idea of appointing only lawyers to the Un-American Activities Committee, pointed out that less than 50 percent of the members of the House are lawyers and that this would discriminate against non-lawyers in Congress who wanted to serve on the Committee.

Representative Martin, who has seen Communists protected in the government service for years and can recognize a Communists by sight or scent, declared that the Republicans would follow no such practice in their appointments to the Un-American Activities Committee.

It seems incredible, but it is true, that years after everyone from the President down to the page boy has learned how treacherous and deadly the Communists are, the Democratic leadership still overlooks the possibilities of Communists spy-rings in Washington and actually appoints men who are "soft" on Communism to the Un-American Activities Committee. Many believe the Democrats will rue the day they failed to declare unremitting war on Communists in Washington—as well as on Communist practices abroad.

Under The Dome

We have been advised by the Post Office Department that the change in schedule of the rural carriers on the rural routes out of Union Bridge and New Windsor would be effective. These changes are being made in order that the subscribers to the Frederick Post may receive delivery of their papers on the same day it is printed. The postmasters of the Union Bridge and New Windsor Post Offices have been advised of the change effective at once.

We were advised that the E.C.A. Administrator, Mr. Paul Hoffman, had extended the time that the E.R.P. cargoes would be on a 50-50 basis for sixty days. Mr. Hoffman had said that after January 1 he would not be bound by any agreement. He did however extend the time until February 1, and an additional 60 day extension has now been given. I received many letters protesting Mr. Hoffman's first statement and am very much gratified that an extension of time has been given.

I attended the annual dinner of the National Limestone Association on January 18th. This dinner was attended by many of my constituents from Frederick County.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 72. OAKLAND'S HUNDREDTH YEAR THE REPUBLICAN'S SEVENTY-SECOND OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., FEBRUARY 3, 1949. NUMBER 49.

Scouting Is Adventure . . .

We have all heard the expression, "Boys will be boys."

We are of the opinion that they will be better, friendlier, happier and better prepared for life, if they're in the ranks of the Boy Scouts of America, or other youth organizations of high character like the 4-H or F.F.A.

We pick on scouting at this time because next week the scouts will observe their 39th anniversary. Total scouts and leaders since 1910 have numbered 15,500,000.

Through the years the scouts have made an increasing contribution to a better America through a program that stresses duty to God and country, assistance to other people, and keeping themselves physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight.

The theme this year is "Adventure—that's scouting", but it is much more than that. Boy Scouts get the satisfaction of "learning by doing" exciting things, by enjoying outdoor activities, and being prepared for any event which takes place as he grows to manhood.

Just last week the only boy scout in Cumberland who holds the high rank of Eagle Scout, was picked to be one to take tickets at the president's reviewing stand at the inaugural ceremonies in Washington. Those picked for this duty were limited to Eagle Scouts.

"Wasn't he lucky?" we heard a couple of Oakland scouts say. But he wasn't lucky. He was prepared.

Real scouting prepares all youths who take the program seriously to be ready when opportunity knocks.

RULING SET ASIDE BY JUDGE BAKER IN MARRIAGE CASE

Mother of Former Army Sergeant Contends Son's Marriage to Filipino was Legal

A phone call to the West Virginia Circuit Court at Morgantown from his mother caused the setting aside of the invalidation decree of the marriage of a Bataan Death March veteran to a Filipino girl.

Former Sgt. Blair Robinett's marriage to Jesusita Torres Y Cordero was declared invalid a week previous when he testified the marriage was illegally performed in September, 1944, declaring it was performed under coercion by a priest, although no marriage license had been obtained and no marriage certificate given.

On those grounds Judge C. G. Baker declared the marriage invalid.

Upon reading the notice of the decree in an Oakland paper Robinett's mother, Mrs. John W. Robinett, Cumberland, said she called Judge Baker on Friday saying the couple had a marriage certificate which she had seen.

Judge Baker said he referred the case to Monongalia County Divorce Commissioner Hale J. Posten. Posten said the Judge signed a decree at his order which set aside the annulment "pending a future hearing at which time a decree fair and equitable for all parties would be entered."

From that day up to this morning, stories concerning Robinett have moved rapidly, with generous publicity being given by newspapers in Morgantown, W. Va.; Pittsburgh, Pa., and Cumberland, and probably a number of other towns. It is possible that by now they are being spread on the pages of newspapers in Manila.

Go to Morgantown

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Robinett, of Cumberland, parents of the former army sergeant, went to Morgantown and testified before Judge Baker, confirming the information volunteered by telephone.

Mrs. Robinett, the soldier's mother, said the former sergeant had shown her the certificate signed by a "Methodist minister" bearing the seal of San Fernando, Pampanga province, Philippine Islands.

The marriage was performed in September, 1944, she also declared, but the certificate was not made out until March, 1945, when American forces regained control of the islands. Mrs. Robinett did not know in whose possession the certificate is now. She

Crellin Scout Troop Is Almost Certain

That Crellin would have a Boy Scout troop in the near future was almost a certainty following a meeting of interested boys and their parents in the Methodist church there on Monday night.

A dozen or more boys signified their desire to be a member of the troop, and the steps toward organization were outlined by Earl S. Black, acting scout executive of the Potomac Council.

Interested in the movement there are Rev. W. M. DeShong and Rev. George W. Simpson. Lewis R. Jones, scoutmaster of the Oakland troop, was also present at Monday night's meeting.

It was indicated that the group would soon apply for a charter.

Local Boy Scouts To Participate In Annual "Scout Week"

Members of Oakland Boy Scout Troop No. 31, and other troops in the county will be included in the nation's 2,200,000 members of the Boy Scouts of America who will mark the 39th anniversary of the organization during annual Boy Scout Week which opens Sunday, February 6, and closes Saturday, February 12.

The theme this year is "Adventure—That's Scouting!" and the activities during the celebration will be related to the theme.

With the Oakland troop having come under new leadership recently, the celebration will be limited somewhat, but Lewis R. Jones, scoutmaster, has made plans for a parents' night on Febraury 10, when the scouts will rededicate themselves to the scout oath and laws.

They will also attend the services at the Episcopal church on Sunday, February 13, and the following day will be guests of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Lions club at the regular dinner meeting at the William-James hotel.

The programs of scouting, organization leaders say, prepare scouts to face the future, helping to build a new world with construction, not destruction as the goal.

Launch Two-Year Program

Ceremonies in Washington on Tuesday, February 8, will open a new two-year program to "Strengthen the Arm of Liberty" by giving more boys in Scouting a richer experience. Twelve outstanding Boy Scouts, representing each of the Nation's boy scout regions, will represent all scouts at these ceremonies.

May Form Cub Pack Here

Indications that a cub pack would be formed in Oakland were expressed this week also by several interested citizens. This activity would not be a part of Boy Scout Week, but fits in with the program, since the cub pack contains boys from 9 to 12, which would move up into the scouting picture upon their twelfth birthday.

Those interested said Earl S. Black, acting scout executive, would send a film to Oakland in the near future to show them what to do in organizing a cub pack. A "cubmaster" and several "den mothers" would be appointed to carry out the work under direction of a committee.

Two Below Zero

The temperature took a sudden drop this morning to register the coldest of the week, and near the coldest of the winter. The government station at Weber's recorded two below zero.

Four inches of snow was recorded during the week, much less than was experienced to the east. There were three days of rain, the rain and snow totaling 1.33 inches for the week.

There was no doubt yesterday that the groundhog saw his shadow, in case any of the superstitious are interested. Clear weather prevailed throughout most of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Randol, of the Park, left Saturday for Miami, Fla., for a visit of several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. McIntire left this morning for Baltimore where the former is receiving another physical check-up in Johns Hopkins university. The result of the check-up will determine whether or not Mr. McIntire will resume his duties as a member of the House of Delegates, at the State House at Annapolis.

DEFINITE DATES FOR CENTENNIAL SET BY COMMITTEE

Will Be Held August 8 to 14, Inclusive, Chairman Announces

Dates for the Oakland Centennial were definitely set for the week of August 8 to 14 inclusive, at a meeting of the centennial committee last Friday evening. This would make the Sunday set aside for church activities fall on the concluding day instead of the first day as originally planned, according to F. E. Rathbun, chairman.

The general committee has requested that all sub-committees meet with the general committee in order to confer upon plans under consideration, and Mr Rathbun said each committee would be notified of dates for such conferences. He said two committees were requested to meet with the central committee on Friday evening, February 4, at the City Hall at 8 o'clock, the publicity committee, composed of Wilbur Close and George Hanst, and additional members to be appointed by the two already named; and the amusement and entertainment committee. Its members are Robert W. Lohr, chairman; Gordon C. McRobie, Walter E. Dawson, Robert T. Hoffman, Nelson Langan.

The financial committee was enlarged, the members now being Bernard I. Gonder, chairman; E. R. Jones, Irvin Feld, I. R. Rudy, Lowell Loomis, Ray Teets, Howard C. Riggs, Cecil Smith, J. Edward Helbig, Earl Shartzer, Mason Glotfelty, Emroy Bolden and Arthur Warnick.

Thomas Sheehe and Paul Turney were added to the Veterans' committee which already contains John Stevenson as chairman, Paul W. Hoye and Edward Kahl.

The Oakland girl scouts, headed by Mrs. Emeric Dusic and Miss Cara Weber, offered their services in any helpful way during the centennial celebration. Mr. Rathbun said John H. Carter, county agent, had submitted a letter as chairman of the Farmers and Home Day, setting out plans for its observance. Also on that committee is Miss Eleanor K. Dearborn, co-chairman; Mrs. Harold G. Bittinger, Frank Kley, William Nace and L. S. Hartley.

Rev. Felix Robinson, Arthurdale, W. Va., in a letter which was read to the committee at last Friday's meeting, offered suggestions for a portion of the program.

Rod and Gun Club Recommends Changes in Game-Fish Laws

Recommendations for changes in the hunting and fishing regulations were made by the Youghiogheny Rod and Gun club at a membership meeting last Thursday evening at the Manhattan hotel. About 100 persons, representing all sections of the county, were present.

Emory W. Adams, president, was in charge. Bills now pending before the legislature were explained to the membership by Stuart F Hamill, Jr., in the absence of Senator Neil C. Fraley, who was at Annapolis.

Among proposals made by the organization was that the season be opened on Deep Creek Lake on May 1 of each year on all fish except bass with an aggregate limit of ten, the bass season to remain unchanged.

The club made several other recommendations:

That there be one season for small game each year, starting October 15 and ending November 25, and that the season on quail be closed for three years.

That the law allowing anyone to kill a dog chasing a deer be amended so that only a game warden be so authorized; the bounty on skunks to be set at $1, half to be paid be the county and half by the state.

That in Senate bill No. 58, providing penalties for illegally catching fish, the word "fish" be deleted and the words "trout and bass" be inserted.

The club gave approval to senate bill 56, giving director of the Game and Inland Fish commission authority to appoint certain game wardens.

The club also suggested that a contribution of one cent per pound be deposited by the hunter on each buck deer killed, the funds so collected to remain in the county for re-stocking purposes.

A proposal to issue special trappers' licenses for the county was opposed.

Britain and her allies recognized the state of Israel.

Messrs. DeWitt and DeBerry plan to liquidate the stock at a sale in the near future and after remodeling the building, will move their store equipment from the Naylor building on Alder street, to the new location. The change will give them more display room and also more storage space.

Bids Opened on Savage River Dam

A low bid of $862,727 for finishing embankment work at the Savage River Dam in this county, near Bloomington, was announced Tuesday by United States Army Engineers, according to the Associated Press.

The low bidder was Hunkin-Conkey Company and Shofner, Gordon and Hinman, of Blairsville, Pa.

The government estimated it will cost $1,676,430 to complete excavation and build embankments at the dam.

A second and final contract will include installing hydraulic gates and building concrete outlet works. Engineers estimate the dam will be finished by 1951.

Both Legs Amputated

John Helmick, 17, of Davis, W. Va., who was lost for five days in Tucker county, underwent an operation at an Elkins hospital last Friday for the amputation of both his legs, half way to the knees.

The youth's feet and lower limbs were so badly frozen when he was found he was scarcely able to walk and all efforts to save them without amputation failed.

Sheriff Crosten, of Parsons, who led several hundred men in a week-long search for Helmick and two younger companions who became lost during a cold rain and snow storm, stayed by his bedside during the operation.

Hospital officials said the operation was successful, as far as could be determined. Sheriff Crosten said he was going to try to raise enough money to furnish artificial limbs for the youth. The two younger companions of the Helmick youth were dead when found.

Hearts and pocketbooks of many persons have been opened to Helmick within the past few days, and the quest for a pair of artificial limbs on which Helmick can walk, ended when Sheriff Crosten received a telegram from a Tennessee manufacturing company saying "We will build legs free."

The telegram also informed the sheriff that the company would pay for Helmick's lodging in Tennessee while he was there for measurements and fittings of the artificial legs.

Crosten has received checks and cash from well wishers on behalf of Helmick, with letters coming from Michigan, North Carolina, Washington, D. C., Ohio, Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania. The response has been from individuals as well as fraternal, veteran and union organizations.

Members are to indicate on the ballots the names of three persons selected from an accompanying roster of the membership of eighty-seven, and return the ballot to W. O. Davis, secretary. The six persons receiving the highest number of votes will become candidates for the vacancies and from these, three will be elected at the annual membership meeting in March.

W. O. Davis, secretary, stressed the importance of returning the ballots promptly, to facilitate the work of preparing the final ballot.

Injured in Collision

Robert Spaid, of near Eglon, W. Va., was injured this morning as the result of an automobile collision.

He and Russell Simmons were traveling east on route 50, and near Brookside Spaid got out of the car to remove a piece of cardboard from the front of the machine. As he stood in front of the car, another automobile driven by Hobart Shillingburg, of Brookside, also traveling east, struck the rear of the Simmons machine, the latter striking Spaid and knocking him to the ground, one wheel passing over his leg.

Claude Wilhelm, arriving in another truck took Spaid to Dr. Harold Miller for examination and was then taken to his home. No bones were broken but he was badly bruised.

Chicken Pox and Measles Invade Lower School Grades

Measles and chicken pox have invaded the lower grades of the schools of the county to such an extent that attendance in a number of instances has been cut more than 75 percent, it was learned this morning.

The epidemic is more prevalent in the first and second grades. Attendance in one of the first grade rooms of the Oakland Elementary school one day was reduced to nine and according to R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of schools, somewhat the same situation prevails throughout the county.

In a few instances children have been hit by both chicken pox and measles at the same time. Measles appear to be the "big" variety, causing high temperatures and much discomfort.

Scattered cases of mumps also were in evidence.

The 1949 potato goals have been established for Garrett County potato growers, according to Dorsey Guard, Chairman, Garrett County A.-C. A. Discovers Weather Balloon

One of the weather balloons of the United States Weather bureau was discovered this morning by Miss Martha Lewis, about a mile north of town, near route 219. The instrument carried by the balloon was retrieved from the waters of Wilson Creek by Raymond McRboie and brought to town early this morning where it was examined by employes at the Half Price Stores.

The instrument carried printed instructions on the method of re-mailing, and revealed that it could be used again.

It stated on the side of the instrument which was about a foot long, a foot high and about four inches thick, that it had been sent up to a distance of twelve miles, at which time the balloon would burst and the instrument wiuld be carried slowly to earth by the attached parachute. While in the air it acted as a broadcaster of the temperature, pressure, moisture of the air through which it passed.

The instrument is known as a radiosonde, and was marked serial number 10792, signal corps, U. S. Army, Philadelphia.

Early 1949 Inventory Is Urged For Health

Early in 1949 when so many business concerns take stock of their assets and liabilities—is also an excellent time for individuals to take stock of their health status by means of a complete medical examination," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health, advises the people of Maryland. "Every man and woman who has not been examined thoroughly by a physician within the last twelve months should begin 1949 with such a check-up.

"People of all ages should have an annual health inventory, at least, and more frequent examinations are advisable for the very young and the very old. Those who feel below par or have troublesome symptons should also seek an examination without delay, even though less than a year may have elapsed since their last check-up.

"Since early diagnosis of disease is the reason for routine physical examinations the procedure is recommended for persons who consider themselves healthy, as well as for those who suspect that they may have some disease. By going to the physician for periodical checks, patients often enable the doctor to discover diseases in their early stages—before they have made serious advances and while they are most amenable to treatment. It should be remembered that a number of serious diseases cause no pain or other distressing symptons during their period of onset.

"In many disease conditions a delay of a year, or even several months, before beginning treatment can mean the difference between years of happily adjusted life and early death. Diseases that can be cured more readily, controlled more effectively or lessened in severity by means of early diagnosis and treatment include tuberculosis, cancer, diabetes, nephritis and heart disease.

"If a physical examination indicates that health continues to be good there is certainly much satisfaction to be gained from that knowledge. On the other hand, if the physician does detect early signs of some disease, prompt treatment and restriction of harmful activities can add years to life—and life to the remaining years. Many people who have learned to adapt their lives to their physical conditions live long and happily even though they have serious chronic diseases."

Rutledge Cleared of Mine Disaster Blame

The Maryland Attorney General cleared Dr. John J. Rutledge, director of the Bureau of Mines, and a district inspector of blame for a fatal mine fire at Kitzmiller last November.

"No justification can be found," assistant attorney general Joseph Buscher said in a report to Governor Lane "in acceding to the demands . . . that the director of the Bureau of Mines and district inspector be dismissed, or that a hearing be held." Attorney General Hall Hammond concurred in the report.

John T. Jones, president of District 16, United Mine Workers, had charged Dr. Rutledge and Inspector Clyde Rowe shared blame for the fanhouse fire which claimed five lives.

Buscher proposed the following changes: require fire proof fan houses at all mines; require reversible ventilating fans at all mines; build fan houses at least 15 feet from entrance to air shaft or any opening into the mine; require fuel tanks of all gasoline engines operating within 50 feet of an air shaft or other opening to be installed above the engine; require a minimum amount of modern fire fighting equipment at all mine entrances and in all tipple houses adjacent to a mine entrance.

Replying to separate charges by Jones, Buscher reported:

The Nethken mine had another exit 500 to 600 feet from the main opening, plus an alternate escapeway through a connecting mine;

There is no evidence that the traveling ways were inadequate;

Reversible fans are required only at gaseous mines. This is not a gaseous mine;

For the same reason, the fact the fan house was not fireproof constituted no violation.

The Twerp Turns

By WILLIAM J. MURDOCH
McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Features.

LUCIUS STEEMS stretched his frail spindly frame on the porch swing and sighed heavily. He was tired of being picked on. His wife, his employer — oh, especially his employer! — his fellow workers, bus drivers — they all dished it out to him. Lucius knew why, too. He was a weak-kneed sissy—and looked and acted it.

He didn't even have enough gumption to order his youngest, Johnny, and that Rodney kid from down the street to take their argument elsewhere. They were around the side of the house, noisily squabbling, ably abetted by their yelping dogs. Lucius wanted a little peace and quiet before returning to the office for the afternoon.

Mr. Ralston had called him down in front of the whole office again that morning simply because he had posted the right sums in the wrong ledger. Mr. Ralston had a peculiar way of bawling out people. He smiled and uttered wisecracks—but he wasn't kidding.

"Steems, you funny-looking little twerp," Mr. Ralston said, banging the ledger down on Lucius's desk. "I ought to make you eat this!" And after Mr. Ralston had wisecracked Lucius into red-faced humiliation, the big, bluff owner of Raiston's Pickle Works stalked away and left his billing clerk to writhe under the smirks and winks of the other employees.

Slowly Lucius rocked the swing, blinking his watery blue eyes. If he were only half a man—he sighed again, and dozed off. . . .

"What a laugh!" The sharp words made Lucius's eyes pop open. It was that Rodney kid. "That funny-looking little shrimp couldn't lick a flea!"

"Say that again!" That was Johnny, and the vigor with which the youngster snapped out the challenge made Lucius's heart bump. Could—could it be that he had a champion after all? "You just say that again and I'll show you who can lick who!"

"I said he's a funny-looking little shrimp and can't lick a—ow!"

The brawl was on, and Lucius peered over the swing in time to see Johnny pursuing the Rodney kid down the street, both bellowing at the top of their lungs. Lucius bounded to his feet. By George, this was just what he needed—a champion, someone to back him up! He'd had no idea little Johnny would take up so fiercely for him. That put the old starch in the backbone, all right.

Lucius felt like a new man—a whole one. He paraded across the porch, jerked the screen door open and snatched his old felt hat from the hook. "Doris!" he cried in a sort of scratched roar. "Doris, I'll be home at five-thirty and I want supper on the table." He had read that in a book once, and it sounded swell. "Hear me? Five-thirty!"

Mrs. Steems thrust her head around the living room doorway in amazement. "Are you talking to—"

"To you," Lucius said, suddenly so angry that he trembled. He had to justify Johnny's faith. "I'm tired of being treated like a hired man. Five-thirty—and don't forget it!"

Lucius tingled with triumph. But what if he were still asleep in the swing? He pinched himself and it hurt—and he was glad. His confidence swelled as he rode downtown, and by the time he reached the office he was nearly bursting with the new spirit he had found through Johnny.

He went directly to Mr. Ralston's office. "Mr. Ralston," he said politely but positively, "You've got to stop insulting me before the whole office. I make mistakes—everyone here does. But I work hard, too, and not everyone here does that. If you don't like my work, get rid of me. But," and here Lucius shook his finger at ogle-eyed Mr. Ralston, "I won't take any more insults from anyone."

He stood back, waiting for his employer to say something — and Lucius really didn't give two whoops what it was. But it was good. "Steems," Mr. Ralston said finally, "it's about time you showed some spirit. I deserved that calling down — and I'll raise you 25 bucks a month just to show you there's no hard feeling."

"Yes, sir." Lucius went back to his desk. But, before he sat down, he elaborated on his little speech to his fellow - workers. And no one talked back or even smirked.

It was a wonderful day, the happiest for Lucius in a long, long time. And he knew he owed it all to his Johnny. So perhaps it is just as well he never learned of the conversation betwen his wife and Johnny after he came home that afternoon. Never demonstrative in his affection, he simply patted the boy on the head, noted that supper was on the table and went upstairs to wash.

"Johnny," Mrs. Steems whispered anxiously, "Johnny, what's happened to your father all of a sudden? Do you know what's got into him?"

"Huh? Dad? Shucks, he seems the same to me," Johnny said lightly. "He's O. K., isn't he? Say, Ma," he added indignantly, "you know what the Rodney kid said to me today? He said my dog was a funny-looking little shrimp that couldn't lick a flea. Boy, did I paste him!"

Farm prices flattened out in January after dropping thirteen percent from record levels in latter part of 1948. Prices were 268 percent of the 1909-14 base period.

Headline Blues

By BILL DOWSETT
McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Features.

CHIC LANE nodded approvingly as Dixie Lee, with a flourish of the baton, brought to a close the soft music of her Dixie Belles. "The sweetest band that ever lipped a mouthpiece," Chic boomed enthusiastically. "It's big-time swing and I'm the lad who'll put you there to swing it."

Dixie's eyes narrowed as she pushed back a refractory blonde curl, studied the angelic grin that creased the boyishly blunt features of her press agent and asked "When?"

Chic drew a deep breath and explained that radio advertising executives were auditioning musical and novelty acts for Fall programs. "A publicity push and you're in," he bubbled confidently. "Headlines like 'Orchestra Leader Elopes With Press Agent.'"

Dixie's eyes spanked Chic's enthusiasm. "What a perfectly gruesome way to fame," she drawled sweetly.

An hour later, in the oriental atmosphere of the Golden Cat Tea Room, a deflated Chic stared sourly at the leaves in the bottom of his teacup. A turbaned figure moved to his side. By courtesy of the management, he, the Maharajah of Panio, Prince Rahee, would gaze into the future. Chic, with a dejected wave of limp fingers, dismissed the prince.

Suddenly the fingers stiffened, waggled, and the prince flowed back. Chic talked. A dollar a day to the potentate to be temporarily, and for publicity purposes, engaged to Dixie Lee. His imperial majesty, in throaty tones—accent Brooklyn—accepted.

Chic, armed with pictures and a cherubic expression of unworldly innocence, invaded the editorial rooms of the Daily Journal. City Editor Wolfe Barton looked up and scowled.

Mournfully Chic admitted, before reformation, having slightly exaggerated the facts of a story or two but now, in truthful and humble atonement, he was offering a scoop. "And, Wolfe," he coaxed, "think of the headlines, 'Maharajah Lays Heart and Fortune at American Beauty's Feet.'"

Wolfe thought and licked his lips. "Because I'm a sucker," he finally snapped, "I'll print the tale. But if this is one of your gags—and I find it out—brother, you'd better leave town!"

In the following days Chic dwelt in a press agent's paradise. He bathed in a shower of desirable publicity and basked in the sunshine of Dixie's smiles. He coyly toyed with tempting contracts and allowed the belles to audition for two of the best.

Then his majesty became mercenary. Royalty, he'd decided, should not work for a miserable pittance. He demanded a double fee.

In Dixie's apartment Chic prepared matrimonial suggestions. The telephone jangled and Chic lifted the handset. He listened and paled. Wolfe Barton in no uncertain terms demanded Chic's immediate presence at the Journal.

Wolfe was baying at a copy boy as Chic slipped up to the desk. Wolfe whirled. "That prince of yours is a phony!" he howled. "Came in offering his history and your story for fifty bucks. Well, chum, your story I'm buying and printing. I'll have you and that band laughed out of town!"

Chic folded into a chair. "Wolfe," he begged tearfully, "think of Dixie and her belles!"

"May they toll for you," Wolfe growled heartlessly. "But," he added slowly, "there might be a way."

Chic gulped, wiggled and sputtered. "Whatever it is, I'll do it!"

Wolfe explained that he'd thought of some headlines himself. "Dixie Lee Jilts Royalty. Marries Press Agent" would, he declared, make very nice reading. Also, he'd fix the sheik and serve as best man at the ceremony. What did Chic think?

So an hour later, perched on Dixie's divan, Chic poured out the tale of the barricades that lay on the road to fame. "Don't worry," he cheerily told Dixie, "we'll still fool that newshound. I know a ham actor who'll play parson for five dollars. Boy, am I clever!" He called the actor, then dialed Wolfe. Arrangements were complete for nine a. m. the next day.

In the morning Chic pushed into Dixie's apartment. The actor, properly garbed, had arrived. Between gowned Dixie, Chic gave last minute instructions. Then, in answer to the bell, Chic swung open the door. Two men walked in. Wolfe, and the man he introduced to the bug-eyed Chic as the Reverend Hapenworth. "I'm furnishing the license and minister," Wolfe announced. "Of course, pal," he eyed Chic and his actor narrowly, "I didn't think you'd run in a ringer."

Chic wobbled into the kitchen and leaned weakly against the door jamb. The sound of a soft feminine laugh filtered into the room and he peeked into the parlor. Dixie, standing close to Wolfe, was smiling at the parson. "It's a terrible shock to the poor darling," she whispered to Wolfe. "I hated to call you, but I simply couldn't stand a fake wedding." She kissed Wolfe's lean cheek. "And unless I finished this business quickly, he might have had me marrying the garbage man tomorrow."

Ruling Set Aside

said it was known to her when Robinett took it to Newton D. Baker hospital in Martinsburg, to apply for an allotment for his wife.

The Filipino girl came to America as Robinett's wife, according to Mrs. Robinett, who added that her name was on transfer orders to Martinsburg hospital. Robinett's wife lived in Oakland for two years, until June 22, 1948, when she returned to the Philippine islands with her two children. The former sergeant's mother said the wife was expecting Robinett to join her in the islands.

The cancelling decree was sent to Sheriff J. S. Teats in Oakland who served the notice on Robinett. According to Posten, Robinett's position is the same now as if he had never applied for the annulment.

Robinett said this week he planned to establish his residence in Oakland. Other than that he was undecided.

Pictures of Robinett's wife and two children appeared in Pittsburgh newspapers on Wednesday and pictures of both appeared in last nights Cumberland paper.

At the hearing Robinett's mother blamed "another woman" for her son's having had his marriage to the Filipino girl annulled. "He lied to get that annulment because he has another woman." Mrs. Robinett introduced two photographs of her son's wife, and of the two children she identified as those of her son and daughter-in-law, born in Cumberland while the couple resided in Oakland.

The mother said her daughter-in-law had sent the pictures after she returned by airplane last June to the Philippines. On the back of one was written: "Mom and All: I send this picture as a remembrance of Blair and me for our fourth wedding anniversary." Mrs. Robinett said her daughter-in-law was a beautiful girl, of Spanish blood.

The mother said Blair tried for months to get his wife to return to to the Philippines, promising he would get a transfer there in the army. She said her daughter-in-law and two children finally flew back at a cost of $1,500 last June. The son's father said he had signed a $400 note to help defray the expense.

Mrs. Robinett also produced records showing a girl had been born to her daughter-in-law in February, 1946, but died. Another girl was born December 31, 1946, and a boy on January 10, 1948, all under government subsidized emergency maternity care, as children of the sergeant.

"I love Jesusita as if she were my own daughter," declared Mrs. Robinett. "I want to see those kids have a legal name and be provided for." Mrs. Robinett said she hears from her weekly.

In an interview with a representative of the Pittsburgh Press, Robinett said he'd give up his army rank to stay home and seek a divorce from his Filipino wife. He admitted annulment proceedings might not have been altogether accurate but he still thinks his war-time marriage wasn't legal. Blair, in asking the annulment, had said he was childless.

He declared he had "no more interest" in his wife, and said he had "no particular plans" for their two children Marilyn and Blair, Jr. He said he had written to Manila to see if there is any record of his marriage on file.

Sgt. Robinett said he was through with the Morgantown proceedings but there was some question as to whether Morgantown was through with him. District Attorney John V. Sanders, who sat in on the hearing, remarked after it was recessed: "If evidence of perjury is brought out, I will have Blair Robinett indicted."

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear one, Simon L. Durst, whom God called away four years ago today, February 2, 1945.
We may gather lily blossoms
To strew upon a grave,
And weave a spotless garland,
Above a tomb to wave.
But these will fade and wither,
They must crumble into dust,
And the chalice fair that held them,
Will be tarnished deep with rust.
So it is with all things mortal,
They will linger but a day
And when their mission here is ended,
They will droop and pass away.
But there is a Sacred garden,
Hidden deep in memory's lane,
Where no mortal thing can enter
And no cruel hand profane.
There we plant eternal roses,
That will grow through all the years,
For we planted them in silence
And we water them with tears.
We will keep them ever blooming,
While in loneliness we wait,
Till we take them to our loved ones,
Just within the Pearly Gate.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT.

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

The Legend Unfounded

A really discreditable performance is the current effort of the more bigoted Roosevelt worshipers to sabotage the Hoover Commission's report on reorganization of the Government—even before they know what the report is; even when they privately admit the acute need of the proposed reorganization; even when, as instanced by the Eberstadt subcommittee report on the armed services, the recommendations accord with those of the Secretary of Defense, Mr. Forrestal, and are favored by Mr. Truman.

These saboteurs would not be worth noticing except that when added to the great army of Federal jobholders, their protecting congressmen and the always anti-economy labor bosses, they may have just enough influence to block the more vital portions of the reorganization plan. It is typical that their method should be not discussion of the merits of the report but criticism of Mr. Hoover. This is so petty that it ought to revolt decent men everywhere.

No more unselfish and patriotic service has been rendered by any man in this country for years than that upon which for the past eighteen months Mr. Hoover, at the age of 74, has been expending his time and energy. He undertook this job at the request of the President and in response to a unanimous resolution of Congress. Those who know the nature of the report and the manner in which the "task forces" have worked agree that in addition to being the most thorough ever prepared by a Government commission it is also the freest from politics and partisanship.

Yet, if politics and partisanship are not injected, it will not be the fault of those most actively in opposition. For example, we are told that while there is waste and duplication this cannot be cured by a "blueprint" or "arbitrary dictum." The only way to rescue the Government from bogging down is "gradually" and through "compromise." Of course, this makes no sense. Over the past twelve years a monstrous growth has occurred. Its cost is beyond all reason; its inefficiency almost incredible. Unchecked, the inevitable end is the most devastating kind of chaos. Clearly, the job of reducing to manageable proportions cannot be done with a penknife or a nail file. Clearly, it can only be done with an ax wielded by President and Congress. The job of the Hoover Commission is to show where the ax can be applied to do the greatest good and the least harm.

Faced by the facts, the opposition does not diminish because it is the kind of opposition which is not affected by facts. Instead, it snipes at Mr. Hoover. He, we are informed, is not the man to "blueprint" this reform because he has an "engineering type of mind." Also he is a "reactionary." Worse still, he is not a New Dealer and believes the New Deal responsible for the indefinable size, cost and inefficiency of Government. Well, for heaven sake! What else can he believe? What else can any rational person possibly believe? What other answer is there?

All this belating about Mr. Hoover is as puerile as it is unworthy. Though slightly reminiscent of the old Michelson 1929 smearing, the obvious design is to hold on the pay roll the hundreds of thousands of Roosevelt New Dealers who came in during the second Roosevelt term and want to stay permanently. But back of that is the desire to protect the Roosevelt reputation, to sustain the baseless legend that personally he was uniformly wise and good and all his policies sound and benign—in the way so smugly set out in the greasily eulogistic book of Mr. Robert Sherwood—"Roosevelt and Hopkins." To face the facts that the Roosevelt policies have resulted in a situation where drastic reorganization is essential to avert governmental disaster naturally clashes with this legend.

Since Mr. Roosevelt's death there has developed a veritable holy of holies in Washington. It is guarded as the Jews used to guard the Ark of the Covenant. The center is the Roosevelt legend which it is held sacrilege to question. Yet, the facts make the legend absurd—not only as to the Roosevelt record in domestic affairs but also in foreign affairs. Certainly, at least some of the blame for the unfortunate state of the world today is due to his idea that Stalin was a fine old fellow whom he could jolly along, handle the way he did the American politicians. In Mr. Roosevelt's day the State Department was completely under control of the President and he could have cleaned it up any time he so desired. That he had the facts is shown by the undisputed testimony. That the extraordinary infiltration of Communistic fellow travelers was largely due to his oversympathetic attitude toward Russia is difficult to deny.

Yet, supporters of the Roosevelt legend who are trying to nullify the Hoover Commission are trying just as hard to discredit the exposure of the State Department traitors in the second Roosevelt term. The significant thing is that in both cases these supporters are identical.

Probe of Mines Is Under Way

An investigation of safety regulations in Garrett and Allegany county coal mines got underway during the week. John T. Jones, president of district 16, United Mine workers of America, ordered the union investigation after a report of the Maryland Attorney General to Governor Lane placed the entire blame for a disaster in the Nethken mine, near Kitzmiller, last November, on Maryland mining laws.

Jones said that at the time of the Kitzmiller mine disaster there were several small mines operating in the district that were known to be violating safety practices. The violations of safety regulations are believed to be greater in small operations of the area, according to Jones.

Jones said he wants to see a general overhauling of Maryland's mining laws, transfer of the Maryland Bureau of Mines from Annapolis to to Allegany county and the procurement of mine safety equipment to be used in time of disaster.

Referring to the Governor's committee to study the proposed changes in the state mining law, Jones charged that not one of the members knows anything about mining and he proposed that the Federal Bureau of Mines make the mining code for the State of Maryland. George Coddington, of Oakland, is one of the members named by Governor Lane.

Sometimes we feel like the Belle of the Town

Remember the belle of the town in the old melodramas? We always envied her. Her life, we thought, was pure happiness—one joyous moment after another.

Now we know better. She, too, had her troubles.

* * * *

You see, for some time now, we've felt like a belle ourselves.

We handle the most wanted car in the world—Chevrolet. Over the past 18 years Chevrolet has sold more cars and trucks than any other manufacturer.

True to the obligation imposed by such popularity, Chevrolet has delivered half a million more cars and trucks, since the war, than any other manufacturer. Chevrolet was first to deliver a million cars and trucks in a post-war year.

Still more folks want Chevrolets. So we've been wooed as ardently as the belle of any melodrama.

Far be it from us to say there is not a certain satisfaction about having a surplus of proposals. On the other hand, we have a new appreciation of the problem the belle faced when she had to put off some of her suitors. It is definitely not a pleasant task.

We wish no one were ever disappointed in his desire for a Chevrolet.

When disappointments do occur, even though the fault is not ours, our concern over them is much more real than that of the belle of the melodramas over the disappointment of her suitors.

* * * *

Nevertheless, we are proud of Chevrolet's record—proud because it is also our record. We support Chevrolet 100% in its established policy of delivering to the public as many cars as possible . . . at the lowest possible price.

WE ARE PROUD OF OUR CHEVROLET SUPER SERVICE SHOP, TOO

Drive in . . . you'll be delighted with our Chevrolet style service!

IN OUR SHOP, CHEVROLET-STYLE SERVICE MEANS:

1. Factory-trained mechanics who are steady and competent.
2. Plenty of tools and the right kind of equipment to help them do good work fast.
3. A huge stock of genuine factory parts immediately available.

6. Liberal budget plan.
7. A friendly desire to give you more than you expect for your money.

Finds Oakland Friendly

How a "City Slicker" fares in the hills in the hills of Garrett county, and what happens to a "hill-billy" in the big city of Baltimore were told in twin articles last Sunday in the brown section of the Baltimore Sun. The writers were Frank Henry, feature writer of the Sun, of Baltimore, and Miss Susy Smith, Oakland.

The arrangement came as the result of remarks several montths ago by newswriters in Baltimore about "rustics from the hills of Garrett County."

Mr. Henry found Oakland a nice place to visit, with its people ready to extend hospitality and kindness to strangers. He mentioned particularly the friendliness of Pastor and Mrs. Luther L. Hare, and that of Jesse J. Ashby. Miss Smith was a guest of The Sun over a recent week-end and gave her impressions of Baltimore.

For the past several weeks Oakland or some phase of Garrett county activities have been featured in the Sun.

Dairy Discussion Meetings Arranged

Meetings of dairymen to discuss ways of keeping production costs at a minimum, have been arranged by John H. Carter, county agent, for Thursday and Friday, February 17 and 18.

Mr. Carter pointed out that Maryland dairymen should make plans now to keep production costs at a minimum if they hope to keep their profits high during 1949 and following years.

The dairy meetings are scheduled for the Woodman hall, Grantsville, 10 a. m. to 12 m., and 1 to 3 p. m., on Thursday, February 17; and for the same hours at the Sunnyside grange hall near Gortner, on Friday, February 18.

According to Marvin E. Senger, extension dairyman at the University of Maryland, dairy herd improvement records in Maryland indicate that efficiency in the following topics will help to keep production costs down.

1. Increase average yearly production—Summaries of Dairy Herd Improvement Associations show that the feed cost of producing each one hundred pounds of milk decreases proportionately as production increases. Low-producing, unprofitable cows should be culled. The good cows can then be given an opportunity to produce to their inherited capacity.

2. Feed balanced rations—For maximum production, cows must receive liberal rations. Such rations should be balanced in protein and contain ample amounts of minerals and vitamins. With low-quality roughage, a higher percent protein will be required in the grain ration. Both overfeeding and underfeeding should be avoided for most economical production.

3. Use low-cost rations—Where possible, feed liberal amounts of high quality home-grown roughage in place of high-priced concentrates. Pasture is the cheapest source of nutrients for the dairy cow. In purchasing feed, buy according to cost of nutrients instead of cost per pound.

4. Maintain herd health—Diseased cows cannot produce milk economically. Care should be taken to avoid accidents and injuries, and calves should be raised for replacements.

5. Maintain herd size—Keep enough cows to provide an economical unit but avoid overstocking. Keep building and equipment costs at a minimum during the next few years.

6. Increase labor efficiency—Careful planning will result in more efficient use of labor with less drudgery.

The above topics are to be discussed more fully by Ralph Porterfield, extension dairyman; and Stanley Stabler, extension agronomist, at the dairy meeting scheduled by County Agent Carter. Interested persons are invited to attend and participate in the discussion.

Agent Plans Training Meets in Basic Sewing

Miss Eleanor K. Dearborn, home demonstration agent, will hold training meetings in basic sewing for Homemakers clubs' clothing project chairmen and leaders next week.

For convenience of those in the upper part of the county, the meetings will be on February 8, and 24, at the home of Mrs. John Folk, Grantsville. For others, in the Home Demonstration Agent's office, Oakland, on February 9, and 25. The time is 10:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m., and all who attend are requested to bring their lunch.

These meetings also are open to girls' 4-H local leaders.

During February two picture framing meetings are scheduled by two clubs in addition to regular sessions, and a committee meeting to revise the county constitution in regard to Homemakers clubs, is also scheduled.

In every part of the nation more than 2,200,000 boys and their adult leaders, will observe Boy Scout Week, Feb. 6th to 12th, marking the 39th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. The theme of the celebration is "Adventure—that's Scouting!" This year the movement is emphasizing the fun and fellowship its members get out of the game of Scouting. More high adventure is planned in the out-of-doors. Their adventure in citizenship will find Scouts emphasizing civic service activities, emergency service training and world Scouting relationships. During Boy Scout Week, Scouts, their parents and countless communities will honor the volunteer adult leaders of the nation's 70,000 Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Senior Units. Above is the official poster marking the Scout birthday.

Along the Potomac to Washington

By J. Glenn Beall

It is passing strange to many Americans that President Truman, who said last fall he was campaigning up and down the country to help the poor and needy, and the homeless, should be the first person to obtain any tangible benefits from the so-called "Fair Deal."

The only bill to pass Congress from January 3, when the new Democratic-controlled legislature convened, until January 20, when Truman was inaugurated again, was a bill to increase on a lavish scale the President's salary and tax-free expense allowance.

When he called the 80th Congress back into special session last July, it is recalled by observers here, the President said that his whole catch-all program could be enacted in 15 days. Yet, by January 27, Congress had been in session 24 days without passing a single bill—except that one to increase Mr. Truman's salary and expense allowance.

The President's new salary of $100,000—a substantial increase over his old salary of $75,000 a year—is only a part of the story. Under the new bill, the President receives a tax-free expense allowance of $50,000. He will be able to keep, after taxes, approximately $110,000 of his salary and of his expense money. All expenses of the White House are paid out of other appropriations.

Any man in private industry, to retail $110,000 a year under present tax laws would have to receive a salary of $3,500,000 a year. The President, whether he is the wisest American or the most efficient administrator or the best executive, now is the highest paid man in the United States, by any standard.

In addition, of course, the President has the free use of a large yacht, fully staffed and conveniently moored in the basin near the White House. Also, he has the use of a sleek airliner, with full crew, in case he wants to fly hither and yon. Furthermore, wherever he goes by land he can travel in a train or by chauffered limousine—all at the taxpayer's expense.

No one begrudges these benefits to a President, whoever he may be. But it seems odd that Mr. Truman failed to mention the need of this huge new salary and other emoluments when he was out fighting for his political life last fall. It definitely seemed, at that time, that he was more interested in the welfare of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public and their struggles to get along in this new America than he was in the prospective earning power and social security of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Truman. But there has been an election since Mr. Truman's frenzied interest in the "peepul". And it is more than casually significant that, in spite of his grandiose program of social security for all which his own Democratic Congress likely never will pass, Harry Truman's raise came first.

Farmers

Farmers—general and wheat-growers should be more-than-casually interested in the latest report on farm-to-retail margins for white flour and white bread, issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture here last week.

This report says that between January and October, 1948, the U. S. average local market price of wheat dropped 30 percent, the retail price of flour dropped only 15 percent, but the retail price of bread actually rose 7/10ths of one percent.

Wheat has been going down, down, down. Bread has been going up, up, up! A loaf of bread now retails in Washington for 15 cents.

Why? The report indicates the answer to this question .

While the money the wheat farmer gets for his wheat has been dropping, the money processors and handlers must pay for machinery and for laborers and for transportation has gone up steadily. Literally thousands of persons may handle wheat between the time it leaves the farm and the time it is sold as bread.

The biggest single cost-increase has been the labor cost. Workers in processing, transportation, distribution—all have won enormous increases.

Yet, when bread prices go up in the cities, the consumers place the blame squarely on the farmers. Actually, everyone should learn that the prices farmers received for their various products are vastly smaller than the prices consumers pay for the same products, processed, when sold at the grocery store.

Under The Dome

I have been in touch with the Chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission regarding the report on the propesd by-pass for Rockville. A proposed plan for the by-pass to relieve the traffic situation at Rockville has been submitted and we are now awaiting the report from the Chairman of the State Roads Commission.

Because of my concern in the E.R.P. shipments abroad, I am very much interested in the bill—H.R. 1340—now before the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee which would provide that 50 percent of the goods shipped under E.C.A. should be in American vessels. At the present time this matter is left to the administrator of the E.C.A. Three meetings have been held by the Committee and another is contemplated next week.

In the great fight that is being waged against juvenile delinquency in this country, the Boy Scouts of America are playing a leading role. They are the vanguard of a great army of citizens enlisted in this cause.

There are many influences in modern life that tend to weaken the moral and spiritual fibre of American youth. The increase in juvenile crime and delinquency has stirred thoughtful people as they have seldom been stirred before.

The Boy Scout Oath and the Scout Law embody the highest ideals of American boyhood, and the fidelity with which these principles are being instilled in the minds of boys is one of the brightest spots in the picture.

The Scouts are non-sectarian and non-political. They deserve the co-operation of churches and schools and the support of all good people in their efforts to teach boys to live clean lives, to honor God, and to do all the good they can.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

This is a diesel ... a modern locomotive that means better service to you.

Leaders of two unions think it's a feather-bed ... a "make work" grab that means less service to you.

● Leaders of unions representing railroad engineers and firemen seek to force railroads to add extra, needless men on diesel locomotives. This is sheer waste—a "make-work" program which would mean fewer improvements and higher costs—for YOU!

Railroads use modern diesel locomotives because they are one of the means of giving faster, better service to you.

Two men compose the crew of a diesel. They occupy a clean, comfortable cab at the front. The engineer handles the throttle. The fireman sits and watches the track ahead. With no coal to shovel, he has practically nothing else to do.

No Benefit To You

Now the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen want to use the diesel locomotive as a means of forcing a feather-bedding scheme on the railroads. The extra men they propose to add to the diesel crews are not needed. There is no work for them.

The union leaders are fighting among themselves about which union should furnish these extra, needless men. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have even threatened a strike. You may not be interested in this dispute of these two unions, but you would be vitally concerned if these groups succeed in putting through this feather-bedding scheme, because it would mean a slowing up of the improvement program of the railroads—of which the diesel is the outstanding symbol.

Diesel crews are among the highest paid railroad employes—real aristocrats of labor! Their pay is high by any standard. Granting of these demands, therefore, would mean that the railroads would be paying out millions in unearned wages to those in the very highest pay brackets.

We'd Like To Spend This Money On You

You know how much the diesel has meant to you in increased speed, comfort and convenience. The railroads have many more of them on order for even greater improvement in service to you. But needless drains of money, such as this present demand of the unions for needless men on diesels, reduce the ability of the railroads to spend money on better service for you.

Proud as the railroads are of the diesel, it is only a small part of their improvement program. Since the War, literally billions of dollars have been spent on improvement of tracks and stations, on new passenger and freight cars, as well as on diesel locomotives, and on the many other less conspicuous details of railroading that contribute to improved service.

Feather-Bedding Means Less Service To You

But brazen feather-bedding schemes like the one now proposed would, if successful, divert large sums of money from our present improvement programs. Even worse, they make improvements like the diesel worthless, by making the cost of their operation prohibitive.

These demands are against YOUR interests—as well as those of the railroads. They are schemes to "make work". Neither you nor the railroads should be forced to pay such a penalty for progress.

That's why the railroads are resisting these "make work" demands to the last ditch—and why they are telling you about them.

May Recover Wood Damaged by Sleet

In Western Maryland woodlands, where many acres of trees were damaged a few weeks ago by a sleet and ice storm, there is the possibility of recovering some of the damaged wood for mine props, fence posts, saw logs and pulpwood, according to a survey recently completed by Carl G. Heczko, assistant district forester.

He said greater damage would result to woodlands if these injured trees are not removed right away. Timber damaged by the storm that is not removed shortly will become a total loss. Trees with wounds larger than one inch in diameter will be the source of rot infection unless treated with preservative, and decay will continue until after the original wound has healed.

In making the salvage cut of damaged timber the forester emphasized the importance of leaving a stand of good or some of the least damaged to give the ground a chance to reforest.

He said a representative of the Department of Forests and Parks would be willing to go over any woodlands with the owner and help him with his timber salvage problems.

The Case of the Misplaced Muskeg

The following account appeared in the February issue of the Fort Times, a monthly publication of the Ford Motor company, and is being reproduced because of its local interest.

The photographs in the article were the product of H. P. Sturm, Clarksburg, W. Va., who has a summer home in Canaan Valley, and whose interest in flowers was aroused by Dr. Joseph E. Harned, of Oakland, author of "Wild Flowers of the Alleghanies." In fact, Dr. Harned was with Mr. Sturm when the picture of the pitcher plant, which appears in the article, was taken.

Every year Dr. Harned has a pitcher plant on one of the counters in the Oakland Pharmacy, which is admired by his customers. The pitcher plant also grows in certain nearby sections of Pennsylvania and other cranberry glades not too distant from this county.

By Burgess H. Scott

Deep in West Virginia's Yew Mountains is a curious bit of land, a strange combination of arctic tundra and tropical fen, that has begun to take the fancy of the touring public just as it has had the rapt attention of biologists since the 1890s.

West Virginians know the area as Cranberry Glade for the masses of cranberry plants that grow there. The Glades is a genuine far northern muskeg placed by a quirk of nature 1000 or more miles south of where it ought to be. It has the same tangled matting of reindeer moss, sedge, sphagnum, and lichen that characterizes the muskeg. This moss blanket is grown into hummocks just as it does up north, resembling frozen waves, some of them measuring three feet from trough to crest.

Then, with the far northern atmosphere established, it becomes even more baffling to find southern orchids growing among the reindeer moss.

The name "muskeg" is Ojibway Indian for "land of little sticks", applied here because, as in the north, plants, shrubs, even trees are much smaller than on normal ground.

Cranberry Glades is plural because the whole is made up of five glades, ranging in size from Big Glade of 56 acres down to Little Glade of eight acres. Between them in size are Flag Glade, Round Glade and Long Glade, each separated by dense fringes of alder thickets. The moss beds making up these true glades comprise about 130 acres, the remaining 470 acres being covered with shrubs and bog forest.

Most visitors are first impressed by the trapeze-net springiness of the thick moss blanket. In a test to determine the quaking qualities of one bed, a square acre was marked off and tripods with plumb bobs were erected at each corner. Each plumb bob swayed when a man jumped in the center of the acre.

The moss beds reach extreme thicknesses in places. Once a 15-foot pole was sunk through the moss for its entire length without reaching solid ground or even muck. Despite these depths, the glades have no quicksand-like qualities. A person can walk over them with no danger other than that of splashing water over his shoe tops.

This water is everywhere throughout the Glades because the Cranberry River and its tributaries, Charles Creek and Glade Creek pass through, splitting into innumerable and uncharted branches as they bubble through the tangled vegetation.

Steeping in the deep moss, the water has become so highly acid that decay virtually doesn't exist in the Glades. A cross section of the bed would be made up of a bottom layer of dead preserved moss, a middle layer of living moss. All of the mosses, living and dead, tangle and entwine to form the mattress.

The stunted muskeg plant life—the "little sticks" of the Indian name—is due to an extreme deficiency of nitrogen, an element necessary to the growth of all plants. In the Glades 100-year-old spruces have reached a height of only 15 or 20 feet, whereas on normal ground they would be 100 feet or more tall.

The stunting has extended to the cranberry bushes, which are low to the ground with tiny leaves, decidedly smaller than cultivated plants.

Nature has compensated for the lack of nitrogen by placing at least two species of carnivorous plants in the Glades. These get their nitrogen from the insects, perhaps even tiny fish, that they catch and eat.

One is the round-leaved sundew, a plant common in the far northern muskegs. It is low, with branches fanning out spoke-like, each tipped with a round leaf. The leaves are covered with hairs and exude a sweet substance which serves as bait for the insects. When a fly lights on the leaf to investigate the aroma, the hairs pin it down tightly against the side of the leaf and the sundew digests it by means of an enzyme it secretes.

Another Glades oddity is the bladderwort, which has submarine roots to which are attached small sacs. Water bugs, probing about for food, swim into the sacs and are trapped and digested. The bladderwort would likewise gobble up any fish small enough to enter.

The far northern motif is continued in the animal life of the Glades. The golden cheeked meadow mouse lives there, as does the tiny jumping mouse, a kangaroo-like creature which, though only four inches tall, can jump five or six feet when frightened.

A northern species of flying squirrel, never before found south of the Catskills, was found in numbers in the Glades. Birds native to Canada are also common in the area.

The fact this misplaced muskeg has attracted southern animal and plant forms has been of especial interest to every Glades observer. The orchids have received by far the most publicity, but the biologists have found it equally interesting to find southern voles, mice, shrews, and hares living in close juxtaposition with their northern opposite numbers.

The theory of the Glades' origin is that the Great Glaciers, grinding down from the north, pushed arctic plants and wildlife before them and, stopping just short of West Virginia, dumped the load of flora and fauna over the state.

When the ice receded and the temperature returned to normal, all of the stranded arctic life died out. That is, everywhere but on one or two specks on the West Virginia map where conditions were ideal to sustain those types of plants and animals. One of these specks is Cranberry Glades, "the muskeg farthest south."

High shoes or boots are good to have along when you visit the Glades, because the bog water is bound to slosh over ordinary shoes. This advice is especially intended for those whose interest in natural history is above the average because thorough coverage entails a soggy hike of about seven miles.

Here's a tip from a bog expert that will be of value: The five different glades making up the Glades are separated by heavy alder thicket fringes. After penetrating one of these thickets, tie a white handkerchief to a limb at the place where the glade is entered and follow the procedure for each succeeding glade. Otherwise the amateur bog explorer is more than likely to lose his place and try to return through the opposite side.

There is no danger of getting lost, but there is the possibility of losing three or four valuable vacation hours in trying to stumble across the trail back to the road.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT.

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Ritchie Was Right

Back in 1936, when the so-called New Deal had sufficiently developed to make its purposes clear, the late Governor Ritchie expressed the conviction that something had been started in this country which could not be stopped. The current Truman program with its supporting forces, in and out of Congress, attest the truth of that statement.

What the Maryland Governor meant was that once a national administration, instead of standing in the path of radical and unreasoning elements, organized and led them, opening wide the Treasury doors, casting aside moderation and restraint, buying political support with the people's money, then the direction could not be reversed. Once we gained impetus on the "tax, tax, spend, spend, elect, elect" track, we could not go back—had to go forward. It seems impossible for thoughtful men to look at the present situation without concluding that we are headed for economic disaster. From the White House has come a score of recommendations for spending more money for new experiments and at the same time expanding the old ones in size and cost. If only a part of these are approved, the dangerous lopsidedness of the whole Federal fiscal structure will be greatly enhanced. Senator Harry Byrd, of Virginia, who knows this situation better than anyone else, predicts a $10,000,000,000 deficit for the year 1950-51. From the groups with which the Administration is politically linked—particularly the labor bosses—there is great pleasure to go far beyond the President's proposals in the way of social-security extension, compulsory health insurance, wage increases, food subsidies, etc.

Let the Administration indicate a desire to proceed along these lines (in accord with its reckless campaign promises) and it is almost irresistibly urged to leap and run, instead of walking and looking. An example is in the suggestion, inserted in the President's message, that the Government examine the possibilities of increasing steel production through the use of Government funds. Immediately a bill sponsored by three left-wing Democratic senators is presented to appropriate $14,000,000,000 for this purpose. Another example—the President's request for an increase in the minimum hourly wage is followed by a Senate proposal for a guaranteed minimum annual wage.

So it goes all down the line and not the least significant thing is that Republicans are pressing hard for such proposals as well as the Democrats. Obviously, the Republican theory is that they have been regularly defeated because these great voting groups have been taken over by the Democrats; that this is due to the favors with which the Democrats have bought their support; that the only way for the Republicans to share in this support is to pay as high or a higher price for it. Accordingly, they insist that the Republicans must make their party "virile" by standing for "liberal, constructive and progressive" policies. So far, no one has thought of any such which does not appeal to one or more of these voting groups and does not increase the cost of government and the cost of doing business.

From neither the Administration nor the "modern" Republicans is there more than a perfunctory word about economy. No one any longer favors taxing anyone except the well-to-do. The old idea once accepted by all as sound, that while the rich should always carry the load, every citizen should pay something toward the support of government in order that the nation as a whole should be tax-conscious and economy-minded, is now in the discard. There are, of course, a few in both parties who still hold to these notions and are not afraid either to voice or fight for them, but they have not been able to even slow down the spending forces. Denouncing these men as reactionaries, small-minded, backward-looking, penny pinchers, concerned only with "property rights," disdainful of "human rights," etc., etc., is the favorite—in fact, the only—answer to their insistence that unless some real effort to put on the brakes and recover control of Federal finances is made at this session, it will be too late. Clearly, if we do not regain this control, all we can do is wait for the big bump which may or may not bring us back to our senses but certainly will be attended by great pain for us all.

Such is the view of many members of Congress and most of the better-grade men in the Administration, none of whom, however, is doing—or intends to do—anything about it. The reasons are clear—both parties have gone overboard for the spending policies and the pressure groups in the belief that only through them can elections be won. Considering what they can contribute in the way of votes, there seems no political nourishment in the advocacy of economy, reduction, reason and restraint. Apparently, it now takes more character and courage for a public man to face the facts and tell the truth than most of them possses. Yet, it is difficult to believe that if the men who think alike on this vital business were bold enough to put the national interests above their personal interests, they not only could arouse the country but influence their parties and get a response that would profit them politically as well.

TABLELAND FARMING

A weekly discussion devoted to the Land and Farms of Garrett County, edited by John Carter, County Agent, and W. W. Nace, Soil Conservationist.

In a recent article we mentioned something about Smooth Brome Grass. Maybe a little more detail about it would be in order.

All the information about Smooth Brome indicates that it has a lot to recommend it over both Timothy and Orchard Grass. It has been widely planted, with good success, in such states as Nebraska, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, and to a lesser extent in all the Northeast and North Central States. I believe that quite a few Garrett farmers should try it on a limited scale.

Smooth Brome is a long-lived perennial grass. It grows from 2 to 3½ feet high at maturity and is leafier than Timothy or Orchard Grass. The plants stool out from moderately creeping underground stems. This tendency to creep has not proved troublesome and helps to develop thick sods. Several of the Experiment Stations say that a sod of Smooth Brome is no more difficult to kill by plowing than a sod of Timothy, or Kentucky Bluegrass. The undeground stems are short and plants have a lot of fine fibrous roots. Quack Grass, on the other hand, has few fine roots and has very long, vigorous underground stems.

One characteristic that makes Smooth Brome superior to others is that it stays green, succulent and palatable at stages where both Timothy and Orchard Grass have lost these values. Michigan State College reports tests of Smooth Brome and Timothy cut on August 12, for the first time that year. "The Timothy at this state was brown and brittle. The Brome, though dead ripe with much of the seed shattered, still carried a wealth of green leaves. On a dry matter basis, the Timothy contained 6.5 percent crude protein, the Brome 10.44 percent." Morrison, in "Feeds and Feeding" gives 9.9 percent as the amount of protein in Brome Grass hay, against 6.2 percent for Timothy.

If we find that Smooth Brome does well here, it may be better than Orchard Grass, especially for pastures, because it is much more palatable. Its soil requirements are much the same as for Orchard Grass. It is early, like Orchard Grass, so matures about with Alfalfa for first cuttings. Like Orchard Grass, it comes back better than Timothy for second cuttings and when pastured.

Smooth Brome is a heavy feeder on nitrogen. The fact that it is higher in protein than some other grasses indicates that it uses more nitrogen. To meet this need calls for a legume in the mixture. In areas where it's use has become common, Brome is used mostly with Alfalfa for hay or with Alfalfa and Ladino Clover for pasture or hay and pasture. Fertilizer used at seeding time and for later top-dressings should be heavy enough to secure vigorous growth of both the grass and legumes. That would be about 400 pounds per acre of 3-12-6 with the seeding and a top-dressing of 300 pounds per acre of 0-14-7 each year thereafter. That is a lot of fertilizer, but it takes a lot of phosphorus, because all our soils are low in the element. Most of our local soils contain plenty of potash but it becomes available too slowly to produce continued heavy yields of clovers and Alfalfa unless we add some. There will be enough nitrogen as long as the legumes stay thick and thrifty.

Seeding Brome Grass is somewhat of a problem. It is so chaffy that it will not go thru a grass seeder. If seeded with oats, it can be mixed with the grain. It must be sown very shallow. If seeded in the summer, the brome may be mixed with ½ bushel of oats (to the acre) and sown thru the grain box. No grass or legume seed should ever be covered deep.

About 5 pounds per acre of Brome is enough for use with alfalfa or alfalfa and clovers. A good mixture for land that will produce good alfalfa would be 5 pounds of Brome and 10 pounds of Alfalfa per acre. Add ½ of Ladino if the stand will be pastured. For combination hay and pasture on land where Alfalfa is doubtful use 5 pounds smooth Brome, 3 pounds Red Clover, 6 pounds Alfalfa and 1 pound Ladino. Remember to get Lincoln or Southern Strain Smooth Brome.

Teaching Religion

Lesson for February 6, 1949

SOME PEOPLE, strange to say, don't believe in Sunday schools. Most North American Protestants do, because Jesus did. The word may not be found in the New Testament, but the thing is there. If Jesus did not believe that religion could be taught, then he was guilty of wasting much of his time, for he worked at teaching in season and out of season. He was a product of the Sunday school, in a sense. During his childhood he would go to the synagogue school week days and especially on Sabbaths; we know that by the time he was grown it was his "custom" to attend synagogue services.

Dr. Foreman

And in every Jewish community the synagogue was the place where for two hundred years and more, children and youth and older people had been taught the Word of God.

If Christians today are faithful to Christ's example, we also will keep at the job of teaching our religion to every child within our reach.

* * *

Body and Soul

READERS of the gospels will note that when Jesus went home from the synagogue on the Sabbath, his day's work was not done. He would spend hours, sometimes till far into the night, healing people brought to him for cure. Jesus ministered to mind and soul. Jesus was interested in personalities, whole people, not half-people. Our minds have to be fed, but we live in bodies, and bodies have no little to do with personalities. Jesus was not content with teaching sick people; he made sick people well. So the church today, if it is faithful to Christ's principles, will consider people as complete personalities.

* * *

The Common People

WE FIND that Jesus did not insist on university audiences. Indeed, he never spoke to a university audience. There were great universities in those days, but it was not necessary for any one to be a graduate of one of them in order to enter Jesus' school, or to understand what he taught. He taught the plain people plainly. Again the church of today takes a leaf out of Jesus' book. Most of our Sunday schools, for instance, have graded lessons; the little tots do not study from the same quarterlies the grown people use.

In all our teachings we try to use the pupil's language and to put our Christian ideas in the thoughts that the pupils can understand.

At the best seminaries, young ministers-to-be are carefully taught how to put the great Christian doctrines in ways that the simplest over people's heads is not teaching.

* * *

God and Education

JESUS did not try to teach people carpentry, or arithmetic, or geography. No doubt he could have done so. But he had something more important on his mind, something which he alone could teach. He taught religion, or in other words he taught the truth about God, and about man, and about right relations between God and man. So the teaching church, whether in the Sunday school or in the books written by its scholars or in its schools and colleges, when it follows Christ's example, is always teaching religion first and foremost. We do not believe that religion is a secondary issue, something you can "take or leave."

* * *

Religion On Two Feet

JESUS did more than talk. He lived. His whole life and character were saying more loudly and plainly what his words said.

So the Christian church today, when it is faithful to Christ, must translate into actual living the faith she teaches in Sunday school lessons, in catechisms and books and sermons.

What we do, as Christians, speaks louder than what we say. Every Sunday school teacher needs to remember that what is said on Sunday is important, but what the teacher does on Monday is more impressive by far. The reason why Jesus was more effective than John the Baptist was that John, after all, was a Voice, while Jesus was a Friend.

Anti Orphans' Court Bill Being Opposed

Senate Bill 32 to abolish the Orphans' Courts is facing powerful political opposition at this session of the Legislature, and has little chance of passage unless Governor Lane and other officials give it active support, Maryland lawyers were told on Sunday.

The bill which would abolish the Orphans' Courts and transfer their powers to the Circuit Courts, would be placed on the next ballot for adoption or rejection by the people of Maryland as a constitutional amendment, in November, 1950.

Providing the amendment would pass, in November, 1954 no judges of the Orphans' Courts would be elected, the present judges remaining in office until January 1, 1955, after which the office would be abolished.

Under the present set-up of Circuit Court judges, it would be necessary for all work now done by the Garrett County Orphans' Court to be transacted in Cumberland, should such an amendment become a law. Garrett county has no resident judge of the fourth judicial circuit.

Reshuffling Opposed

Another bill in the Legislature which is also meeting with strong opposition is a bill which would change the apportionment of members of the House of Delegates, taking away representation from some of the counties and increasing the representation in Baltimore City. The ones eliminated probably would be Republican members, while the ones added would in all probability be Democrats. If the proposed amendment to the constitution became a law, Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick counties and possibly others, would lose a member, a population of somewhere around 30,000 being necessary to obtain a third member. Garrett county now has three delegates. The Senate set-up would not be distributed by the amendment.

A bill has been introduced in the House of Delegates which relates to manslaughter by motorboat, on Deep Creek Lake.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 72. OAKLAND'S HUNDREDTH YEAR THE REPUBLICAN'S SEVENTY-SECOND OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., FEBRUARY 10, 1949. NUMBER 50.

Getting Pushed Around . .

It is little short of astonishing how the youth of this community get pushed to the background time after time by those who would be in position to give the biggest boost. It is almost as surprising to find too, that hardly a citizen registers a squawk.

Latest blow to the hopes of the young people was the action of the City Council on Monday evening. At that time the mayor and councilmen agreed to convey most of the community building lot on Third street, 100 by 120 feet of it, to the firemen for use by them alone. Already 40 by 70 of the balance of it has had a city garage erected upon it, which leaves very little for anything additional.

Sometime after 1935 the people of Oakland voted a bond issue of $25,000 to build a community building, which in a measure would have taken care of some of the activities of the young people. Of this total amount $8,000 was used to purchase the former Helbig property at the north edge of town, which has now become the site for the hospital. Hardly any individual would begrudge this transaction since a hospital is so vitally needed.

Then an additional $4,000 was used to purchase the lot on Third street. The city officials from time to time, thus have spent $12,000 of the amount which the citizens voted to use as a community building, on other purposes. At a meeting several months ago it was indicated the officials had no intention of building a community building. Certainly this doesn't constitute any desire on the part of officials to carry out the wishes of the citizens, even though it is apparent that the money made available at the time would not now build any adequate community structure.

Nobody of course would begrudge anything that is handed to the firemen. Their importance to the community is too well known. But why do the youth have to suffer?

It is illuminating to consider the persons who wield a good bit of influence around Oakland and to discover that many of them have no children at all or that their children are mostly grown.

Maybe such a situation can be corrected when the present children have become adults. Certainly the picture doesn't look very rosy at present.

Fire Company Gets Big Slice From Community Bldg. Lot

Mayor and Council Agree to Convey Property

The Mayor and Town Council agreed to convey a large portion of the town lot on Third street to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, incorporated, for the latter organization to construct a building there, at the regular monthly meeting on Monday evening.

The motion was made by Edward G. Schmidt, seconded by Earl W. Shartzer, that the lot, 120 by 100, on Third street between Green and Center, be conveyed, conveyance to be made at the time actual construction of the building has begun.

The motion stipulated that the property is to be used for the Fire Department only, and that title to the property will revert to the Mayor and Town Council whenever the fire department surrenders its corporate charter or ceases to operate.

The lot purchased several years ago by the city council was 120 by 165 feet and money for its purchase came from the sale of four of the Community Building bonds.

Already on a portion of the property, 40 by 70 feet, a city garage has been constructed, which leaves only a small plot of ground for the original purpose.

No Action Taken

No action was taken concerning erecting or not erecting the automatic grade crossing signals on the Second street crossing. It was indicated a Baltimore and Ohio safety engineer would be here in the near future to discuss the matter.

Files for Council

Prentice DeBerry, incumbent, was the only person to file as a candidate for council at the March election. The filing deadline is March 4th.

Joins League

The Council voted to join the Maryland League of Municipalities for the year 1949, at a cost of $70.00.

The Council authorized the purchase of 50 metal street signs from the Lyle Sign company at a cost of $6.80 each. These are four-way signs and are to be mounted on two-inch pipes. They will not be available for sixty days.

Among other business conducted:

They decided to erect street lights, one at the corner of Dixon and Third; one on 4th street at Martin Alley; and one on Pennington street at alley between Wilson and Second.

Authorized Mayor Hinebaugh to purchase a used road roller from the Rish Equipment company of Clarksburg.

Heard W. R. Browning ask for a deduction in the water tap at his 8th street property, formerly owned by the late Max Welling, and referred him to the Water Superintendent.

Receipts amounted to $3,203.53 for the month with $2,754.02 of the total coming from the water department. Expenses were $3,225.23. Movie tax receipts amounted to $130.65.

Net income for Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company during 1948 increased $1,689,668 over 1947.

Centennial Group Will Be Incorporated

Action Considered Advisable for Protection of Town and Individual Members

Authorization for the incorporation of the Oakland Centennial Commission, in accordance with the laws of Maryland, for the protection to the town of Oakland and individual members of the committee, was authorized at the meeting of the central committee last Friday evening. W. W. Dawson and Lewis R. Jones were employed for that service, according to F. E. Rathbun, chairman.

Conferences were held with the publicity committee and the entertainment committee. In regard to the latter, Nelson Langan was named chairman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Robert Lohr as chairman. Other committee members are W. E. Dawson, Robert Hoffman, Tom Sheehe, Maurice Brookhart and Guy William Hinebaugh. Lohr will remain as a member of the committee.

The entertainment committee is meeting this evening to consider a group of rides and shows planned for the entire week, August 8 to 14.

At a meeting of the finance committee on Tuesday evening further plans for financing the celebration were discussed. The distribution of "centennial currency" which would be legal tender in Oakland during that week, was thought to be a possibility.

Conferences will be held by the central committee with the veterans' committee and also the firemen's committee this Friday evening. The veterans' committee includes John Stevenson, chairman; Guy William Hinebaugh, Paul W. Hoye, Edward Kahl, Thomas Sheehe, and Paul Turney. The fireman's committee includes Emroy Bolden, chairman; Leo Helbig, Robert Lohr.

In a letter to the central committee, John H. Carter, chairman of the Farmers' Day part of the celebration, outlined what his committee planned.

The group was unanimous in favoring a parade of floats showing progress of equipment in relation to farms for the past hundred years, having influence on farm life, the parade to end at an exhibit center where exhibits of other farm equipment and supplies, as well as equipment and modern conveniences for the farm home would be shown. There were other suggestions for exhibiting livestock.

Carter said the committe felt it would need three tents 40 by 100 feet for housing exhibits.

To Receive French Gifts

Various municipal and county museums and historical societies, including the ones in this county, will receive some of the gifts from the French "Thank You" train which arrived in this country last week. The distribution was scheduled to be made following an exhibition at the Pratt library in Baltimore beginning Saturday, February 12.

The train bears a carload of gifts to the people of Maryland as a token of appreciation for the efforts of Marylanders in liberating and otherwise helping France during and following the recent war.

Poster Contest To Stimulate Centennial Interest

Announcement of a poster contest for Oakland High and Elementary students to stimulate interest in the Oakland Centennial, was announced this week by the publicity committee of the Centennial.

Prizes of $5.00 are to awarded for the most appropriate poster obtained from each of the school's entries. The students are not limited in material but may use any ideas they have that would symbolize Oakland's 100th year and portray the spirit of the occasion. Miss Frances Patterson, art teacher, is in charge of the contest in Oakland High school, while Joseph Sollars, principal of the elementary, will be in charge there.

All posters must be completed by Tuesday, March 1. Ideas from the students may be used to furnish the centennial committee with an official seal, and to furnish material for the advertising matter which will be distributed later throughout the area.

The publicity committee met on Tuesday to make plans for all ways and means of spreading the information to the best advantage by the most economical means. Wilbur Close and George Hanst, co-chairman, listed additional members to their committee as James Bell, Howard Naylor, Mary Jane Davis, Aza C. Stanton and Emeric Dusic.

Local Song Writers Get on Columbia

Emeric Dusic, of Oakland, and Paul Monda, of Thomas, W. Va., received word this week that their latest song, "Heartbroken", will be featured over Columbia broadcasting system's network of 180 stations on Saturday, February 19, at 5:30 p. m., on the "Make Way for Youth" program.

Lynn Burns, of Memphis, Tenn., a featured vocalist with Ray Robbins' orchestra, will sing the song with the Don Large chorus of 45 voices on the half-hour program which can be heard from WMBS, Uniontown; WCUM, Cumberland; WJAS, Pittsburgh, and other CBS stations.

Dusic was also notified that Lorry Raine will make a recording of the song for Coast Records. The vocalist won the most promising girl vocalist award for Orchestra World magazine recently. Mr. Dusic said. She has been featured on a number of programs including "Sound Off," "Command Performance," and others, and is starred in a new movie, "College Days," with Rudy Vallee.

Dusic and Monda have written many songs together but this is the first one which will receive nationwide attention. Mr. Dusic has written other songs with Eddie Lyons, of Uniontown, Pa., who has been featured with his piano on the Uniontown broadcasting station, and with "Peck" Mills, Cumberland.

Monda plays the saxophone and clarinet with the "Midnighters", an eight-piece band now scheduled in Elkins. The Dusic and Monda team write songs as a hobby and sign their songs "Lyrics and Music by Monda and Dusic."

Plate Honoring Late Fred A. Thayer

A plate honoring the late Fred A. Thayer has recently been placed upon the end of the pew which he occupied at the worship services of the St. Paul's Methodist Church. The plate was given by his daughter, Dr. Mary Rebecca Thayer, Professor at Wooster college, Wooster, Ohio, and reads as follows: "In Memoriam—Fred A. Thayer—1854-1942—For many years a loyal official member of this Church."

The late Mr. Thayer was a loyal member of St. Paul's Methodist Church for many years and during the greater part of this time served the Church in an official capacity. It was his father, the late Ralph Thayer, who suggested the name St. Paul's by which the Church is known.

Roads Delegations Harass Commissioners

The mild weather of the winter has caused more than the usual number of delegations to appear before the County Commissioners with complaints about the condition of roads in their vicinities.

This week was no exception with at least six groups appearing at the court house. They complained of the mud, deep ruts, and the general terrible condition.

They were listed in the minutes as follows:

Clarence Stephen et al, concerning Rock Lodge road.

Robert Jay and Lawrence Glover, road to Finzel.

Ted Russell et al, Barton toward Merrill.

Jonas Broadwater, Big Run road.

Noah Lichty et al, road near Gortner.

John Bachtel, James Childs, et al, Kempton road.

In each case the groups were told that the Commissioners would give due consideration to the trouble and would make improvements as soon as possible.

To top off the rugged week the Commissioners received a letter from one of a Vindex delegation which had appeared before the Commissioners just recently. It was an advance valentine titled "Politician," and carried the following message:

I'm impressed by your backslapping
And the promises you make;
That's why you'll always get my vote
To go jump in the lake.

"Open Your Heart" Time Is Proclaimed

From February 7 to 28 has been officially proclaimed as "Open Your Heart" time in Maryland by Governor Lane.

During this time the Maryland Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association is attempting to raise funds to relieve the inadequate conditions existing in the state for care of convalescent victims of rheumatic fever, increase the facilities for early diagnosis of the disease which kills more school age children than any other disease and cripples and handicaps many thousands more; and also contributes towards the financing of medical research to aid in discovering its causes and cure.

Locally the drive is being sponsored by the American Legion post, with Fred C. Kisner chairman of the committee, and Maurice Brookhart, Wayne Sowers, and I. R. Rudy, Jr., as members.

Kisner said last night that the state committee had just furnished him with eleven plastic hearts, similar to the coin collectors of the March of Dimes, which would be distributed in several business places this week. He said contributions would be strictly voluntary with no house to house solicitation and no collections at theatres.

Dr. Francis F. Schwentker, president of the Maryland association, reminds that "rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease cause almost five times as many deaths as infantile paralysis, whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and spinal meningitis combined and is a No. 1 killer of the country."

This is the first year for any local organization in this volunteer work.

Parents To Be Guests of Scouts This Evening

Parents and interested friends will be guests of the Oakland Boy Scout troop at an informal party at the scout hall this evening beginning at 7 o'clock, according to Lewis R. Jones, scoutmaster.

During the evening the scouts will rededicate themselves to the scout oath and laws, an annual occasion during anniversary week. Scouts will go to the Episcopal church on Sunday morning and then will be guests of the Lions club at its regular meeting on Monday evening, February 14, at 6:15 o'clock.

Weather Balloon And All Trappings

The above photograph was taken last Thursday morning showing the weather balloon which was discovered just north of town by Miss Martha Lewis and retrieved from Wilson Creek by Raymond M. McRobie.

It shows the instrument with parachute and balloon attached, held by Mr. McRobie in the center, Eugene Nordeck on his right, and William Burdette on his left. Nordeck and Burdette accompanied McRobie to the area to assist in retrieving the object.

A number of these instruments are recovered in the McHenry and Accident areas, according to the postoffice department.

Helbig and Green Due For Writer's Cramp

J. Edward Helbig, president of the County Commissioners, and Arthur H. Green, county treasurer, are due for case of "writer's cramp" before today is over, unless their fingers are more nimble than the average.

It is their duty to sign their names in longhand to 1,500 new school building bonds, which await their signatures at the First National Bank of Baltimore. The bonds are in denominations of $1,000 each.

The money derived from the sale of the bonds will be used for the new school building program, and until the money is actually needed some of it will be used to purchase government bonds, at the current interest rate.

Helbig and Green left Oakland yesterday, accompanied by W. W. Dewitt, county roads engineer. Mr. DeWitt will confer today with members of the State Roads commission, and it was expected that Senator Neil C. Fraley, who is attorney to the board of County Commissioners, would be in Baltimore to witness at least a part of the signing of the bonds.

It was estimated at the court house yesterday that the task of signing would take at least six hours. Delivery of the bonds to the New York concern which successfully bid for them a few weeks ago, will be taken care of by the Baltimore bank.

Richard T. Sines, ill for several years of palsy, was found dead in Hoyes Run which runs through his farm on Monday evening, February 7, about 5 o'clock, by a member of his family. It was supposed that he had fallen into the stream as he walked about his farm and was unable to move before he was overcome.

The sheriff's office was notified and an investigation was conducted by Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, deputy state medical examiner; and Paul W. Fisher, deputy sheriff. The former gave a verdict of death by accidental drowning.

REACH AGREEMENT ON NATIONAL GUARD ARMORY LOCATION

Board of Education to Sell Four Acres on Eighth Street To Maryland Military Department

The National Guard armory will be erected on the property, corner of 8th and High streets.

The Board of Education, at a meeting on Tuesday afternoon, acting upon advice by its counsel, unanimously agreed to sell the four acres on Eighth street, to the military department, state of Maryland, it was announced by R. Bowen Hardesty, county superintendent of schools.

The amount was one which would fulfill legal requirements, Mr. Hardesty stated, and he added that General Milton Reckord assured him at a meeting last Friday that there was "no doubt whatsoever that plans will go forward at once for the armory."

Mr. Hardesty, who said the Board of Education was very much in sympathy with an armory, declared the board is having a deed for the site drawn at once to be forwarded to the State Superintendent of Schools for his signature and approval. It will then be turned over immediately to General Reckord who will issue the check to the Board of Education of Garrett county.

The agreement on Tuesday followed a series of meetings held recently.

Senator Neil C. Fraley, C. O. Bender, representing Walter W. Dawson, president of the Board; Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh, and Mr. Hardesty, along with the architect for the school building program and the architect for the armory conferred last Friday in General Milton Reckord's office in Baltimore.

Mr. Hardesty said the idea proposing that the armory and the new school be placed on the same site, which would give the guard the use of the school cafeteria and other areas of the school building and the school in turn be permitted the use of the armory as a gymnasium, was deemed impractical by the superintendent and others. Such a plan, he said, would have delayed the armory construction, and that moreover, the joint use of the armory would curtail the activities not only of the guard and other county organizations, but also limit the program of physical education to be carried on by the school.

He pointed out that if the armory is to serve as a community center so badly needed, the national guard and public need to have access to it at all times.

Wife Refuses to Believe Robinett Will Desert Her

Publicity in regard to former Sgt. Blair Robinett's marital difficulties was reduced to a more normal amount the week, the bulk of this week's news coming from an associated press dispatch from Manila, Philippine Islands.

According to the story from there "the tearful Filipino wife of a Bataan death march survivor expressed shock that her U.S. soldier husband had tried to annul their marriage."

The annulment was set aside last week at Morgantown, W. Va., at the request of Robinett's mother, Mrs. John Robinett, of Cumberland. Counsel for Robinett had declared earlier that Robinett married Jesusita Torres Y Cordero only under coercion by Filipino guerrillas.

The press account quotes Robinett's wife, who returned to Manila last June:

"How could my husband deny our marriage and our children?" she asked reporters who located her at San Fernando, Pampanga Province, northwest of Manila.

"Blair's mother and father love me better than Blair does. No, no, I can't believe Blair will ever desert me. I will wait for him."

The Filipino mother weepingly embraced her two children, Marilyn, 3, and Blair, Jr. 1.

She showed reporters the marriage certificate signed by a Protestant minister in San Fernando and the birth certificate of the children, who were born in Cumberland.

Robinett was on recruiting duty in Cumberland. His young wife said he had expected to be transferred to the Philippines and so she returned from the United States last June.

She denied they were married under the compulsion of guerrillas. Robinett escaped during the death march from Bataan and joined up with a band of Filipino guerrillas.

The young mother told reporters after their marriage her husband was kidnapped by a rival band of guerrillas who were going to kill him as a suspected spy for the Japanese.

She said she was able to intervene and save his life.

Wants to Fight for Herself

In a newspaper dispatch this morning it was learned that Robinett's wife, now in the Philippine Islands, would like to come to this country to fight for herself and her children but cannot do so because she hasn't the money.

Her only support as far her mother-in-law, Mrs. John W. Robinett, of Cumberland, knows, was the allotment she received while her husband was in the army.

The passage back to Manila cost $1,500 and her father-in-law had to sign a note for $400 of that amount when she left Oakland last June.

When it became apparent last September that her husband might not fulfill his promise to return to the Philippines, she wrote her mother-in-law that she had enrolled in a school to train as a seamstress. When the allotment ceased she wrote, she could no longer afford the tuition payments. Robinett received his discharge January 17.

"I know she wants to come back," Robinett's sister Virginia said, "because she didn't want to leave. If she were to come back we would work our fingers to the bone for her. That's how much we think of her."

Yesterday Judge Charles G. Baker received a wire from Filemon Cajator, San Fernando, attorney and counsel for Mrs. Robinett, advising him that copies of the marriage certificate, birth certificates of the children and photographs of the children and the Filipino girl were being forwarded by airmail.

Judge Baker said he also received a letter from a Filipino congratulating him on the manner in which he has handled the case, and also congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Robinett for interceding in behalf of their daughter-in-law.

Our Money-Go-Round

Over 1½ million motor vehicles, 1 out of every 20 registered in the nation, are operated by the government —1 million by Federal units, alone. Stretched bumper to bumper on superhighways crisscrossing the country, they would extend from San Diego to Bangor and from Miami to Seattle, and the taxpayer could use the sidewalk.

* * * *

The annual civilian payroll in the Federal Executive Branch is expected to reach $6½ billion this fiscal year—more than double all state expenditures in any year before 1938.

* * * *

Horse cavalry may be obsolete, but according to Representative Horan (Washington), the Army still has 3 million acres of grazing lands. The Navy holds a hundred thousand acres (retiring battleships to pasture?).

* * * *

Latest report on Federal "career" workers: 36 out of every 100 employes leave each year—have to be replaced by green trainees.

* * * *

Federal services to veterans now cost the taxpayers nearly $7 billion a year. This sum exceeds the total Federal budget for 1938.

* * * *

Hoover Commission Reports: Federal civilian agencies make 3 million purchases a year—half for amounts of $10 or less. Paperwork on these small purchases costs more than the items bought.

* * * *

LUMBER-GO-ROUND: According to Rep. Kirwan (Ohio), two Federal agencies, apparently not on speaking terms in Alaska, recently gave the taxpayers' money a real ride. The Army tore down a $16 million camp and shipped the lumber to Seattle. The government then sent the lumber back to a point 10 miles from where the Army had shipped it—to an Interior Dept. construction site!

* * * *

Official records show that ailments having no connection with war service account for 83 out of every 100 veterans admitted to government hospitals and 99 out every 100 on the waiting list.

Project Booklets List Approved Practices

Practices which strive to make a farm self-sufficient by encouraging fertility of the soil, are contained in the project booklets for 1949, of the Farming for Better Living program, which were distributed last week to those who had already enrolled in the program for this year.

Only a few revisions have been made in the program. The final date for enrollments to be received by the project directors is April 2.

The new booklet is divided into two sections. The first part is devoted entirely to records which are kept by the farmer for scoring at the end of the year's program, and the second portion is devoted to the practices and principals which are recommended by the agriculture experiment stations and which are practiced by enrollees in the FFBL program.

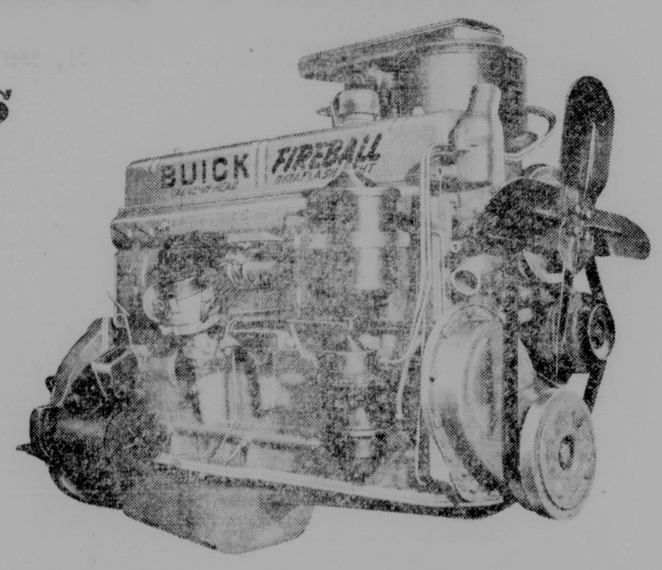
POWER PLANT that uses its Head!



THIS is the husky thrill-producer you find filling the bonnet of any 1949 Buick.

Look it over and you'll observe, among other things, that it is a valve-in-head straight-eight.

In simple language, this means that years ago Buick engineers lifted the valves from the side of the cylinder and put them on top—with some immediate advantages.

Such an engine "breathes" better. Gets a full, even charge on every intake—exhausts spent gases more easily—enjoys extra power, life and ginger.

And in such engines, compression ratios are relatively easy to establish. To step them up, the head is merely brought closer to the piston—no extra problems are presented getting fuel in and exhaust out.

Thus Buick power can—and has—kept pace with progress in fuels. Compression ratios suit gasolines actually available—and there's no waiting for tomorrow's gasolines to get full performance.

There are other things to notice about this engine.

It's a Fireball power plant—uses a special and exclusive type of piston that gets more good out of each fuel charge.

And it speaks with soft, new quiet. Self-setting valve lifters automatically keep valves properly seated, ending tappet noises for good.

With gasolines getting better, the swing to valve-in-head design will undoubtedly grow stronger. But that is what Buick has had all along—a power plant that uses its head to give extra lift and thrill.

That's enough reason to see your Buick dealer now, with or without a car to trade, to get your order in.

Fox Hunting — Mountain Style

Fox hunting, mountain style, was featured in the rotogravure section of the Baltimore Sunday Sun of January 23. The author was Frank Henry, and concerned Garrett county trappers. The story follows.

There are two ways of catching foxes in Maryland—through the lore of the woodsman and through the scientific methods devised in the laboratory.

The fox is the slickest animal in the woods. But on the lonely, wooded mountains in Garrett County, fox wiles are old stuff to trappers. Every day they match wits with him to lure him into the steel jaws of their hidden traps. It is a game with them as well as a business. An exciting game, too, as it was recently for James Beal, of Accident, when he caught one of the biggest foxes in Garrett's history —as big as a medium-sized shepherd dog.

Trappers get bounty money—$2 from the county and $2 from the State—for each fox, and an additional $1.50 for each pelt they sell to furriers.

But all of the trappers don't get the full amount of bounty money. There are some old-timers living hermitlike in remote mountains cabins, who haven't yet heard that the State in 1946 began to match the county's payments. The reason for the extra bounty money is that foxes are so numerous in Garrett—and in some other counties—and that they kill great quantities of game and domestic fowl each year.

Mr. Beal, who is 38 years old, is one of the younger trappers famous in Garrett. But 75-year-old Harvey Durst, who has lived all his life in a little dale on long rambling Negro Mountain, is legend among trappers in the county. Just recently he heard about the bounty money being paid by the State. Only once in a while does he leave the fastness of his scheduled cabin; then he walks nearly five miles to Grantsville to buy groceries.

Mr. Durst has outwitted many foxes in his day. And he has learned many a lonely lesson from them in his years in the same little mountain hollow where, just 300 yards from his present cabin, he was born. The old trapper has long lost count of all the foxes he has caught. He remembers that away back, 56 years ago, he was catching plenty of them.

Then, as a boy of 19, he built the log cabin for himself and his bride, a girl born "a short piece" down the little wooded valley. She lived with him for 50 years. She died in 1942.

Cold rain slashed at the windows while Mr. Durst sat in the one fair-sized room of the cabin and talked about the habits of the fox, and of other animals. An old oil lamp shed a mellow light, and he held his palms out to the warm stove.

"Oh, I guess I have caught more than a truckload of foxes on this mountain," he said. "And I made it pay, too. Back there, around the first World War, I used to get $20 a skin. I'd bundle the skins up, put them on my back and walk into Oakland (30 miles one way) and sell them.

I was raised with the animals on this mountain. I guess I've had my education from them. It was too far and too cold to go to school when I was a boy. So I never did learn to write. I can read just a little bit."

"One thing I learned early," he continues—and his speech is well modulated, pleasant and precise—"one thing I learned was that foxes travel on 'crossings'. You don't know what a crossing is? It's a kind of path. Foxes keep to the path by smell. One fox smells another, and they just keep on going back and forth with their noses to the ground like a hound dog's.

"Often you'll find that a fox crossing goes over rocks or logs. That is because the fox likes to get up on something high to look around.

"Now, to catch a fox you must find a crossing. Finding it is one of the tricks you learn in the woods. On the ground you look for tracks. Foxes are really dogs, and they make tracks like dogs. You look for other things, too. For instance, the fox might have left a hair on a bush. I can see the hairs, oh yes!

"But it is when you come to the old logs that you really begin to get after the fox. You look for the tiny clawmarks he leaves when he climbs up the log to take a look. And right there on top, where he pauses for a little, you put your trap.

"Often I cut out a hollow spot in the log right where his clawmarks are. I put the trap in there and cover it with dirt just the color of the log. Then I move every chip and put every twig back just the way I found it. Of course, a fox will not step in that trap right away. He'll smell you and go around it. But in a day or so the smell will be gone. Then look out.

"Take a night like this. The rain washes the human smell away pretty quick. And if I had a trap in a log tonight, maybe I'd have a fox in the morning. You know, foxes usually run on their crossings at night.

"There are other ways of catching foxes; oh, yes. I've found that foxes like cracklings. You take a handful and put them in a little hole on a piece of rising ground. Fix it so the fox has to come in front of the hole to get the cracklings. You put your trap in front of the hole—and maybe you have got a fox!

"Yes, there are other ways of baiting. Hang a dead chicken over a trap and you are not likely to have a fox. A fox knows dead chickens don't hang themselves to trees. Still—they have been caught that way. I suppose there are some foolish foxes, just as some people are foolish.

"Foxes often pull out of traps. I fasten my traps so they give when the fox tries to work his way out. I tie them to limber bushes, so that when the fox jerks, the bush bends over and eases the pull like a spring."

Mr. Durst looks up at the wall near the stove. There hangs a long-barreled muzzle-loader, with a powder horn and "ball" bag suspended from it.

"Up to a couple of years ago," he says, "I used that. I have a mold for 'running' my own balls. My father killed 134 deer with it. I can load and ram and fire it in a minute or so. I used to take it around when I went to the traps.

"One time I found a lynx in the trap and I had to shoot him four times right in the face before he would stop snarling and spitting at me. I've found many a bobcat (bobtailed wildcat) in the traps, but you don't see many of those nowadays.

"And sometimes I have found hunters' dogs in the traps. That was bad."

Although Mr. Durst says he is not as active as he used to be, he still walks the woods with a steady, strong step, carrying his gun over his shoulder and a handful of traps. At intervals he comes to a sudden standstill and peers into the brush, when he thinks he detects a movement. Or, pausing to talk, he squats down on his haunches, woodsman fashion, gun cradled between his thigh and stomach.

While Mr. Durst is still linked with the old-fashioned Maryland woodsman, Mr. Beal is a representative of the modern trapper. He catches foxes scientifically, the way the experts in the laboratories have worked it out. They have used all the basic knowledge that Mr. Durst learned firsthand from the foxes and have figured out how the sly old fox could fool himself.

"Foxes, like dogs," Mr. Beal says, "instinctively sniff where others of their kind have been. And fox scent is the strongest attraction for them. Fox farms sell it at $3 a bottle to trappers. If you want to get a 'treated' type, it will cost you $1 an ounce.

"Now when we use this lure we don't have to set our traps right on a fox's crossing. We can set them in a nice secluded stretch of ground, maybe half a mile away from the crossing, if we want to. Then we sprinkle a few drops of the lure in a spot so the fox will have to walk over the trap to sniff it.

"The lure draws him away from the crossing. Maybe he thinks it's a little funny, so far from the crossing. But it is the fox smell. And that is enough for any fox. He can't resist it. That big one I caught on Nebo Mountain the other day was trapped by the lure.

"Naturally, we sometimes use bait along with the lure. The idea is to make a fox feel comfortable and at home on the spot where you are going to catch him. So I find a likely place and bury cat meat in a dozen different holes and sprinkle a little lure over all. But I set no traps right away.

"They smell the meat and the lure and come slinking toward it in the night. They like to steal each other's food, just like dogs. So they dig and think they are putting something over on another fox. Well, after several nights of eating and smelling, snarling and yapping at one another they feel at home. Then I put out the traps. If luck is with me, maybe I'll get a couple."

Mr. Beal insists there is a vast difference between a fox that is "trapped" and one that is "caught." And the foxes seem to know too, but there's many a slip 'twixt the trap and the snip of the furrier's scissors.

"A caught fox is a dead fox," Mr. Beal defines. "So if you are a wise trapper you will approach a trapped fox sort of innocent like, just as though you were out for a walk and didn't see anything special. He thinks you don't see him and he hugs the ground; his sharp eyes follow every move you make. You look at him out of the corner of your eye, but you never look him in the eye.

You sort of work over closer and closer to him, and when you are within fairly easy reach of him and he thinks you are just passing by, you turn on him with your stick. Then you've got him.

"You hold his fangs away from you with the stick, then kill him.

"What would happen if you went straight at him, looking him in the eye? Why, he would forget all about tricks. He would start jumping and barking like something gone crazy. His idea is to pull out of that trap by main force. Too often he will do it, too."

Mr. Beal, too, has been trapping since he was a youngster. He began it around Mount Savage, in Allegany county, where he was born. In the past six years or so he has derived a large portion of his income from it. In the vicinity of Accident and on Nebo Mountain he is a familiar figure, tramping through woods and fields with his "fox stick" and trap basket on his back.

"I wish," he said the other day after he had bagged the big fox on Nebo, "that I had been born 150 years ago. Then all this country around here would be almost uninhabited and it would be full of animals that had never seen a white man. What a lot of hunting and trapping that would mean! Why, I'd live in the woods right with the animals. And maybe I'd have a fur hat, like Daniel Boone."

Mr. Beal enjoys telling of his prowess as a trapper. "One time, over on Bumble Bee Ridge, a turkey farmer lost about 100 birds in a couple of nights. The foxes were ruining him. Dead turkeys were all over the place, just where the foxes caught and killed them. He agreed to let me try my hand at it. Well, in a couple of nights I caught eleven foxes in his yard, and that was the end of his trouble.

"Another time the foxes got into Simon Opal's fowl, over on Vinegar road. I settled down there to a long siege and in five weeks I caught 40. And once, a few years ago, I caught 132 foxes in five weeks. That was really catching them. I guess all of us trappers around here are thinning out the fox population a little, because lately the trapping hasn't been so good.

Production Costs May Be Reduced

Maryland farmers may be paying twice as much as is necessary to raise some of the animals on their farms. This is possible because repeated tests have shown that some animals and some strains of animals cost from 25 to 50 percent more to produce than others.

Two factors affecting the cost of production for swine, beef animals, and sheep are rate of gain and quality of the animal when it reaches market age. Three other factors affect the cost of producing swine. They are (1) number of live pigs farrowed per litter, (2) number of pigs surviving, and (3) feed requirements.

For beef animals, regularity of reproduction and feed costs must also be considered. For sheep, other factors are (1) regularity of reproduction, (2) number of lambs per ewe, (3) number of lambs raised, and (4) the amount and quality of wool.

Improvement Possible

All of these profit-determining factors may be controlled by the farmer, according to Dr. W. W. Green, of the Animal Husbandry Department at the University of Maryland.

He says that the key to the problem is to keep records of performance. Records need not be hard to keep. Service dates are easily handled under most conditions. Birth weights may be obtained with ordinary scales or a tape may be used on calves and cattle.

Weaning weights will show something of the dam's milking and mothering ability. Rates of gain may be easily figured by dividing the number of pounds gained by the number of days in the feeding period. For pigs this means that each one must have a separate number, indicated by ear notching. Ear tags, paint brands or neck chains will do for sheep or cattle.

Feed requirements are the hardest to get because it means individual or litter feeding, but fortunately, in many cases, the animals making the more rapid gains are the most economical.

"Simple records on these factors will put dollars in the breeder's billfold," is Dr. Green's summary of the importance of this suggestion.

Briner Reports 500 Unemployed in County

That the unemployment condition in Garrett county at present was heavy, due to weather conditions, seasonal work and lack of coal orders in the coal industry, was announced this week by Charles L. Briner, local office manager of the Department of Employment Security.

He said approximate number of unemployed in the county during December, totaled 500. Unemployment compensation benefits paid to those who were without work due to no fault of their own, in December, totaled $11,124.

Briner said only those laid off because of lack of work are eligible to receive benefits. A voluntary leaving without good cause or a discharge for misconduct causes a disqualification in receiving benefits, he said.

Briner explained the office had a twofold job, to try to place the unemployed in private employment, and to pay unemployment compensation if jobs were not available

During December the office placed in private employment 67 people while during the past year a total of 902 people were placed. He said 1,465 persons visited the office during December seeking work, which is in addition to those filing for unemployment compensation, and urged employers to use the services of the unemployment security office.

Unemployed veterans in the county in December was around 150, with some of them receiving allowances through the servicemen's readjustment act. These allowances end for most veterans on July 25, 1949.

Briner also released a report on employment and wages in covered industries for a three months' period, compiled by the unemployment compensation division. It showed 263 industries reporting, with a monthly average of 2,318 workmen, and the average weekly wage of $38.10. The average weekly wage in the state for 560,885 workmen is $48.34.

THIS IS AMERICA

This is freedom—many religions, many races, living in harmony together. For freedom is more than a way of life. It is a state of spirit—and our richest asset.

Under freedom of religion, Americans attend more churches than any other nation. Under freedom of speech, we have more newspapers, more radio stations than any country in the world. Under freedom of opportunity, our children attend more schools, have more chances to succeed in life.

We are only 7% of the world's people, living on 6% of the world's land. Yet we in America have the highest standard of living the world has ever known.

Under freedom of enterprise—you may call it Democracy, or Capitalism—we make just about one-third of the world's goods, mostly for our own use. We drive three-fourths of the world's autos, use about half the world's electricity. Our homes are unrivaled for comfort and labor-saving devices. We eat more meat, buy more clothes, see more shows, own more insurance. We even save more money.

Yes, freedom pays—in the coin of tolerance and understanding, and in the coin of progress and prosperity.

Study of Ceramics Continued By AAUW

Continuing the study of ceramics at the regular meeting of the American Association of University Women on Monday night, Mrs. Bruce Jenkins, Mrs. Leo Helbig and Miss Susy Smith delved into the history of porcelain.

Miss Smith traced the history of the art in China where the secret of making porcelain was guarded through successive dynasties. In the early 18th century it was discovered in Saxony where the pure white clay, needed in the manufacture of porcelain, is found.

Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Helbig outlined the development of the art in France. The china of Sevres was manufactured for royalty. Madame de Pompadour, favorite of King Louis XV, used china pieces for interior decoration and many new pieces and designs were made at her order. Kaolin, the pure white clay, is found abundantly around Limoges and about 1770 a factory was started there. An American, David Haviland, an importer of china, went to France in 1839 to find where a certain tea set he admired had been made. Learning it was manufactured at Limoges he worked in the factory there to learn the process and then built his own factory. The first Haviland-Limoges was put on sale in New York in 1840.

A number of rare pieces of china were brought to the meeting, one a tea plate of a cornflower in dull blue, piece of a tea set which was brought to this country from France by way of the Isle of Man by a member of the family of Mrs. Helbig's mother, Mrs. John Stevenson. This tea set, manufactured at Limoges about 1840, is now in the possession of Mrs. Helbig's sister, Mrs. Kenneth Stahl.

Mrs. Edward Smouse, president, conducted the meeting and during the business session the group endorsed the legislative program of the state association. Of particular interest is a resolution to support legislation to include Garrett county in the juvenile court law, and to support a bill to control the unsightly and hazardous strip mining practices of Allegnay and Garrett counties.

The exhibition is limited to 300, thirty of whom are from foreign countries, the balance from the United States, and several thousand attempt to have their works accepted each year.

Mr. Goethe sent in two photographs, one of a bird and one of an angel, and he was informed that the committee had selected his bird for inclusion in the exhibition. Three Perish in Grant County Blaze

Three persons were burned to death early Sunday morning when flames destroyed a three-room frame house near Bismarck, in Grant county, W. Va.

They were Milford Wheeler Cosner, 72, a retired farmer who had been crippled for several years; Juanita Grace Cosner, 19, Bayard, his daughter-in-law; and Elizabeth Valeria Cosner, 22 months, her daughter.

Cosner's wife, 61, suffered burns about the neck, face and hands and was a patient in Memorial hospital, Cumberland. Four other members of the family escaped injury.

Bodies of the three victims, burned almost beyond recognition, were taken to the Sharpless funeral home in Blaine, W. Va.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday. Milford Cosner was buried from the Locust Grove Brethren church at Bismarck, while a service for the young mother and her baby were held from the United Brethren church in Bayard, with burial in the Bayard cemetery.

Juanita Grace Cosner was born January 2, 1930, at Bayard where her parents, Benjamin Harrison Wilson and Stella V. Rinker Wilson reside Her husband, Lorenzo Cosner, is employed at a coal washing operation at Bayard. Their baby daughter, born March 31, 1947, was an only child. Mrs. Cosner also has two sisters, Elizabeth Flanagan and Catherine Marie Wilson, both of Bayard.

Milford Cosner was born at Bismarck. He is survived by his widow, three sons and two daughters, four sisters and two brothers, of that area.

Bass Planted in Two County Lakes

Six hundred bass, nine to 10 inches in length, were planted in two lakes of the county on Monday, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

Three hundred bass were released in New Germany Lake, and a like number in Herrington Manor lake. Both are in State forest summer resort areas.

The fish will spawn before the 1949 bass season opens July 1, Minke said.

Rabbit Shipments Halted

Delay in rabbit shipments has been caused by severe winter weather and heavy snows in Missouri, the source of Maryland's supply of cottontails, Minke also announced.

A Missouri rabbit broker, who has been supplying the animals to Maryland for twenty years, reported that snows had been so deep and roads blocked so as to make it impossible to trap the rabbits.

Maryland's spring order is for approximately 12,000.

TABLELAND FARMING

A weekly discussion devoted to the Land and Farms of Garrett County, edited by John Carter, County Agent, and W. W. Nace, Soil Conservationist.

A surprising number of farm conservation plans call for some land clearing to be done. Sometimes it is the clearing of scattered thorns or other brush from pastures or old fields. It may be a corner of woods or a grown up fence row that interferes with a good strip-crop layout. And in a lot of cases it is a matter of clearing woods that has never before been cleared; to be used for pasture or for cropland.

If you are thinking of clearing some land there are a lot of things that should be considered. First thing is the kind of land involved. Regardless of whether or not it would pay, land should not be cleared for pasture or cropland if it is too steep or the soil too thin for such use over a long period of years. We might call this the conservation angle.

The dollars and cents angle, if fully considered, will give an answer just as conservative as the conservation angle. And certainly no clearing should be done if it will not pay in dollars and cents. There is usually no doubt that it will pay to clear scattered brush from good pasture land. It usually pays to clear fence rows if it will make possible a better strip cropping arrangement.

If it is a job of clearing woods, here are some of the things you must figure out before making a decision:

1. Cost of clearing, and it should include the whole job. Half cleared land is neither fish nor fowl. A lot of effort and expense has been put into incomplete clearing jobs that later grew up again in woods or brush. Land cleared for pasture should be made so you can mow it to control sprouts, and get over it with lime and fertilizer.

2. Cost of other treatment necessary. Any woodland cleared for the first time will take from 2 to 3 tons of ground limestone and 400 lbs. of fertilizer per acre to make good pasture. For quick return it should be seeded. For cropland it would take about the same initial treatment plus more careful clearing, such as removal of stumps and stones. Wet land would need drainage.

3. Value of the land after clearing and treatmest. Certainly this must be greater than the cost to justify the job. Maybe you could buy additional land for less than the cost of clearing. On the other hand, an extra few acres right at home would likely be worth a lot more than the same area somewhere else. This would be particularly true of small farms. Each case has to be decided on in its own merits. One rule to go by is that you should not clear more land unless you are making the very best use of land now cleared. Maybe the cost of clearing, spent for lime and fertilizer on present pastures or cropland, would produce the extra grass or crops you need, and let that woodland go on producing posts or sawlogs.

Look For Increased Soil Conservation Practice In State

The prediction that soil conservation practices will be adopted "at a much more rapid rate in the future than in the past . . . under a cooperative program which we believe is outstanding in the country" is contained in a 24-page report which has just been published by the Maryland State Soil Conservation Committee at College Park.

In a signed foreword, the Committee expresses its belief that "commendable progress has been made since passage of the Maryland Soil Conservation Districts Law in 1937 . . . in attacking the greatest problem of our time—the saving our topsoil and the reclamation of good cropland by adequate drainage." Noting that "the general public interest in saving this great natural resource, and the sentiment for doing something about it, are extremely important," the foreward explains that they "had to be developed". Today, it states, "there is not only active support by farmers and farm groups, but also by those not directly associated with farming."

Emphasizing the importance of soil conservation to every citizen of the state, the booklet declares that, in the final analysis, "man is completely dependent upon the soil and its products for all of his fool, clothing, shelter, and other necessities of life. Yet during our comparatively short existence as a nation, we have permitted an incredible amount of our most fertile topsoil to be washed or blown away . . . In the final analysis, the future prosperity of this nation may depend upon the effectiveness with which we conserve our remaining supply of agricultural land."

The present status of Maryland's soil conservation program and "the job ahead" is shown by a table at the back of the report. This reveals that, out of an estimated total of 800,000 acres in the state which require contour cultivation, 113,560 acres are now being planted "on the level." Approximately 63,825 acres are being strip cropped, in comparison with the goal of 675,000 acres. Two hundred nine thousand, eight hundred fifty-five acres of the total 600,000 acres of land in the state which require drainage have already been reclaimed. Conservation farm plans have been prepared for 7,270 of the 30,912 farms in the state which contain ten or more acres.

Another table in the report (on land uses and capabilities) shows that 137,273 acres of land in Maryland which are considered unsuitable for cultivation are now being used for growing crops, while 1,294,700 acres of land which are best suited for cultivation are now in pasture, woodland, or lying idle.

"Farmers themselves are assuming greater initiative in adopting soil conservation practices," the report concludes. "With the cooperation of county agricultural agents and extension specialists, technicians of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, and representatives of other agencies, we are on the road to even greater progress."

W. W. Nace is district soil conservationist. The district committee includes Foster Yost, Accident, chairman; Emerson Bishoff, Friendsville, treasurer; Dorsey Guard, Addison; Arthur G. Fitzwater, Swanton; A. Otis Riley, Oakland; and John H. Carter, county agent, secretary.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT.

Program Prospects

Apparently the literary artists who wrote Mr. Truman's message for him put in everything they could think of. Certainly it bulged bigger with recommendations and proposals than any that can be recalled. But that was natural enough, for Mr. Truman, in his campaign, promised more things to more people than any presidential candidate ever heard of.

The question now is: How many of these pledges is he really going to try to redeem and how fully? Perhaps they are wrong, but the belief is strong among those close to him that most of his so-called program will be adopted about as he wants it. It will not be, informed men say, 100 per cent. No President ever achieves 100 per cent, but it will not be too far off. They also think it is going to be done swiftly.

They base these convictions upon the following: (1) His unexpected victory plus the fact that he will be President, in his own right, for four years gives him a political prestige and power in Congress he utterly lacked before; (2) the Democrats have the votes in both House and Senate; (3) the committee chairmen are nearly all Administration men eager to aid; (4) the Democratic leaders are far more closely in tune with the White House than before; (4) Vice President Barkley, as the presiding officer of the Senate, and the President's close and able friend, Leslie Biffle, its secretary, are an extraordinarily effective and potent pair; (6) the Republicans are not entirely united; (7) resistance to the spending, involved in most of the Truman proposals, has weakened; (8) on nearly everything, the labor and farm lobbies will co-operate and support.

Undoubtedly, this is an impressive list. It would seem to mean that in a fairly short time the Taft-Hartley Act will be replaced by an utterly inadequate substitute which gives no protection to the national interests and removes all curbs to labor abuses; the civil-rights program jammed through, despite the furiously protesting South; the Social Security System vastly expanded; the first steps taken in the socialization of medicine; Federal housing and Federal education bills enacted. That is the prospect, but, as the late Lew Dockstader used to say, "it just ain't necessarily so." There are a good many things that can happen to make this array of reasons less formidable.

Calculations in regard to legislation, such as are above presented, often have a way of falling apart.

For example, already there appears a slight rift in the harmony between the President and the CIO bosses, though they violently opposed his nomination and bitterly disparaged him personally, now assume all the credit for his election. There is reason to believe they have been demanding a little too much of Mr. Truman, pressing him a little too hard. And it is encouraging to note that Mr. Truman is showing some slight signs of resentment. There is a possibility here of a break in the Administration phalanx that would affect results on more than one issue. And, human nature being what it is, there are other possibilities.

However, it must be admitted the odds favor the program and among the presidential strategists confidence in their ability to drive it through is firm. In this connection it is interesting to note that no plan exists for giving reality to the two most sensational suggestions in the Truman message: First, that the Government put itself in position to engage in the steel business "in event of emergency"; second, the so-called "Bold New Plan" for developing the "backward areas" of the world. The first of these emanated from Mr. Leon Keyserling, left-wing member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. It does not have the indorsement of Dr. Edward Nourse, president of the council, but was startling in that it seemed a sudden move in the direction of the nationalization of industry. It now seems that there was no force behind this suggestion; that it was intended, perhaps, to frighten the United States Steel Company and please the CIO's Mr. Murray, but otherwise is to be allowed to lapse.

As for the "Bold New Plan," full credit for that noble notion is given Mr. Clark Clifford, close Missouri friend of Mr. Truman and counsel to the President. According to sympathetic "liberal" columnists, the "Bold New Plan" just seemed a good thing to propose at the time and it did reap considerable favorable publicity. But, it is said, nothing will come of it—and nothing was meant to. Even the elegant and eloquent explanations of Secretary of State Acheson leave the idea in an extremely nebulous state. It is not unusual for Presidents to throw out in messages and addresses grandiose and impractical ideas about which they have no serious intention or convictions. However, it is somewhat unique to have two such ideas in the same document.

How long will it stand?

This little builder is being very careful. But her block house is a rather shaky structure. One swipe of the puppy's paw and down it will tumble.

Even if the puppy keeps a respectful distance, the house is quite likely to fall before it is finished. But it will have served its purpose. It will have given this child entertainment and manual dexterity.

What matters a great deal more is another structure this child is building—the invisible edifice of character. Will its foundation be deep and solid? Will the structure be strong and beautiful? Will it stand the strain of years of living? Will it stand firm if the fierce winds of misfortune blow and the rains descend upon it?

Fortunate is this child if in these early, formative years she is surrounded with the influences that help build strong character. Chief among such character-building influences has always been the Church. Within its walls the child learns reverence, truthfulness, honesty, fair play, unselfishness.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Inevitable Critics

Lesson for February 13, 1949

ONCE UPON a time, so the old story goes, there was a chameleon, a lizard that can change its color to match whatever it stands on. They put him on a black cloth and he turned black; on a red tablecloth and he turned red; on a green billiard table and he turned green. Then some mean person set him down on a Christmas necktie—and the poor little thing exploded. This is a parable of the person who tries to please everybody. It can't be done—and it ought not to be tried. "Woe unto you," said Jesus, "when all men speak well of you."

Dr. Foreman

Jesus Christ himself did not please every one. Not even a perfect personality can be 100 per cent popular. Not that Jesus enjoyed rubbing people the wrong way. There was nothing perverse about him. He was deeply sincerely, friendly, and to lose any friendships must have been even more painful for him than for us who are so selfish. Nevertheless he did make enemies, he had his critics; and his followers may expect no better.

* * *

Misunderstanding Motives

ONE POINT on which Jesus met terrific opposition was his attitude toward the Sabbath. Repeatedly he or his disciples would do things on the Sabbath which (as Jews then understood the law) were quite wrong. There are Jewish communities in Palestine today where a man walking on the street on the Sabbath smoking a cigarette would be warned to put it out; for it is against the Mosiac law to light a fire on the sacred day, even a tiny fire at the end of a cigarette.

It was just that sort of thing that Jesus ran into, more than once. His enemies misunderstood, or at least misrepresented, his motives.

They claimed that he was "blasphemous," that is, that he was deliberately making light of God's law. The truth was that he was acting by God's highest law—the law of love. Helping people in need was more important than keeping the letter of the Sabbath law. Jesus' example may help us here.

* * *

Stepping Out of Bounds

WHEN Jesus healed the man with the palsy, it was not the cure his critics found fault with, it was his first saying "Your sins are forgiven." "Who can forgive sins but God alone?" they said. In short, the Pharisees thought—some of them perhaps sincerely—that Jesus was stepping out of bounds, pretending to do something that he had no right to attempt and no power to accomplish.

Now Jesus did have both the right and the power to say what he said to that sick and sinful man. And he made no apologies for going beyond the limits his critics set for him.

So we too may sometimes be accused of "biting off too much," of going beyond our powers or capacities. Our critics may be right, you know, though Jesus' critics never were. But how often they are wrong! If Lincoln had listened to his critics he never would have left his backwoods law office; they did not think him fit to be president. If the Wright boys had listened to their neighbors, they never would have flown an airplane, for who would have thought a couple of bicycle mechanics could do what so many scientists said was impossible?

The Company You Keep

JESUS' friends got him into trouble, as Mark shows us. For one thing, some were the "wrong sort" like Matthew the tax-collector. Then his friends had an unconventional kind of religion, they actually seemed happy about it instead of gloomy like some of John's disciples. And to make matters worse, his friends "broke" the Sabbath laws much as Jesus did. All in all, Jesus' critics complained that Jesus' friends were a bad lot, and they judged him by the company he kept. But Jesus knew his friends better than his enemies did.

He never gave up or loosened a single friendship on his critics' account. Some of his friends gave him up, but he never gave them up.

So the Christian, if he has anything like Jesus' gift for making friends, may find himself criticized for their sakes.

Public Hearing Planned on Proposed Mining Law Charges

A public hearing on proposed changes in the coal mining law of Maryland, will be held at Cumberland on Saturday, February 19, it was announced.

A bill was introduced last week in the Senate by Robert B. Kimble, Allegany county, and Neil C. Fraley, Garrett county, which would completely overhaul the Maryland law and would make much of the federal code applicable to this state.

Senators Kimble and Fraley have also offered a bill in the legislature to ease the duties of the state's chief mine engineer, J. J. Rutledge. The bill would transfer the licensing of coal dealers' scales to the comptroller.

Another bill has been introduced which would move the mine bureau from Annapolis to one of their home counties. Concerning the latter measure Governor Lane declared "There is justification for its being in the coal country."

Both Senators said they believe the bureau should be located at the scene of Maryland coal production which is entirely in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Concerning the bill to transfer licensing supervision Dr. Rutledge had stated "The business of the bureau is to maintain safety and efficiency in coal and fire clay mining operations, and not the testing of the scales of of solid fuel dealers throughout the length and breadth of the state." The bureau in 1947 inspected 14 tobacco warehouse scales and 148 coal truck scales at coal distributing firms. It also issued annual licenses to 399 weighmasters who by law must supervise the weighing of coal.

The governor's committee to study the Maryland Mine Safety code includes Delegate George E. Coddington, of Garrett county.

By J. Glenn Beall

Public discussion of Stalin's so-called "peaceful" aims is a good thing, but in a way any thought of Russia and the future should be based on a knowledge of how the Soviet leaders have acted in recent years.

It may or may not be pertinent that such actions have been taken with the approval in some instances, and the mere acquiescence in others, of our President and his predecessor.

President Truman, in fact, has expressed the view that there is a split in the politbureau and that some Russians want to make a settlement with us to assure peace forever.

It is absurd to talk about making peace with the present rulers of Russia. Every citizen should understand why it is absurd. To be forewarned is to be fore-armed.

On the face of it, the Russian leaders never have been honest with their own people, so how could we expect them to be honest with us? Stalin has the blood of millions of his own citizens on his hands. Literally millions have been slaughtered in purges at one time or another in the vast expanse of Soviet Russia.

And a bare outline of the recent actions of Russia give a hollow sound to any person's voice who claims that the Soviet leaders want to do everything except destroy every non-communist government on earth.

Here are some facts. Keep them in mind always, when you read news about Russia.

First under Roosevelt and later under Truman, the Soviet leaders with our approval or acquiescence swallowed up Poland, Rumania, Hungary, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, a half of Germany, most of Finland, virtually all of the important part of China, and extraneous other territories.

Year in and year out, with never a pause, the Soviet rulers have had their underlings and stooges in the United States, Italy, France, Germany, England, Canada and throughout South America and every other semi-free country, to create confusion and engage in idealogical, economic and, in some instances, industrial sabotage.

There never has been the slightest indication that this war of conquest by internal war on free governments has stopped, or will stop.

For more than nine months, the Russians have made us feed Berlin by airlift, costing us untold millions in expenses and the lives of some of our finest men. Without let-up, Radio Moscow, Pravda, and every other Russian organ of opinion has attempted to mislead the teaming millions of Russia and of other lands into turning against us.

It seems basic to me, and to most Congressmen, that the U. S. Government is going to have to get much tougher with Russia if we are to have any kind of freedom left on earth. And it seems elementary that no one, least of all the President, should discuss the idea of conferring with Stalin, or anybody else, until the Russian leaders have shown with deeds that they are going to retract some of the wrongs they have committed against the world and the people therein.

The Russians have every opportunity to move the Berlin blockade, to withdraw from Rumania and Bulgaria and Esthonia and Latvia and Lithuania and Poland and Finland and China and to take their spies out of Washington, Havana, London, Ottawa and other world capitals. But they won't. Until they do, it is stupid of us to be misled by what they say. What they are doing is far more expressive than anything they can say.

Under The Dome

I introduced bills this week authorizing the purchase of new post office sites at the following places in my District which have been recommended by the Post Office Department for new offices: Brunswick, Emmitsburg, Gaithersburg, Hancock, Kensington, Lonaconing, Silver Spring, Thurmont, Williamsport and Woodsboro.

The Speaker appointed me to the U. S. Commission for Construction of a Washington - Lincoln Memorial - Gettysburg Boulevard. I have served on this commission before and have been very much interested in such a project.

Bids were opened by the District Engineers for the first phase of the work to complete the Savage River Dam. Actual work should begin in the very near future. I certainly mean to do everything possible to secure further appropriations this year to continue the work. The budget for 1950 carries the amount of $1,700,000 for the Savage River Dam.

I attended a meeting of the Public Works committee at which the Chief of Engineers, the Assistant Administrator of Public Works and the Director of Public Roads Administrator discussed the national situation regarding public works. I also attended a meeting of the Public Service Sub-Committee of the District Committee when legislation to increase the salaries of the police and firemen of the District was considered.

I had introduced similar legislation in the 80th Congress which passed the House but failed to pass the Senate. I also appeared before the Board of Veterans Appeals on two appeal cases and I am very hopeful that favorable action will be taken on these cases.

Ike Warns of Dictatorship

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower made a striking statement last Saturday which should give every freedom-loving person in this country a jolt.

He declared "A creeping paralysis of thought" and readiness to accept "paternalistic" measures from the Government could lead this country into dictatorship.

If the explanation is needed, "paternalism" is the practice of a government that undertakes to supply needs or regulate conduct of the governed in matters affecting them as individuals as well as in their relations to the state and to each other on the assumption that it can best determine and secure their highest welfare.

The general said the dictatorship to which he referred was not one brought about by guns or a sudden coup d'etat.

Instead, he said, it is a dictatorship born of a "surrender of our own responsibilities and, therefore, a surrender of our own thought over our own lives and our own right to exercise our vote indicating the policies of this country."

That, ladies and gentlemen, includes all these government handouts, price supports, farm subsidies, cradle to the grave securities and all.

Another item of the week should also make us realize that socialism which is a close ally of communism, is closer today than it has ever been. Just digest carefully the scare propaganda that is coming out of Washington from high government officials, even labeled as a part of President Truman's general economic program.

The story of Tuesday read: "The administration sent another urgent plea to Congress today for economic weapons it said will be needed more than ever this spring to deal with an upsurge in living costs.

"It submitted a bill providing standby authority to impose controls over wages, prices and scarce commodities, plus power to build industrial plants if needed to speed production.

"At the same time Speaker Rayburn alerted the nation's taxpayers to the 'probability' of a boost this year to avoid a federal deficit."

Attempts at price control failed over the past four thousand years, history shows, and inevitably led to the downfall of nations. Federal control over education, medicine, manufacturing, additional spending, and raising the taxes of individuals and private business, seem to be only a part of the vast program. Supply and demand seem to have no meaning anymore in such a socialized scheme.

Is it any wonder General Ike warns of a dictatorship? Is this going to be the payoff for the many thousands of people who did not bother to go to the polls last November? People everywhere simply must wake up.

Mundt Cites Perils of Communism Here

Support of an intensive crusade to defeat Communism was urged last Thursday night by United States Senator Karl E. Mundt, South Dakota Republican, in a Lincoln Day address at Cumberland.

The dinner was attended by Walter W. Dawson, Paul W. Fisher, Richard L. Davis, Donald R. Sincell and Walter E. Dawson, from Oakland.

Senator Mundt termed the growth of Communist influence "the greatest peril which the world, Christianity and America ever faced."

"We have started drinking the poison of Communism out of the cup of Socialism,' the Senator warned. "If the Communist plot succeeds, each of us will lose his freedom."

He declared the Democratic regime through the carelessness of long years in office has permitted un-American elements to "creep, crawl and now to walk into the government."

Emphasizing the growing menace of Communism in the United States, Senator Mundt quoted the FBI director J. Edgar Hoover as stating recently that there are more Communists in this country now, both numerically and percentage-wise, than there were in Russia at the time of the 1917 revolution.

To Organize Cub Pack Friday Night

Steps leading to the organization of a Scout Cub pack will be taken at a meeting in the Episcopal Parish house on Friday evening at 7:15 o'clock, it has been announced.

A moving picture explaining how to organize a cub pack will be shown by Earl S. Black, acting scout executive of the Potomac Council.

Boys from 9 to 12 years of age are eligible to become members of the cub pack, which is an organization preliminary to the boy scouts. Parents of boys of those ages and earlier, and all interested persons are being urged to attend. Rev. Austin Schildwachter has been named cubmaster, and when the organization is completed several "den mothers" will be named. The cubs will meet in the homes of parents.

Pythians Expect Big Crowd For Birthday

Three hundred or more people are expected to attend the 65th anniversary celebration of the Knights of Pythias lodge in Oakland, which will be held tomorrow evening beginning at 8 o'clock. The occasion is also Ladies' Night.

Harry Stemple, program chairman, said everything was in readiness for the event.

Mailing Applications For License Plates

Applications for 1949 automobile license plates for class A, (pneumatic) passenger cars, and motorcycles, are now being mailed to owners from Baltimore, according to an announcement from the office of the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

All large license plates again will be renewed by a clip, the color combination of the new tab being a red background, with the white numerals "50" which will also carry a small serial number for identification purposes.

Arthur Green, county treasurer, said the 1950 clips were already at his office and that he would begin selling them on Tuesday, March 1st. Mr. Green called attention to a place on the application which asks the owner to indicate whether or not he lives within the corporate limits of a town. A portion of the license fee is turned over to the incorporated towns when it is known where the persons reside.

Applicants are also expected to insert in boxes provided therefor the number of the large Maryland plate on car at present time.

The Commissioner of Motor Vehicles advised that in the event a person does not receive his application by March 1, to notify the department in writing, giving name, old address, new address, title number, and large license plate number.

Present plates expire on March 31, at midnight.

At the time of Pvt. Savage's death, the commanding officer of the unit, 1st Lieut. Arthur E. Rodenberger, wrote to Mr. and Mrs. Savage telling them their son had been a "first class soldier, performing his duties carefully and with enthusiasm. His faithfulness to duty and to his comrades was second to none."

As the concluding part of Oakland troop's observance of Boy Scout week, the members were guests of the Mt. Lake-Oakland Lions club on Monday at the William-James hotel.

A brief outline of scouting was given by Lewis R. Jones, scoutmaster and several of the scouts gave demonstrations of their work and told what was necessary to advance to the different ranks.

Some fight films were shown by the club. Eight members of the Bayard Lions club were present, H. R. Fulk, Sr., H. R. Fulk, Jr., John Tamburini, Frank Piacitelli, H. A. Wolfe, Paul Dixon, O. R. Barkman, R. C. Blackburn. Other guests were Harry Snyder, Martinsburg; Hugh Echard, Lowell Loomis, Bernard I. Gonder, Jr., and Ralph Fauber, assistant scoutmasters, and George H. Among the topics being discussed are increasing average yearly production, feeding balanced rations, using low-cost rations, maintaining herd health, maintaining herd size, increasing labor efficiency.

Discussions are by Ralph Porterfield, extension dairyman; and Stanley Stabler, extension agronomist. Meetings were scheduled by John H. Carter, county agent. All interested persons are invited.

Elderly Citizens To Be Honor Committee During Centennial

A plan to make elderly citizens of the town of Oakland, who have contributed to the growth and progress of the community, as honorary members of the Centennial committee, was advanced at the regular meeting of the Central commission last Friday evening.

A partial list already has been compiled but F. E. Rathbun, chairman, hastened to point out that there are others who should be listed and that these would be added as they become known. Knowing that a number will be overlooked Mr. Rathbun suggested that any reader knowing of any elderly person so contributing to the community's progress, to notify Mrs. Willard F. Elliott, Third street, phone 251-J, who has volunteered her services as secretary for a short time to the central committee.

The list thus far released includes the names of the following:

Mrs. Charles Bosley, W. R. Browning, Miss Bertie Cleveland, John W. Davis, Mrs. Belle Duvall, G. A. Fraley, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Falkenstein, Stuart F. Hamill, Guy Hinebaugh, Thaddeus C. Hinebaugh, Joseph E. Harned, Edward W. Helbig, Harland L. Jones, Judson Loar, Miss Grace Loar, H. A. Loraditch, Missess Marion B. Robert C. Townshend, Mrs. E. Z. Tower, Mrs. Ernest Townshend, Misses Catherine, Diana, Edith and Elizabeth Weber, John Weber, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Weber, Roy Winters, Mrs. Charles F. White.

It was also intimated that because of numbers, an age limit might have to be decided upon, this to be decided upon at the next meeting. In such case some already mentioned would not qualify.

Conferences were held last Friday evening by the Central committee with the Firemen's and Veterans' committees. Both committees were enlarged to include:

Firemen—Emroy Bolden, chairman; Leo Helbig, Robert Lohr, Joseph Stanton, Robert Stanton, Percy Thayer, John Criss, Harold Schell, Donald Browning and Grover Stemple

Veterans—John Stevenson, chairman; Guy W. Hinebaugh, Paul W. Hoye, Edward Kahl, Thomas Sheehe, Paul Turney, Neil C. Fraley, Joseph Gonder, Maurice Brookhart, Fred Kisner.

Negotiations were advanced concerning a contract with Merle Beam of Windber, Pa., for Beam's attractions for the entire week, August 8 to 13. Having exhibited for twenty years, it consists of ten different types of rides, motor dromes, fun house, animal circus and other attractions. Mr. Beam conferred with the committee last week and is expected to return next Wednesday.

At the next meeting of the Central committee on Monday evening, February 21, conferences will be held with three sub-committees: service club and fraternal committee, A. G. Gortner, chairman; youth committee, Joseph Sollars, chairman; conservation and wildlife, Lester Yutzy, chairman.

It was reported that considerable progress had been made toward financing the centennial with $5,800 already pledged.

Still Going Strong With Pens

J. Edward Helbig, president of the County Commissioners, and Arthur H. Green, county treasurer, are back at their desks this week, still able to manipulate their pens in fine style. Last Thursday and Friday they wrote their names for five solid hours, at the rate of about 300 per hour.

They were required to go to Baltimore to sign 1,500 thousand dollar school building bonds.

Money Flies Thick And Fast

Paper money was literally flying thick and fast on Tuesday morning on Second street and it wasn't long until three persons had recovered $102.00. The money finally got back into the hands of the rightful owners.

The sharp eyes of Lewis R. Jones spied what he thought was a dollar bill on the street between the West Maryland Power company and the Garrett National Bank as he looked out of a window at The Republican office. As people walked by without noticing he advanced upon it picked it up. It was a ten dollar bill. Then the wind whisked more of it across the street from in front of Rudy's, and a woman, later identified as Mrs. Myrtle Beeman, of Vindex, picked up several bills. Hers amounted to $76.00. Not to be outdone George Hanst then joined in the search and retrieved $5.

By this time the owners had discovered their loss in the J. W. Jackson store and upon relating to the finders who were searching fro some claimant, that they had just had a check for $123.50 cashed at the William-James hotel before coming down street, the amount found was turned over to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dupre, of Salisbury, Md. Mr. Dupre is a state roads inspector and has been in the county a week or more.

The balance of the amount apparently was carried away by the wind.

Mother Receives Marriage Record

A certificate saying that Blair Robinett and Jesusita Torres Y Cordero were married September 4, 1944, and also a letter reportedly written by the former soldier asking that the wedding be recorded were received Tuesday by his mother, Mrs. John W. Robinett, Cumberland.

Mrs. Robinett received photostatic copies of a marriage certificate, birth certificates of Robinett's two children and the record request in a letter from her Filipino daughter-in-law dated February 10.

It read: "Dear Friend, Could you please contact me at CIC, San Fernando, and let me have papers of my marriage? The Army authorities have recognized the marriage even though there was no license. Just put the date, September 4, 1944, on papers and register the marriage at the Municipal Building, Guagua."

The Filipino told her mother-in-law that records were also being sent to Morgantown, W. Va., where a final hearing is scheduled for February 23. Monongalia County District Attorney John V. Sanders said Tuesday night he did not believe action on possible perjury charges against Robinett would be taken until the grand jury meets April 7.

The Filipino and her two children have been living with her mother in San Fernando since last June. The girl has been attending a sewing school to learn how to support herself and two children. Her allotment stopped upon her husband's discharge last month. She told her mother-in-law she had no shoes and needed money for the children's milk.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1949.

Along the Potomac to Washington

By J. Glenn Beall

One of the most alarming facts, to students of Government in Congress and out, is that the public debt of the United States Government now is six times as great as its annual income.

Even more disquieting to many thoughtful citizens is the fact, in the face of such a stupendous public debt, the President, many high officials in the government and some Congressmen continue to urge expenditures that will boost the public debt higher and higher, unless taxes are raised. And a raise in taxes, everyone now seems to agree, might throw business off kilter and could cause a greater slump in economic activity.

Senator Walter F. George (D. Ga.) chairman of the Senate Finance committee, and Representative Robert L. Doughton (D. N.C.) chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, both are dead set against raising taxes this year.

When the President suggested his high $42 billion budget, most Congressmen thought this should be the absolute maximum to be appropriated. Now, the President has come forward with the idea of a Columbia Valley Authority, which would commit the government to spend additional hundreds of millions in the far west. Also, the President has made it clear that he wants Congress to pass the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project this session. It would aid greatly to Uncle Sam's outgo. Various Congressmen have introduced bills which if passed, would add tens of billions to the federal expenses.

If an average wage earner were to owe six times as much as his annual income, his parents and friends would advise him to cut down on his expenses to the bone, buy nothing that he did absolutely need for subsistence, until he reduces his indebtedness. Otherwise, he would be warned, he would have to go bankrupt, with attendant shame and troubles.

Of course, the federal government can't go bankrupt, as a plain citizen does. The government always can print money. But by this either printing money or raising taxes, the government can cause millions of citizens to go into debt heavily, thus causing them to go bankrupt. Each person now owes more than $2,500 as his share of the national debt. man with a wife and three children owes $10,000, as his share, plus his wife and children's share.

If our government goes again into spending more than it takes in, as it likely will, it will bring widespread social unrest, resultant loss of faith in the value of the dollar, and economic troubles vastly greater than those facing all of us today.

Congressmen and economists in the executive branch of the government are in the same boat regarding their ability to forecast the immediate future of our national economy. Trends are very mixed up, and one Senator remarked last week, if any one can see anything clearly in his crystal ball, he is luckier than most of us.

The President's advisers, who try to leave the impression that they know everything about everything, certainly are in a quandary, and admit frankly that they don't know whether to plan against inflation or deflation.

Wage and salary payments, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce, are tending downward slightly, but total personal income from all sources still is at the highest level in history and holding its own.

Beef cattle have died in the Western snowstorms by hundreds of thousands, thus making a scarcity of good meats, compared to last year, a certainty by next summer. But livestock growers are marketing their steers and heifers at a loss because they fear more drops in prices.

Prices for scrap metal actually have fallen recently. Yet, steel mills say that they must have more scrap than ever this year to meet the apparently never-ceasing demand for steel. One Congressional committee is trying to find out why prices are coming down and another is trying to learn why certain prices remain high.

Who can explain, to everyone's satisfaction, all these contradictory trends? Perhaps no one.

The varying signs seem to indicate one course, however, for the federal government,, namely, extreme caution. One set of actions by Congress may bring on a violent slump. Another set of actions could bring on more inflation. Neither result would please many persons.

Under The Dome

I introduced a resolution which proposes that the United States Health Service investigate methods for an expanded health service program. Research in Hagerstown and Washingon county, Maryland, on family prevalence of such diseases as heart, cancer and other chronic illnesses showed a close relationship between the disease and family composition and environment, and I think that the control of these diseases is one of the greatest public health problems and that further study should be gievn with particular reference to the family rather than the individual.

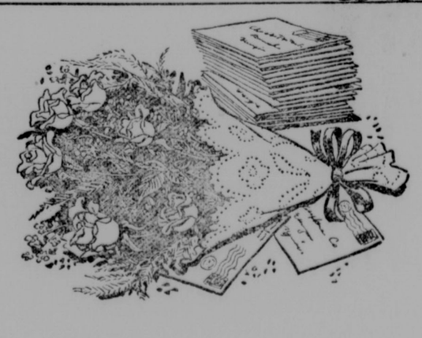
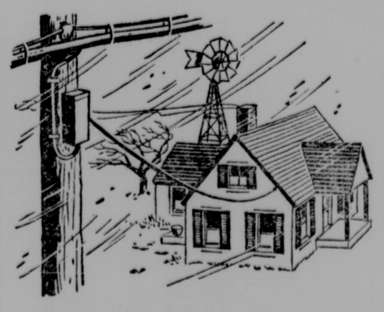
Down the Line with Johnny Bell

Story of a stack of letters

Many people do their work well enough to "get by." But some take a pride in the job—and do it a little better than anyone expects.

All these letters—dozens of them—were sent to us in one recent month by our customers to tell us that certain telephone employees have shown that "something extra" that we call "the spirit of service." We're proud of these "bouquets" and proud of the people who earned them.





This new-type wire wears a "wind-and-weather jacket"

The telephone wire that runs from your house to the telephone pole has to be able "to take it." Wind, rain, ice, sun and tree branches are all hazards in the life of a drop wire.

Now, a new and stronger wire has been developed by Bell System scientists. It's covered with Neoprene, a modern synthetic that's tougher than rubber. And it can outlast more storms and blistering sun than any substance used before. We're installing this new-type wire as rapidly as we can get it.

School days are "golden-rule days" on the party line, too!

Sometimes it's fun to get together and compare notes on the next day's assignment. But there's one drawback to talking school work over the telephone. It may tie up the party line while someone else waits and waits to make a telephone call.

So please don't make a habit of studying by telephone. Remember to be a good party-line neighbor and share the line with others as you would like them to share it with you.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

MY BROTHER'S KEEPER

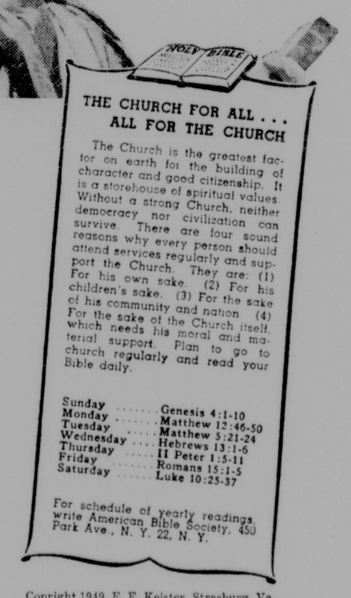
It was Cain who asked defiantly, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Cain was a murderer, you know!

Ruthless men, seeking their own aims without thought for the worth or welfare of their fellows, have always asked that question.

But in America, our forefathers made the principle of Christian brotherhood a cornerstone of national life.

And they gave us religious freedom; for in the free and unlimited practice of our religion, brotherhood becomes an everyday reality.

You see, the Statue of Liberty cannot guarantee real brotherhood. . . nor can the Constitution. But YOU, and the man next door, and that other man across town. . .you become real brothers by worshipping the same FATHER.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Infant Boy Perishes In Farm Home Fire

An infant boy perished last Thursday in a fire which destroyed a six-room farm dwelling near Corinth, not far from the Garrett county line. Sheriff J. H. Benson of Preston county reported that Tommy Bowser, 9-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowser, died in the fire which swept their home about 2 p. m.

Mrs. Bowser who was working in a barn near the the home when she saw the blaze, shattered a window in the house and carried two other children, Jo Ann, 4, and Robert, 3, to safety, but was unable to rescue Tommy who had been in his crib.

Two other children, Jimmy, 6, and Dennis, 5, were with their mother at the barn when the fire broke out. The fire was believed to have started, according to information given to Sheriff Benson, when Jo Ann and Robert were playing with newspapers near a stove.

Mrs. Bowser suffered cuts on the arms when she broke the window to gain entrance to the blazing room in the rescue of the two.

Mr. Bowser was in Oakland on business at the time of the disaster. The Bowser place is known as the Glenn Ashby farm. The family is staying with neighbors. All of the family's belongings were destroyed.

THE REPUBLICAN

What's the Difference? . . .

The taxpayers of the United States are asked to provide billions of tax dollars annually to defeat the spread of communism, which is just another name for socialism. We just finished a war to block aggression that cost us thousands of lives and hundreds of billions of dollars.

In the same breath we are asked to authorize billions more in taxes to permit our own government to go into business and ultimately drive its own citizens out of many fields of activity, including local self-rule—witness our Federal program to own or dominate hydro-electric power production, housing, medicine, education, loans and grants, farming through subsidies, and now steam electric plants, steel production and a long list of other activities.

What is socialism? As defined by the Socialist League of Britain about 1884, "Socialism means that the land, the capital, the machinery, the factories, workshops, stores, means of transit, banking, and all means of production and distribution of wealth must be declared and treated as common property." Today England has accepted this doctrine and the United States seems bent on following in its footsteps.

Why are we opposed to the spread of socialism and communism when we authorize our own Federal government to extend that doctrine at home as rapidly as it can be forced down the throats of unwary, tax-burdened citizens under appealing disguises?—Industrial News Review.

Roads Projects Listed For Garrett

One new construction and several resurfacing projects in Garrett county are included in the State Roads program in 1949 and 1950, it was learned this week.

Senator Neil C. Fraley said he had been informed of the following projects in the two-year program:

Four more miles on route 219, north of Oakland, to join the four or more miles already under construction;

Keyser Ridge to Pennsylvania State Line, 3¼ miles of resurfacing and relocation;

West Virginia Line to West Virginia Line, route 50, nine miles, resurfacing;

Gortner to Red House, route 219, resurfacing;

Accident to Flatwoods, resurfacing.

It was also understood that there will be some activity concerning the relocation of route 219, between Oakland and Gortner, which would eliminate the Weber crossing, the new highway probably crossing the B. and O. tracks on Third street, near the Oakland Lumber mill, and following the Little Youghiogheny river, to connect with the present route somewhere south of the Weber crossing. Nothing definite however, could be learned about this latter project.

Cub Organization Appears Certain

Further steps toward organization of a Cub pack in Oakland will be taken on Friday evening, February 25, at the Parish House. A picture on cubbing was given here last Friday by Earl S. Black, acting Scout executive.

Rev. Austin F. Schildwachter, cubmaster, said there would be a meeting of all interested cubs, parents, den mothers, den dads and den chiefs at that time, when applications for membershep in the pack would be filled out.

He said there were 25 or 30 interested boys. The pack age limit is 9 to 12 years, after which they enter Boy Scouting.

Rev. Schildwachter pointed out that the cub program was not like Scouting. In Cubbing the parents aid the child in advancing the program and meetings are held in the homes of the den mothers. He said the den mothers would be named this week and also the den chiefs who will be members of the boy scout troop.

At a meeting of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce board of directors last evening the group decided to sponsor the new organization.

Lenten Services To Begin March 2

It was announced that S. T. Naylor had been named treasurer of the Lenten offerings which are used for the advancement of the Daily Vacation Bible school.

Rotary Club To Preview Song

The Havanas Sisters of Uniontown, Pa., to be on the program at the annual Rotary club Ladies' Night on Friday evening, are scheduled to sing "Heartbroken" during the evening.

These singers were given copies of the song written by Emeric Dusic and Paul Monda, by Walter E. Dawson, chairman of the program committee, to preview it for the local Rotarians and their wives.

According to Dusic, everything appears to be set for the presentation of the song this Saturday, February 26, by radio on the "Make Way for Youth" program at 5:30 p. m. This is the first song by Dusic, a local business man, and Paul Monda, of Thomas, W. Va., to receive nationwide attention.

Dusic this week received one of the original "Coast" recordings of the song which Lorry Raine recorded with the Don Large male quartet and orchestra accompaniment. The quartet has been on tour with Wayne King and his orchestra throughout the midwest. Rosemary Wayne is also expected to feature "Heartbroken" on some of her programs from Chicago in the near future.

Presentation of a basket of roses to Patricia Gortner, daughter of Alva G. Gortner, grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Maryland, was one of the features of the annual birthday celebration and Ladies' night in Castle Hall.

Mr. Gortner, former chancellor commander of Garrett Lodge No. 113, K. of P., and for many years a loyal worker in the state organization, is shown in the picture with his daughter just after the bouquet had been presented by Walter W. Dawson, (on her left) master of ceremonies.

Around three hundred persons attended the event which marked the 65th birthday anniversary. The program included an address of welcome by Harry C. Coddington, present chancellor; greetings from the grand lodge by Mr. Gortner; and a history of the local lodge by Grover C. Stemple, who was the first person to be initiated in the new building.

Entertainers included Donald Keister, young cornetist, Grantsville; a quartet composed of Jack Treacy, Wayne Hamilton, Beeson Snyder and Thomas Snively; solo by Wayne Hamilton, stringed music by Red Fries and his orchestra; tap dancing by little Carol Phillips; tap dancing by little Dorothy Tasker and Barbara Biser; and specialty dancing numbers by little Carolyn Leighton and Sandra Orr, accompanied at the piano by Miss Jane Humbertson.

The Senate also approved and sent to the House a bill to transfer weighing licensing supervision over solid fuels from the Bureau of Mines to the State Comptroller. Both measures were introduced by Senators Kimble and Fraley.

Another bill also introduced by Senator Fraley was passed by the Senate. It would eliminate a requirement for liability insurance on boats carrying passengers for pay on Deep Creek Lake.

Hitchhiking Not Too Pleasant in February

Three young boys from Youngstown, Ohio, found hitchhiking not too pleasant in February, especially for such long distances as from their homes to South Carolina. The lack of money with which to purchase food did not make the adventure any more alluring and finally they sought the assistance of Corporal Thomas Currie of the State Police.

Corporal Currie met up with them Monday on route 50, east of Red House. Brought to the Oakland jail for overnight shelter, they identified themselves as Ronald W. Lingenfelter, Frank Delano McKlusky and Robert Dale Latimer, aged 14, 15, and 16.

Deputy Sheriff Paul W. Fisher said the youths were not too warmly clad and that they decided to leave Youngstown on Friday after school, to visit a relative in South Carolina. They had walked considerably, had spent one night in a barn and another by keeping moving along the highway. They had pawned a gun bayonet of 1918 vintage, but kept a second one in their possession to cut wood for fires to keep warm.

Upon reaching the Oakland jail they were ready to call off the balance of the trip and phoned their parents to let them know where they were and to urge them to "come and get them." Two of the mothers appeared here Tuesday.

Local Organization Adds New Store

Negotiations for the purchase of stock and fixtures of the Grimes Women's Wear store in Marlinton, W. Va., have been completed by The Half Price Stores, it was announced this week by Irvin Feld.

Additional stores are operated in Oakland, Westernport, Md., and Meyersdale, Pa.

Mr. Feld said the entire stock of the Grimes store would be placed on sale for quick clearance, after which the store would be closed for remodeling, and would be stocked with clothing and dry goods.

The manager for the new unit will be named from within the organization, within a few days, Mr. Feld stated.

Ukranian Family Arrives in County

It may sound like Irish when you pronounce it but the name is Dzugan, and the family comes from the Ukraine area of Russia.

The Dzugans are the first family of displaced persons to arrive in Garrett County, although there are other applications pending. They arrived in Oakland late last evening, being brought from Baltimore by Miss Cara Weber, upon whose farm, south of town, they will reside.

They are Watsel Dzugan, his wife Maria, and the two children are Josef, aged 3, and Stephania, aged 1 year. Mr. Dzugan spent four months as a prisoner of war of the German army. Mr. Dzugan will be employed by Miss Weber as a general farm hand.

Miss Weber and her mother, Mrs. R. E. Weber, had the farm house gone over, stocked with food and made ready for the new occupants, and even had a roast on the table for them upon arrival. One of the requirements is to furnish the family with a home but the balance of the comforts were just ideas of the Webers.

The family was obtained through the county committee on displaced persons, John Carter, Guy Stanton, Ralph Baker, Foser Yost and C. L. Briner. Mr. Briner said all displaced families coming to this country are carefully screened and are a high type family. Those responsible for the families are to see that the persons do not become public charges.

Applications for such families also have been made by H. G. Gortner and Jasper Riley.

DEWEY WHITACRE DIES AS RESULT OF CAR ACCIDENT

Kitzmiller Miner Dies of Skull Fracture—Carl Harvey Is Held On Manslaughter Charge

Carl Harvey, 33, Kitzmiller, was arrested by police on Monday evening shortly after Dewey Harrison Whitacre, 51, Kitzmiller miner, was pronounced dead as the result of an automobile accident on the Vindex road, west of Kitzmiller.

Harvey was arrested as he slept in a wreck-damaged truck about nine-tenths of a mile from the scene where Whitacre was found dead in his jeep, according to Trooper Robert Henline.

Police gave the following version of the accident, which took place during a heavy fog which had settled over the area early in the evening, making visibility even for a short distance very difficult.

A group of men driving over the Vindex road found Whitacre lying across the front seat of his jeep. The windshield was pushed out and splintered and the left front of the vehicle was badly damaged.

Elwood Comp, a passenger in the car, told police the jeep engine was still running and the lights were on. Comp, police said, drove the jeep to Blaine, W. Va., where Whitacre was pronounced dead. Police said Comp did not know the man was dead.

Police were summoned by the Sharpless funeral home and Trooper Henline arrested Harvey as the former was enroute to the accident. He said he found Harvey's truck stuck in a ditch with the front slightly damaged and left headlight knocked out.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, deputy state medical examiner, pronounced Whitacre dead and said he suffered multiple fractures about the left side of the body. Death was attributed to a skull fracture.

The victim was employed at the Garrett Coal company mine near Vindex and was enroute home after working the night shift, police said. He commuted to and from work in the jeep.

Harvey was questioned by State's Attorney Dwight Stover and later released under $500.00 bond for his appearance at a hearing on Tuesday, March 8. He was charged with manslaughter by truck.

Whitacre was a son of Mrs. Jane Whitacre and the late Thomas Whitacre. His wife, the former Viola Knotts, died six years ago. He is survived by four children, three brothers, Truman Whitacre and Wesley Whitacre, near Kitzmiller; and Thomas Whitacre; two sisters, Mrs. Viola Wilt, Kitzmiller; and Mrs. Julia Rhodes, Deer Park.

Will Begin Sale of License Plates Mar. 1

Most of the applications for 1949 automobile license plates for passenger cars have been received in the county.

Truck applications, however, are being delayed because of the uncertainty of the fate of Senate Bill No. 44. The bill would fix flat rates for trucks, the same as for passenger cars.

Arthur H. Green, county treasurer, said the 1950 clips were at his office and that he would begin selling them on Tuesday, March 1st.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1949.

Red Cross Roll Call Begins March 1st

The annual American Red Cross drive for funds will begin in Garrett county on March 1, it was announced this week by the local committee. The slogan this year is "You too can help the Red Cross."

Although no figures are available yet on the county's quota, supplies and necessary information for the roll call have been mailed to all community workers in the county by Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, county fund chairman.

According to the annual report submitted by Mrs. E. Z. Tower, chapter chairman, for every dollar retained by the county chapter from last year's contributions the expenditures were as follows: Home service, 45 percent; nursing service, 13 percent; first aid water safety, 20; local disaster relief, 5; junior Red Cross, 3; and communication, 14.

The various categories were explained by a committeeman. Home service covers emergency assistance to service and ex-service men, their families, and civilians, also some emergency hospital transportation; nursing, emergency service to those with no other means of immediate assistance; first aid, water safety, for the "Learn to Swim" program; disaster relief, for a storm across a section of the county and for needy families burned out; junior Red Cross, for subscriptions to the junior Red Cross magazine for every school in the county; communication, for transferring emergency information, etc.

It was emphasized that the local chapter, unlike many chapters in highly industrialized areas, has never had any sizable reserve upon which to draw and must depend upon subscriptions from year to year for its working funds.

Further information about the local activities of the organization will follow throughout the campaign.

Railroads operating in Maryland have furloughed 5,300. Furloughs are expected to end March 1.

Flames Damage Loch Lynn Store

Flames badly damaged the two story frame building in Loch Lynn housing a grocery store and restaurant owned by Don Sisler, last Sunday evening about 6 o'clock. Damage was estimated at about $15,000, which is only partially covered by insurance. The blaze apparently was caused by a short circuit in the wiring.

Members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department were called and laid 1,000 feet of hose to bring the blaze under control. Water from a nearby locomotive and some carried from nearby wells helped to quench the flames. It was considered the worst fire in the Mt. Lake area for a long time.

The interior of the restaurant was gutted and flames burned through a partition into the Trianagle Food store, also operated by Sisler. Most of the stock was damaged by water and flames, a portion of which is shown in the accompanying photograph. Four new refrigerators and two new electric stoves, purchased for his new electrical appliances sales store, were destroyed. Flames also burst through the ceiling and damaged the Sisler apartment home overhead. Some furniture was damaged and a new bedroom suite was ruined. Clothing in a second floor closet was destroyed when flames burned through the partition.

Firemen remained at the scene for nearly three hours before the blaze in wall partitions was extinguished.

Sisler was called back from Keyser, W. Va., where he had gone on a business trip. The blaze was discovered by William White who noticed smoke as he was walking past the building.

Sisler and a number of workmen have been engaged this week in attempting to salvage equipment and stock.

Meet Briefly

The County Commissioners met this week only on Monday, taking advantage of the legal holiday on Tuesday to close for the entire day.

During the one-day session the commissioners authorized advertising for bids for furnishing coal to the jail and court house for 1949.

Ray Rielli, tree surgeon, presented a proposition to the board to trim trees, feed and spray and doctor where needed, the trees around the court house and jail, and remove and replace three trees for $200. The agreement is to be made in writing and accepted.

The next meeting of the board will be on March 7.

Bonus Measure Faces Lane Veto

Governor Lane announced this week he would "of necessity veto anything for which funds are not provided." This would include pending legislation for a veterans' bonus. Senate and House measures call for a $100 million bond issue to pay from $10 to $500 to each Maryland veteran of World War II, the bond issue to be serviced from proceeds of the retail sales or real estate taxes.

Governor Lane said the sales tax already was dedicated to the budget, and described the real estate tax as the "core of the counties' economy."

14,000 Trout Will Be Planted Here

Plans to stock 21 streams in Garrett and Allegany counties next month by the State Inland Game and Fish commission, were announced by Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

Legal size trout of 8 to 11 inches in length will be placed in 16 Garrett streams, while six streams in Allegany will be similarly stocked. A total of 14,400 will be put in Garrett streams and 7,000 in Allegany county.

Minke listed Garrett county streams as being closed to fishing until 1951 as White Rock, Hoyes Run, Shield's Run, Blue Lick and their tributaries. Middle Ford, from Waters Run to its source and tributaries. Big Run, from Monroe Run, to its source and tributaries. They are all small streams.

During the late summer months the state agency will stock a number of the feeder streams with fingerling trout, it was stated.

Lake Well Stocked

Of warm water species, including bass, crappie and bream, Garrett county already has received 758 large mouth bass and 1,000 more are to be placed in Deep Creek Lake. These bass measure from 10 to 25 inches in length and some weighed six pounds. The state also plans to place 10,000 forage fish in this county.

Closed to July 1

Deep Creek Lake is closed to fishing until July 1. Lloyd Cook, district game warden, advised Minke that numerous inquiries had been made in regard to fishing in the lake.

The only fishing permitted now is in the arm of the lake from McHenry down to 100 yards of Gravel run, where catfish, bluegill and goggle-eyed bass may be taken from this area from February 14 to April 30.

Deep Creek Lake is closed because this is the bass spawning season.

Judge Sets Aside Annulment Decree

A final decree setting aside the annulment of the marriage of Blair M. Robinett from his Filipino wife, was ordered entered in the records of the Monongalia County Circuit Court at Morgantown, W. Va., yesterday by Judge Charles G. Baker.

The previous court order of the judge was temporary and after the former local army recruiter did not appear at the hearing yesterday morning the judge issued the final action.

Robinett's attorney, C. C. Rose, of Morgantown, told the court that Robinett had informed him that he did not want to take any further steps in the matter.

Robinett, who was recruiting sergeant at Oakland for two years, had alleged in the original annulment proceedings at Morgantown that he had not married Jesusita Torres Y. Cordero legally.

Later evidence presented to the court by Robinett's mother, Mrs. John W. Robinett, Cumberland, gave proof of the marriage.

Prosecuting Attorney John V. Sanders has announced he is studying the records of both proceedings, and he stated that if he finds evidence of perjury on Robinett's part, he will ask an indictment of the April Grand Jury.

A V-mail letter from Robinett to his parents was introduced at the hearing yesterday, dated February 15, 1945. It stated "I was married on September 4, 1944, so I don't know when I shall come back. My wife is of Philippine and Spanish descent, and although she is not beautiful she is nice looking and comes from a good family."

Dr. Winter R. Frantz sent a statement regarding the three children born to Robinett and his wife, in Cumberland. The first died four hours after delivery, February 9, 1946. Marilyn was born December 21, 1946; and Blair, II, was born January 10, 1948.

Mrs. Robinett is residing with her mother in San Fernando, Philippine Islands.

Gormania Man Shot By Former Officer

Frank Del Signore, 24, Table Rock, near Gormania, was admitted to Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, W. Va., last Sunday night at 10 o'clock suffering from a gunshot wound in the left hip. His condition was reported satisfactory.

Police at Keyser, W. Va., said they understood the shooting occurred at Skyline Inn, located on Allegheny Mountain, south of Elk Garden. Cpl. R. R. Karickhoff said he was informed that Del Signore and several other men became involved in an altercation at the inn. The proprietor, identified as Fred Kesner, a former Keyser city' policeman, told police he attempted to stop the fight and put the men out when they "jumped him," authorities said.

Police said they were informed Kesner then fired a revolver and hit Del Signore in the hip.

Mining Laws Due For Overhauling

State Commission in All-day Session at Cumberland Last Saturday

In spite of sharp differences of opinion on some details, a lengthy hearing held at Cumberland, Saturday, on Maryland's coal mining laws disclosed that the United Mine Workers and Western Maryland coal operators are "not too far apart" on most ideas for the overhauling state mining laws.

If the suggestions recommended by both are legislated into law at this session of the General Assembly, as is expected, Maryland will become the first state in the nation to enact a large part of the safety code as law.

The hearing took the form of comparing a bill already introduced in the Senate by Senators Robert B. Kimble (R-Allegany) and Neil Fraley (R-Garrett) with an operators' bill submitted by Thomas B. Finan and Wm. S. Jenkins, for the Georges' Creek and Upper Potomac Coal Operators' Association. The two bills were identical on many points.

The hearing was conducted by a committee named by Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., following an investigation of the disaster at Kitzmiller last November when five men were killed.

Many Points of Agreement

Among the things which appear certain of enactment are:

1. State inspectors will have the power to close mines in the event of imminent danger. There is some disagreement as to exact language.
2. Black blasting powder will be ruled out.
3. Rock dusting will be required in certain mines.
4. All mines must be supervised by a certified foreman.
5. Both federal and state mine officials will inspect a mine after a disaster.
6. Adequate fire-fighting equipment must be provided at the mines.
7. Fan houses and air ducts must be fireproof.
8. Mines will be inspected more frequently.
9. Provide an alternate escapeway.

There was also testimony heavily in favor of moving the Maryland Bureau of Mines office from Annapolis to Western Maryland and to add additional state inspectors.

Jenkins opposed having reversible fans except at gaseous mines. John Jones, president of district 16, U.M.W., said some mines in Maryland have no fans at all and pointed out that one of the causes for the death of five men at Kitzmiller was the lack of a reversible fan. Jones said state approval of the Nethken mine was a "monumental blunder."

The parties could not agree on the quality of air. The present law requires 19 percent oxygen and not more than 1.25 percent carbon dioxide. The Kimble bill proposes 19.5 oxygen and not more than .5 percent carbon dioxide. Jones backed the Kimble proposal as did W. Dan Walker, Jr., Fairmont, W. Va., of the Federal Bureau. Jenkins said the present law is adequate.

In outlining his bill, Jenkins advocated numerous exception for "recovery work."

The Kimble bill calls for rock dusting up to 40 feet of the working section. Jenkins proposed 80 feet.

Both bills call for adequate fire protection equipment and it appeared it will be left up to the inspectors to select the equipment for the individual mines.

Jenkins said the transportation of permissible explosives on man trips should be allowed. The Kimble bill says "No." The operators would require electric lamps only in gassy mines. The Kimble bill would cover all mines.

The Kimbell bill would require that all shots be fired by a certified shot firer. Jenkins would have this requirement apply only to gaseous mines.

In concluding, Jenkins said the operators and the union have the same goal—maximum protection consistent with area conditions. He said, however, it is impossible to go beyond a certain point.

Weaver presented a formal statement from the Federal Bureau of Mines. He said "some of the provisions in the (Maryland) laws relating to health and safety are inadequate, not specific, or otherwise not in accordance with modern concepts of health and safety requirements in coal mines."

He listed imminent dangerous conditions as follows:

1 Blasting with black powder on shift.
2. Accumulations of methane.
3. Inadequate ventilation.
4. Accumulations of coal dust.
5. Inadequate rock dusting.
6. Danger of roof collapse.
7. Provision of only one escapeway or travelway.
8. Combustible housing around main fan or combustible air ducts.

Garden Questions Answered

How far apart should beans be planted? How deep should beet seed be planted and how long a row of peas is necessary to feed the family?

Even the experienced gardener forgets the answers to these and other questions from one spring to the next. Consequently, the answers to such questions have been compiled in an Extension bulletin intended primarily for Maryland 4-H'ers but available to any gardener in the Free State. The title is "Maryland 4-H Club Garden Primer" and it is circular No. 140. Copies may be obtained from the Extension office in each county or from the Bulletin Room, University of Maryland, College Park.

Census Supervisor Named

Imminence of the 1950 census was emphasized by the announcement of the Census Bureau that Langdon I. Backus, of Brownsville, Washington county, had been named regional supervisor for Western Maryland and parts of Virginia and West Virginia. His headquarters would be in Hagerstown, and his territory would include Garrett county.

Backus is now taking a training course. His staff will consist of 20 statisticians, stenographers and tabulators.

No "Ides of March" Bothers Woodmen

"Beware the Ides of March!" said ancient Romans, believing March 15th an unlucky day.

Woodmen don't fear the Ides of March. Every day of the year they are protected against emergencies and are building future security with safe, sound, legal reserve Woodmen protection. Woodcraft's fraternal and social activities also promote fellowship and mutual helpfulness among fellow Woodmen.

Ask your local Woodmen representative to help you select the best type of Woodmen life insurance certificate to meet your needs. Let him tell you, too, about the extra benefits you will receive as a Woodmen member.

Along the Potomac to Washington

By J. Glenn Beall

The few times the House of Repre-ntatives has voted so far—on de-iency appropriations legislation—veal pretty clearly the direction in hich the so called "fair dealers" are king the country.

Frankly, it might be said that the ongress is going to take the nation outh."

While going "south," a majority of e Congress is also taking us to e left—toward Socialism, state nership, higher and higher federal penditures, more and more control Washington officials over every ect of our lives.

By taking the nation "south," is eant that the "fair dealers" are go-g to pass much legislation that will ift the wealth of this nation from her sections into one section. Feder-money will be flowing in all direc-ns as usual, but more of it, pro-rtionately, will go down to the low-ome-tax-paying states such as Ala-ma, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisi-a, Georgia, South Carolina and orida.

The first vote on the TVA steam nt proposal proved that New Eng-d Democrats would join with ddle Western Democrats and uthern Democrats on a purely nomic proposal to redistribute the alth of the nation.

It showed clearly that they are for ate's Righs only on one issue—the cial issue. Otherwise, they are for ncle Sam and one of his busy reaucrats taking over the distri-tion of power, the operation of in-stry, or the running of their schools.

They are not really "State's Right-s," after all. They are only "State's ghters" to a degree, and a very all degree at that.

It remains to be seen—next elec-n—whether intelligent Democrats the Middle West want to see money nnelled out of their pockets into ashington, through taxes, then fun-lled into the states of the far South, through Congressional appropriations.

The Truman administration and Democratic leaders in Congress are doing a lot of "passing the graveyard whistling" these days about business and employment conditions. In spite of the sharp decline in prices, productive activity and employment during the past few weeks, the President and some of his top advisers still insist the nation is threatened with a dangerous inflation rather than a depression. The administration's legislative leaders last week denied the existence of any unemployment problem, or that such a problem is even in prospect. They argue that there is still a great shortage of workers everywhere. Yet last week the administration-controlled House put through a doubled deficiency appropriation to provide for a large increase in the number of Government clerks assigned to processing unemployment compensation applications. Incidentally, the number of persons drawing unemployment compensation in the various states has more than doubled in the last few weeks, and is now higher than at any time since before the war.

Under the Dome

As a member of the Buildings and Grounds Sub-Committee of the Public Works Committtee, I went to the White House to discuss the proposed repairs to that structure. The sub-committees of both Houses and Senate met with the President at that time and he went over the details with us regarding the proposed plans to remodel the White House. It was very definitely understood while the interior of the White House will be rebuilt, the exterior will not be affected or changed in any manner.

I also met with members of the Allegany County Building and Construction Trades Council, Senator Kilgore and Representative Staggers of West Virginia, with the view of having the prevailing wage scale used by the contractor constructing the Keyser-McCoole Bridge.

At the request of more than 100 patrons we asked the Post Office Department to make a change in a rural route out of Hancock, Maryland, adding a supplemental route. The proposed change would be much more convenient for those served, eliminating their walking in some cases more than a mile to get their mail. I am most anxious to help these people as I feel that they are certainly entitled to the best mail service possible and I am hopeful that the Department will give favorable consideration to my request.

This week I attended the dinner of the Small Business group and was also the guest of the State Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the dinner given by the National commander.

Says Paint Best In Dairy Barns

Paint on the inside of a dairy barn gives better service than the whitewash which is so often used. It is easier to refinish and does away with the constant sifting down of whitewash particles. Ray W. Carpenter, head of the agricultural engineering department at the University of Maryland, suggests a casein hard-finish paint, water-mix paints, or better still, oil base paints which flow on smoothly and dry with a glossy surface.

The first cost of whitewash on the walls and ceilings of a dairy barn looks good, but after other applications, surfaces become ragged-looking, flaking, peeling, dust-catching and hard to clean. Paint cannot be applied over whitewash, so Carpenter's suggestion for painting applies mostly to farmers who are building new barns or to those who are willing to make a fresh start by taking off the old white wash and painting the bare wood. A power brush is an efficient tool for removing old whitewash.

Sometimes
we feel like the family next door

Next time your wife runs next door to borrow some butter or show off a new hat, think of us. We're a lot like the family next door.

You know how it is. We put our name on a showroom and repair shop and pretty soon folks start thinking we're a showroom and repair shop. Actually, of course, we're people.

Often you see us at your lodge or club meetings. Maybe we're on a committee of your favorite charity. We do business with the same tax-collector as you do.

* * * *

If we feel like the family next door, why don't we get you a new Chevrolet? Is that what you're thinking? Well, suppose next time your wife runs next door to borrow some butter she finds that practically the whole neighborhood has been there borrowing too.

You can see why we feel like that neighbor. Although Chevrolet has delivered half a million more cars and trucks, since the war, than any other manufacturer—still more folks want Chevrolets.

Believe us, our concern over disappointing our friends is much greater than your neighbor's would be over the butter. That's why we're 100% behind Chevrolet's policy of delivering to the public as many cars as possible . . . at the lowest possible price.

It's also one of the reasons why we do such a fine servicing job on your present car so it will see you through till you get your new Chevrolet.

WE HOPE YOUR CAR IS GETTING OUR CHEVROLET SUPER SERVICE

Just standing on the curb waiting for traffic to pass, we see plenty of cars that wouldn't even be running if it weren't for our service. The owners tell us we're giving them thousands of extra miles they never hoped to get. We knew they'd get them.

Because, in our shop, Chevrolet super service means:

1. Factory-trained mechanics who are steady and competent.
2. Plenty of tools and the right kind of equipment to help them do good work fast.
3. A huge stock of genuine factory parts.
4. Established prices for parts, repairs and service.
5. All work guaranteed.
6. Liberal budget plan.
7. A friendly desire to give you more than you expect for your money.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT.

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Socialized Medicine

In that few human beings go from "cradle to grave" without somewhere along the line needing the help of doctors (to say nothing of nurses and hospitals), the Administration's compulsory health insurance proposal ought to be of deep concern to everybody. For it is certain to affect the lives of everybody.

Reasons for the bitterness which the measure has engendered are, first, the effort to jam it through by the sheer weight of the favoring forces; second, though the subject of the nation's health is the last that should be tainted with politics, the political saturation is too clear to miss. Back of the bill are the President, the labor bosses, the left-wing New Dealers, the professional liberals and a solid phalanx of commentators and columnists of the "bleeding-heart" variety. Against it are the great bulk of the doctors of the country and many thousands of laymen who regard this measure with abhorrence as a big step toward the socialization of medicine.

This fight for Federal control of medicine is not new. A similar bill failed in the last Congress. The reason the current proposal seems more formidable is that it was one of Mr. Truman's more grandiose campaign promises. Supporters of the measure contend that every person is entitled to adequate medical treatment at moderate cost; that those who cannot afford to pay have as much right to this as those who can; that there are too few doctors, nurses and hospitals; that many persons are unable to get medical attention at all and that thousands annually die as a result. They also allege that the American Medical Association is monopolistic and only the Federal Government can effectively deal with a bad situation.

Both friends and foes of socialized medicine agree that medical costs are a problem to the average family. They also agree that insurance is the best way out for most of us. But they split widely on the question of whether the Federal Government should make you buy health insurance or permit you to take it out of your own free will. The choice is between the compulsory and voluntary methods. Voluntary health insurance has now grown to a point where more than 40,000,000 carry hospital insurance; 17,000,000 have it for surgery and more than 6,000,000 for other medical benefits. The popular Blue Cross plans, sponsored by voluntary hospitals, have 30,000,000 members. Blue Shield medical care plans, sponsored by medical societies, have 7,500,000.

The A. M. A. has presented an alternative health program, based on the voluntary system, but providing for the creation of a Federal Department of Health, with Federal aid and direction of public-health activities of different kinds. Also, Senator Taft has a health bill of his own to avoid compulsory Federal insurance. Yet, notwithstanding these alternatives and the extraordinary expansion of voluntary insurance plans, the Administration insists on compulsory insurance with Federal control. Points which the doctors make against this include these: that far from improving the national health it would materially lower the quality of medical care; that it would rob patients of their free choice of doctors and impair the relationship between doctor and patient; that it would mean control of medicine by an enormous Federal bureaucracy, with a staggering burden of cost to taxpayers and wage earners; that the continued progress made by voluntary insurance plans ultimately will solve the problem; that the Administration bill is not fair, adequate, practical or financially sound; that the scheme is modeled on the frankly socialistic British system, which is as unsatisfactory to the patients as to the doctors; that under this bill the doctors would be hampered by governmental red tape and have so much paper work to do that they would, in effect, become enslaved clerks; that the bill promises far more than can possibly be delivered; that it would discourage research, kill initiative, abolish competition and lower the level of the whole medical profession.

One thing is certain—an overwhelming majority of the worker-doctors uncompromisingly opposed the working conditions and wage scale in the bill debated to a deadlock in the last Congress and an overwhelming majority is opposed to the present Murray-Wagner-Pepper measure. "It is," one doctor declared, "full of vague generalities, heavy and obscure legal lingo, double talk and cross references." Another refers to its cost as the "allotment of an unknown sum for an unpredictable purpose." A third describes it as "an attempt to mate the impossible with the unwanted." Administration politicians are keen for their bill on the ground that it is a great vote-getter. Certainly it opens up a new field for the demagogues. There is terrific appeal to the unthinking in the idea that everybody can get a doctor, a hospital bed and a nurse when he wants them—all free. That is the way the politicians will sell it, which makes it hard for timid congressmen to vote no. White House strategists profess confidence it will pass, but there is one good reason for doubt. The doctors all over the country are more stirred than ever before.

Moreover, they are doing something about it. Confronted with the choice of passively permitting what they believe to be a degradation of their profession and an injury to the people, or fighting, they have decided to fight. If all the doctors opposed to socialized medicine do all they can, the bill will be beaten, despite the politicians.

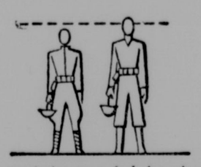
DODGE TO INTRODUCE NEW KIND OF CAR BUILT FOR TODAY'S BIGGER TALLER AMERICANS

Daring New Dodge establishes new trend . . . provides more head room, elbow room and leg room, at the same time decreasing outside dimensions. Extreme lines, uncomfortable seats and cramped interiors have no place in Dodge thinking.

"BODY-CRAMPING ROOF LINES MUST GO," said Dodge! Army physical exams revealed that our wartime generation was bigger, taller and more active. A car with more interior space—not less—is the goal Dodge engineers achieved.



Army statistics revealed that the G.I.'s of World War II averaged 1½" taller than the Doughboys of World War I. The same statistics showed they were also heavier and more active.

DODGE STARTED WITH A SPACIOUS INTERIOR—and practically built the rest of the car around it! Here is room to "roam around in"—plenty of room to let the human body take positions that are natural and therefore comfortable.

DODGE SAID "NO" TO THIS . . . repairing dented or torn fenders is sure to be costly when fenders are formed right into great masses of sheet metal. Now look below and see why Dodge owners don't have this worry.

TIRING? YES! Doctors agree that people can't go for long periods 'sitting on their spines' without becoming tired, irritable. Dodge did something about this, too!

AH-H! RELAXING! Dodge "knee level" seats, shown above, put the entire body in a natural position . . . with full leg support for restful, all-day comfort.

DOWN GO REPAIR COSTS! No costly-to-repair, massive sheet metal fender sections in new Dodge. Fender unit is bolted (not welded) to body; easily removed, repaired and even replaced, if necessary, at reasonable cost.

"'NECK-CRICKING' CONTOURS ARE ALREADY OLD-FASHIONED," says Dodge. How can today's bigger, taller Americans be comfortable in a car where it's even hard to lean back or sit up straight?

DODGE ROOMINESS IS ROOM ALL AROUND... The new Dodge, shorter, narrower and lower, gives you more elbow room . . . leg room . . . head room . . . that today's bigger Americans will WELCOME!

LOWER ON THE OUTSIDE . . . Higher on the Inside • SHORTER ON THE OUTSIDE . . . Longer on the Inside
NARROWER ON THE OUTSIDE . . . Wider on the Inside

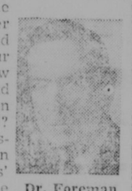
Ideal World

Lesson for February 27, 1949

ANY MAN with a revolutionary new idea has to try to explain it. Jesus was no exception. As a young teacher of religion, he had to answer the question which older teachers were bound to put to him: If your teaching is new, how can it be true? And if it is true, what can be new about it? This was a fair question. The Sermon on the Mount is Jesus' answer to it. The main theme of that sermon is the kingdom of God, an ancient phrase but with new meanings as Jesus used it. We can say "The Ideal World" and mean just the same thing.



Dr. Forcman

The Right People

JESUS EMPHASIZES, above all, the kind of people who belong to God's Ideal World. This would be surprising to some modern planners. Communists think that if you can once get a world in which every one has enough to eat and drink and wear, a world where nobody is poor (or everybody is as poor as everybody else, which is all the same thing), you will have the perfect world. Jesus would know this is nonsense. You do not get the perfect world by improving the soil, or the system of government, or the economic system; you do not get it by passing laws of any kind. This does not mean that such things are unimportant—far from it.

But the fact is that even after you got your perfect social system, with perfect politics and perfect distribution of wealth, even a perfect climate and soil, you would still be nowhere near the Ideal World unless you have improved your people.

Is This You

WHAT WE call the "beatitudes" (Matt. 5:7-12) is Jesus' eight-point program for the citizen of the Ideal World. The right people are happy people, to begin with. (The word translated "Blessed" is a regular Greek word for "happy.") But the main difference between different kinds of people is not that some want to be happy while others do not.

Jesus' ideal people are humble, not proud; they see their sins and are sorry for them; they are "meek"—that is, they are not in a hurry to demand their own rights; they do not merely admire goodness, they are positively hungry for it; they are merciful, not careless or cruel; they are pure in heart and not only in speech and act; they are not mere peace-wishers or peace-lovers (who isn't?) but peace-makers; they are people who are brave enough to do what is right.

Salt

DO YOU really want an ideal world? The best way to begin is to learn how to be a citizen of such a world. Jesus uses two interesting simple words to describe the kind of people he means. You are salt, he said,—you are light. Salt and light are old-fashioned things but they have never gone out of date.

So there is no substitute for a really good Christian. Living, here and now, like citizens of the ideal world to come, Christians are both salt and light.

Salt because they give a taste to otherwise flat or bitter life. Salt because they keep human society from going rotten.

* * *

Light

AND LIGHT! Like salt, light ought not to be too noticeable. A glaring light is bad on the eyes, as too much salt is bad on the tongue. So a Christian is not supposed to rub his goodness in on other people, so to speak. He is as indispensable as salt in bread—and should be as inconspicuous. But light, like salt, if it is any good has to be applied directly. A strong light concealed in a steel tube does no good. Swishing the glass end of the salt-cellar around in the soup gives it no flavor. The salt must get into the soup, the light must touch what we see.

So the Christian, God's ideal citizen-in-training, can do the world no good by running away from the world.

If a Christian is going to leave this world better than he found it, —even a little bit farther on toward the Ideal World,—he must come into touch with the world, not to imitate it but to change it.

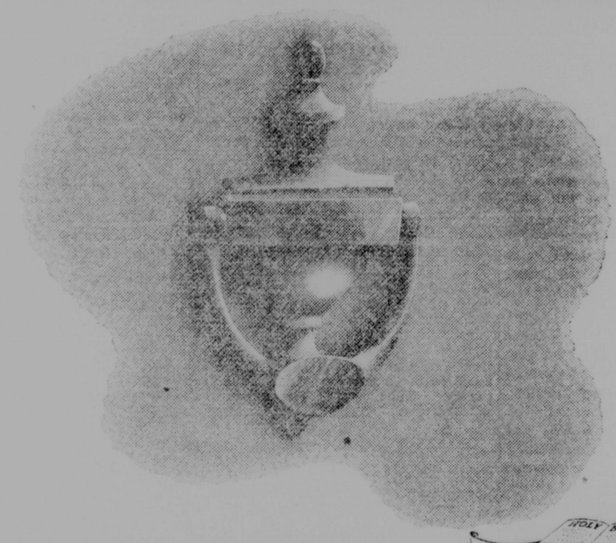
ASK...SEEK...KNOCK!



Everyone knows that success comes not to those who merely desire it, but to those who achieve it through long, hard work.

It is odd then, that in the spiritual area of life some people should expect blessings to come for the asking.

Those who really understand PRAYER know that it's more than mere asking. It is seeking. It is the hungry search for truth and moral enlightenment. . .digging for spiritual gold in the hills of life.

But PRAYER is something more even than seeking. It is knocking . . . meeting life's obstacles bravely . . . waiting with patient determination until closed doors open . . . entering portals that the more timid pass by.

We wouldn't really need churches if spiritual growth came for the asking. But we do need churches to help us seek the treasures of God. And through our churches, with the united strength of millions of Christians, we knock on the portals of the more abundant life—and there find it.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Proposal Is Made For "Freedom Award"

Recommends $4,000,000 Fund for Awards of $1,000 to $25,000 Each Annually for Basic Contributions to Freedom and Liberty

Speaking before the Rotary Club of Miami, Fla., last week, E. F. Hutton, former Chairman of the Board of General Foods Corporation, proposed a startling and forthright plan for defense of freedom and liberty.

Hutton proposed that an annual prize fund of $4,000,000, one hundred times larger than the Nobel Peace Prize, be permanently established to reward, in a competitive manner, the efforts of individuals in all walks of life in behalf of the basic rights and freedoms of American life. The awards would go to any citizen, whether worker, manager, teacher, preacher, congressman, businessman, student, whose contributions most effectively preserved the liberties, rights, freedoms and privileges of the people as expressed in the philosophy of the Constitution and Bill of Rights. Mr. Hutton recommended two hundred awards of from $1,000 to $25,000 each to be awarded on "Constitution Day" each year with awards for every state and territory.

Mr. Hutton proposed that every American be given opportunity to subscribe a dollar or more to "A Freedom Foundation"—and that all patriots with adequate income express their support by subscribing one dollar a day in the fight against the creeping death through socialism to communism.

Mr. Hutton declared that "No documents written by mortal man are as important to civilization as our Constitution and Bill of Rights. The purpose of my proposal is to defend and extend our cherished philosophy of freedom and liberty given us, if we keep it, by our Constitution and Bill of Rights."

Mr. Hutton also proposed that every business in this country should increase its advertising appropriation by 1 percent to carry out General Dwight D. Eisenhower's suggestion, made in New York to the Association of National Advertisers and the American Association of Advertising Agencies on October 27, 1948, that "If business is going to continue to sell through the decades, it must also promote an understanding of what made those products possible, what is necessary to a free market, and what our free market means to the individual liberty of each of us, to be certain that the freedoms under which this nation was born and brought to this point shall endure in the future . . . for America is the product of our freedoms."

Mr. Hutton said that the Yankee Doodle Communists—those who profess to be true Americans but advance socialistic ideas to destroy freedom, liberty and personal responsibility, will object to such proposals. But every objector will be putting himself squarely in the limelight as opposed to constitutional law, opposed to defense of the freedom philosophy of the Constitution and Bill of Rights, and in favor of scrapping Americanism for a socialistic government designed to rule, not serve our people.

As part of the plan, a non-partisan and non-sectarian awards jury could be drawn from officials of patriotic societies and from state supreme court jurists to select the annual recipients of the "Freedom Awards."

Mr. Hutton emphasized that liberty has been defeated in a score of nations, and that faith has been scorned, hope has been abandoned and treachery has been rewarded as fear has spread all over the world. Personal responsibility, freedom and liberty are just and possible. Hope need not die, but a great dramatic event is needed to lend tangible support to the people whose faith is sorely tried by current attacks on freedom.

These awards will provide such a needed and dramatic inspiration to put all Americans in competition to undergird our constitutional human values as free men and women, to rise to full dignity and happiness. As our great elder statesman, Herbert Hoover, has said, "It is those moral and spiritual qualities which rise alone in free men, which will fulfill the meaning of the word American. And with them will come centuries of further greatness to our country."

Although Mr. Hutton revealed his plan in terms of a proposal only, he indicated that steps were already under way among a widespread group of people from all walks of life to make it a reality.

Safety – With A Capital "S"

Seven times in the past 10 years—the last five years in a row—Monongahela Power Company has won top honors among affiliated electric power companies for having the best accident prevention and reduction record. The other competitors are West Penn Power Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Potomac Edison Company of Hagerstown, Md. Until two years ago a fourth company, American Water Works, was also in the contest.

Shown in the picture are H. O. Sprinkle, right, manager of Monongahela's Operations department, holding the trophy which was won in 1947 and 1948, and P. M. Bower, safety director, holding the trophy won in 1944-45-46. A win again this year for Monongahela will give it permanent possession of the silver "wild horse."

With 2,046 employes participating in the contest, the company had only 34 lost-time accidents last year, a record much better than the national average for electric power companies. Bower announced the standings.

Dodge Showing Is Scheduled Friday

The first models of the new styled Dodge cars will be publicly displayed at the Ralph Pritts garage, Liberty street, Oakland, on Friday, February 25, it has been announced. An open house is being planned.

C. A. Phillips, manager of the garage, has returned from Pittsburgh, Pa., where he attended a dealer preview. He was accompanied by Charles A. Wilt, bookkeeper; Walter H. Teets, parts manager; and Harland Ridder, of the Ridder Motor company, Keyser, W. Va.

According to the three men the car has an entirely new and distinctive styling, with more passenger room while reducing exterior dimensions to eliminate difficulties of handling in traffic, parking and garaging.

One of three volcanoes on the north island of New Zealand is now active.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 73. OAKLAND'S HUNDREDTH YEAR THE REPUBLICAN'S SEVENTY-THIRD OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., MARCH 3, 1949. NUMBER 1.

We're Being Coddled . . .

Old man weather this past winter lulled us into a sense of security. Having eased us through December, January and February, we had become accustomed to shirt sleeves, open coats. We were pleased. Spring was surely due early this year. No frozen hands while struggling with chains. No zero blasts to filter through the cracks. Yes, we were fortunate. But we had just become softened for the blow. The blow struck Monday. Sunday it was spring. Monday brought savage winds and a cold wave that lowered the thermometer to eight above zero. We had always voiced the opinion that with the end of February there might be blustery weather but not zero. How wrong we were.

Somehow this sudden striking of winter and its effect upon us has a parallel.

We are being coddled by the government of this nation to a degree that is dangerous. And the legislators seem to be just beginning. They promise each individual security from the cradle to the grave, with sustenance without effort. Ever since the New Deal we have been softened with beliefs artfully imbedded within us to expect something for nothing. It's a great life. Let someone else pay for it. The government owes us a living. Let government take over our worries, its leaders know what is best for us. Let them build our houses, run our schools, tell us what to spend our money for. When we have been thus coddled and lulled to a certain point, make no mistake about it—the storm is going to strike. And the storm will be of such force that our democratic way of life will never stand up under it.

We've got to get out of the habit of being on the receiving end of government. Not just this community, not just Garrett countians, but everywhere and everybody. The clouds of socialism and communism have been gathering too long. If we wait until the storm strikes, it will be too late.

Centennial Honor Group Limited To Those 75 or Over

Limiting the age at which a resident of Oakland would be entitled to honorary membership of the Oakland Centennial commission, Inc., and appointment of a committee to select the members, were two items of business at the regular meeting of the Central committee on Monday evening.

That no person would be accepted for honorary membership under 75 years of age was unanimously passed by the committee and the committee to select the members includes A. D. Naylor, chairman; Mrs. B. H. Sincell, Mrs. C. F. White, Robert Townshend, J. M. Falkenstein and Mrs. Edward I. West.

Previously a tentative list had been tabulated for publication which is now being revised, as there were a number on that list who would not qualify as to the age limit.

Pledges Mounting

The number of pledges to the working fund has increased to sixty-three at $100 each, it was announced by B. I. Gonder, chairman of the finance committee. The progress of the campaign to reach $10,000 can be noted by barometers placed in the Garrett National Bank, First National Bank and the City Hall. The barometers were designed by Lowell Loomis, a member of the Finance committee.

Apply for Charter

Application for a charter of incorporation was made yesterday, according to Joseph Hinebaugh, mayor. The incorporation papers were prepared by Lewis R. Jones and Walter W. Dawson, and will be under the name of "Oakland Centennial Commission, Inc."

Members of the Publicity Committee, Veterans' committee and Historical committee met with the general committee. Definite dates for the various days are to be set very soon, Mr. Hinebaugh said. Work will be started soon in completing historical material and illustrations, to be used in the program. At least 5,000 programs are to be printed.

The Publicity committee announced that the Oakland Elementary school had turned over 25 or more entries to the poster contest which closed March 1, while the high school students had created about 20. Judging of these posters is to be done soon and a prize of $5.00 awarded to the winner in each school.

The name of Mrs. Vernie Smouse was added to the Historical committee, and Mr. Hinebaugh said that Mrs. Willard Elliott was at present acting as the central committee's secretary.

The Central committee will meet again March 11, at 7:30 p. m., at the City Hall.

Kelly Gets 31 Points But Oakland Loses

Harland Kelly, Oakland center, scored 12 field goals and a total of 31 points at Aurora, W. Va., last Friday night but the Highlanders lost to Aurora High school 61 to 51.

D. Bolyard accounted for 20 points for the victors. Aurora held a 26-21 lead at halftime.

Others scoring for Oakland were Baker 4, Kahl 7, Fauber 6 and Warren 3. Others scoring for Aurora were Hardesty 14, H. Beckman 11, Harsh 2, Sisler 10 and Ross 4.

It's the Same Thing Only Different!

Frank B. Robbins, Jr., army and army air force recruiter, has sprouted a new insignia, but he isn't too excited about it. It doesn't mean a promotion, just the same rank under a different name.

Formerly a master sergeant, he is now a senior air sergeant. He now wears inverted type chevrons of silver grey on dark blue. His air insignia also has a circle around it.

It is all due to recent changes in army regulations which have given the men of the army air force a recognition all their own. In the air corps one is no longer a Technical sergeant, but an air sergeant first class. An airman first class corresponds to sergeant, airman second class to corporal, airman third class to army private first class, and airman 4th class to private.

The senior air sergeant announced two enlistments for the week: Floyd N. Rowan, Mt. Lake Park, re-enlisted for three years with the air force and will be sent to Langley Field, Va., for reassignment; and Alvin P. Shreve, of Gormania, enlisted for one year in the air force. He will be sent to Lackland air force base in Texas.

Bruce High Trips Oakland 72 to 43

Bruce High school put on a one-man show last night as Don Moran paced mates to a 72-43 victory over Oakland High at Westernport, with a total of 35 points on 12 field goals and 11 of 15 free throws.

Bruce High won the opening game of the series 47-27.

Oakland gave Bruce a battle for the first period but faded out of the picture. Kelly topped the losers with 23 points.

Oakland Jayvees tripped Bruce's Jayvees 18-17 in the preliminary. Others scoring for Oakland were Baker 2, Kahl 6, Fauber 10 and Warren 2.

Solicitors Begin Drive For $2,300 as Red Cross Goal

Almost two hundred solicitors began a house to house canvass this week throughout Garrett county in the annual Red Cross drive for funds. They will seek to raise $2,300, which is the county's quota, according to a report from Mrs. Paul B. Naylor, roll call chairman. Of this amount $683 would be sent to National headquarters, the balance remaining in the county.

A more detailed report of one of the county activities as the result of Red Cross funds, was given this week by Bruce Jenkins, a member of the county Red Cross committee.

During the past summer the county chapter sponsored a "learn to swim" program for the boys and girls of every community in the county. Two qualified instructors, Herbert Leighton and Miss Rita Bittle, were provided to teach over 250 boys and girls the fundamentals of swimming over a period of six weeks, giving to each group a minimum of twelve lessons.

At the conclusion of the program, Mr. Jenkins said over 75 passed the requirements for a beginner swimmer.

A recent survey of state schools shows that many more children in the cities are able to swim than in rural areas. The local chapter, he said, is appreciative of the help in this program and is hoping that it can be continue.

Contributions to the drive will assure this project, he said.

Maust Herd Is High Producer for Month

The herd of Galen and Ada P. Maust was highest among the herds of the Improvement Association No. 1 for the month of January, it was announced by Joseph A. Lewis, secretary. The herd of 26 cows produced 14,611 pounds of milk for 811.9 pounds of butterfat, an average of 562 pounds of milk per cow and an average per cow of 31.2 pounds of butterfat.

Other high herds of the month were those of Crist Yoder, with 31 cows; Raymond Tice, with 10, C. O. Miller with 9, and Sherman Beachy with 10. Yoder's 31 cows produced 24,430 pounds of milk, with an average of 788 pounds per cow, but only 29.3 average for butterfat content.

The other twenty high producing cows were owned by Lawrence Beitzel 3, Paul Kinsinger 1, C. O. Miller 2, H. C. Yommer 1; Sherman Beachy 1; Eli Yoder 2, Allen Maust 3, Dorsey Guard 2, Crist Yoder 2, Jonas Tice 1, Marvin E. Beitzel 1.

Full of Ambition

One particular White Rock chicken owned by Mrs. Heyward Custer, of Swanton, was full of ambition one day last week, and as a result Mrs. Custer is now exhibiting that hen's product.

It measured 7½ inches around the short way, 9½ inches around the long way, and weighed exactly 7 ounces.

A Real Point Getter

A real point getter is Harland Kelly, Oakland High school center, now playing his second year for the Highlanders. Kelly added 23 points in last night's game against Bruce High school to bring his total for the year to 328, a new record. He scored 31 points against Aurora. Kelly had never played basketball to amount to anything until last year, but those who see him play admit that he's certainly making up for lost time.

Light Plane Forced Down in Corn Field

A light army plane was forced down in a corn field on the farm of Paul Harvey, near White church, last Friday afternoon, about 2:30 o'clock. The landing was made safely.

According to nearby farmers the pilot was lost in the fog and descended to get his bearings. He notified army officials and also his wife, who resides at Morgantown, W. Va., the latter coming to the county to get him.

Due to weather conditions the plane is still grounded.

An increase of $1,300 over any previous campaign, was reported yesterday in the recent March of Dimes campaign, by Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, county chairman. He said receipts from thirteen communities had totaled $3,661.22 and he listed them as follows:

The chairman said expenses had amounted to $153.73. He promised a breakdown of the figures by next week with specific amounts of some of the larger contributions. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the result and compared the advancement made since 1939 when a total of $200 was collected for the entire campaign.

Millionth Prescription Filled

The millionth prescription passed over the counter of the Sturgiss Pharmacy yesterday afternoon, marking a unique experience for the present owner, William A. Sturgiss.

The No. 1 prescription is no longer available, it having been filled somewhere around 1870 when Mr. Sturgiss' father, A. G. Sturgiss, was in business. That was even before he called it a drug store, according to the present owner, who officially became a pharmacist on May 15, 1896.

Mr. Sturgiss went back in his files and uncovered prescription No. 50, which was one made out by Dr. J. Lee McComas.

"Heartbroken" Makes Winchell's Column

"Heartbroken," the new song which Emeric Dusic, of Oakland, and Paul Monda, of Thomas, wrote together, which was broadcast for the first time on Saturday evening, caught the fancy of Walter Winchell, New York columnist, who wrote in his syndicated release last Sunday, "Lorry Raine has a potential 'near you' called 'Heartbroken' which the disc-jox will go for." This recognition by the columnist is calculated to enhance the song's possibilities.

Bea Boldan and the Don Large chorus and orchestra's version of the song was premiered last Saturday over the Columbia Broadcasting system and was heard by a large number of people in this area.

Dusic said his telephone was busy for several hours afterwards by congratulatory messages from local people and calls from friends in Pittsburgh, Uniontown, Altoona, Cumberland, Baltimore and Thomas.

The concensus of opinion of those who heard the program was that the song should attain wide popularity once it reaches the juke boxes and disc-jockey programs.

The song was played on Friday evening at the Rotary Ladies' Night by the Havanas sisters, and Pittsburgh disc-jox are already beginning to push the song.

Indictment of Blair Robinett Being Sought

Prosecuting Attorney John V. Sanders, Morgantown, W. Va., moved yesterday to indict ex-army Sgt. Blair Robinett, Oakland, on a charge of "false swearing" as the result of his unsuccessful annulment suit against his Filipino wife.

The annulment had been set aside in a Morgantown court last month after Robinett's claim he had never married Jesusita Torres Y Cordero was disproved.

Sanders said he would ask an indictment against Robinett at the April term of the grand jury. He explained that according to West Virginia law, perjury is an act of lying under oath while giving material testimony in a felony case. This carries a penalty of one to ten years.

"False swearing", Sanders said, is an act of lying under oath in all other cases and carries a maximum fine of $10,000 and up to one year in jail.

Observers of the trial said that it appears the state will attempt to pin its case on Robinett's home address claim. The soldier had listed his home address as Morgantown but testimony showed he had visited there briefly at the address claimed, only once or twice.

Waiting to Hear His Song

—Republican Staff Photo and Engraving

Rotarian Emeric Dusic and his wife were among those attending the local club's annual Ladies' Night last Friday at the William-James hotel. Dusic was waiting expectantly at the time this picture was taken for the Havanas Sisters to play his song "Heartbroken" which was a part of their musical presentation.

JUVENILE COURT BILL FOR COUNTY IS INTRODUCED

Act Would Confer Jurisdiction on Trial Magistrates—Fraley Gives Reasons for Bill

A senate bill to create a Juvenile Court for Garrett County and setting out the jurisdiction of the court, was introduced this week in the Maryland Legislature by Senator Neil C. Fraley.

This act does not set up a new office, Mr. Fraley pointed out, but confers jurisdiction on the Trial Magistrates and the bill sets out in detail what their jurisdiction would be, something which he says is not now in the law.

He also pointed out that at present the county is exempt from the General Law wherein jurisdiction is given to the Circuit Court judges.

Some of the regulations in the bill contain the following:

Trial Magistrates in exercise of their powers shall sit specially at such times and places within the county as may be necessary for proper discharge of such duties, but no additional compensation shall be allowed therefor.

The trial magistrates would have jurisdiction in proceedings concerning any child in the county who is without proper supervision, care or custody; whose occupation, behavior, environment or associations are injurious to his welfare; who deserts his home or who is habitually disobedient or beyond the control of his parent or other custodian; who wilfully and unlawfully absents himself from school; who violates any law or ordinance, or who commits any act which, if committed by an adult, would be a crime, not punishable by death or life imprisonment.

This section would include manslaughter by automobile, unauthorized use or occupancy of a motor vehicle, or operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors or drugs, but no other motor vehicle laws.

The magistrates, under the bill, could try parents, guardian or other adult for any wilful act or ommission contributing to, encouraging or tending to cause any condition bringing a child within the jurisdiction of the court, and would be empowered to commit a mentally defective child.

Intent of Bill Declared

The intent of the bill, according to section 245C is "to secure for each child coming within the jurisdiction of the Judge such care, guidance and control, preferably in his own home, as will best serve the child's welfare and the interests of the State; to conserve and strengthen the child's family ties whenever possible, removing him from custody of his parents only when his welfare or the safety and protection of the public cannot otherwise adequately be safeguarded.

The judge is empowered to have the County Welfare board make a preliminary investigation to determine whether the interests of the child or of the public require that further action be taken.

Cub Activities Get Underway This Week

Activities in Cub pack No. 31, of Oakland, got under way this week with meetings at the homes of the "den" mothers.

Rev. Austin F. Schildwachter, cubmaster, said he had secured the help of Fred Bell, Jr., as assistant cubmaster. Den mothers include Mrs. Robert Ruckert, Mrs. Arthur Savage, Mrs. Bruce Jenkins and Mrs. W. W. Nace, while the respective den chiefs are Roland Schoch, Wayne Graham, Robert Ryan and John Hanst. The four latter are regular members of the Oakland Boy Scout troop.

The pack committee includes Robert Ruckert, Arthur Savage, Bruce Jenkins and W. W. Nace.

Den meetings are to be held once each week after school hours, while all cubs get together for a pack meeting on the 4th Monday of each month at 7:30. Rev. Schildwachter said the groups would study Indian lore for the month of March. There are twenty-five or more boys from 9 to 12 years of age in the pack. The application for a charter is to be made immediately, Rev. Schildwachter said.

Valve-in-Head—and Fireball too!

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

It seems that valve-in-head engine design is becoming quite the thing, now that gasolines are stepping up in octane rating and higher compression ratios begin to be worth while.

Well, that's dandy as far as Buick is concerned.

For more than forty-five years, Buick engineers have been working with, developing and learning all about valve-in-head engine design.

So quite some time ago Buick applied a principle, possible only in valve-in-head design, which still remains a Buick exclusive.

It is Fireball design—and it's an interesting engineering story.

It comes from a specially shaped piston, designed to roll each fuel charge into a compact, whirling, ball-shaped mass. It goes a step beyond high-compression ratios, because it means better mixing of fuel—and so better burning.

Result: More good from each fuel charge. A touch more life, pep, ginger. More of that happy, satisfying feel of power and zip that give Buick its good name as a performer.

So remember, as more and more cars climb on the valve-in-head bandwagon, that Buick is still calling the tune. Still ahead in knowledge and experience and development of a principle that has always been recognized for its greater basic efficiency.

With self-setting valve lifters adding new quiet and washing out tappet noise, it's plain that "Buick's the buy!" on engine design as in other ways.

Come satisfy yourself on that score—and get a firm order in either with or without a car to trade.

BUICK alone has all these features

Silk-smooth DYNAFLOW DRIVE* • FULL-VIEW VISION from enlarged glass area • SWING-EASY DOORS and easy access • "LIVING SPACE" INTERIORS with Deep-Cradle cushions Buoyant-riding QUADRUFLEX COIL SPRINGING • Lively FIREBALL STRAIGHT-EIGHT POWER with SELF-SETTING VALVE LIFTERS plus HI-POISED ENGINE MOUNTINGS • Cruiser-Line VENTIPORTS Low-pressure tires on SAFETY-RIDE RIMS DUREX BEARINGS, main and connecting rods BODY BY FISHER.

Receiving guests at the reception which followed at the Waldo hotel, Mrs. Heitz was dressed in navy blue crepe and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Stanley, in a light blue frock. They wore pink accessories and corsages of pink rosebuds.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Wade H. Hinebaugh, of Oakland, and Mrs. Hinebaugh, now of Kingwood, W. Va. Both bride and groom are graduates of Washington Irving High school, Clarksburg. She had been employed in the offices of the Delaware gas company. The groom, who served thirty-two months in the army in the CBI theatre, was graduated from West Virginia university last January and now holds a position with the Palace Furniture company in Clarksburg. He is affiliated with Phi Sigma Kappa social fraternity and Alpha Kappa Psi, national business fraternity.

Among those attending the ceremony were Rev. Felix G. Robinson, Arthurdale, W. Va.; Mrs. Wade H. Hinebaugh, Miss Cindy Koch, Frederick Koch, Sr., and Frederick Koch, Jr., of Kingwood.

Eastern Star Observes Silver Anniversary Event

Oakland chapter, No. 67, Order of Eastern Star, observed its silver anniversary with a special meeting on Tuesday evening in the Masonic hall and clubroom.

The local group was sponsored twenty-five years ago by Bethlehem chapter No. 12, of Westernport, and members of that group participated in the program. They included Mrs. Homer Ferrell, Grand Adah, and Mrs. Carmel Kight, present worthy matron of the Westernport chapter. Mrs. Marguerite McIntyre, Westernport, one of the officers who helped to install the chapter, was also present and spoke briefly. Others who spoke were Mrs. Arthur Umstot, of Westernport; Mrs. Gordon Mealy and Mrs. Harold H. Harned, the latter two reminiscing about the beginning of the lodge.

Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Lewis R. Jones, present worthy matron. Each officer wore a silver orchid and each guest was presented with the same. The silver motif was carried out in the decorations in the lodge and in the dining room. The anniversary cake was in the form of a star. During the refreshment hour Mrs. Carl Stone, and Mrs. Thomas Currie poured coffee and tea, both of them past matrons.

Voting Machine Bill Approved by Senators

After exempting seven counties, including Garrett county, the Senate Elections committee voted a favorable report on a bill which would require state-wide use of voting machines.

In the case of exempted counties the local authorities would be authorized to use such machines but would not be required to do so.

These counties are Calvert, Dorchester, Allegany, Garrett, Wicomico, Washington and Queen Annes. Other counties may be exempted before the bill is passed.

In addition to Baltimore City, voting machines are already in use in Montgomery, Anne Arundel and Howard counties.

NO LAUGHING MATTER

These stories coming to us from across the Atlantic may cause some people to smile:

The London Daily Telegraph carried this story: "A sample of 'savory sausage' tested by the Essex County Council analyst was found to contain 50 percent meat, more than is permitted by the Ministry of Food Regulations. The manufacturer has been warned."

From the Russian zone in Germany comes this tale: A German miner, working for the Russians, recently exceeded his day's coal production quota by 380 percent. The Russians are using the incident to try to get more production out of their German workers. However, the chief product has been a whole series of jokes in which the energetic miner figures, none of them very funny judged by American standards. Now the Russians say anyone who tells another joke about the record-breaking miner goes to jail for three months.

Sure, but that's overseas, we say.

But here in America we read of things which cause us to wonder if our own government officials have not caught the totalitarian infection.

The Pittsburgh Press reports that Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has declared that it may be necessary for the government to start discouraging the construction of single-family houses. He told a senate committee that apartments can be built faster and with less material than the same number of single family homes. Therefore he suggested that credit terms be tightened and insurance requirements raised to discourage Americans who want to build their own homes.

Where will government planning end? To what will it lead?

It is certain that government planning can succeed only if the people fall in line. If people object, and want to go ahead according to their own way of thinking, then the government must bring them into line by calling the cops.

Even in England, where many people would resent any implication that their freedom has been curtailed, a former high government official has, in effect, said this:

Although the heads of the British government are moral men who believe sincerely in liberty, the economic controls which they have chosen will in the course of time, whether they desire it or not, destroy individual freedom.

Maybe things won't go that way here. But that's the way things went in Germany and Italy before the war. That's the way things went in Russia.

In those countries, government planners promised the people prosperity, security and freedom. Instead they gave them slavery.

That's the way it was here this week. One day, thoughts of spring; the next day, old man winter in all his windy glory.

Monday's storm brought about three inches of snow to Garrett county but the wind whipped this about in such a manner as to close some of the secondary roads, especially in the North Glade section. The thermometer dipped to 8 above zero on Tuesday morning and hardly got above the freezing mark the entire day. The government station at Weber's recorded a high of 56 degrees on the 24th.

A "Sure Bet" For Corn Producers

Maryland corn producers looking for a "sure bet" now have their answer. Five years' tests show that 200 pounds of 3-12-6 fertilizer applied with the fertilizer attachment on a modern corn planter is practically a "sure bet". Research workers at the state's agricultural experiment station report that this application gave higher returns for the fertilizer invested than any other practice.

Growers seeking maximum yields or having a soil low in nutrients can make good use of a fairly liberal application of a complete fertilizer plowed under ahead of planting time. This may not be profitable on soils which are already in a high state of fertility, the researchers say.

If the crop is planted in sandy soil low in nitrogen, a side dressing of nitrogen may be very beneficial. It is not generally economical on more fertile soils.

10,000 Plants Per Acre

Planting rates thicker than 10,000 plants per acre should be used cautiously. Results of these tests have varied with season and soil. Thicker planting should be used only on a fertile soil.

A Papec will reduce your feed costs, give your stock better rations and make your home-grown feeds go further! Grinds small grains, ear corn, snapped corn, hay and fodder all equally well. Labor Bill Facts

As, certainly, only a small minority of the members of House and Senate have themselves read either the Taft-Hartley Act or the substitute which the Truman Administration seeks to force through Congress, it, of course, is too much to expect the average citizen to grasp details of this issue or discern clearly the facts behind the multitudinous arguments and allegations on both sides.

However, it is not too much to expect them to understand the more unconcealed and basic things which protrude and concerning which there is little dispute. The first of these is that the real force behind the drive to repeal are the CIO bosses and their publicity agencies. Of course, the AFL is also for repeal, but from the start of the fight last session it has played second fiddle to the CIO. It is from the latter that the pressure on the President chiefly comes, the political threats emanate and the propaganda flows. In brief, though the AFL, the United Mine Workers and the Railroad Brotherhood leadership occupy the same position, primarily this is a CIO fight. One reason is that CIO relations with the White House are closer, and their Truman support in the election was more active and solid.

A second unconcealed and basic thing is that the anti-Taft-Hartley propaganda is so vastly greater than the pro-Taft-Hartley propaganda that there just is no comparison. Most of the former has been—and is being—manufactured by the CIO. In violence, in volume, and in cost it has exceeded all previous propaganda—on any proposition in our peacetime history. It also has broken all records for reckless statements and unrestrained misrepresentation. This is a provable and not often disputed fact—except, of course, by the CIO publicists. Literally, millions of dollars have been spent by the combined labor unions on anti-Taft-Hartley publicity—but more by the CIO than all the others.

A third unconcealed and basic thing is that in their fight to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act, its opponents make almost no show of concern for the public interests. The labor bosses frankly ignore them. Avowedly, their concern is exclusively for the labor unions, which means themselves. They do not pretend to be concerned about anything else. As for the Administration, its pretense of protecting the public interests against the unrestricted labor-boss power to economically strangle the nation is so flimsy as to be wholly negligible. Certainly, a far more robust pretense would be obliterated by the unadulterated Administration acceptance and support of the CIO propaganda.

This has been true from the start. Perhaps, the most significant evidence was in Mr. Truman's veto message last year in which he used not only the arguments of Mr. Lee Pressman assailing the Taft-Hartley bill but much of his actual language. It will be recalled that at that time Mr. Pressman was general counsel of the CIO. Months ago he was ousted from the organization because of his Communist affiliations and learnings. Subsequently, he became one of Mr. Wallace's campaign managers. Since the election, neither Mr. Truman, nor his Secretary of Labor, Mr. Maurice Tobin, or his Attorney General, Mr. Clark, have done more than wave a feeble hand in the direction of the public interests. All of their hearty gestures have been for the labor bosses whose views are fully reflected in the Administration proposals and whose influence is dominant in the White House.

A fourth and unconcealed and basic fact is that the Administration attitude is so clearly political as to leave little room for any fair consideration of the merits of the legislation and almost none for the people of the United States outside the unions. The claim of the CIO and the other labor factions is that Mr. Truman could not possibly have been elected but for them. Mr. Truman and his aides have fully accepted that claim. During the campaign Mr. Truman joined with them in denouncing the Taft-Hartley Act as a monstrous and evil thing. Thus committed up to his neck, after his election there was nothing for Mr. Truman to do save follow the CIO lead in the effort to wipe Taft-Hartley off the books. And that is what he is doing despite the fact that a majority of the members of his own party in the last Congress voted to put it on.

Even the most virulent CIO propagandists will find it hard successfully to contradict these statements. There is not one but can be proved to the hilt. To be sure, there is in them no discussion of the merits either of the T.-H. Act or of the Administration proposals. But once their truth is admitted—as it must be by fair-minded men—there can be little doubt as to which is the meritorious side. The outstanding thing to keep in mind is that having regained their White House influence through Mr. Truman's election, and having their political indispensability fully accepted by him and his strategists, this is a fight by the labor bosses to achieve unrestricted power and complete legal immunity. If they win, they will, for a while, dominate the country. In the end, however, it will react against the whole labor movement, because unrestricted power is always abused and abuse of power brings its own punishment. Meanwhile, the interests of the people and of the nation, deeply involved in this situation, are in a secondary position.

Farm Price Drop Analyzed

Farmers, along with the rest of the nation, are trying to guess the meaning of the falling prices of the last few months. They remember that the price decline in early 1948 was short-lived. However, a second break in farm prices began last August when record crop production became assured. At the present time, the prices received by farmers are about 11 per cent below last July.

Agricultural economists at the University of Maryland have this to say, "The mid-winter break in prices last year was followed by a third round of wage increases, a reduction in income taxes, and larger government outlays for defense and foreign aid. These resulted in a price climb and almost complete recovery by mid-July."

However, in discussing the present decline, they say, "Another upsurge in economic activity similar to last year, does not appear likely." But they emphasize that the outlook does not indicate a severe decline. "We have many props to business and agriculture that did not exist in previous boom periods," they state.

Their prediction is "If 1949 is another year of high farm production, a further downward pressure on farm prices can be expected during the the last half of the year.

"There is every indication of another bumper wheat crop. Prospects also are for large acreages of feed grains. In view of all these factors, farm income in 1949 will not be as favorable as last year. The decline in net income will be even greater than in the gross because farm costs are not expected to drop much."

Their recommendation is, "Do everything possible to lower costs of production."

County Agent Advises

County Agent, John Carter, says more efficiency in every farm enterprise is the method producers can follow to most assure higher profits as prices go down. Check production records, set a minimum production per unit for each enterprise which would leave you a net profit and eliminate any farm unit or portion thereof that falls below your minimum standard.

Cost records show that dairy cows producing 200 pounds butter fat only pay the producer 15 cents per hour. No one can afford to work for 15 cents per hour, however, there are many cows in the county producing 200 pounds or less of butter fat. Check your income from each enterprise. Production records are a "must" for farm analysis.

When the papers were undelivered and he did not show up at school the principal conducted a search through the town. The Thomas department was called toward evening. The search was halted about 10 p. m., when a phone call from his grandmother said the boy was with her.

Hot Water Heaters For Dairymen Discussed

Increased use of hot water in the dairy barn is causing many dairymen to ask what size and type of water heater should be purchased. A. V. Krewatch, agricultural engineer of the Maryland Extension Service, has prepared a chart to guide dairymen confronted with this problem.

He explains that there two general types of heaters in addition to the steam boilers which many farmers have. One is the "non-pressure" type while the other is the "pressure" system. Farmers needing only 5 to 10 gallons of hot water per day in the dairy barn will get satisfactory service from the non-pressure type. These are relatively inexpensive and easy to install.

Dairymen needing more than 10 gallons of hot water per day, needing hot water under pressure, or needing to draw hot water at frequent intervals, will find the pressure system more satisfactory, Mr. Krewatch states.

Estimating Needs

The chart prepared by the engineer shows that about one-half gallon of 150 degree water is need for each calf at each feeding. A gallon is needed for the average person at each washing, and a bucket of 135 degree water is needed for each 5 cows in preparing for milking and stimulating milk letdown. Other needs, such as for the veterinarian, artificial breeding technician, and D.H.I.A. supervisor, can be estimated and added to the daily requirement. The estimated total is the size of heater required under average conditions.

County agents in each county have been supplied with a copy of the chart and can help guide interested dairymen.

Sang Run, Md., Feb. 26, 1949.
Editor Republican:

In recent issues of your newspaper I have read several letters about the care of our cemeteries, which reminds me of a long letter written by Samuel Allen telling of his journey thru this county in 1796 over the Braddock Road, and the death and burial of his little son below Keyser's Ridge. The letter was republished in The Glades Star of October 2, 1941, with the following comment:

The ashes of Prentice Allen lie in the old orchard at the Bear Camp (Gen Braddock's Sixth Camp, now Louis Spiker's place) where also rest Judge Simkins and his kind wife, "where he had buried several strangers." Here Col. George Washington was detained by illness in 1755, and here many of Braddock's soldiers died. Should we not mark the Bear Camp grave yard? A decent monument for our first Judge and just a little stone for Prentice Allen.

When I visited the old historic Bear Camp several years ago the owner of the property was plowing up the graveyard for a potato patch; the few tombstones were set aside under a tree. Nothing has since been done to mark this historic spot. The County Historical Society should be interested. F. E. Rathbun is president of the society and Harvey Gortner is the settlement representative.

Relatives Learn of Murder of Chester Kimmell In Illinois

Relatives in this area were informed last week of the murder of Chester Kimmell, 40, of Palestine, Ill., which took place on Saturday night, February 19, about 11 o'clock.

Investigation showed he had been hit over the top of the head with a blunt instrument that fractured his skull on the right side extending to his ear. The injury paralyzed him from the neck down.

The slain man was an oil scout for the Sohio Oil company, of Evansville, Ind.

It was at first believed that Kimmell had either suffered a cerebral hemorrhage or had become sick and fallen from his car seven miles south of Palestine, where his unconscious form was found lying on the pavement by a nearby farmer. Examination revealed however that the fracture could have only been inflicted by some blunt instrument. Kimmell was taken to a clinic at Palestine where his death occurred.

Kimmell's pocketbook was found inside his inside coat pocket unzipped and without any funds. However, at the hospital $26 in cash was found in one of his pockets. His wife said her husband ordinarily kept his money in his billfold.

Investigation is centering around Evansville where Kimmell was last seen, and at Olney, Ill., where he had contacted a law firm in regard to an oil override which he had offered to sell, half-interest. The override was understood to have been worth possible $1,000.

Kimmell is survived by his wife, two sons and a daughter; also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Kimmell, of Bluffton, Indiana. His father is a retired superintendent of the Mellon Oil and Gas company.

T. A. Kimmell, of Mt. Lake Park, is an uncle, while Mrs. Henry Myers and Mrs. P. H. Hamill, of Oakland, are aunts of the murdered man. Deceased had visited relatives in this county upon several occasions.

Better Care For Small Forest Holdings Urged

A bill aimed at improvement of the forest resources of the nation is now under consideration by a congressional committee. Testifying before the committee, Dr. T. B. Symons, Dean and Director of the Maryland Extension Service, pointed out that 3½ million farmers own a considerable share of this country's forest lands. About 86 per cent of their holdings are in tracts of less than 100 acres.

These small holdings are of immediate concern, according to Dr. Symons, because almost three-quarters of them are being managed without provision for future crops of timber. He stressed that our timber needs of the future must be met by growing trees as a crop on the cut-over forest land and on other land best suited to tree production.

Farm Income Affected

He pointed out that selective cutting and better management can not only improve the forests but can add considerably to farmers' income. He expressed the opinion that intensive educational programs could help the nation achieve both these goals.

Pollution Control of North Branch Is Aim of Commission

The Water Pollution Control Commission, engaged in stream pollution abatement of the state's waterways, announced this week an intensive program to improve conditions in the north branch of the Potomac River basin was under way.

A letter is being forwarded to all known industries in that section of basin under consideration, and Paul W. McKee, executive secretary of the commission, in declaring that only when municipalities do their full part can full cooperation be expected, suggested that now was the time for serious thought, consideration and planning on the part of municipal authorities for the proper disposal of their community sewage.

Mr. McKee said many industries now discharge their wastes into municipal sewerage systems which, if not provided with treatment facilities, is essentially the same as discharging the raw wastes directly into the waterway.

He pointed out that communities may obtain the services of a qualified sanitary engineer to conduct a survey and prepare plans and specifications on community disposal plants which would be submitted to the Maryland State Department of Health for approval before any actual construction would begin.

Wild Oats Harvest

Lesson for March 6, 1949

ALL RELIGIOUS teachers of Jesus' time used parables. But the great difference between Jesus' parables and those of his contemporaries, as Rabbi Klausner says, is that his were remembered and theirs were not. People will remember a story who cannot take in a lecture. Jesus almost never told "wonder-tales." His parables are not in the least like Grimm's fairy tales or Alice in Wonderland. Mostly they are about simple ordinary happenings, and practically always about living people or things.

Dr. Foreman

The Kingdom of God is a kingdom of law, not of happen-so or of magic wands. Jesus was fond of comparing God's Kingdom to growing plants. Every plant is a miracle, it is evidence of God's creative power; but plants do not grow overnight, they grow by the laws which the Creator made in them.

* * *

Wild Sowing

AS WE SAW last week, the most important feature of the Ideal World, or of any world, is the quality of the people in it. So most of Jesus' parables were about people, one of the most famous being this one of the "prodigal son." ("Prodigal" of course does not mean wicked or repentant, but wasteful, reckless with money or other things.) You could find many faults in that young man. One of them—the fault that nearly killed him—was that if he had a calendar he never looked at it. If you take a good look at a calendar you will always notice that there is another day after this one—another month, another year. But the prodigal never thinks about tomorrow, only about today. He sows his wild oats because he has fun doing it. He can say "So what?" fast enough but he has never asked the question, "—and then what?" Childish, isn't it? Yet all about us are prodigals old enough to know better.

Some people even argue that it is a good thing to sow wild oats, on the theory that the prodigal gets it out of his system and is afterwards a better man.

Nonsense! Is it better for your education to spend several years learning things wrong? Is it better for a garden to let it grow up in weeds for the first three weeks? Is it better for a man's health to spend his childhood years on a sickbed? That's no more silly than to say that a man is morally better for having been immoral for a while first.

* * *

Prodigal Nation

IT HAS even been said that we have a prodigal-son civilization. Our generation is pretty busy sowing wild oats. We waste the natural resources of the earth. Drinking has become encouraged by law and made glamorous by the movies. We spend more on liquor than on schools. More money is spent on a single day's horse-racing at a big track than a whole state or province spends on education in a year. The ties of marriage have grown so weak, especially outside the Christian church, that it has not been long since one American city was boasting that its marriage rate had "caught up with" its divorce rate!

Wild Harvest

THE PRODIGAL son in Jesus' story went home—but he had to reap his wild harvest first. The modern prodigal, whether individual or nation, seems to misunderstand Jesus' meaning. If God is thought of at all, he is pictured as a benevolent Being who after all doesn't mind our enjoying our little fling. "He will forgive," said Voltaire, "that's his business." That is a total misunderstanding of God.

The Heavenly Father does love every one of his children, yes. But he will not hold back any one who insists on wasting his substance. He will not interfere with the man's freedom even if that freedom is wickedly used.

He will not suspend his own law: "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." The prodigal will never get back what he threw away. Time that is killed stays dead. The poverty and pain created by personal or national extravagance and intemperance, God will not magically conjure away.

Scattered along the roadsides of America are thousands of little country churches where the people of these rural communities have for generations worshipped God.

There is nothing pretentious about these plain, square buildings; only the little belfry on the front marks it as a shrine of God. Usually it is neat and orderly and the grounds are clean and well-kept—especially the cemetery, where sleep the honored dead.

Here the people come to sing and pray and listen, and thus renew their spiritual strength. Thousands who have left the rural areas and achieved success in the cities look back with nostalgic yearning to the little country church on the roadside.

These little churches have helped to build the faith and character of America. They have taught the people of the rural communities the simple truths of religion and the comfort and satisfaction of a life of faith.

Whether it be in the quiet rural areas or in the crowded purlieus of the cities, the Church is an indispensible factor in building a strong, happy, and useful life.

Along the Potomac to Washington

By J. Glenn Beall

During the next week or ten days the House will consider the so-called pension bill for veterans of World Wars I and II. While there is some opposition to a pension bill for veterans, I have long felt that these older men who have given so much for their country and now are physically incapicated to such an extent they are unable to secure employment, are entitled to some recognition.

Their disabilities may not be directly service-connected but I do feel that their service in the armed forces has had a definite effect on their health.

It is my intention to support a pension plan although I hope that the pending legislation will be amended in certain respects so that it will reflect the views of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled Veterans, and the Amvets.

President Truman, who recently received a raise in pay and other emoluments equivalent to a private income of $3,500,000, in reference to the veterans pension plan has said that there is a "limit" to what the federal government can pay out. It is odd that he didn't think of that before he signed his own pay-raise legislation.

Also, so far as the record shows, the President said nothing about there being a limit to what this government could spend when Congress was considering Lend-Lease, which gave away $50,000,000,000. Neither has he remarked that there is any limit to what this nation can spend in connection with the billions requested by the Democrats for overseas spending and lending in the past four post-war years. To the contrary, whenever any overseas spending has been mentioned, he always has favored the higher or highest sum mentioned. He never has favored cutting funds for other nations one red cent.

Yet, now that there is a chance for the veterans who fought to keep this nation free to get a few dollars when they have passed the age of employment, the President says that there is a limit on what this country can pay.

I agree that there is a limit to what the givernment should spend. But we should consider cutting down the huge, perennial subsidy to Europe; the huge government expenditures for so-called reclamation projects in the Far West; the huge federal pay-roll. Why should we discriminate against the veteran who suffered hardships, risked their lives and stood ready to fight to the last man for the ramparts we watch?

There are many things you can say for a pension plan that you cannot say for overseas spending on the scale to which the President has become accustomed in recent years. A pension payment does not change the capitalistic system. It does not substitute Communism for Americanism. It will serve as a deterrent to radicals who want to make over and take over America. It will guarantee some degree of happiness and comforts for those who stood ready to give their last full measure of devotion to their nation—our nation.

President Truman may think there is a limit to what we can do for these men, but I certainly do not. I am for helping them in every possible way. The pension is one good way. And it is possible of fulfillment.

Under the Dome

As a guest of the officials of the All American Airways, I went on an inspection trip over the route to be covered by air service to be inaugurated on March 7, 1949. During the past several years I have been most active in helping to secure a necessary air route through my district and the new schedule calls for three daily trips to Baltimore, Cumberland, Hagerstown and Frederick. I am glad that we have been successful in securing this much needed service and I know it will be a big asset to our Western Maryland communities.

With a committee from the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, I appeared before the members of the State Roads Commission requesting that body to sponsor the construction of a bridge over the Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland railroads, and Wills Creek.

Various veterans organizations have contacted me regarding the acquisition of Newton D. Baker hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., by that state to be used as a mental hospital in the event it is declared surplus by the Veterans Administration. This veterans facility is the only hospital in that section of the country to take care of the veterans needs and to give specialized treatment. I was very active in having the Veterans Administration take over this hospital when the War Department declared it surplus several years ago and I am certainly going to do everything that I can to have the Newton D. Baker hospital retained as a veterans facility. It is most necessary to our veterans and this hospital should be continued as it is now.

At my invitation, Representative Cunningham of Iowa was the guest speaker at the Republican dinner in Frederick on February 26, and the Iowa member will be introduced by me. I also attended the meeting of Pentalpha Lodge of Masons, Gaithersburg and presented a gavel to them made from the wood of the Washington elm tree which was cut down on the Capitol grounds recently.

A home building program calling for construction of 810,000 low rent public housing units in six years was approved by a Senate Banking committee.

Man's Body Found

The body of George McCormick, 77, retired miner of Lonaconing, who wandered away from his home last month, was found last Saturday afternoon atop Big Savage mountain, in this county.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, Oakland, deputy medical examiner, said the man died of exposure.

The body was found by Russell H. Bittinger, Moscow, one of the searching party of 274 men and boys who had combed the area since January 25. The body was fully clothed and frozen solid.

One of the surviving daughters is Mrs. Clarence Fazenbaker, Finzel. A funeral service was conducted Monday morning.

NEW! Jamesway
BARN CLEANER
Cleans 40-cow barn in 10 minutes

Here it is! An entirely new kind of barn cleaner that licks the toughest, hardest, most back-breaking chore on the farm. It cleans 14 feet of gutter per minute. Cleans the average barn in 5 to 10 minutes. Saves you up to 2 hours every day!

This new cleaner uses a new "push-pull" action, developed and tested by Jamesway. A square steel tube slides back and forth, hugging the inside corner of the gutter. Paddles swing out on the pull stroke to catch the manure, then fold and slide back past the manure on the recovery stroke. This gives you many advantages!

You don't have to build cross gutters for this Jamesway barn cleaner! You don't have to bother with gutter chains and sprockets. This cleaner fits any width of gutter, works in a single gutter, or in gutters of unequal lengths. What's more, the motor and drive assembly are completely shielded, outdoors and out of the way.

It's easy to install a Jamesway barn cleaner. Ask us about it today. You'll be surprised how little it costs.

INCENTIVE FUND BILLS PRESENTED IN LEGISLATURE

Two Thirds of State Legislators Offer School Aid Measure in Both Houses

More than two-thirds of the members of the legislature recommended on Monday night a $30,000,000 state bond issue to help the counties and Baltimore city build new school buildings.

Nineteen senators and 20 house delegates submitted identical bills which would—besides providing for the $30,000,000—increase the so-called incentive fund for school buildings by four times the present limit.

Senators Turnbull (D-Baltimore) and Kimble (R-Allegany) also had a bill which would require that the money raised from Maryland two percent automobile titling tax go toward paying for part of the school building program. The House did not get such a measure.

The $30,000,000 loan bill calls for a state levy of 1.75 cents on each $100 property valuation in 1950 and 1951. The state real estate tax in 1952 would go to 9 cents on the $100 and remain so until the bonds are paid off.

Establish New Formula

Baltimore and the counties would have to meet certain requirements before they got any of the state's money to spend on school buildings.

As it is now, the state allows Baltimore and the counties to put on taxes up to 5 cents on the $100 to raise the school building money which the state matches. The new bills would increase that tax figure to a maximum of 20 cents on each $100 valuation and work out a new formula for passing it out.

The amounts would be worked out by multiplying by $2 the number of cents levied by Baltimore or a county, and then multiplying by the number of students. The money raised by Baltimore or a county would be subtracted from this total figure and then the state would pay the rest. The law now says the most the state will guarantee is $10 multiplied by the number of pupils. The new bill would quadruple that contribution to $40.

How It Would Work

How it would work in Garrett county was explained by Senator Neil

FORESTRY ACT DUE FOR CHANGES IF BILL PASSES

Act to Repeal Sections of Act And to Enact New Section Introduced

An act to repeal and re-enact certain sections of the Forest Conservancy act, and to enact a new section relating generally to forest conservancy districts, was introduced in the Senate by Neil C. Fraley during the past week.

The act, if passed, makes it mandatory that three citizens of the county actually engaged in farming and who are the owners of woodlands, one person engaged in the timber business, and one a member of the Board of County Commissioners, shall compose the Forestry Board.

The new bill would delete that part which states "where the public interests above enumerated cannot be served and adequately protected under private ownership, it is the declared policy of the State to acquire control of and title to such lands as rapidly as financial resources of the state will permit."

It also would delete a phrase in the enforcement section which formerly said "but the findings of the facts established by such State Commission shall be final."

Another section deleted in the proposed bill is the one which gave the district forestry board power to receive and pass on proposed work plans for the cutting of forest lands, and allowing for an appeal. In its place is an entirely new section which limits the authority of the district board to the following: "The district board shall cooperate with landowners by establishing rules and regulations concerning reforestation and render assistance in procuring seedlings for re-forestation.

Fines or imprisonments for persons who violated rules and regulations made by the commission of state forests and parks, or by the district forestry board, with the approval of the Commission of State Forests and Parks, are deleted, providing for the fines or imprisonments merely for those who violate the provisions of the sub-title.

The entire new section 60 pertains to licenses and reads as follows: "Each person to whom this sub-title applies engaged in a forest products business may, from and after January 1, 1944, be required to have a license issued by the Commission of State Forests and Parks. A license shall be secured from the Commission covering every existing plant. Before any sawmill or other plant may be erected for the manufacture of lumber or other forest products, when the location of any manufacturing plant is changed, the new location shall be reported to the Department prior to the change of location. All existing sawmills or plants for the manufacturing of forest products, shall be registered and a license secured from the Commission on or before January first, 1944, but no license shall be required of a landowner or farmer for cutting timber on their own lands.

The act, if passed, would take effect June 1, 1949.

Other legislation

Four other bills pertaining to the county were passed by the Senate, all introduced by Senator Fraley.

Provide for the establishment of a Garrett county Juvenile court.

Provide the county with a $200 annual allowance for secretarial help in preparing tax bills.

Direct the Garrett County Commissioners to allot $700 a year each to the Gorman and Deer Park Volunteer Fire departments.

Repeal an obsolete section of the Garrett county local laws relating to employment of a flagman at an Oakland railroad crossing.

Another act signed by Governor Lane which is of interest to the Deep Creek Lake section adds the offense of "manslaughter by motor boat" to the law covering manslaughter cases. It was introduced by the speaker of the House of Delegates.

Contractors Move In

Contractors for excavation and embankment work at the Savage River Dam are "moving in" according to D. E. Mather, Piedmont, resident engineer for the project.

Two firms offered a joint low bid of about $862,000 for the work. A second and final contract will include installing hydraulic gates and building concrete outlet works. Engineers have estimated the dam will be finished by 1951.

Discuss Need of County T. B. Group

Mrs. Ruth K. Graham, county organizer for the Maryland Tuberculosis association, was present at an informal meeting of local citizens at Pickwick Inn last Friday evening, to discuss the possibility of forming a Tuberculosis and Health association for this county.

At present Mrs. Robert Nethken is the only representative in the county.

Mrs. Graham pointed out that each year money is raised through the sale of Christmas seals, handled primarily through the Baltimore office. The amount raised in 1948 was a 21 percent increase over the goal set for the county.

She said that these funds, raised in the county are set aside to be spent in this county, but that to date there had been no organized group to administer them, and they are now dormant in a Baltimore bank. She felt the public health need of the county was increasing daily.

Mrs. Graham pointed out that a volunteer group could be formed in the county to govern its own funds as needed, and while primarily for tuberculosis work, any remaining funds on hand could be used in other authorized forms of public health as designated by officers and board of directors.

Mrs. Graham requested that those present try to secure a representative group of citizens from various communities, to be present at the next meeting scheduled for the latter part of April, at which time a constitution would be adopted and officers elected.

Mrs. Nethken left is shown discussing the problems with Mrs. Graham and Dr. Thomas Lusby.

Permanent Committee For Handicapped

R. C. Thompson and D. L. B. Fringer, co-chairman of the Governor's committee to promote employment of the physically handicapped in Maryland, announce the appointment of a permanent local committee in Garrett county.

The purpose of this committee is to promote employment of the physically handicapped on a year-round basis; to acquaint physically handicapped persons with the services available to them; to enlist public support and interest in the employment of the physically handicapped who are otherwise qualified workers.

Members of the committee include representatives from the various veterans' organizations, vocational rehabilitation service, department of employment security, social agencies and industry. The committee includes Charles L. Briner, Oakland, Chairman; Milburn W. Mann, Edward P. Kahl, Waller Hoye, John Stevenson, Oakland; Rev. Jonathan Edwards, Kitzmiller; Harvey Gortner, Grantsville; Charles A. Wilt, Accident; and John H. Devine, Friendsville.

Directors Nominated

Six members of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce have been nominated for members of the Board of Directors, it was announced by W. O. Davis, secretary. Three will be selected from the six who will serve for a term of three years.

The meeting is tentatively scheduled for March 31.

Those named are Ralph Pritts, A. G. Gortner, Karl Lehman, Bernard I. Gonder, Cecil Smith and Joseph Hinebaugh. Hold-over members are C. L. Briner, W. W. Close, N. A. Coplin, Emerie Dusic, Irvin Feld, Arthur Humbertson. Those whose terms expire are A. G. Gortner, Ralph Pritts and Emroy Bolden.

Accident Firemen Plan Fire House

Plans are being formulated for a fire house at Accident in the future, but realization of the plans may be years away.

The organization has the idea and this idea was helped along just recently when C. C. Goehringer and Frank E. Spoerlein each gave 25 foot widths of property which join, by 160 feet deep, to the fire company.

The deeds have been recorded and the land is now the property of the Accident Volunteer Fire Department, Inc., according to Melvin Kesner, president.

The property is east of the Spoerlein garage, and would be adjacent to the school athletic field. Mr. Kesner said the company will make plans to include a suitable place for community affairs when the building is constructed.

Bandits Hold Up B. & O. Train East of Hancock

Over a hundred passengers on the B. and O.'s Ambassador, westbound treamliner, were robbed by armed bandits in Jesse James fashion at Warm Springs, W. Va., about 67 miles east of Cumberland, about 7:30 last night.

Three members of the train crew were slugged, a chef was shot and several passengers were pushed about, at least one of whom was slugged with a pistol butt. Passengers and trainmen said there were two armed robbers on the train and more met the train when it was stopped at Warm Springs.

Police thought the Tri-State area and railroad police made an investigation when the train reached Cumberland and set up road blocks in an all-out man-hunt for the men.

State "Obliged" to Construct Roads in The State Parks

Governor Lane last Friday signed a resolution giving the state an "obligation" to build roads leading to and within state parks. The resolution was introduced by president of the Senate.

Garrett county spokesmen have asked aid to improve transportation in Western Maryland's vast recreational area.

B. I. Gonder, member of the Board of State Forests and Parks, who has been working on this project for some time along with members of his board and with other interested persons, said he had received word through Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the State Forestry department, that in all probability the first road would be to Swallow Falls. Kaylor said also that he had received from the Rotary club members of Oakland the assurance of their keen interest in the department's recreational program. Assurance that the Swallow Falls road would be the first, had come verbally from members of the State Roads commission.

May Distribute Trees

Prospect of a favorable conservation measure was also pointed out by Mr. Gonder, in House Bill 295 which would permit the State Department of Forests and Parks to make regulations concerning the free distribution of trees from the state nursery, and to remove the present provision which requires that such trees be sold. The operation of the nursery would be under the supervision of the forestry department.

To Attend Conference

John H. Carter, county agent, and Miss Eleanor K. Dearborn, home demonstration agent, will attend the joint conference for county agents and home demonstration agents on "Freezer-Locker and Food Preservation" to be held in Hagerstown, March 15th and 16th.

These training meetings are given to Agents to help them in carrying on unified programs helpful to the farm family on projects of interest of both men and women, Miss Dearborn stated.

Twenty-five teachers of the county are enrolled in a speech course, which begins this Friday in Oakland High school. Classes begin at 6:30. This course, which is good for three hours of credit in graduate or undergraduate work, is under the University of Maryland and will be taught by Dr. Ansberry.

Roy O. Winters, Dairy Owner, Dies on Saturday

Oakland Man Had Been Unconscious Since Struck by Automobile September 21, 1947

Roy Oren Winters, aged 69, owner of the Highland Park Dairy, died last Saturday, March 5, at his home on 8th street. He had remained in an unconscious condition since being struck by an automobile while crossing the road in front of the farm of his brother south of Red House, on September 21, 1947.

He was born at Horse Shoe Run, W. Va., June 22, 1879, a son of the late William A. and Martha Roth Winters. He was a former Sheriff of Garrett county and was well known is this community. He was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran church of Oakland and Garrett Temple No. 113, Knights of Pythias. He was married July 9, 1898, to Nellie Moon, by the Rev. J. G. Breuninger, and the couple's 50th wedding anniversary passed last year while he remained unconscious. He had been a member of the Pythian order for forty-two years.

Surviving are his widow and four children, Mrs. Lester Bittinger, Clayton Winters, Mrs. Howard White and Harvey Winters, all of Oakland, the two sons being associated in business with their father. Also surviving are two brothers, Arthur C. Winters, of Mt. Lake Park, and Charles Winters, on the home place near Gnegy church, and one sister, Mrs. Flora Hauser, Horse Shoe Run, W. Va., and ten grandchildren.

Mr. Winters had been at his home here for about ten months, after he had remained a patient at Memorial hospital, Cumberland, for eight months following the accident. During this period of blankness, caused by head injuries, he had been fed through tubes.

Funeral services were conducted on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Mark's Lutheran church with Rev. Luther L. Hare, pastor, and Rev. Austin F. Schildwachter, Episcopal rector, officiating. Interment was in Oakland cemetery. Pallbearers were Carlton Bowser, Earl Shartzer, Arthur Naylor, Walter W. Dawson, Arthur Lawton and George Fulk.

P.-T.A. Schedules Discussion Tonight

A discussion of sex education, in regard to how much should be taught in the home, in the school, or in the church, will be the purpose of the meeting of the Oakland Elementary Parent-Teacher association this evening at 8 o'clock.

Parents will also have an opportunity to see the improvements in the hallways and the single classroom which have been completed since the last association meeting.

Three Bills Introduced

Three bills were introduced in the House of Delegates yesterday. H. B. 529—to create a sanitary district for the Deep Creek Lake area of the county.

H. B. 530—To specify that beer wholesalers of the county must pay an additional $300 annual license fee, the proceeds of which would go to the county's general funds.

H. B. 531—To allow the town of Oakland to extend its boundaries, if the qualified voters of the town and the territory to be annexed approve.

Friendsville Rotary Club Is Instituted

The third Rotary club for Garrett county was formally instituted on Monday evening, March 7, at a gathering of about 175 persons in the school auditorium in Friendsville.

The charter to the Friendsville club of 26 members was presented to R. Earl Guard, its first president, by Dr. Ernest E. Church, of Keyser, W. Va., present governor of the 178th district of Rotary International.

Dr. Church emphasized the four objects of Rotary, and called membership in the club as an "adventure in friendship." He dwelled on the importance of international relations and stressed the fact that until there was peace in the minds and hearts of men everywhere such as Rotary professed, there would be no actual peace.

Mr. Guard responded to the charter presentation and also accepted numerous other gifts from nearby clubs, including a gavel and Rotary bell from the Grantsville club, sponsor of the Friendsville organization.

Rotarians and their wives were present from Frostburg, Bedford, Hancock, Cumberland, Lonaconing, Keyser, Oakland and Grantsville, in addition to Friendsville. Large Number Attend 4-H Social on Monday

Over 140 boys and girls and their leaders attended the 4-H social given by the girls of the Pleasant Valley and Oakland 4-H girls' clubs in the social room of the Lutheran church in Oakland on March 5th.

Members were present from Accident, Bittinger, Crellin, Deer Park, Kempton, Mt. Lake Park, Pleasant Valley, North Glade, Oakland, Red House and Underwood clubs.

This is the first time individual clubs have been hostess to a county-wide social of this kind and it was considered a huge success that leaders hoped it can be repeated at another time.

Hostesses greeting members at the door were Sarah Smart and Elizabeth Rice. Miss Eleanor K. Dearborn, home demonstration agent, gave a welcome to all and said that this was the start of National 4-H week. She paid tribute to Oakland girls and to Ella Fazzalari who had spoken over the radio at noon that day from Washington on the National Farm and Home Hour over a nation-wide broadcasting system. She told the meaning of 4-H Week.

Mrs. Catherine Spoerlein, leader of the Pleasant Valley 4-H Club; Mrs. Robert Hoffman and Mrs. R. L. Spence, of Oakland club, were introduced.

Susan Turner introduced Rev. Luther L. Hare of St. Mark's Lutheran church who offered a prayer.

Then the following program was given under the direction of the program committee, Mildred Biser, chairman.

"What 4-H Does and Means to Me," Susan Turner; duet, "Dreaming," Mildred Biser and Louise Spoerlein; Country Boys' Creed, Francis Rowan; Ploughing Song, group; "I'm Glad I'm A Country Girl," Peggy Riley.

Games were played by the whole group, with Louise Spoerlein serving as chairman assisted by Eva McIntire, Rita Johnson and Lois Murray. Refreshments were served by the refreshment committee, Peggy Riley, chairman.

Bills Presented

C. Fraley. At present the county levies 5 cents which produces about $11,000 from the county. The state contributes about $37,000, making a total of $48,000 per year in the incentive fund for the school buildings.

Under the new set-up, should the bills pass, the county would levy as much as 20 cents, which would provide about $44,000, and as a result the state would provide about $148,000 annually.

With this fund, the county would be able to repay the recent school bond issue of $1,500,000 without any additional burden on the taxpayer, and would also be able to borrow in the neighborhood of another $1,500,000 from the state at a favorable rate of interest, to complete the entire school building program within the next few years.

Title Bill in Senate

The senate's title tax bill merely says that all the money coming in from the levy is to be used to meet the school program, instead of being spent for road purposes.

Fraley was among the senators sponsoring the two main school bills, and the Garrett county delegates were among those sponsoring the measures introduced in that department. Senator Turnbull explained he and his colleagues were introducing the bond issue and incentive fund bills because "we are all conscious of the fact that the school building situation in most of the counties has been critical for several years.

"Many of the counties cannot issue more school bonds without jeopardizing their credit. That is why our bill to pledge the state's credit to the extent of $30 million was entered. "It will allow the counties to get favorable terms of interest on new bonds."

He estimated the bill to quadruple the incentive fund guarantee would mean the state would pay about $3,800,000 annually. Last year the state paid $1,600,000 to the fund.

Senator Kimble described the titling tax as a form of sales tax that "should go to the general fund for school purposes."

Special Services at St. Paul's

Dr. Pickens will preach at other services which will be held at 7:30 o'clock, beginning this next Sunday evening.

HYNDMAN PROTESTS SIGNAL PROPOSAL; RESIDENTS DESIRE WATCHMEN RETAINED

HYNDMAN, Pa.—Two busloads of local residents attended a Public Utilities Commission Hearing here on a proposal by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroads to erect automatic warning lights to replace watchmen at the railroad crossings on Center and Market Streets.

The railroad's plan met with sharp opposition and it was pointed out there has never been a fatal accident in the 32 years the crossings have been under the daytime supervision of watchmen.

Local witnesses introduced the results of a traffic count indicating approximately 904 vehicles and 748 pedestrians cross over the tracks daily.

The greatest danger of an automatic signal, they pointed out, came from the fact that the warning would operate frequently when switching operations were in progress. Pedestrians and motorists, seeing a freight train standing or moving slowly, might be tempted to cross, without noticing that a fast passenger train was approaching.

State Agency Will Observe 20th Birthday

The division of vocational rehabilitation of the Maryland State Department of Education is observing its 20th anniversary on Monday evening, April 11, with a dinner meeting in Baltimore.

Dr. John Lee, president, national society for crippled children and adults, will speak. Governor Lane will review the growth and progress of the division and outline plans for the future.

The department had 1,978 cases referred to it in 1948. Of the 4,287 cases on the roll last year, 2,451 received or are still receiving some type of service, with 602 rehabilitated. The latter are supporting themselves and 717 dependents in addition, with wages amounting to $1,024,400 during the first year of their employment.

TABLELAND FARMING

It is interesting to note that Garrett county has more tile drainage than all other Maryland counties put together. Farmers from the lowlands are usually amazed to learn that we have a lot of wet land right here on top of the mountains. The Eastern Shore has thousands of acres of wet land, but their drainage is different from ours. Over there the drainage program consists of large outlet ditches and wide, fairly shallow, field ditches. One outlet may serve several farms. Some of them have grades as little as 2 or 3 feet per mile.

None of our land is anywhere near that flat. Some glades that look perfectly flat will have a grade of one percent, or one foot fall per hundred feet. Because of the nature of our wet soil, drains have to be closely spaced. Open ditches as close as 40 to 60 feet apart in cropland would be a real nuisance, so tile drains are better suited to our conditions.

You cannot set down any blanket rules for laying out a tile system. Each wet place takes different treatment, whether it is a 50 acre glade or a small seepy spot. Land is wet when the soil is so tight that water cannot seep down through it, but has to flow slowly across the surface. Most of our hills have a surface soil that can absorb water. Somewhere down the slope the layer of tight soil comes near the surface, and here is where we get the springy spots. There will usually be a series of them.

If you are going to drain a field, the best place to begin is right at the top side of the wet area. And most of the tile lines should run across the slope rather than straight up and down. They must have some grade, of course; but well laid tile doesn't require a heavy grade. If the lines are run straight up and down the slope they will carry some water, but ground between the lines will stay wet. Lines run across the slope will cut off the water as it seeps out of the ground. The top line will usually go about where the cray-fish holes begin to get fairly numerous.

By this method, most wet fields, if not too large, would have most of the tile lines running across the general slope and into one tile main that goes straight down the slope. Another good reason for doing it this way is that you reduce the number of outlets into the stream or open ditch. Outlets are usually a source of trouble, so fewer the better.

Four inch is the best tile size for laterals. A lot of 3-inch has been used in the past, but the larger size carries much more water, stay open better and costs little more. Sometimes you still find someone putting in board or slab drains. This is not good, for it takes more labor than a tile drain, and will go bad at some inconvenient time. In most soils, laterals should be about 2½ feet deep. If you are ditching by hand, separate top and subsoil. Then put topsoil down around the tile. Being porous, it will help water get into the drain.

Tile sizes for mains will vary according to area drained and the presence of strong springs. Each main should be estimated separately. Outlets into streams and ditches should be protected by headwalls to prevent washing out or settling of the outlet.

Helping farmers plan and lay out drainage work is one of the jobs done by technicians of the Soil Conservation District. We don't pretend to know all the answers about drainage, but we keep in touch with the professional drainage engineers, and we have learned a lot by observing local practices. Half a drainage job can be a constant source of trouble. A good job of tile drainage should last a life time.

Cars Are Derailed

A. B. and O. freight crewman was injured Monday morning when nine cars of a fast freight train, eastbound, were derailed on the 17-mile grade, four miles west of Piedmont, W. Va., in Garrett county.

G. F. Chalmers, Mt. Savage, brakeman, was treated at Allegany hospital for slight injuries.

Railroad officials said Train No. 88 was descending the grade at Big Curve near Bond with a cargo of meat, oil and vegetables when the accident occurred.

All three tracks at the point of the wreck were blocked. The Cincinnatian was rerouted through Cumberland and Connellsville. Train No. 11, carrying the afternoon mail to Oakland, was about two hours late

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

The Bonus Drive

The small minority of elected officials in Washington, deeply concerned about the condition of the Federal finances and acutely aware of the accumulating dangers of uncontrollable deficits and unchecked debts, nevertheless, up to now, has continued valiantly to make its fight for retrenchment and to regain fiscal stability.

They have done this despite the fact that public resistance to reckless spending appears to lessen as the size, cost and waste of the Government operation increase. During last year, for example, Senator Byrd points out, more than 108,000 new civilian employes have been piled on the public pay roll. However, if two things happen at the current session of Congress this band of men who, undismayed, have been battling against heavy odds for sixteen years will throw up the sponge and quit. This will not be because they have lost courage or gone soft or changed their views. It will be because the sheer futility of keeping up the fight will have become so clear that it would be silly to do so.

The first of these things concerns the Hoover Commission's report on reorganization of the executive branch. Detached men who know enough about this report intelligently to discuss it are agreed on four things: (1) That it is the most comprehensive and thorough ever made by a Government commission; (2) that if its main recommendations are adopted not only would efficiency of Government be greatly enhanced but about $3,000,000,000 a year would be saved; (3) that opposition from the Federal jobholders and their political sponsors is formidable and determined; (4) that if the main features of the report are not accepted by Congress all hope of ever getting the Federal machine to manageable proportions will disappear. Clearly, this is the last chance.

The second thing which would end the fight for retrenchment concerns the veterans' bonus and pension bills, introduced in the House at this session. If the Hoover report fails, the prospect of averting national bankruptcy will certainly be decreased. But if, on top of that, the general pension and bonus proposals—which, according to Mr. Harold A. Keats, national commander of the American Veterans of World War II, were approved by a 10-to-1 vote—should be approved by the House this session, why then, say the doughty advocates of national solvency, it would, indeed be "Kitty, bar the door." For the unbroken bonus and pension history in this country shows that any general bonus or pension bill getting that far becomes a law within about three years. Though Senates reject and Presidents veto, the weight behind forces enactment. There is not a single known instance in which any general bill of this kind has permanently failed.

If and when the present bonus and pension proposals meet success, the cost to the government is estimated at from $40,000,000,000 to $67,500,000,000. What that will do to an already overburdened fiscal structure need not be described. Clear-headed members of Congress shudder when they think of it. No such bill will go through this year. Though the House may pass it, the Senate will not; or, if it did, Mr. Truman would veto it just as Mr. Coolidge vetoed one in 1924 and Mr. Hoover vetoed one in 1931 and Mr. Roosevelt vetoed one in 1935 and again in 1936. In each of those instances the bill was finally passed over the President's veto and became law. If, say the forecasters, the House passes the bill by an emphatic vote this session, it easily may become law at the next session as 1950 is an election year. If not, then it is sure to pass, regardless of a veto, before the 1952 session ends. That is the prospect.

When it is considered that already eight states have voted bonuses amounting to four times the total state bonuses provided after World War I; that in ten more states proposals are pending which if approved would bring the total state cash payments to $2,800,000,000; that when the soldiers were mustered out they received additional pay—and later still were voted "terminal leave" pay by Congress; that they received many additional advantages, such as insurance policies, etc., under the so called GI Bill of Rights—when all these things are considered, the hope of members of Congress that this time the demand for a Federal bonus would not develop can be understood. The hope was bolstered by an enlightened attitude taken by many service men who sought to identify the veterans' interest with the national interest, who pointed out that bonuses eventually must be paid by the taxpayers, including veterans, and declared the veteran ought to be "a citizen first and veteran second."

It now seems that that hope was not well founded. The demand for a Federal bonus on top of the state bonuses and the GI privileges and compensations has been made and bonus history is expected to repeat itself in a big way. Veteran Administration expenditures are now running close to $7,000,000,000 a year, which is seven times as much as in 1933, when the late President Roosevelt forced a reduction to less than $600,000,000 on the plea that the country could not carry the load. In less than two years the total was greater than before, which shows the power of the forces behind the bonus demands. They are, of course, stronger now than they were then. When the state bonus drive has succeded, they will be in position to concentrate upon the Federal bonus. The measure of its success will be the character of the House action at this session.

By J. Glenn Beall

One very constructive action taken by the Policy Committee of the Republican Party in Congress in recent days was that of agreeing to work for a reduction in the wartime excise taxes which are levied on numerous products used in the home, or on the farm.

These taxes are called "luxury" tax, so-called, on women's purses. What makes a woman's handbag a luxury? Are the pockets in men's trousers considered as luxuries?

In this connection, we might add that it seems that many New Dealers think it is wrong for a man to have anything left in his pocket when the tax collector gets through reaching.

At any rate, the Republicans agreed unanimously to work for the repeal of these war-time taxes. You might be interested to know that there are excise taxes on wristwatches, on jewelry, on kitchen stoves, on refrigerators, on railroad transportation and air transportation, on the electricity you use and on certain other utilities, not to mention a variety of other articles and commodities used by millions of people.

The Republican leadership pointed out, in announcing the decision to work for excise tax reduction, that these taxes were passed under the guise of wartime necessity. But the war now has been over for more than three years. Also, it was pointed out, many of these taxes were levied by the former Democratic Congress of recent years as "luxury" taxes, although many of the items taxed are far from luxury category in the mind of the average man.

Last week the Truman administration for the first time officially recognized the decline in business activity, which has been apparent to many observers for the last two or three months, when the Federal Reserve Bank issued orders easing installment credit. Under the new order, which had gone forth to all Federal Reserve Banks, in an attempt to stimulate business activity, those who wish to make purchases on the installment plan can now obtain 21 months credit. Previously, under famous Regulation W on a purchase of over one thousand dollars credit could be obtained for only 18 months, and for only 15 months on purchases of under one thousand dollars. The new order also reduces from 20 percent to 15 percent the down payment which must be made on purchases of less than one thousand dollars.

There is a great deal of criticism of the 5th Semi-annual Report of the Atomic Energy Commission—a 213 page document released last week. The report is illustrated with many photographs and charts which give information of the utmost value to any enemy air force which might be interested in bombing our atomic energy plants. Even President Truman is reported as having "blown his top" over the making public of this information which has been guarded so closely as a national secret in the past

I appeared before the Appropriations Committee asking that funds recommended by the Corps of Engineers and the Director of the Budget be retained and asked that $1,700,000 be approved for the completion of the Savage River Dam and $1,000,000 for the Cumberland Flood Control Project. I sincerely hope that these two items will be retained in the bill in order that these worthwhile projects may be completed as soon as possible.

The Public Works Committee of which I am a member has been holding hearings this week regarding public buildings. Because of my interest in the construction of a number of post offices in the Sixth District, I have attended meetings each morning this week. Eleven towns in the Sixth District have been approved by the Post Office Department for new post office buildings and I have introduced legislation to provide for the purchase of sites in these towns. Officials of the Post Office Department and the Public Buildings Administrator were among those appearing before the Committee. A group of Kensington citizens conferred with me regarding a new post office for their community which is one of the eleven approved. I explained that inspections would be made by the Post Office Department and the Federal Works Agency of the places approved for new buildings and the towns in most need of new buildings will be approved for construction first.

Again this year I tried to have incorporated in the District of Columbia Appropriations Bill permission for Maryland children to attend District Schools without the payment of tuition.

Propose Precautions For Kitzmiller Mine

Additional precautions including better ventilation are proposed for the McNitt Coal Company's Hamill mine, at Kitzmiller, in a reinspection report released by the Bureau of Mines. The report also cites almost a dozen recent safety gains. The Garrett County mine employed 30 men and produced 110 tons of coal a day when it was examined in January by Inspector F. D. Baker.

The inspector recommended more air for the working places, discontinuing coursing air used to ventilate the underground substation to live workings, and continuous operation of the ventilating fan except when the mine is shut down and all men are out of the mine and then examining for gas and other hazards before permitting the men to enter. He also proposed offsetting the fan at least 15 feet, making the fan housing fireproof, equipping the fan with air-reversal facilities and an automatic stoppage alarm, erecting paired air-lock doors, and keeping suitable records of preshift and weekly mine examinations.

Inspector Baker proposed adequately rock-dusting all the dry areas of the mine to within 80 feet of the faces, using permissible electric cap lamps exclusively, and discontinuing smoking underground.

Although endorsing using permissible explosives and erecting a detonator storage magazine on the surface, the inspector advised suitably lining the door and providing screened ventilators for the new magazine, using incombustible stemming, immediately firing all blast holes charged on shift, testing the roof and faces before and after blasting, and giving ample warning before blasting.

Other recommendations included universal compliance with the company's systematic timbering plan, properly maintaining the roadbeds and tracks, providing adequate and unobstructed clearance space and shelter holes, eliminating electrical hazards, providing surface-underground telephone service, posting a mine map, and the wearing of protective footwear by all employees, and using goggles for eye-hazardous work.

Recent improvements included adequately guarding and realigning the trolley wire, and the carrying of positive means of identification upon their persons by underground workmen.

Maryland Employment Drops in January

Non-agricultural employment in Maryland, estimated at 700,300 in mid-January, registered a net drop of 22,600 from the level prevailing in mid-December, it was reported today by Mr. Russell S. Davis, chairman of the Maryland Department of Employment through C. L. Briner, local manager.

Mr. Davis declared that despite recent declines, overall employment in Maryland in January, 1949, was substantially above the level of last year. Over the 12 month period a net gain of 19,200 workers was attained. However, most of this increase was confined to non-manufacturing activities, particularly in construction, government and the service industries. During the past year manufacturing employment declined by 7,700 as a result of decreased work forces in the production of transportation equipment, machinery, chemicals and food. The only major industries to achieve significant expansion in employment over the past year were iron and steel production and apparel manufacturing.

God's Signature

Lesson for March 13, 1949

IN A STRANGE city you may suddenly need to be identified. Some suspicious clerk wants to know if your signature is genuine. It is a fair challenge, for too many liars are in circulation. Jesus himself had to furnish identification. No less a person than his old friend John the Baptizer had grown uneasy. "Are you the one we are looking for," he inquired, "or shall we look for someone else?" Jesus' answer to John was not to discuss the theology of the Incarnation, or anything of that sort. He just went about his usual day's work.

Dr. Foreman

In the course of that day he cured a good many sick people, and preached to some very poor people. "Now go back," he said, "go back and tell John what you have seen and heard." What those men saw that day was what Jesus at another time called the "finger of God," the genuine divine signature.

Jesus wrote no book, no letters even; he wrote in action, and his acts were the handwriting of God. It is important to see where Jesus underscored that writing. It is true, his healings were what we call miracles. But Jesus did not even mention that feature.

What he asked John to notice was simply this: the blind see, the lame walk; lepers are cured, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and (as a climax!) the poor hear good news. The signature of God, in short, is not sheer power; it is using what power one has, to help people in trouble.

Not By Bread Alone

THE EXPRESSION, "needy people," nowadays suggests people who haven't enough to eat or wear. Jesus helped such persons; but he knew well that men's needs go beyond well-cared-for bodies. There was the poor man from the graveyard, for example,—he was happy enough. He didn't want clothes, and he was strong enough to steal all the food he could eat. All he wanted, in fact, was to be let alone. But Jesus knew that what he needed above all was a sane mind, a mind no longer run over and trampled by a regiment of devils.

When Jesus got through with him he was clothed, but that was not the best part of it. He was in his right mind. So God's signature is not only written in a sound body, it is in the sound mind. Again, at Jericho when Jesus invited himself to dinner with the pint-sized tycoon Zacchaeus, Jesus did not go just for the meal. He went because he knew that Zacchaeus needed something. Jericho needed something, too, something only Zacchaeus could give.

We do know that after dinner Zacchaeus was a changed man. He was going to give back every dishonest penny, with interest; and since he could not locate every one he had cheated, he was going to give away half of his holdings for the benefit of the poor.

What Jericho needed was a new administration, any honest one; they needed slum clearance; and Zacchaeus was going to give it to them. But first of all Zacchaeus had needed a new heart—and Jesus gave him that.

We Too

ALL AROUND us is a troubled world. Some men, seeing it, infer there is no God. Others conclude that if there is one, he must be bad or weak. The truth is that the signature of God is not to be found in the evil and the confusion of the world. It is to be seen wherever freedom is standing against slavery, wherever truth is pushing back ignorance, where diseased bodies are being healed, where sanity replaces madness.

More people would believe in God if they could see more of the handwriting of God. Do you want to help?

We cannot always do things as simply as Jesus did. Curing the diseased is not for us a simple matter of saying, Be well. A Christian woman, distressed by what she had learned of the plight of the insane in her backward state, was asking the head of the state hospital (himself a church officer), "What can we Christians do?" "Get behind the legislature," he said.

Safety Improvements Endorsed In Report

Endorsing about a dozen recent safety improvements in the Garrett Coal Corporation's Earl No. 2 mine, a mile east of Vindex, a Federal coal mine inspector recommends rock-dusting and further ventilating precautions in a report released by the Bureau of Mines. This mine employed 26 men and produced 300 tons of coal daily when W. C. Eiduke reinspected it in February.

Inspector Eiduke proposed rock-dusting to within 80 feet of the faces of all dry rooms and entries, more air for two working sections, always driving air connections between entries at approved intervals, and keeping records of the weekly air measurements and tests for gas. He commended constructing a solid, incombustible stopping on the main air course, and keeping a record of the daily fan inspections.

Safety features embraced following a systematic timbering method, except in one place, frequent roof-testing, exclusive use of permissible explosives and permissible blasting units for on-shift blasting, well-installed power wires provided with cut-out switches, use of permissible electric cap lamps underground, and no signs of smoking in the mine.

As further safety aids, Inspector Eiduke advocated removing or supporting any loose haulageway roof detected, fireproofing the roof of the explosives-storage magazine, unobstructed haulageway clearance, added electrical and mechanical safeguards, more fire-fighting equipment, a positive means of identification upon the person of each underground worker, and always wearing safety goggles for eye-hazardous work.

Recent improvements included removing combustible material from around the detonator—and explosives—storage magazines, equipping the storage-battery locomotive with suitable rerailing devices, and other electrical safeguards.

International Party Held

Thirty-five girl scouts were in attendance at the scout international party at the Episcopal parish house last Friday. Miss Cara Weber, scout leader, with Mrs. Emeric Dusic and Mrs. George Browning, assistants, were in charge. Mrs. Hugh Echard and Mrs. Howard Turner also assisted.

Each of the four patrols presented a dance or skit to highlight the country they represented.

Previous to the meeting each patrol prepared a dish from the county represented. These dishes were prepared at the homes of Mrs. Echard, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Homer Bennett and Mrs. Dusic. Countries represented were Germany, Mexico, India and South America.

Leaders showed a movie under the direction of Donald Hinebaugh, telling the history of the American flag.

The Trend Continues . . . .

Whether we realize it or not, the trend of socialism is not confined to the federal government. It creeps into state government and even county affairs.

We holler about the federal government going into business which drives its own citizens out of many fields of activity—federal hydro—electric power, housing, medicine, education, loans and grants, farming through subsidies, steel production, and a long list of others.

We could be wrong but it looks dangerously similar right here in our own county where a bill has been introduced into the legislature by the county delegation to put Garrett county Commissioners—our local government, right smack into the beer business—upon the pretext that it would raise $100,000. While this newspaper has no particular concern over the success or failure of the various beer businesses, yet the fact remains that people with private capital and private initiative are engaged in that business which are ancient American customs; the business creates employment for many people, and as far as our laws go, the sale of beer is legal.

If our legislators successfully placed the beer business as a monopoly in the hands of local government, what is there to prevent them from placing the drug business, the lumber business, the grocery business, and in fact every other business, in the same category, under the pretext that it would bring more revenue into the coffers, and reduce the individual's taxes?

Government in business is a dangerous practice that every voter will have to fight tooth and toenail. When the trend comes right down to our own county, is it any wonder that the federal government is so inclined?

We have no doubt of the sincere intentions of the delegates, to provide revenue to run the county, with the least burden on the taxpayers, but we've just got to get away from that idea of letting government be our benefactor. If enough communities made that attitude clear, eventually it ought to filter through to Washington.

Local Legislation At Annapolis

In addition to other stories appearing elsewhere in this issue, local legislation at Annapolis has included the following:

Three bills introduced by Senator Neil Fraley have been passed by the House of Delegates while another has been approved by the Senate in the General Assembly.

One bill would provide that notices to delinquent Garrett taxpayers be mailed out during the first week of August of each year, instead of the first week in September; to specify that interest on unpaid taxes shall begin on September 30 instead of October 31.

Another bill would increase from $25,000 to $50,000 the annual amount which Garrett county commissioners may spend for road machinery and equipment. The third would eliminate a requirement for liability insurance on boats carrying passengers for pay on Deep Creek Lake.

S.B. 283—to authorize the posting of cash bails, passed.

Bills Introduced

H.B. 547—extending provisions of the strip mining law to Garrett county.

H.B. 545—exempting Garrett county from provisions of forest conservancy districts act.

H.B. 529—to repeal law concerning Deep Creek Lake Sanitary commission, providing that funds in treasury of commission be turned over to County Commissioners to earmark for acquisition of garbage dumps and garbage disposal sites throughout Deep Creek Lake area.

H.B. 531—relating to annexation of territory of town of Oakland by ordinance or resolution, stating no extension of boundaries of Oakland could become effective until ordinance or resolution proposing such extension of boundaries shall have been submitted to registered voters in the area proposed to be annexed to said town and has been approved by majority of the qualified voters voting at a special election called for that purpose.

Housing Committee Named for Centennial

A housing committee, to make a complete record of available housing in Oakland during the Centennial, was named by the central commission at its regular meeting last Friday evening.

This committee includes Mrs. Robert Stanton, chairman; Mrs. Lowell Loomis, Mrs. Mike Kildow, Mrs. Arthur Naylor, Mrs. Hugh Echard and Mrs. Ralph Pritts.

Solicitation of available housing, decision of a uniform price for rooms, finding out the number of persons who can be accommodated, and the sex of persons desired are among the duties of this committee.

The Central committee also made plans to meet sub-committees. The decorating committee, Mrs. Edward H. Sincell, chairman, will meet with it on March 18. The Farmers Day committee will meet with it on April 1st. A reception committee is also to be named on March 18.

At last Friday's meeting, Mrs. G. H. Hanst gave a report of a conference with Mrs. Lewis Jones, member of the Youth committee, indicating a desire for a children's pageant, a tennis tournament, marble tournament and possibly a soap box derby, the latter as a morning activity.

Mrs. Jones will meet with the general committee to explain the use of a chart in the town hall outlining activities for each day so that there would be no conflict, and her suggestion of emergency committees for each day was considered.

Capt. C. E. Hoye, of the Historical committee, indicated that the historical manuscript of Mrs. Thekla Fundenberg Weeks would cover 80 pages, with an additional 30 pages of pictures and sketches, and that the finished product would sell probably for $1.00 per copy.

Joseph Hinebaugh reported that the revised contract with J. C. Beam for rides and shows during the celebration, had been signed.

Ray Crowthers was added to the Homecoming and Play Day committee.

Dealers to Show New Plymouth Cars

The new line of Plymouth automobiles will make their appearance in dealer showrooms in this area on Friday, it was announced.

The New Plymouth is redesigned and streamlined, has a 97-horsepower engine and other changes are said to contribute to beauty, safety and passenger comfort.

While wheelbase has been increased the over-all length has been reduced. Increased visibility is provided in the windshield.

The line includes nine distinct automobiles. The new improvements may be seen in the dealers' showrooms on Friday and after that date.

Members of the Episcopal Parish are planning a parish dinner for Sunday night, at 6:30 o'clock, in the Parish House. Following the dinner a moving picture, "The Rich Young Ruler," will be shown, about 7:30 o'clock. The picture is open to the general public.

BILL WOULD GIVE COUNTY MONOPOLY ON SALE OF BEER

An act to create a board of license commissioners and a liquor control board for Garrett county, giving said board a wholesale monopoly in the sale of beer in said county and relating generally to the operation of the wholesale beer dispensary, subject to a referendum of the voters of the county, was introduced this week by the Garrett county delegation at Annapolis.

Under the bill the Commissioners would appoint three persons as a board of license commissioners and would receive $1,000 a year for their services. The commissioners at present act as a board of license commissioners in regard to granting permits to sell beer, and are entitled to receive $500 each.

Under section 141 the liquor control board would have full power and authority to establish and maintain stores to be known as "County Liquor Dispensaries," but in Garrett County they would be able to sell only beer. The wholesale beer dispensary, if set up, would be located at Oakland, and in the county the monopoly would be over the wholesale sale and distribution of beer.

The net revenues from the dispensary would be paid over to the general funds of the county to be expended for construction, reconstruction and maintenance of county roads, schools and hospitals in the county.

Before such an act, even if passed, would become effective, it would be submitted to the qualified voters of the county in the November, 1950, election.

To Raise Wholesale Fee

In another bill presented by the county delegation a wholesaler's license would be increased by an additional license fee of $300. At present the wholesale beer distributors pay $200.00, it is understood.

In explaining the reason for the bills, a member of the delegation stated that the additional fee would be low "considering the sale of over 100,000 cases of beer sold."

The Delegate member stated that House Bill 564 was very important to the county if it was to have better roads, additional schools and hospital, with a reasonable county tax rate. He was of the opinion that the bill would produce more than $100,000 per year revenue for the county.

Persons here interviewed were of the opinion that it would bring in only $25,000, whereas at present the county was receiving $55,000 from beer tax on bottle caps, etc. They termed it a bill to put the county government in the beer business.

Cancer Quota, $610

Garrett County's quota for 1949 Cancer Campaign is $610.00. This figure was announced today by George P. Mahoney, State Campaign Chairman.

"County quotas have been set on the basis of population and wealth in the county," Mahoney explained. "The State Goal is $230,000."

Heading the campaign in Garrett county is Harry C. Coddington, Oakland. The campaign for funds with which to help carry on the program of education, service, and research in the battle against cancer will be conducted during the month of April.

No Compensation For Idle Miners

That coal miners in Maryland who were in voluntary idleness as the result of the two-weeks' holiday period ordered by John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, would not receive unemployment compensation insurance, was announced by Steven C. Cromwell, director of the Unemployment Compensation division.

This policy had been announced previously. Miners in Pennsylvania were making applications for unemployment compensation in that state.

High in Forestry Work

Garrett county ranked high in various classifications of woodlot work performed by the State Forestry department during 1948, according to a department report.

Garrett had 24 examinations of forest lands, and five re-exams with 9,322 acres being involved in the former and 2,421 acres in the latter. A total of 1,416,929 board feet of timber was marked and it was valued at $27,124.25, to rank fourth in the state.

In the matter of replanting this county ranked first with 251 acres being used.

Dusic, DeBerry and Baumgartner Named

Elected to Oakland City Council Posts in Light Balloting—Julia Rowan Named Treasurer

Emeric G. Dusic, Dr. E. I. Baumgartner and Prentice DeBerry were elected to the Oakland City Council on Monday at the annual municipal election, with less than 20 percent of the people casting their ballot. Miss Julia A. Rowan was named city treasurer.

The candidates had no opposition on the ballot, but there were a number of write-in votes, with two persons getting a sizeable number of votes in this manner. Maurice Brookhart received 32 votes while George Fulk got 19. Robert Lohr, John Stevenson and Herbert Leighton received three each, while lone votes went to Robert Wolfe, Erval Ream, Irvin Ruby, Wilbur Davis and Walter Welch.

Dusic, a new man to city politics, received the highest number of votes among the council contestants, with a total of 81. Baumgartner received 66 and DeBerry 59. The latter two have served several terms in council. Miss Rowan, previous treasurer, received 86 votes and was unopposed. A total of 106 votes were cast.

Hold-over members of council are Harry L. Stemple, Ralph Pritts and Earl Shartzer. Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh also has another year to serve. The council probably will organize at the April meeting.

May Liberalize Cutting Restrictions

Recommendations to further liberalize the cutting restriction of the Forest Conservancy Act, which is now not less than seven inches, are to be made to the Garrett County Forestry Board by the Commission of State Forests and Parks, it was announced this week by Bernard I. Gonder, a member of the Commission.

Mr. Gonder said that regulation 1 of the timber cutting practices was discussed at a regular meeting of the commission recently and that at that time it was decided to make such recommendation.

"This will make the present regulation much more desirable to the farmer, timber owner and timber operator," Mr. Gonder said, "thereby easing the tension now existing for the cutting of timber especially for mine posts and pulp wood."

He pointed out that members of the Commission were aware that one of Garrett county's principal interests is harvesting mine material and pulp wood, and that the commission was anxious to see closer cooperation between the land owner, timber operators and the local forestry board of the respective counties.

He said the suggested changes in the cutting practices under regulation No. 1 for Garrett county would be submitted to the local board at its next regular meeting, for approval, and if accepted, would be published shortly thereafter.

Nurse Hurt as Car Wrecks near Oakland

Miss Clara C. Shaffer, 25, daughter of Mrs. Mary Shaffer, of Swanton, and one of the county health nurses, was injured Tuesday when her automobile overturned several times between Swanton and Oakland.

She was taken to Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, W. Va., in the Bolden ambulance, where she was reported in "fair" condition.

Authorities reported Miss Shaffer was driving toward Oakland for a staff meeting when her car plunged over an embankment and rolled over eight or ten times. Damage to the car was estimated at between $450 to $500.

Miss Shaffer, a former state health nurse, who at one time was stationed in Cumberland, has been in charge of the area between Kitzmiller and Oakland.

Bill Would Set Maximum Building Figures for Schools

A bill which would set maximum figures for the amount of money to be spent for various school buildings in the county, with no provision for the two-high school recommendation, was introduced in the legislature by the Garrett County delegation. The bill, H.B. No. 546, would repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 5 of Chapter 575 of the acts of 1947 relating to the expenditure of monies levied and collected.

Under the bill the County Commissioners would be authorized and directed to erect new high school and elementary school buildings and to improve and make additions to existing high school and elementary school buildings in towns of Oakland, Accident, Friendsville, Kitzmiller, Grantsville, Bloomington and Finzel. The latter two names have been added to the original bill.

The bill further provides in a new section that the funds should be expended as follows, with each of said figures being a maximum amount: Oakland, $885,000, for new high school building; the other amounts for additions and alterations to existing buildings: Kitzmiller, $235,000; Accident, $95,000; Grantsville, $250,000; Friendsville, $125,000; Finzel, $20,000 and Bloomington, $22,000.

The commissioners would be directed to appoint building committees in all places named to advise them as to construction or additions and alterations. The Commissioners were given power in their discretion to pay each member of any such advisory committee member such sum of money as may be set by them to reimburse them for expenses incurred in such advisory activities.

Regular Band Practices

Announcement was made this week that the Oakland Band would have regular practice sessions every Tuesday evening at 7:30.

The members are beginning work on music that will be used during the centennial this year. Refreshments were served at the meeting on Tuesday evening.

Band leaders said they were in need of some band instruments, especially trumpets and cornets, and were seeking the loan of those not now in use.

Plan Track Meet

Plans for resuming the spring track and field meet among the schools of the county were discussed at a meeting on Tuesday afternoon of physical education and health instructors.

They met with Dr. Thomas C. Ferguson, supervisor of health, physical education and recreation of the state department of education; and with R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of schools.

Mr. Hardesty stated that the plans had progressed satisfactorily and he felt sure that the difficulties encountered last year would be ironed out in regard to transportation, etc.

Fire Leaves Couple, 8 Children Homeless

A couple and eight children are homeless as the result of a fire which completely destroyed a two-story frame building and most of its contents on Monday evening, March 7, about 7:30 p. m., three miles from Bloomington. The cause of the fire was not determined.

The home was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wilson. Their children range from 15 years of age down to six months, and as a result of the fire they have very little clothing. At present they are staying at the home of Mrs. Albert Wilson, a neighbor.

Charles Lee, of Bloomington, was in Oakland one day last week obtaining emergency aid from the American Red Cross, and gathering clothing from individuals, but he said much was still needed. Mr. Lee said he would continue to collect for the family and that he could be reached at Bloomington.

The home which was destroyed was located three miles from Bloomington toward Chestnut Grove.

Chamber Speaker Will Discuss Atomic Energy

Announcement that Francis Blake, chief training adviser to the Atomic Energy commission, would be the speaker at the dinner meeting of the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, was made this week by Charles L. Briner, president. The dinner will be held at the William-James hotel, on Thursday evening, March 31.

Briner said Mr. Blake's topic would be "Your Atomic Energy Enterprise," and that the speaker would explain what is happening in the development of atomic energy and the prospects for future development.

Mr. Blake was a former student at Frostburg State Teachers college and was a former teacher in the schools of Allegany county.

Armory Deed Ready For Early Delivery

The deed for approximately four acres of ground, to be used as the site for the new national guard armory in Oakland, has been completed and is in the hands of the attorney for the Board of Education, A. T. Matthews, it was announced this week by R. Bowen Hardesty, county superintendent of schools.

The deed will be turned over to General Milton A. Reckord, of the state guard, within the next few days.

The armory will be located on the corner of 8th and High streets, and construction is expected to start in the very near future. The property was part of the High school athletic field, and satisfactory arrangements for the sale of the property were made recently.

Winter Comes To County A Little Late

March appeared a little more than typical during the past week with downright winter being experienced in this area.

There were cold winds, snow squalls and a variety of weather with the temperatures remaining in the low forties. The high of the week was 44 degrees, on Monday, while the mercury dropped to 13 above zero on Wednesday morning. There have been four days of snow with a total depth of about 5 inches.

Garrett county's winter was being staged apparently for the many families who were returning this week from Florida after vacations in the sunny southland..

13 INDICTMENTS ARE RETURNED BY GRAND JURORS

One For Murder and Three For Manslaughter Among Presentments—Forty-Six Witnesses

An indictment for murder and three for manslaughter were among the thirteen indictments returned by the March Term grand jury which concluded its investigations on Tuesday evening after a two-day session. The jurors had before them 46 witnesses during their deliberations.

Among the indictments were true bills against Andrew Baluch, owner of a road house on route 40, accused of fatally shooting Meno Durst, 27, of Grantsville last November. Baluch was also indicted on a charge of assault with intent to kill in connection with the wounding of Victor Hollada, 32, of near Grantsville, in the same shooting incident; and a third indictment against him is for sale and possession of alcoholic beverages, according to W. Dwight Stover, state's attorney.

Carl Preston Harvey, Kitzmiller, faces an indictment on a charge of manslaughter by truck in the death of Dewey Harrison Whitacre, on the Kitzmiller- Vindex road on February 21. According to officers Whitacre's body was found in a wrecked jeep, and a truck alleged to have been driven by Harvey was discovered some distance from the smaller vehicle.

Two charges of manslaughter by truck are shown in indictments against Robert Broadwater, of Swanton. Broadwater is charged with the death of Aden Wilt, Jr., 34, of Swanton; and Samuel Darr, 46, of Westernport, when a truck left the road near Bloomington and plunged into Savage river.

Broadwater, owner of the truck, waded to safety after the truck righted itself. Both victims drowned in the accident which occurred December 6, 1948.

Stover said other indictments included three for bastardy, one for larceny and several for sale and possession of alcholic beverages. The larceny charge concerned Clarence and Faye McRobie, Kitzmiller, and concerned the theft of a sand dryer from a Kitzmiller coal mine.

The grand jurors recommended that mining laws be amended to provide more fully for the protection and safety of men working in mines and urged a greater effort to detect violations of laws pertaining to sale of alcoholic beverages. They made numerous recommendations about re-

Guaranty of Faith

WNU Features.

"SO YOU think it can't be done? How much says no?"

"Fifty bucks." Hunk Dawson dug into his trousers' picket and produced a roll of bills. "Fifty smackers say your boy don't stay 12 rounds with Mike."

"O. K., I'll take it," agreed Grant Logan. "Joe Steck can hold it."

In the gym Logan watched George Hill dig his gloved fists into the canvas surface of the heavy bag. "Got a fight for you Friday night with Red Mike Croseau," he announced in a matter-of-fact way.

"What do we get out of it?"

"Peanuts," blandly said Logan, examining his nails.

"Then what're we takin' it for? We been through enough prelims and semi-finals to land something decent now. Maybe I need a new manager!"

"Hold it!" snapped Logan. "Red may be eight years older than you, but he's in good shape and he can pin your ears any day. And the smart money lads know it, especially since you lost that last one to Kennedy."

"I wasn't feelin' right for that one, but I'm in top shape now."

"Top shape, huh? Do you think two hours a day in the gym and the whole night in joints keeps you in shape?" Hill sucked in his breath as he took a long step toward his manager.

"Skip it and listen to me. We can beat this game if we use our heads. I've just bet 50 bucks on you to win, even money, with Red's manager."

"It's a cinch," assured Hill.

"That's what I want them to think—that I'm sure you can win. But we're going to bet our shirts on Red. We know you're going to lose!"

"I'm going to what?" yelled Hill, closing the distance between them.

"Look, George," placated his manager. "Mary's a nice girl and a real looker, too. She won't wait forever. And, besides, there's that old shell wound in your shoulder. I'm really not sure that you can win. But I know that you can lose! I can raise about five grand and we should get better than even odds on it if we shop around a bit — on Red, I mean."

Hill searched Logan's face. Finally he nodded.

At the ringside Mary Varner watched the last preliminary bout. Blue-black curls looping from under a small hat contrasted oddly with the blue eyes.

At the opening bell for the main event both men came slowly from their corners. Croseau's chin was well hidden behind his upraised left shoulder. Hill circled his half-crouched opponent, blocked a left jab and countered lightly. Suddenly there was a sound like a wet dish rag slapping the flat surface of a wall. The blow had been short and vicious. Croseau teetered and fell. As the referee's arm came down for the 10th time he was still making awkward efforts to rise to his knees.

Logan stared in slack-jawed disbelief. As his right hand was being raised, Hill waved the other excitedly at Mary.

Logan thrust people savagely aside and entered the dressing room. He glared at the grinning boxer stretched on the rubbing table. "Hill," he ground out, "you're through — finished — washed up. Do you hear me? I thought that girl of yours would talk some sense into you! She crossed me," he fumed, his voice rising. "That simon-pure objection of hers about not wanting you to lay down, and then finally giving me the O. K. because she didn't want Red to flatten that pan of yours! I should have known better. But there is one thing I do know—you are through!"

Hill leaped off the dressing room table and seized both lapels of Logan's coat in his left hand. "I'm through, all right, Logan, because I'm quitting. I didn't know you propositioned Mary about your rotten deal or I'd have bashed you long ago. Fifty bucks guaranty of faith! That was a laugh. Since when have you cared what the fans think of your little deals so long as nobody can pin anything on you? You knew that I could whip Red. And after that spiel of yours I knew that you knew it. I bet on myself to win—and at better than three to one odds. And I'm goin' out like a man, not like a washed-out punk. Beat it while I'm feelin' good." His shove sent his ex-manager thumping into the closed door.

As they walked in the direction of Mary's home, Hill frowned. "Mary, Logan tells me that he spoke to you about some dirty business that he wanted me to do."

"He did, darling, but I wanted you to decide for yourself. You may not have known it, but our future together was at stake."

"I did know it," came the equally sober reply. "One other thing, I can't see Logan tossing 50 dollars away to Dawson even to whitewash his crooked business."

"Remember where I work, darling? The county clerk's office. A month ago I filed an agreement about the management contract of a boxer—one Red Mike Croseau. It was signed by Logan and Dawson—a 50-50 arrangement. That 50 dollars bounced back to Logan like a rubber ball. But I'd like to see both their faces now."

Homemakers' Corner

The calendar tells us to beware of a slump in Vitamin C. According to Miss Margaret McPheeters, extension nutrition specialist, late winter and early spring are the times to give special attention to this vitamin in family meals. Studies of the blood plasma of rural school children have shown that they are likely to be low in ascorbic acid—or Vitamin C—at this season.

One reason is that foods like potatoes, cabbage, apples, canned tomatoes, and other vegetables and fruits gradually lose this vitamin as they stand in storage. Until gardens or markets can offset this loss with fresh produce, families depending on these stored foods for C run short on this vitamin which they need every day for health.

Not only stored, but canned fruits and vegetables also lose C over the winter months. For example in six months' storage may lose ⅔ of the Vitamin C they had at harvest.

The "spring fever," so common in grandmothers day that she dosed her family annually with homemade tonic, now is thought to have come from a shortage of this vitamin. It often went along with aching joints and bleeding gums—the first symptoms of scurvy, the disease caused by a deficiency of C.

Instead of sulphur and molasses which grandmother often administered, nutritionists today advise serving more of the foods rich in C—more Citrus fruits or canned citrus products, more canned tomatoes and juice, more cabbage, more vegetables and fruits generally, as the budget allows. But the nutritionists agree heartily with grandmother in her belief that spring greens, either wild or garden varieties, are excellent "spring tonics."

Cooperative Regional Conference Scheduled

Will Be Held This Evening At Local Hotel

A warning on declining business activity and farm income is being posted for local board members of Southern States Cooperative attending an annual mid-winter regional conference this evening, March 17, at the William-James Hotel, Oakland.

"While there is no fear of any deep depression in the near future, the danger signals are out and it is necessary that we as individauls and as an organization adjust our operations to take into account these changing conditions." That statement was made in a report on Southern States for the first half of the fiscal year, by W. M. Corwin of Richmond, Va., director of information and publications service for the Cooperative.

Attending the conference will be representatives from Terra Alta, Parsons, Petersburg, Davis and Masontown, W. Va., Grantsville, Kitzmiller, Accident, Friendsville and Oakland.

Dr. C. F. McClintic, Williamsburg, W. Va., member of the Cooperative Board of Directors, will preside.

Corwin will present this picture of the farm supply outlook for spring:

Feed—Record 1948 grain crops assure plentiful supply; feed prices have dropped approximately $25 per ton during the last 12 months and prospects are good for favorable feeding ratios.

Fertilizer—With an extreme shortage of both solid and liquid nitrogen, it may not always be possible to provide patrons with what they want, when they want it and where they want it.

Seed—With the exception of alfalfa, timothy and red top, the national supply of legumes and grasses should be ample for spring. Although the supply of Kansas alfalfa is short, Utah and Oklahoma Approved are equally as good.

Petroleum—Supply plentiful. Gasoline may be tight next summer if business conditions are good enough to keep gasoline consumption at high level.

Other Supplies—With the exception of some steel products, miscellaneous farm supplies are available in adequate quantities.

The Legion decided to sponsor a junior baseball team again this year, and Wayne Sowers, manager, said he expected to call a meeting soon.

A report of the Rheumatic Heart and Fever campaign showed contributions placed in the various hearts in the business places amounted to $30.94. The Legion added $50.00 to the amount, making $80.94 which will be turned over to the state organization.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT.

Copyright by The Baltimore Sun and reprinted in The Republican by permission.

Every time the charge is made that the Truman program is heading as straight toward the socialistic state, indignant denials come from Administration publicist—all of them of the professional "liberals" variety. These insist—and may believe—that nationalization of industry or any other form of socialism is alien to the Truman mind and soul.

For example, the inspired suggestion in the President's message of Government entrance into the steel business is soothingly said to have no firm purpose behind it. Despite Senator Murray's modest bill to appropriate $14,000,000,000 to further such a project, we are authoritatively told that "nothing will happen." A similar statement is made about the President's "health insurance" bill. It is say White House spokesmen, a shocking misrepresentation to label this "humane and high-minded" plan an effort to "socialize medicine." Arguments along the same lines are used to explain the militant, if sometime muddled, partiality of the new labor Secretary, Mr. Maurice Tobin, for the labor bosses; the plans hugely to expand the social security system; the refusal to look the Federal fiscal facts in the face, and the utterly indefensible piling of 108,000 more civilian employes on the Government pay roll in less than a year. None of this, it is declared, is with the idea of altering the American way of life or undermining the system of private enterprise. All Mr. Truman is doing is obeying the "mandate" of the last election. The private enterprise system has no firmer friend than he—so they say.

All of which makes more notable the so-called "Economic Stabilization Act of 1949" recently introduced in Congress and strongly backed by the Administration. This bill makes absurd the assurance that no steps are contemplated toward further Government control of industry. In describing it, the New York Times declares that "as a combination of political expediency and arrogant economic planning the measure seems calculated to alienate the support of everyone who believes the American system of free enterprise is not a philosophy that you doff with a change of weather, a change of seasons or even a change in the political complexion of the Administration.

If encated, it would give the President control over private business never before seriously suggested in a time of peace. Under it he could fix prices and wages, regulate profits, put into effect priorities and allocations and use Government money to expand production. It is, in fact, the most thorough-going control over industry proposal ever advanced. With the power conferred on the President therein, private ownership of industry would exist only to the degree the Government chose to let it exist. It is not surprising that business men who have grasped the true purpose of the bill should be shocked. It is not surprising that those who have read it understandingly should be baffled and bewildered as to the real character of this Administration's "economic advisers."

Certainly, no one who voted for Mr. Truman last November could have believed he was voting for this sort of thing. Certainly, no "mandate" to so change the American economic system can be claimed. If Mr. Wallace had been elected it easily might have been possible to so contend, for, actually, Mr. Wallace himself, from time to time, had given utterance to the ideas incorporated in this measure. But Mr. Truman gave no indication of being in harmony with Mr. Wallace's point of view on this or any other line.

That camouflaging it as an anti-inflation move, a national administration can seriously sponsor and support a control bill of this unprecedented charcter is disturbing, even though the prospects of its enactment are dim. The question naturally arises as to why Mr. Truman, who is not a radical at heart and does not really want to wreck the American economy, could be brought to endorse the "Economic Stabilization Act of 1949?" The answer seems to be his "economic advisers." So far as this bill is concerned, though, it is anything save an agricultural bill; it was prepared under the direction of the new Secretary of Agriculture, Charles F. Brannan. Unquestionably, Mr. Brannan is one of the farthest left New Dealers in Washington.

The two others are Dr. Leon Keyserling and Dr. John D. Clark. Testifying recently, Dr. Keyserling said, "No one industry or business can afford to act alone in the interest of stability." If this has any meaning it would seem to be that Government is a better judge of how much industry should produce than the industry itself. Then comes along Dr. John Keyserling's colleague, Dr. Clark, who declares that the President must have the powers requested, "including the right of the Government itself to become a producer." Also, he adds, the enlargement of productive capacity is so essential that neither the concealed danger in any given plan nor the required scope of Government intervention should prevent effective action. In the Economy Stabilization Act of 1949, this Keyserling-Clark-Brannan philosophy is developed and presented. It isn't easy to see how much further in that direction Mr. Wallace could have taken us.

TABLELAND FARMING

Students of soil chemistry usually divide the elements of soil fertility into three classes. The major elements needed for plant growth are nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium (or potash). I guess they are called the major elements because plants need them in large amounts. Some of the others are likely just as important, but needed in smaller quantities..

Secondary plant foods are calcium, magnesium and sulfur. Then there are those classed as minor soil elements, sometimes called trace elements because they are always found in very small quantities in most any soil. It is only recently that the importance of the trace elements has been recognized.

Commercial fertilizers are based on one or more of the three major elements. These fertilizers go by numbers which indicate the content of these elements in the following order: Nitrogen—Phosphorus—Potash. Thus, a 3-12-6 fertilizer contains 3 pounds per hundred of nitrogen, 12 pounds of phosphoric acid and 6 pounds of potash. The other 79 pounds is filler. Most fillers contain some calcium, magnesium and sulfur. We get nitrogen in 3 ways: (1) the fixation of atmospheric nitrogen by nodules on roots of legumes such as clovers and alfalfa, (2) Use of manure and rotting of sod or cover crops, and (3) Use of fertilizers containing nitrogen. All our soils here are low in phosphorus, so we have to supply it in fertilizers. Soils in this section have a good supply of potash, but it becomes soluble, so plants can use it, very slowly. Liming helps release some of the insoluble potash. If you are raising heavy crops of legumes, that feed heavily on potash, you should be adding extra potash in fertilizers.

Of the secondary elements, we get calcium and usually magnesium by liming. Some sulfur is present and more is added thru the use of most ordinary fertilizers.

The trace or minor elements are the ones we don't know too much about. It is known that some of them are essential for good plant growth. Others do not seem to be essential for plants but are necessary for good health of the animals (including people) who eat the crops. Some of these minor elements are iron, copper, zinc, boron, manganese, sodium, chlorine, nickel, molybdenum and iodine.

A few things about these have been known for quite awhile; for instance, that iodine was necessary to prevent goiter. Research scientists are finding out more facts about them all the time.

Tomatoes are supposed to be high in vitamin C content. Yet tomatoes grown in soil with the proper amount of manganese will have 10 times as much vitamon C as those from soil deficient in manganese. All of these things are bound to be reflected in the health of humans and other animals. It is not an accident that the best race horses are raised in the bluegrass region of Kentucky. Something in the soil makes them great horses. Selective Service found that in the region around Colorado seven out of ten registrants were fit for military service. In several of the Southern States only 3 out of 10 were found acceptable. Colorado has soils high in minerals, and a fairly low rainfall. In the southeast heavy rainfall and light soils have resulted in heavy leaching. Then, too, the western soils are newer in agriculture; those in the south have suffered heavy erosion.

Medical science has made great progress in fighting disease by killing germs. It has made comparatively little in combatting the degenerative diseases such as arthritis, heart disease, dental troubles, bone diseases and others not causes by germs. Recent evidence has shown that many of these could be greatly reduced if our food contained all the minerals it should.

Our choice of foods, and modern eating habits result in heavy mineral losses. We pare potatoes and throw away most of the minerals in them. Wheat is a good food, yet we refine our flour by discarding about 14 elements till we have practically pure starch. Then we fool ourselves by enriching the flour by adding about four.

What bearing does all this have to conservation? It means that we must add, by fertilizing, the minerals we know are lacking in the soil. And we must keep them there by preventing erosion. Subsoils may contain the necessary minor and secondary elements, but only in topsoil are they available to plants; and through them to livestock and to us.

Definitely the silhouette of the season in tone on tone combinations of crisply blended rayon-wool gabardine. Priced unbelievably low!

Area Telephone Rates Go Up on April Bill

Residents of the Garrett county area, as well as other parts of Maryland, will be paying bigger telephone bills commencing with the April statements, as the result of a Public Service Commission ruling last Friday.

The PSC authorized the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company of Baltimore City to institute temporary emergency rate increases that will affect business, resident and rural lines alike. The area hike will range from 25 cents to $1.25.

The following new schedule was announced by L. E. Glaser, Oakland manager of the telephone company:

Oakland Area

Individual private line, $3.50 to $3.75; 2-party residence, $2.75 to $3.25; 4-party residence, $2.25 to $2.75; rural residence, $2.25 to $3.00.

Individual business, $5.00 to $6.00; 2-party business, $4.25 to $5.00; rural business, $3.25 to $4.25.

Other Areas

In the Kitzmiller, Accident, and Friendsville areas will be identical and will run as follows, Mr. Glaser pointed out:

Individual private line, $2.75 to $3.50; 4-party residence, $2.00 to $2.50; rural residence, $2.00 to $2.75.

Individual business rate, $4.00 to $5.00; 2-party residence, $3.25 to $4.50; rural business, $2.75 to $4.00.

All schedules are exclusive of the tax which is 15 percent of the total bill. Long distance rates also will increase 5 or 10 cents.

The higher rates will be in effect until the PSC holds hearings and reaches a decision on the company's plea for permanent increases which would boost Maryland's charges about $6,000,000 yearly. The three-man commission split 2-1 on the decision with the chairman John R. Hessey dissenting. He said he feels that the company is entitled to rate relief but that this could wait 90 days while the commission hears and decides the petition for permanent increases.

The company had argued that it needed the temporary emergency boost because getting the permanent increase would likely be a long, drawn out process.

The C. and P. was granted a rate increase early in 1947, its first since 1921, and six months later this was supplemented with another. The two together were calculated to produce an increase of about $3,900,000 in net income. The company now pleads that unless it gets the sought after permanent boost its net will fall below the 5½ percent it is entitled to earn on its capital investment. A company witness recently testified it now stands at about three and one-half percent.

A Free Economy, Only Source of Ample Food and Shelter

Hon. Ralph W. Gwinn, house of representatives member from New York, last August gave members of Congress a sketch of 4,000 years of uninterrupted failure of price controls as applied in the experience of nations from the beginning of civilization.

Because this newspaper is of the opinion that continued price control by the Federal government would cause its downfall, considerable portions of Mr. Gwinn's remarks which were published in the Congressional Record of the 80th congress, are being reprinted herewith, for all good citizens to digest seriously.

That American passion for economic freedom has deep roots in our history becomes clear when one reads the words of the president of Princeton, John Witherspoon, in a letter to George Washington:

"Fixing the prices of commodities has been attempted by law in several States among us, and it has increased the evil it was meant to remedy, as the same practice has done since the beginning of the world."

Controls Tried 4,000 Years Ago

The temptation for people in power to tamper with prices and production seems to be a very ancient human game. Thus, in the Laws of Hammurabi, King of Babylon—2285-2242 B. C.—we find wage controls for boatmen, reapers, threshers, shepherds, laborers, artisans, bricklayers, tillers, stone cutters, milkmen, and carpenters. Regulated also were builders' fees and warehousing, as well as rental of cows in milk, calves, oxen, wagons, and freight and passenger boats. On the basis of historical evidence, we know that ancient history, throughout the changing centuries, is characterized by a never-ending succession of popular upheavals against tyrannical rules and regulations imposed upon the people from above. This continued strife reveals one of the fundamental themes of human history—a struggle between regimentation and freedom.

We find later laws in ancient history, like, for eample, the Hittite Code —1350 B. C.—which was discovered in Baghaz Koi in Asia Minor, that attempted to establish provision for wages and prices. The very fact that such laws had to be abolished or drastically revised under popular pressure indicates that even in ancient times rulers met with deep-seated resentment against their attempts to block the activities and trade of their citizens.

Rome Had Freedom

History tells us that the Roman Republic, under a constitution guaranteeing freedom, became the envy of the "barbarians" of other countries. The glory that was Rome extended throughout what is now western Europe and northern Africa because Rome was the center of freedom. There were no planned economies. As Gibbon tells us, freedom, honor, and justice were universally recognized virtues. And the freedom of Rome extended to its colonies.

The recurrent famines of earlier days were experienced with less and less frequency. Rome gave the civilized world the highest standard of living then known to mankind. But what happened? The leaders reached out for power. The republic became an empire. At first the emperors were cautious. They talked freedom as they planned a police state. Gibbon says, "Augustus was sensible that mankind is governed by names; nor was he deceived in his expectation that the senate and the people would submit to slavery, provided they were respectfully assured that they still enjoyed their ancient freedom. A feeble senate and enervated people cheerfully acquiesced in the pleasing illusion." And so the people were fooled by bread and circuses. They looked to the government to supply more and more of their needs. Production declined everywhere. Prices skyrocketed.

Roman Controls Failed Miserably

Emperor Diocletian decided to maintain his popularity with promises to fix prices and reduce the cost of living. So in A. D. 301, he issued an imperial edict fixing the prices of commodities for the whole Roman Empire. His grandiose scheme was ushered in with a fanfare of benevolent propaganda. In fact, in the preface to the edict, the Roman Emperor shows an insight into the laws of psychological propaganda technique which is as startling as it is up to date. He assures his people that the coming economical control system is built on the highest motives of making the whole nation participate "in the blessings of that peace for which we have laboriously striven." He continues that in order to make this price-fixing system work, it is necessary for the rulers like "watchful parents of the whole human race" to help the people with remedies from above, and that such measures have become necessary, since humanity cannot achieve such good results by its own free action.

The edict goes on to explain how the people have become greedy; how exorbitant profits were being made; how monopoly was running wild; and the people, therefore, needed protection from foes within as well as foes without. The only cure was a complete over-all control of food, clothing, wages, and so forth. Reading the list of commodities which the Emperor asked his Chester Bowles of that day, Maximianus, to take control of, reads astonishingly like our own modern OPA lists: Farm products, dyes, needles, feathers, filling for upholstery, seeds, wine, oil, meat, fats, poultry, sea food, building timber, wooden posts, finished wagons, agricultural implements, and so on ad infinitum.

In order to enforce his imperial law, Diocletian built up a huge bureaucracy to administer his universal price-control system. A contemporary observer has characterized the situation in the following words: "The number of ministers, of magistrates, of officers, and of servants who filled different departments of the state, multiplied beyond the example of former times."

Because the scarcity of production was heightened by the interference from price-control laws, prices on consumers' goods in the actual market rose to catastrophic heights. The control system which was put into operation to combat inflation, in this manner actually created inflationary trends which broke the backbone of the economic life of a great empire. Everywhere the results soon became visible: Building and construction stopped entirely. The arts and sciences fell into decay to such an extent that modern historians can recognize immediately the crudity and purility of the craftsmanship of this period. Artistic creativeness and inventive skill did no longer thrive in this new atmosphere of economic tyranny.

History goes on to point out that while the economic waste was incredible the trades sank to ever lower levels. Poverty was created among the broad masses, while the merchants and small entrepreneurs were impoverished into bankruptcy. Landowners and manufacturers, who were the hardest hit, lost interest in a system of economic slave control that took away the private inventiveness and enterprise of the human genius.

In the realm of agriculture the situation became so bad that the Emperor found it necessary to order the farmers and the farm laborers controlled by serfdom under state supervision. That this measure could lead to a worsening of the agricultural situation is perfectly explainable by the well-known historical law, that soil tilled by slave labor never yields abundant fruits such as land cultivated by free farmers.

To meet this general extremity of national economics, the Emperor, therefore, naturally turned to the device which is as common as it is artificial, namely, of exorbitant taxation. Taxes and surtaxes multiplied in a hopeless effort to fill an ever-empty treasury.

The long-range effect on the Roman Empire was directly connected with the economic destruction of the greatest empire of ancient history.

It is not surprising that kings, who were notorious for their excessive egotism, should be found in the list of rulers bent upon price control. There is Philip IV, of France, who, in 1306, antedated Hitler's Jewish pogroms by six centuries, and who created a dire scarcity of wheat, bread, and clothing throughout his nation by his price-control system.

There are English kings, like Henry III and George II, who tampered with prices of grain and bread until Parliament rose up in indignation and repealed these royal price-control attempts.

There was Edward II, who, on an island like England, hit upon the ridiculous scheme of safeguarding production level on sea food by a control system which was inaugurated as a benefit for the people, but actually turned out to be such an impossible flop that all fish disappeared from the markets in the British Isles.

Early American OPA's

Coming now to the United States, we find the resistance to Government tampering with the laws of supply and demand greatest of all. A limited price control was attempted during the American Revolutionary War, but the alert and freedom-loving citizens, taught by experience, soon totally rejected this Government interference with the economic life of the States.

In Connecticut, Governor Trumbull warned in a public statement:

"If we affix a low price to provisions and articles of importation we shall find that the farmer will cease to till the ground for more than is necessary for his own subsistence, and the merchant will not risk his fortune on a small and precarious prospect of gain."

The good Governor was really advocating what later generations prefer to call controlled inflation, even though he must be excused for not knowing the modern devices of economic deception called farm subsidies and cost-plus contracts.

The Continental Congress in its meeting of April 8, 1788, declared:

"It hath been found by experience that limitation on the prices of commodities is not only ineffective for the purpose proposed, but likewise productive of very evil consequences to the great detriment of the public service and grievous oppression of individuals."

In 1779, the last brief attempt was made at price fixing as a remedy to control a deeply wounded war economy. On May 25, 1779, the town of Boston adopted a price schedule for 15 articles on a month-to-month basis. And in July of the same year, a State convention at Concord adopted a general price level.

As soon as the fortunes of war turned, the States rid themselves of the fruitless and scarcity-producing price-control system, which they had grasped in a moment of panic. It is to the undying glory of the men and women of the Revolutionary period that a whole year before Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown, all the States had already repealed their price-control laws.

Such was the depth of their belief in freedom as a producer of goods and services. Price control in America was over—not again to be revived for 160 years.

They fought not merely for independence. They fought for freedom and learned right in the middle of war itself that freedom produces more food and clothing and shelter than controls can produce. They emancipated freedom from Europe and European controls.

To exercise such power now is sheer usurpation. It was the adoption of our Constitution with its limitation on control that brought the new era of food and shelter. We need to remind ourselves that this era started right here in America.

The planned economies of lords, kings, and dictators have always resulted in famine and want.

Freedom, which is synonymous with ample food and shelter, is the first great achievement of modern times. Under the Constitution, Americans were free to own their lands, work out their own plans, and enjoy the fruits of their labor without regulations by authority or oppressive taxation. With this freedom has come agricultural science and invention of machinery, increased supplies of food, intellectual advance, improved means of communication, steam, electricity, and all the wonders that only the imaginative and creative minds and spirits of free men and women may comprehend for the future blessings of mankind.

Mr. Speaker, this debate has clarified one fundamental thing; namely, the fact that we are today witnessing the old, old fight between two contradictory political systems of government. On the one hand we have the advocates of government control over national life and national production. They willingly abandon freedom. To adopt price controls in peacetime would be clear proof that the European idea of government control and government domination and compulsion has moved permanently into the political philosophy and political life of this great Republic.

Those who do not believe that freedom will solve our economic problems should stop fooling themselves. They continue to talk about freedom, but they do not really believe in it. They give lip service to liberty, but the moment the test comes they call for continued and increased power for public officials.

Mr. Speaker, the test is here. The test has been long overdue. Are we going to give our people, and the rest of the world true statesmanship, built on first principles?

I am reminded of the words of a free American from the debate on price regulations of February 14, 1777, in the Continental Congress, where Mr. Benjamin Rush stated:

"The salvation of this continent depends upon the authority of this Congress being held as sacred as the cause of liberty itself. It becomes us, therefore, to be careful of the remains of our authority and character."

It is deplorable that 15 years of false indoctrination has dulled our sense of liberty, our passion for its products.

I agree with Mr. Chester Bowles that "what is at stake is our entire economic future," only I believe that our future, as our glorious past, should be dedicated to freedom and faith and not to price control and fear.

We have corruption and we have black markets because we have man-made control instead of adherence to that fundamental law called the law of supply and demand. A natural law which is as inevitable and basic as the law of gravity cannot be set aside by any law even of Congress. Freemen meeting in a free market doing their free selling and buying proves to be far more honest in the long run than people who have Government officials looking over their shoulders every time they turn or every time they finish a product. Freedom is more honest than government and so much more productive.

Everything that is happening now points to the fact that if we now continue to substitute expediency for faith in freedom we are on the road to weakening more and more the central idea upon which the Republic was founded. We are on the way to corruption and disintegration. To guarantee that this catastrophe shall not happen to the last bastion of free economy in the whole world we must keep free from price controls and hold fast to our free economy.

If we cannot read history so well or act so courageously as our forefathers in dealing with price controls, we can imitate them. Let us take a leap of faith in freedom if we would have food, clothing, shelter, and the good life.

Care Recommended In Transplanting Young Fruit Trees

Considerable care should be exercised when young fruit trees are moved from the nursery to an orchard or yard where soil fertility and other conditions may be less favorable.

Dr. A. Lee Schrader, of the Horticulture Department at the University of Maryland, points out that when trees are dug for shipment, part of the root system is inevitably lost. After the trees have arrived, new roots—sufficient to supply water and minerals to the entire tree—must be grown in order to insure normal development. Lack of adequate root growth, Dr. Schrader warns, often results in death of the tree or, at best, a poor growth of new shoots, particularly where the soil is low in certain minerals. Therefore, it is important that soil conditions be made as favorable as possible to aid root development and mineral intake.

After a new fruit tree has been properly planted, Dr. Schrader recommends the following steps:

1. Applications of a mixed fertilizer, such as 7-7-7 or 10-10-10, about two weeks after growth starts and again about one month later. Use one pound of fertilizer per tree, applied to the soil surface, but not closer than six inches to the tree trunk.

2. Strip cultivation along the tree row, except with replants in a sod orchard, until June 30 followed by a mulch application.

3. Application of a straw or hay mulch to which some manure is added. If no manure is available, use only straw or hay plus nitrate of soda, keeping the mulch about twelve inches from the tree trunk.

4. Fertilizer and dolomitic limestone applications to the sod or cover crop growing between the tree rows, using mixed fertilizers according to crop grown.

Sometimes we feel like a Drum Major

What a spot a drum major is in. When he does a good job, all is well. But heaven help him if he drops the baton!

We know how he feels. We handle the world's Number One cars and trucks . . . and folks watch us as closely as they watch any drum major. But we have no intention of making a slip—dropping the baton, so to speak.

We have too much at stake.

* * * * * *

Chevrolet has sold more cars and trucks over the past 18 years than any other manufacturer. As Chevrolet dealers, we have shared in that record of leadership.

And, we are proud to say, we have shared in Chevrolet's postwar record. Since the war, Chevrolet has proved its right to leadership by delivering half a million more cars and trucks than any other manufacturer. Chevrolet was first to deliver a million cars and trucks in a postwar year.

Yes, we're out in front . . . knowing only too well that there's more to leading a parade than just marching.

For in spite of Chevrolet's outstanding record of new car and truck deliveries, still more folks want Chevrolets. Until everyone who wants a Chevrolet has one, we have our work cut out for us. Like the baton-twirling drum major, we must concentrate on the job at hand in order to win the applause of the crowd.

* * * * * *

And the job at hand, as we see it, is to support Chevrolet 100% in its established policy of delivering to the public as many cars as possible . . . at the lowest possible price.

Along the Potomac to Washington

By J. Glenn Beall

The signing of the North Atlantic Pact is now scheduled to take place in Washington the first week in April. The Pact will not be submitted to the Senate for ratification as a treaty, as required by the Constitution, until after it has been signed by the nations entering into it. Last week Secretary of State Acheson submitted a rough draft of the Pact of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate in executive session. Other members of the Senate who must vote on ratifying the Pact will not be advised as to what it contains until after it has been signed.

While the provisions of the North Atlantic Security Pact are still considered a "top secret," it is rumored the signatories thereto will be bound by the Pact for a period of ten years; that the Pact may be extended an additional ten years; that signatory nations will be bound to defend any Pact nation attacked by an aggressor; that an attack on occupation troops of any nation will be considered an aggression against such nation; that the United States will furnish certain military supplies and other aid to its allies; and, finally, the Constitutional requirement that only Congress can declare war will be recognized, altho actually American entry into the Pact will bind this nation morally to go to war to protect the other signatories in case of attack.

President Truman spent last week vacationing at Key West, Florida, while tired and angry members of the Senate continued the famous filibuster against a proposed change in the rules which would permit early consideration of the Administration's civil rights legislative program. Before leaving Washington he submitted to the Congress two messages in which he called for reorganization of the National Defense Establishment and of the State Department along the lines recommended by the Hoover Commission. Under the reorganization plan for the National Defense Establishment the Secretary of National Defense would become in fact, as well as in name, the top man in our national defense setup, while the Secretaries of War, Navy and Air Forces would become secondary officials acting as assistants to the Defense Secretary.

H.R. 2945, a bill introduced by Representative Murray of Tennessee, at the request of the Postmaster General, is attracting a great deal of attention both in and out of Congressional circles. Under its provisions most postal rates would be heavily increased. While first class mail and air mail rates would remain the same, cost of postal cards would be increased from one cent to two cents. Second class mail rates would be from two to five times higher than at present. Third class mail would be increased from 50 percent to 200 percent. Fourth class mail rates would also increased. If the proposed new postal rates are put into effect many small newspapers and magazines will probably be forced out of business, while others will have to heavily increase subscription and advertising rates. It is charged the proposed increases in third class mail rates will seriously injure business which must depend upon direct mail advertising, and will interfere with sale and distribution of books. The Postmaster General insists the new rates are necessary to make the Post Office Department self-supporting. The postal service, however, has actually been self-supporting for only a very few years in the nation's history. Past experience has proven that whenever mail rates are made too high the American people quit using that particular class of postal service, with the result Post Office Department deficits are increased rather than decreased.

The Treasury Department has just filed with the Congress a report which should be of great interest to those who believe the well-to-do are not paying their full share of taxes. The report shows that only 4.23 percent of those paying taxes have incomes of more than six thousand dollars a year, but that this 4.23 percent actually pay 51.27 per cent of all income taxes, while the remaining 95.77 percent of all income taxpayers pay 48.73 percent of the total income tax collected. In other words, out of the fifty-two million six hundred thousand persons filng Federal income tax returns in 1942, two million two hundred and twenty-seven thousand paid more than one-half the total tax collected. Total income taxes collected for the year, the report states, was just over sixteen billion dollars. Ninety-four Americans reported incomes of more than one million dollars each.

Under The Dome

I again voiced my opposition to the St. Lawrence Seaway Project. I do not feel that the benefits derived from such a project would justify the cost.

I met with the District Engineers to discuss the future program for the Savage River Dam. The first phase of the completion of the dam has been started and I have requested the appropriations committee for $1,700,000 as recommended by the Bureau of the Budget to carry on this work.

What Does 4-H Mean?

from Miss Eleanor K. Dearborn, Home Demonstration Agent

Over 13,000 Maryland boys and girls took time out to observe National 4-H week, March 5-13, with appropriate window displays, banquets, and special programs. Do you know what the 4-H club stands for?

"To make the best better" is the challenging motto of this organization. To this task, each member pledges "his head to clearer thinking, his heart to greater loyalty, his hands to larger service, and his health to better living for his club, his community, his country, and his world." The emblem of the 4-H Club is a four leaf clover with a white H on each petal. These four H's stand for the training of the hands, head, heart and health mentioned in the pledge. The green symbolized the open country and the white stands for purity.

Not only are the 4-H members learning better ways of homemaking and agriculture through their club work, but they are gaining a deep appreciation of the democratic way of life. Let's give them our support in 1949.

Better Living the 4-H Way

National 4-H Club Week was observed March 5-13. No better tribute to the 4-H Clubs could be given than the one by the late Dr. C. B. Smith, Associate Director of the Federal Extension service.

"Four-H work is a kind of training in which rural youth learns better ways of farming and homemaking, better ways of working together in groups and on community matters, better ways of living. It recognizes the basic educational values of farm life. It puts the emphasis on self-reliance, character, and an appreciation of the things of the open country. It makes good homes, good citizens, and a cultural rural life."

Leadership School

Lesson for March 20, 1949

IT TAKES more than a call of God to be a Christian leader. It takes study, it takes work. The call is necessary, of course, but it is not all. Jesus set the church an example here as always. He called his Twelve; but he was not so foolish as to think that just because he had called them they were all ready to go out and take the lead. Jesus put them through what may be called the first Leadership Training School in the history of the Christian church.

Dr. Foreman

* * *

Who Was Enrolled?

THE TWELVE Apostles were the training class. Not all Jesus' disciples were equal to it; perhaps some of them actually did not have the time. But these Twelve had already been set off from the others, not because they were better men, but in order to do more direct service in Christ's name. There was nothing formal about Jesus' training school.

It met wherever he was at the time—in a house, or by the roadside, or on a hill-top. There were no set hours, no textbooks, credits or diplomas.

Jesus kept it going to the very end, for even after the Resurrection, as Luke tells us (in Acts 1) he was still teaching his Twelve.

* * *

What Did They Study?

THERE WAS no printed circular, no bulletin, no prospectus or catalogue. All the "courses" amounted to just one thing: learning to do what Jesus was doing. To this day, that is the aim of all Christian training. Mark and Luke mention at least four things Jesus' training-school students learned from him: preaching, healing the sick, feeding the hungry, and praying. It would not be quite true to say that part of what they learned was spiritual and part practical, for there is nothing more practical than praying as Jesus taught it, and Jesus never ministered to people's physical needs without touching their spirits too.

Many a person now in some hospital for the insane need not have gone there if he had had the help that a well-trained minister can give.

Ministers today are not taught how to perform miracles like the feeding of the 5,000; but knowing that people's physical well-being has a gread deal to do with their spiritual welfare, the alert young Christian minister of today will be keenly interested in Christian social action.

* * *

How Did They Learn?

THE TWELVE learned by doing. It is the only way you learn anything of a practical nature. Memorizing a textbook, memorizing rules, is not learning. You have learned how to do a thing only when you can do it. Of course you have to see it done, first. A boy on the farm learns to be a farmer by watching his father and helping him, more than from school courses in agriculture, useful as they are. There is nothing to take the place of apprenticeship under one who knows. So Jesus' Twelve watched him, listened to him, helped him, before they were trusted on their own.

* * *

Will It Still Work?

THE METHODS Jesus taught are just as effective today as they ever were. Not all churches nowadays follow his line to the letter; in fact, most churches do not. But the basic principles which Jesus drilled into his first traveling representatives are still good. One is faith.

Missionaries in the 20th Century are required to take a great deal more equipment with them to their fields than one pair of shoes, one cane and an empty purse. Yet who can deny that any missionary of any church in China or in Korea today, must live by faith from day to day?

Another of Jesus' principles was direct contact. People are not won to Christ chiefly by sermons from pulpits, but by in-the-home contacts. Ministers know this, missionaries know it; Sunday school teachers ought to know it too. Getting acquainted with your boys and girls at their homes, and being a friend to them there, is what will give your Sunday teaching its greatest force and success.

THE STRENGTH OF THE CROSS

The Cross of Christ has survived the ages. It has stood the test of time; it has weathered the storms of adversity and oppression—always triumphantly.

This gives men hope. For life travels in a strange cyclic pattern of births and deaths. Little in human relations is intelligible, little shows progress. Nations rise and fall, battles are fought and won, only to be reenacted time and time again across the stage of history until the whole scheme of life seems meaningless and futile.

But always there is the Cross! Whether it be of massive stone or delicate gold and silver, still it gives men that courage and purpose which are so necessary for successful living in this perplexing world.

You can find this strength of the Cross in your church. Plan to attend worship services next Sunday, and bring your family and friends.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) for the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Grand Jury Charge Is Given by Judge Bruce

Explains Important Duties Falling Upon Grand Jurors in Their Deliberations

An explanation of the important duties falling upon grand jurors was given Monday morning by Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., as he delivered the charge to those chosen prior to beginning their deliberations.

At the conclusion of the address the grand jurors retired to the grand jury room to inquire into the several matters to be brought before them by W. D. Stover, State's Attorney, and to make their usual investigation of the county buildings.

The complete address of Judge Bruce follows:

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:

To you, under your oath, is committed in the preservation of the peace of this County, the examination of witnesses in order to bring to light all violence, outrage, and terror, and that which has or may occasion any danger, disturbance, or fear in any citizen of this County. You are watchmen, so to speak, to survey the violations of the law, if any, and inquire where and by whom and in what way the laws have been violated.

Grand Juries are the bulwark of liberty; and unless you find there is reasonable ground that an accused person has committed the crime charged; it is your duty to refuse to find an indictment and by that you prevent innocent persons being put to the humiliation and expense of a trial.

The Grand Jury, and in fact the Courts are never to function in the support of malice or the gratification of private revenge; this is extremely important. Hostility, prejudice, or bias must not enter into your deliberations.

You do not try cases; you have nothing to do with the sentences which have or may be in the future imposed, or any means which may be taken to rehabilitate a person who has been convicted. Those matters, of course, are of interest to you as members of the community, but not as Grand Jurors.

In your investigations, you should receive only that which you believe to be legal evidence. The State's Attorney is your legal advisor on such evidence. You should consider all evidence before you which may throw light on the matter under investigation, whether it tends to establish, in your judgment, the innocence or guilt of the accused. In some instances, you may conclude that it would be useless to indict as you may be convinced from what evidence you have heard, a conviction could not be secured.

You are an accusing body, and the question to be decided by you in determining whether to indict or not, is "Do you believe from the evidence before you, unexplained and uncontradicted as it stands, a crime has been committed"; if you do, you should indict; if not, then dismiss the matter. There should not be any arbitrary or quick-tempered action in your deliberations, but your deliberations should be calm and considered.

It is not your duty, as Grand Jurors, to undertake to regulate, control, or investigate the private affairs or lives or morals of the people of this County unless you have reason to believe their conduct constitutes a violation of the laws of the State. Nor are you public censors of other people's affairs. Grand Juries, by their action, affect the lives of others, when one's conduct affects the violation of the criminal law. You must guard yourselves well against malice or prejudice.

The usual sources of information on which indictments will be based are: Those cases where alleged offenders are confined in the County Jail; Those cases where alleged offenders have been admitted to bail; Matters which may be called to your attention by the State's Attorney; Matters which you may discover in the course of your investigation of other cases which have come before you; and Matters which arise through the observation of some of your own members.

When you have heard the testimony on matters presented to you, you are to decide whether or not an indictment is to be returned and that is to be decided by the members of the Grand Jury alone, without anyone in the room, other than the Grand Jurors.

It is your duty to visit the County Jail and inquire into its condition, the manner in which it is kept, and the treatment of the prisoners.. It is customary for you to inspect the Court House and to make such recommendations as you see fit for such improvements, both to the Court House and the Jail. You are to examine and inspect the books of the County Treasurer. You are not to make an audit, as the State at regular intervals attends to that.

Upon your retirement, you will organize your body by the appointment of two of your number as Clerks to the Grand Jury. The State's Attorney, Clerk of the Court, and Sheriff are at your service.

The recent mine disaster in Garrett County should remind you to make such investigation of mine conditions in Garrett County as you may find necessary, and in the furtherance of that investigation you have the right to summon the Mine Inspector before you.

Gentlemen, be ever mindful of your oath and your obligation as citizens. We are living in an ever-changing picture of a world of which you are an important part, along with all others in this nation. We had thought that the battle for freedom of the individual had been won, but we have a rude awakening to the slavery of other peoples and for us in the midst of all the turmoil and confusion we face today; that believing in our absolute dependence upon God; there is another eternal force that is like a rock upon which to stand and that is the force of Americanism, as it reaches to the innermost heart and soul of us all.

The Court is satisfied you will do your duty as Grand Jurors.

The Clerk will swear the Bailiff.

He holds a "bug" that's looking for trouble

This man is a member of the telephone central office maintenance force. The "gadget" he has in his hand is an electronic device which he calls a "bug."

When it's raining, this "bug" is used inside the central office where telephone wires terminate. It can test as many as 6,000 wires an hour. If moisture is causing a leakage of current in any drop wire (the wire that connects your house with the telephone pole), the "bug" locates it. A repairman can then be sent out to fix the "trouble" before you notice it.

Out of sight—but never out of touch

Next to seeing your family and friends in person, there's nothing quite so satisfying as talking with them by Long Distance. If you have any youngsters away from home, why not set aside a special night each week for those pleasant Long Distance chats that keep them close to the family circle?

The cost is small and most calls go through while you hold the line. Some typical low Long Distance rates are quoted on the inside front cover of your telephone directory.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 73. OAKLAND'S HUNDREDTH YEAR THE REPUBLICAN'S SEVENTY-THIRD OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., MARCH 24, 1949. NUMBER 4.

Thought For Americans . .

Following are quotes from an address of Benson Ford, Ford Motor Company, before the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce, February 28, and they have meaning for every good American:

"We all talk so much about the material benefits which we have achieved in this country that I think we may sometimes forget that our accomplishments stand on a religious foundation. Any future accomplishments must stand on the same ground. We can't hope to do anything significantly new unless we work toward high purposes—unless we keep a sound balance between the material and the moral."

"At a time when the whole idea of a free society is being attacked by selfish interests in many parts of the world, it is especially important that we see ourselves clearly so that we can pass judgment on the plans of those amateur mechanics who want to take our social and economic machine apart—and who might leave us by the side of the road with some important gears missing."

"Someone recently remarked that the 'Iron Curtain' would be torn down overnight if all the people behind it had an opportunity to spend one evening with a modern American mail-order catalog. While we, in America, are not shut in by any iron curtains, it is nevertheless true that we have a job of understanding the problems and viewpoints of other countries. I think that is a job for young men."

"It is the duty of citizenship not only to understand one's neighbors, but to make oneself understood by them."

"Our responsibilities as citizens do not end when we have gone to the polls and voted. The rights which we have today as American citizens are a trust which we must guard and pass along to our successors—enriched, if possible."

"If I had to select the one characteristic which distinguishes a free country, I think I would say that it is a faith in the individual and a conviction that each of us has not only rights, but responsibilities."

"If many of us are to become missionaries of the American faith, we must understand not only ourselves but other people throughout the world."

To Demonstrate Use of Sodium Fluoride to Prevent Tooth Decay

Program To Include Three Grades of Oakland Elementary

A program demonstrating the use of sodium fluoride as a preventative of dental decay will be inaugurated in the Oakland Elementary school in the near future, officials of the County Boards of Education and Health announced this week.

The demonstration will be financed by the United States Public Health Service. It will be directed by the Division of Oral Hygiene of the State Department of Health. The project has the hearty endorsement of local practicing dentists. The program is expected to serve the dual purpose of illustrating to dentists the technique of application by which an average 40% reduction in dental decay may be effected among children treated and, second, to publicize this preventative measure among parents of school age children. At an early date in April a "demonstration team" comprised of a dentist, two dental hygienists and a clerk will be assigned to Garrett county. Since only a short time is possible in each area, it will be necessary to limit the service to the second, fifth and sixth grades.

The children of these grades will first receive a dental inspection; this will be followed by a cleansing of the teeth and a series of four applications of the sodium fluoride solution. This treatment has repeatedly been shown to result in a decrease in future dental decay.

Conferring recently with R. Bowen Hardesty, County Superintendent of Schools on the program were Dr. George A. Nevitt, U.S.P.H. Service Dental Consultant; Dr. John Fulton, Children's Bureau Dental Consultant; Dr. John E. Frank, dentist with the demonstration unit assigned to Maryland and Dr. Richard C. Leonard, Chief, Division of Oral Hygiene, Maryland State Department of Health. In proposing the project to Mr. Hardesty they were unanimous in their urging him to stress the need for a correct understanding of the benefits and limintations of fluoride in partially preventing tooth decay. They emphasized that:

Fluoride does not prevent all future decay, and effects a reduction in decay only in those teeth present at the time of treatment and that applications may be made only by trained dental personnel.

It is anticipated that the team will spend from one week to ten days in Oakland. All children of the designated grades will be treated unless parents specifically request otherwise. Parents are invited to visit the school to observe the program.

To Give Program

On March 27th at 10 a. m., the Sunday school department of Deep Creek Baptist church, will give a missionary program entitled, "We are Ambassadors for Christ." It will portray a world traveler, a Missionary from Africa, a G. I. from the Pacific Theater and several other characters.

The bill was referred to the Senate Judicial Proceedings committee where another bill to revise the state mining code is being held pending a report of a committee headed by Assistant Attorney General Joseph D. Buscher.

County Jail Rated High in State Report

The annual State Board of Correction report has rated the Garrett county jail highly.

The report indicated there were no complaints by those committed as to the food, that there were no bed bugs or vermin and that the plumbing was working properly.

It pointed out that the county had made arrangements to have showers installed for female and juvenile sections of the jail. It recommended that with so few prisoners that it was more economical to have it run by the sheriff than to appoint a warden, but also recommended the fee system for food be eliminated. At present the sheriff is allowed 80 cents per day to feed each prisoner.

While there was no special place for juvenile offenders it was pointed out that they could be isolated from other prisoners, and that the space for women prisoners was more than adequate.

The board again recommended the removal of prisoners to Allegany county and using the present jail as a lock-up only.

That members of the State Roads Commission and a representative of the Federal government in regard to road construction, would be in Garrett county in the near future to go over the possibilities of improved roads into the county's recreational areas, was announced this week by J. Edward Helbig, president of the Board of County Commissioners.

Mr. Helbig said he and other members of the Board, Stuart F. Stahl and Jonas W. Sines, and also W. W. DeWitt, county roads engineer, had met last Wednesday morning with members of the State Roads Commission and Senator Neil C. Fraley and that the trip to Garrett county was decided at that time.

Mr. Helbig also attended a meeting of Uniform Accountants in Baltimore on Tuesday, and that before returning to Oakland last week the group visited the Charles Town hospital, at Charles Town, W. Va., to obtain information that would be valuable to them in completing arrangements for the county Memorial hospital.

Spankle Apprehended

Edgar Spankle, sought by police following an automobile collision on the Deer Park-Mt. Lake highway on March 5, was apprehended by Deputy Sheriff Paul W. Fisher in Altoona, Pa., and returned to Garrett county for a hearing.

At the hearing before Magistrate H. A. Loraditch, Spankle pleaded guilty to charges of unauthorized use of an automobile and reckless driving.

A truck, driven by Spangle, struck the automobile driven by James Bell, Jr., causing damage estimated at several hundred dollars. Spangle was fined the minimum in such cases.

Resigns Post

Thomas F. Conlon has resigned as assistant state veterans service officer for the Maryland Veterans commission, effective when his commission as postmaster at Cumberland is received.

BERNARD W. MOON FATALLY INJURED WHEN HIT BY CAB

Oakland Man Dies in Memorial Hospital Sunday Morning—Accident Occurred Saturday Night

Bernard Windell Moon, 38, World War II veteran, was fatally injured Saturday night when he was struck by a taxicab as he was walking toward his home at Rosedale, west of Oakland.

—Republican Engraving.

He died without regaining consciousness Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock in Memorial hospital, Cumberland, where he was admitted about midnight Saturday. Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner for Allegany county, said death resulted from a concussion of the brain and internal injuries. Moon also suffered compound fractures of both lower legs.

According to Trooper Glen D. Folk of the Maryland State Police, Moon was struck about 10:05 p. m., by a taxicab, owned by E. L. Germain, Oakland, and operated by Daniel Lester Riley, Oakland.

Driver Exonerated

At a hearing before Magistrate H. A. Loraditch on Monday afternoon, the driver was found not guilty of a charge of manslaughter by automobile. It was testified that the driver had taken several fares to Crellin and was returning to Oakland when the accident occurred.

The driver told authorities he was partially blinded when the driver of an oncoming car failed to dim headlights of his vehicle. He added he saw the pedestrian, facing oncoming traffic, when he was about 150 feet away but that as he got almost even with the man he saw him stumble into the path of the car, Trooper Folk said. He said the right front of the taxicab struck the man.

Sheriff J. S. Teats and Deputy Sheriff Paul W. Fisher conducted the initial investigation and Moon was examined by Dr. A. E. Mance.

Met Father's Fate

It was recalled that the man's father, George Moon, was killed in a similar accident, near the same spot, about 20 years ago by a hit and run driver.

Moon was born at Sunnyside, south of Oakland, December 26, 1910, a son of Mrs. Etta Sell Moon, of Rosedale, west of Oakland, and the late George Frederick Moon. He resided with his mother.

He was inducted into the service April 10, 1943, at Baltimore, and served in the European theatre for a period of more than two years, attaining the rank of staff sergeant. He was in the Ardennes and Rhineland campaigns and participated in the battle of the Bulge. He wore the good conduct medal, the European-African-Middle Eastern theatre ribbon and the World War II Victory ribbon. He received his honorable discharge on January 6, 1946.

He was employed as a laborer in and around Oakland, and was a member of Proctor Kildow Post No. 71 American Legion.

Surviving are his mother, three brothers, Charles F. Moon, Keyser, W. Va.; Robert J. Moon and Willard A. Moon, of Oakland; one sister, Mrs. Oscar Liller, Hopemont, W. Va.

Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday afternoon from the Bolden Funeral home at 2 o'clock with Rev. Luther L. Hare, pastor of the Lutheran church, officiating. Interment was in the Red House cemetery.

Oakland firemen were called to Crellin Tuesday evening as the result of an automobile fire. There was no damage.

It was the first call this month.

Paragraph Opinions

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: It's only a question of a few more billions until the one who's going to need Federal Aid the most will be Uncle Sam." Isn't that the truth? And its your money, too!

"Back into the Fold"

Those words were used in a news item this week, and the persons who made them was probably unaware of their significance.

The item concerned the invitation of Allegany county to bring Garrett County "back into the fold" in getting our farm people to cooperate in making the Cumberland Fair a bigger and better event in the future.

It's time to cooperate, but what we'd like to see would be some concentrated interest in putting the Garrett County fair back on the map. With the assistance from the State Fair board, this ought not to be too difficult a task. Fairs are run successfully in other counties.

Another item attracted our attention this week also, just as it did about the same time last year. The jail investigators again recommended that prisoners from Garrett county jail be removed to Allegany county and the jail here be used as a lock-up only.

We'd eventually be right back where we started in 1872 or thereabouts. The next move would be to remove the court trials to Allegany county. If we are not careful Allegany county will want to remove Deep Creek Lake from this area and tack it onto Wills Creek.

Delegate Ronald E. McIntire claimed he was surprised at our stand against putting the county into the beer business. We re-state the conviction just to make it clear. We are not concerned with beer wholesalers as such. We are concerned with them as managers of a private business and are opposed to governments in business—anybody's business.

In regard to the bill to give the county a wholesale monopoly in the sale of beer Delegate McIntire pointed out that the $55,000 now received by the county from a tax on battle caps, would still be received, and in addition that much or more from the profit that distributors now make. He based his statement on the sale of 2½ million bottles of beer and a net profit of at least 2 cents on each bottle sold.

Suit Over Plane Docketed

Suit was docketed in Circuit Court of Allegany county last week for $7,500 against the Insurance Company of North America, by the Green Glade Airways, Inc., in an effort to recover a claim for a destroyed airplane.

The company was located on the Green Glade inlet of Deep Creek Lake. The suit explained that the company paid the insurance firm a premium of $760.50 on March 10, 1947, to cover the plane, valued at $6,500, against loss from destruction in flight. The plane was destroyed September 27, 1947. The suit alleges the company has refused to pay the claim. The plane crashed on the Eastern Shore.

Crop output in 1949 was expected to set a record.

Pheasants and Trout Included In County Stocking Program

Garrett and Allegany counties will receive 125 adult pheasants each in an experimental stocking project which involves eight counties this spring, the Maryland Game and Inland Fish commission has advised.

One thousand Ringneck or Mongolian pheasants will be distributed in eight bordering counties along the Maryland-Pennsylvania line of protected areas, preferably farm-game refuges where a maximum of food and cover are available and first-class farm land abounds.

The counties to be stocked are Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, Carroll, Baltimore, Harford and Cecil.

The distribution ratio will be four hens to one cock, which means five birds will be released on each protective unit, allowing twenty-five releases per county. For each bird that is delivered alive and in good condition, at the designated shipping points, the commission will pay a Cincinnati broker $4.35 per pheasant, or a total of $4,350 for the 1,000 birds.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, stated it had been 12 years since pheasants were last stocked in Maryland.

To Stock 24,000 Trout

Commencing on Saturday, April 2, the trout distribution program will get under way in three Western Maryland counties and will continue through June 7. During that period a total of 34,000 trout will be planted in 27 streams in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties, it was also announced.

Fifteen thousand trout are assigned to 16 streams in this county, 7,000 for five in Allegany and 12,000 for six in Washington.

By J. Glenn Beall

Income tax time this year finally convinced millions of Americans that the 80th Congress—dubbed "the worst in history" by President Harry S. Truman—wasn't nearly as bad as many persons had been led to believe.

These millions of Americans, after adding up the amounts due to Uncle Sam, were delighted to learn that they actually saved a great deal as compared with their total tax payment last year. Many Americans were in line for refunds. Still others learned to their surprise, that under the tax-cut bill passed by the 80th Congress, they did not have to pay any taxes whatsoever.

As will be recalled, the tax-cut bill was labeled "a rich man's tax bill." But the truth was—and is—that it removed some 4,000,000 wage earners from the tax rolls, and lightened the tax-load for millions of others.

The Republicans do not take all the credit for the tax-cuts. Many patriotic Democrats cooperated to pass the tax-cut legislation over the vehement opposition of the President, who vetoed the measure and saw it enacted by a two-thirds vote.

This question of taxes goes to the very heart of our constitutional, private enterprise government. It is a question that must be pondered carefully by every system, for if the longterm New Deal panacea of "tax and tax and spend and spend and elect and elect" is practiced, there will never be another tax-cut, and there will be a lot of tax-increases.

The Republicans and the patriotic Democrats in Congress believe that individuals—you and I—should handle our own money, spending it as we like for what we like. The New Dealers and the "fair dealers" believe that the amount of taxation should go up and up and up, giving to some bureaucrat the power to spend money. As the government, through the New Deal process, gets more and more of the national income, private business gets less and less.

As a result, the government finally becomes the only source for real investment funds. Privately-owned resources become fewer and fewer. Eventually, through this process, there is no money left in the hands of individuals except that which is doled out by the bureaucrats.

When this stage is reached, we will be in the middle of totalitarianism, whether many of us know it or not. Already, laboring men of this country work one day out of three for government. The other two days he works for himself and his family.

President Truman says that taxes are too low and should be increased. If he had had his way, your taxes would not have been lower this year than last year and very few persons, indeed, would have obtained the needed refunds.

The Republicans, and many patriotic Democrats, gave the peoyle this tax-cut while carrying out their promise to cut the cost of government and to reduce the national debt. The debt was decreased by 86 billion and the federal budget held down, in spite of the greatest demand from nations overseas. Yet, for doing these worthwhile things, the 80th Congress was pummelled by the President as a "do nothing" Congress.

The millions of people who know how it feels to pay less taxes, instead of more, do not consider the Republican Congress of 1946-1948 a "do-nothing" Congress. They are being awakened to the fact that it was a "do-something-good" Congress and there are many reasons to believe that they want more of the same.

It isn't likely that the present "fair deal" controlled Congress will cut taxes, although taxes should be cut. But if enough Americans continue to ponder the trend of government and business, it is possible that in another year the Republicans and the patriotic Democrats once more can start the nation on the route toward solvency—in the home and in Washington.

Under The Dome

On Tuesday of last week twenty-one representatives of the Farm Bureau, the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association and the various granges in Frederick County met with me in my office to discuss pending legislation. Bills affecting agriculture were widely discussed by us.

The Public Works Committee of which I am a member held daily executive sessions on the bill providing sites and planning for public buildings.

The mail continues to be extremely heavy at this time much of it on the proposed increase in postal rates, labor legislation the proposed increase in the minimum wage. It is always helpful to have the views of my constituents on these most important matters.

A Senate committee recommended that the federal government grant $300 million a year to help the states run schools and another $35 million to check up on school children's health.

Comps Praised For Aid To Passengers

March 21, 1949.

Dear Editor:

The only thing we know about Mr. and Mrs. Comp and their daughter is that they live near a B. and O. siding at Altamont, but after reading the rest of my letter, perhaps you'd like to print part or all of it in your paper. If the "good neighbor policy" could be practiced all over the world, as the Comps practice it we'd never have another war.

Enroute to Cumberland on Tuesday morning two weeks ago, we boarded Train No. 30, having heard just a few minutes before that our train would be held up several hours, due to a wreck near Bond. There was no time to pack a lunch, but we hoped to find broken rails fixed and the wreckage cleared enough by the time we got to it, to allow our train to continue its trip, then we could eat our delayed lunch at home.

The conductor came through the door, a pink slip of paper in his hand. It was an order to pull the train over on a side-track for a stop of three to four hours. Finally we found ourselves stranded, we thought, with no food. Murmers of disgust echoed throughout the the coach, but until the children, including our own young son, but up a cry of "Let's eat," we thought little about it. At last, when our words of "Wait a bit" failed to work, my husband and I climbed off of the train and walked to a big yellow farm house in search of fruit or something to stave off hunger. We knocked and a man came to the door, followed by his wife and daughter. They had no fruit but his wife told us to return in a few minutes and she'd have something fixed for us. When we went back, a real surprise awaited us in that sparkling clean kitchen. There were bottles of milk, a big glass plate banked high with sandwiches made with fresh home-made bread and a pot of bubbling hot coffee on the stove. Our lunch was complete including paper cups and napkins. They didn't even want to accept the pay we gave them. We took the lunch to the train and believe me a lot of hungry mouths gobbled it up in a hurry.

Then began a trek of other hungry passengers and crewmen to the yellow house. It was really a busy place for a few hours. Time passed quickly, smaller children had their naps and it was time to leave before we realized it.

No person on the train will ever forget the kindness of the family living in that yellow house at Altamont, and Garrett County should be proud of them. Their name is Comp and may their blessings be many!

Sincerely,
Willavene Rosser

GO ALL-ELECTRIC
SAVE TIME, WORK AND MONEY

A HOUSE DIVIDED between electricity and old-fashioned methods costs you more because it's less efficient.

Completely electrified homes and farms, using low-cost, easy-to-operate, time-and-labor-saving electrical conveniences, mean better living, easier work and lower cost.

The exclusive use of electricity costs you less because you then employ the best method for every job at the low-cost All-Electric rate. Job for job, use for use, electricity is best. Don't use two or more services when one does more for less.

GO ALL-ELECTRIC: It pays—in lower costs, less work, more time for pleasure and greater profits.

THE MORE YOU USE - THE LOWER THE PRICE

Most people, at some time in their lives have found themselves in the predicament of this little boy. He has been caught red-handed raiding his mother's jam. His offense is not unforgiveable, but he is learning the hard way that people's sins find them out.

Guilt and fear have dogged man's footsteps throughout the ages. They are the greatest of all enemies of human happiness.

Wise people endeavor to live in such a manner that they have a clear conscience with no feelings of remorse and with nothing to fear. Religion helps a person to live that kind of life.

The little boy in the picture must be taught that a good conscience is better than jam. He must learn to put truth, honesty, and right above mere appetite and pleasure.

Religion, as embodied in the teachings of the Church, banishes guilt and fear and promotes happiness and peaceful living.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) for the sake of his community and nation: (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Acts 10:24-35

The Race Question

Lesson for March 27, 1949.

JESUS DID NOT know there was a race question. That is to say, there was no question for him, though he well knew that his neighbors found the race problem a hot one. All the germs of any race problem, even of race riots, were there in Palestine as in all of our world today.

Dr. Foreman

First there was the feeling of racial superiority. Few, if any, peoples think of themselves as an inferior race. Nobody would mind being kicked around if he thought he deserved nothing better. The Jews, to which race Jesus belonged, were no exception to the rule. They felt themselves the superior of any race on earth.

* * *

Two Sides of the Question

IN JESUS' time the Jew of Palestine was in the middle. The Romans, having conquered the land, were top-dog in Palestine. With the Romans, the Jews saw the under-side of the race question. But there were other races, much less pure than the Jews, races called "Canaanite" for want of a better name. These people were kicked around by the Jews, just as the Jews in turn were kicked around by the Romans. Looking at the Canaanites, the Jews saw the race question from the top side.

In Palestine the wounds of race quarrels were made worse by the vinegar of religious differences. In those days it was taken for granted: Different race, different religion.

Jesus' neighbors and relatives in Nazareth, like most Jews, supposed that God would favor only the "chosen people," namely themselves. So the Jew's resentment toward the Romans above him and his contempt of the Canaanites beneath him were made more bitter by his conviction that they would all end in hell except his own race.

* * *

What Jesus Did About It

THE TWO STORIES in our lesson (see the Scripture references) show the astonishingly simple way in which Jesus walked straight through those walls as if they did not exist. He passed no resolutions, denounced nobody; he simply treated all races alike. He helped the Roman army officer and the Canaanite woman precisely as if they had been Jews. (By the way, his remarks to that woman should not be misunderstood as rude. She did not take them that way. He spoke to her, we may well believe, with a smile, and she took him with equal good humor.) Jesus appreciated faith wherever he found it.

He was the last person to fancy that all human beings are alike. But he was the first to give all an equal chance. He took people as human beings, not as "Romans" or "Canaanites."

He neither cringed to the Romans nor bullied the Canaanites. He looked at all men and women with level eyes, seeing not their skins nor their clothes, but their hearts.

* * *

What We Can Do

OUR NORTH AMERICA is also criss-crossed by walls of prejudice — racial, political and religious. In Canada (for example) there is the friction between Canadians of French and those of English or Scotch descent; in the United States (not by any means confined to the South) between Negroes and white people, or between Japanese and white people; between the "old stock" and recent immigrants; and so on. Those walls look pretty solid; but a Christian will find that if he follows Jesus' example he can walk right through them. Last winter a national interdenominational organization challenged its 28 million members and through them the Christian world, with one of the most sweeping declarations of human rights ever drafted by an American church body.

Hitting at every type of discrimination—r a c i a l, political, social, economic, religious—the group has challenged the Church to work for the creation of a non-segregated society "as proof of their sincerity."

Yet the real breakdown of human prejudices, hatreds and contempts, with the injustices growing out of these, does not come at one stroke by resolutions. It comes only by degrees, as Christ-inspired individuals make their own bright doorways.

Because a Communist support of the $100 million veteran bonus bill, the Maryland Senate finance committee voted an unfavorable report on the measure.

DIED

GROVER C. TRANUM, SR.

Grover Cleveland Tranum, Sr., 60, coal miner, of Kitzmiller, died on Friday afternoon while enroute to Memorial hospital, Cumberland, in an ambulance. He had been seriously ill a week and in failing health for several years.

In addition to his father, he leaves his widow, the former Miss Marie Spiker, a daughter, Mrs. Madeline Michael, McCoole; five sons, Charles, George, Harry and Hugh Wayne Tranum, Kitzmiller; and Grover C. Tranum, Jr., Elk Garden, and three grandchildren; also three brothers, Clyde Tranum, Beryl; Elmer and Sheriff Tranum, Franklin; and four sisters, Mrs. Minnie Watson, Reynolds; Mrs. Sarah Smith and Mrs. Bessie Foutz, Barton; and Mrs. DeFluce, Florence, N. J.

Funeral services were conducted on Monday afternoon at 3:30 from the Presbyterian church in Kitzmiller, by Rev. Jonathan Edwards, pastor, and Rev. H. H. Hardesty, Methodist minister, Burlington, W. Va., officiating. Interment was in the I.O.O.F. cemetery at Elk Garden.

IN MEMORIAM

Keller—In loving memory of my dear sister, Mrs. Luther Keller, who passed away one year ago February 26, 1948.

It seemed like only yesterday
You smiled your very last,
We cannot seem to realize
That one long year has passed.
Sometimes it is hard to understand
And why some things have to be,
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.
Still there is comfort in knowing
We will meet again some day,
When grief and pain are over,
And the clouds have rolled away.

Your sister, Mrs. Alex Georg.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 73. OAKLAND'S HUNDREDTH YEAR THE REPUBLICAN'S SEVENTY-THIRD OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., MARCH 31, 1949. NUMBER 5.

Centennial Face Lifting . .

Most persons have a general period for cleaning up their properties with the advent of spring. For people of this community the job ought to be one of more than the usual significance during 1949.

If we want a Centennial shine on our faces, all of us are going to have to go out of the way this year. Scrap heaps ought to disappear. Properties ought to be repainted and beautified. Our streets ought to be kept washed.

This Centennial year we should take particular pride in making Oakland an attractive place. There will be many people returning for the first time in years.

So clean up, paint up, wash up, and perk up!

Golf Course Ready For Opening Sunday

The Oakland municipal golf course will officially open on Sunday, April 3, it was announced by I. J. Bosley, manager.

Mr. Bosley said all greens had been mowed and that most of the course would be rolled by the opening date.

The favorable weather brought around forty persons to the course last Sunday afternoon for a pre-season round or two. Mr. Bosley said that the drainage work done last fall around the Number 1 and 7 greens had improved those areas noticeably and that the course was in excellent condition.

Golfing fees will remain the same as last year, Mr. Bosley said. A family in town may have a membership for $29.00 per season, while an out-of-town family may play for $23.00; Single persons in town, $23.00 and single persons out of town, $17.00, all tax included. Greens fees during the week are $1.00 and $1.50 on Saturdays and Sundays and holidays.

Last year's report to the Mayor and Town Council, submitted recently by Mr. Bosley showed receipts totaling $9,349.28 including $1,517 from greens fees, $1,435 from paid up members, and $6,397.28 from golf supplies, parties at club house, etc.

From this amount Mr. Bosley paid the Mayor and Council $500, taxes amounting to $637.84, insurance and tractor, $136; golf supplies, $2,231.98; upkeep, $827.44; U. S. golf association, $22; utilities, $227.52; trophies, $70.50; caddies, labor, help, $1,173.20; advertising, $66.74; beverages, $1,200.30; supplies for parties, $1,140.85, leaving the manager $1,000 for the season.

Mr. Bosley manages the course through a lease from the city council. Many hundreds of persons were brought to Oakland through the use of the course, the visitors being from many states of the union.
many states of the union. Mr. Bosely said they had come from as far as California and New Mexico.

Around 6,000 played last year.

Guard Is Alerted

The local unit of the National Guard was alerted yesterday and for about an hour its members assembled, patrolled the streets of Oakland and created a "road block" on the Oakland-Mt. Lake road, with the intention of stopping some contemplated "enemy" action.

Here for the occasion were Col. J. L. Hamilton, senior instructor in the national guard in the state, and Major L. W. Shropshire, an instructor in the regular army.

Lieut. Fred Kisner, commanding officer of the local unit, said the men assembled according to previous plan by notifying key men in the company, and that a big percentage of the membership turned out. The alarm was given at 12 o'clock and at two o'clock the members were assembled in full uniform and equipment.

Deadline for New Tags Is Tonight

The deadline for affixing 1950 Maryland license tags to automobiles is tonight at midnight. W. Lee Elgin, commissioner of Motor Vehicles, has announced that more than 60 percent of the state's vehicles have received the new registration and that the time for registration of pleasure cars, motorcycles and motor bikes would not be extended beyond the deadline.

The tags are red and are clipped to the larger old plates.

The deadline does not apply to trucks, since a bill pending in the legislature changes the registration requirements.

Cancer Campaign Starts

"Help Conquer Cancer." That is the keynote of Cancer Control Month, which begins tomorrow. The American Cancer society likewise launches its 1949 campaign for funds to be used in a three-way thrust against cancer, through education, service and research.

Maryland's quota in the national campaign is $230,000. Garrett county's quota is $610. Harry C. Coddington, Oakland, is the county chairman.

New Library Plans About Ready For Bids

Plans and specifications for the New Ruth Enlow Library building will be ready for reception of bids from contractors within the next two weeks, according to F. E. Rathbun, president of the Board of Library Trustees. The board met last Monday, including Mr. Rathbun, Mrs. Goldie Bittle, secertary-treasurer; Bernard I. Gonder, Sr.; Wilbur J. Glenn, B. O. Aiken and Marshall G. Brown.

Howard Turner, to whom the dwelling on the former Canty lot in Oakland had been sold, is dismantling that building in order to have the lot ready for the new building. Mr. Rathbun said it was planned to have the building well on its way by the middle of August in order to have it ready for centennial ceremonies and possible dedication exercises in regard to the completion of route 219 north of Oakland, the hospital, armory, new high school, or other events.

The acceptance of the bust of John W. Garrett, who was the first president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was approved, and presentation of this bust is to be made during the centennial week by his grandson, Robert Garrett. The latter is a member of the firm of Robert Garrett and Sons, investment bankers, of Baltimore. It will be placed in the library building. The county was named in honor of this same Mr. Garrett, who according to Mr. Rathbun, likewise presented the Garrett Memorial church in Oakland, now serving the Episcopalian congregation.

At Monday's meeting a financial report was made of funds in both the current expense account and the building fund.

The board appointed Mrs. Veronica Robertson as temporary librarian. She reported 1177 patrons of the library during February and 2771 as circulation books during that month.

HARVEY IS FREED OF MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE BY JURY

Not Held Liable for Death of Dewey H. Whitacre in Truck Accident last February

Carl Preston Harvey, 33, of Kitzmiller, indicted by the March Grand Jury on a charge of manslaughter by automobile was found not guilty by a jury when tried in the Circuit court here on Monday. Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., was the attorney for the defendant.

Harvey was arrested shortly after Dewey Harrison Whitacre, 51, Kitzmiller miner, was pronounced dead as the result of an automobile accident on the Vindex road, west of Kitzmiller, on February 21.

Harvey was arrested as he slept in a wreck-damaged truck about a mile from the scene where Whitacre was found dead in his jeep, according to the State Police. Police said the accident occurred during a heavy fog making visibility difficult.

Harvey will be given a hearing later, before Magistrate H. A. Loraditch, Oakland, on a hit and run driving charge, according to State's Attorney Stover.

Other Cases Disposed Of

Other cases disposed of by the court on Monday included the following:

State vs. Richard P. Stroup, charged with hunting on posted property of Mrs. Mildred Ryland; tried before the court, verdict guilty, ordered to pay $10 and costs.

William Payton, charged with permitting beer drinking in his place of business on Sunday; case dismissed by order of the State's Attorney.

Owen Harvey, charged with non-support; ordered dismissed by state's attorney.

Earl Speicher, charged with sale and possession of alcoholic beverages; plea of guilty entered as to first count of indictment; fined $100 and costs.

Clarence Edward McRobie and Faye McRobie, charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods, entered pleas of guilty; were sentenced to Maryland House of Correction for two years, sentence suspended upon good behavior for two years, and ordered to make restitution to McNitt Coal company within three months in amount of $50.00 for goods stolen.

Calvin C. White, charged with bastardy; he petitioned for a blood test in the matter and the case was ordered continued.

Samuel Storey and Clark Railey, charged with hunting deer in closed season, September 30, 1948, near McHenry, verdict of not guilty rendered.

Marshall Jones and James Merrback, charged with hunting raccoon during closed season; tried before the court, verdict of not guilty rendered.

A number of other cases held over from previous terms of court were either continued or ordered "stet" by state's attorney. One against Herbert Wilson, Jr., for assault with force and arms upon Walter Younkin, was dismissed.

Five Fires Keep Department Busy

Five fires, three of them in one day, kept the Oakland firemen busy during the week, one truck fire on Sunday resulting in damage to the extent of several hundred dollars.

The automobile of Thomas Paugh, Mt. Lake Park, was damaged by fire on Sunday morning and resulted in the first call for the Oakland department. The second call came about 10:15 when a truck of the Sanders Motor Freight backfired and caused a blaze to some of the contents of the truck. Sunday's third call came as the result of grass fire at the home of Joe Rice at Mt. Lake Park, about 3:30.

Two other fires were of the grass variety, one on Tuesday about noon near the home of Arthur Warnick, High street; and the second on Wednesday afternoon, near the William Weber home at the Weber crossroads.

Legislature Scheduled To Wind Up Tonight

The Maryland legislature is scheduled to end tonight. It was the most expensive session to date.

The state budget for 1950 fiscal year in round figures amounts to $157,800,000., nearly $35 million more than for the current year. The remaining pieces of a $194,272,000 fiscal program were expected to fall into place before adjournment.

Some of the recent enactments include:

An act to repeal Maryland's 48-year-old Declaration of Intentions Act. The vote was 71 to 41 in the House, and goes to the Governor.

Reorganization of Maryland's mental hospital system around a single commissioner.

Proposed two-year extension of stand-by rent control passed the Senate.

Governor Lane's bill to set up a $50 million credit pool to aid school construction passed the Senate.

The House froze its membership to 123.

The Senate passed two measures to give counties and incorporated towns a greater degree of "home rule."

A new coal mining safety law had senate approval.

Senate bill providing for establishment of a Garrett county juvenile court, was amended in house, putting such work in hands of Circuit court instead of into hands of trial magistrates.

Dental Demonstration At Work in Oakland

The "Fluoride Therapy Demonstration Unit" assigned to Oakland by the Division of Oral Hygiene, Maryland State Department of Health, arrived in Oakland for the recently announced program in the local elementary school on March 29. The Unit is comprised of Dr. John E. Frank, dentist in charge, Miss Esther Kile and Miss Cecelia Gaydos, dental hygienists and Miss Jacqueline Neff, clerk-typist.

The program, limited to the children of the second, fifth and sixth grades, will consist of dental inspections, cleaning the teeth and a series of four applications of sodium fluoride. This technique has been shown to result in an average reduction of 40% in the future incidence of dental decay.

The demonstration program is expected to be completed within five to eight school days and parents are urged not to delay visits to see the unit at work. Although limited to certain grades it is hoped parents of children in other grades and schools will also visit the demonstration and, even more important, will have the fluoride applied to the teeth of their children by their family dentist.

Oakland Hi Packed For Style Revue

The second annual style show and merchandise mart, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club of Oakland drew a crowd estimated at around seven hundred persons, last Friday evening at the Oakland High school. The auditorium seats, balcony, aisles, and all available standing room were jammed.

Fifty-two ladies and misses' styles were shown, in addition to a raincoat review, and several mother-daughter and mother-son fashions, all material from the Half Price Stores, Rudy's, Treacy's, Harveys, Youthland, and the Princess Shop in Oakland.

The exhibits of fifteen business places of town, located in three classrooms and the lower hallway attracted much interest, with one of the main attractions being the first public television display by the Oakland Electric and Radio Service.

A rendition of "April Showers", sung by Charles L. Briner, and accompanied by William Gibson at the piano, opened the entertainment, which was followed by the raincoat review by Mrs. Arthur Naylor, Jr., Mrs. Frederick Thayer, Mrs. E. I. Baumgartner, Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mrs. Howard Rathbun, Miss Betsey Phillips, Ann Lee Lohr and Willard Ann Glotfelty.

Mother-daughter fashions were shown by Mrs. R. J. Hesen and daughter Christiane, Mrs. Robert Nethken and daughter Betty Ann. Mrs. Robert Stanton and son "Smokey", Mrs. Wilbur Close and son David, paraded in mother-son fashions. Most of the adults in these groups also took part in the styling of dresses later.

Others also taking part were Barbara Stickel, Gretchen Briner, Carol Crowthers, Mrs. W. W. Grant, Mrs. Joseph Sollars, Emily Martin, Mrs. F. R. Shaffer, Meredith Elliott, Sara Smart, Janet Spence, Mary Naylor Bennett, Willard Ann and Barbara Lou Glotfelty, Buzzie Langan, Mary Jane Browning, Shirley Stockman, Mrs. James Helbig, Joan McRobie, Jackie Browning, Kitty Wainer and Ann Smart.

A variety of entertainment was interspersed, with ballet numbers by Sandra Orr and Carolyn Leighton, a minuet by Nancy Pollock and Sherry Hardesty, 100 years in the future by Stevie Wainer and Lynn Warfield; quartet numbers by Jay Bell, Wayne Hamilton, Jack Treacy and Frank Snively, accompanied by Jane Humbertson; reading by Mrs. B. Beeson Snyder; a reading by Joseph Sollars; and singing of the Easter Parade by Mr. Briner. The latter also sang "Heartbroken," written by Emeric Dusic of Oakland and Paul Monda of Thomas, which was introduced over the radio recently.

The style show was brought to a close by an array of feminine styles modeled by Emeric Dusic, Robert Hoffman and Grover C. Stemple.

Fifteen prizes were awarded during the show, contributed by various business men. Handling the announcement of the feature numbers and the styling were Mrs. Arthur Humbertson and Mrs. Robert Ruckert. Arrangements were in charge of Miss Susy Smith. Mrs. Humbertson announced that the Women's club would clear around $175.00 from the affair.

BALUCH GUILTY 2nd DEGREE MURDER

Jury Returns Verdict After Deliberating for Three Hours—To Be Sentenced Today

Andrew Baluch, 40, tavern keeper along U.S. route 40, west of Keyser Ridge, was found guilty of second degree murder last night by a jury in Oakland where he was tried in connection with the fatal shooting of Meno Durst, 27, of Grantsville, last November. The state had asked for a verdict of first degree murder.

Not Yet Sentenced

At 11:45 this morning the court had not yet passed sentence on Baluch.

The manslaughter trial against Robert Broadwater, of Swanton, was under way this morning.

Baluch was accused of firing a gun through the door of his tavern and fatally wounding Durst and also wounding Victor Hollada, 32, of near Grantsville. There was a possibility this morning that other charges against Baluch of assault with intent to murder, and against Baluch and his wife for sale and possession of alcoholic beverages, would be dropped, according to State's attorney, W. Dwight Stover.

Baluch based his defense on the plea that he acted to protect his home and fired when the pair attempted to break down the door. Witnesses testified that Baluch fired four shots through the door from two .38 calibre revolvers.

Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., and Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish presided and indicated sentence would be pronounced sometime today. The maximum penalty is 18 years imprisonment.

The case began yesterday morning after some time was spent selecting the jury. Eleven of the original panel were seated after challenges and disqualifications and of four talismen summoned the first completed the panel.

Baluch was defended by William R. Offutt, E. R. Jones and Lewis R. Jones. A. T. Matthews assisted Stover in the prosecution.

The case was set for trial Tuesday morning but was postponed due to illness of Mrs. Baluch. More than 400 spectators jammed the court room and galleries to hear the case. The case went to the jury about 6 p.m. and the verdict was returned after about three hours deliberation.

Declares Objectors Not Aware of Section In "Mining" Bill

Explanation of some of the provisions of Senate Bill 435, relating to the mining laws of the state, were given this week by Delegate George E. Coddington, in answer to some of the objections being raised by operators and others.

Delegate Coddington said that section 18 and 19 of article 89 in the 1947 acts remained in the new bill which provides as follows:

"The director of the Bureau of Mines shall be a male citizen of Maryland, and shall be a competent person having had at least 10 years practical experience in working ventilation and drainage of bituminous coal mines, and having a practical and scientific knowledge of all noxious and dangerous gases found in such mines, and providing that graduating in mining engineering from a school of recognized standard shall be equivalent to two years working experience. He shall devote all of his time to the duties of his office and shall not be directly or indirectly interested in a financial way with any coal mine of the state."

He asserted that the qualifications had not changed.

The particular bill in question is one introduced by Senators Kimble and Fraley, to designate Frank J. Powers, senior mine inspector, as director of the Bureau of Mines; to specify the present director, Dr. John J. Rutledge would become chief consultant to the bureau "for as long as he is able to serve," at an annual salary of $4,000.

Wed In Methodist Church

MRS. LAWRENCE V. DOWNEY

Downey - Hinebaugh — Miss Mary Barbara Hinebaugh, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Joseph Hinebaugh, of Oakland, became the bride of Lawrence Vernon Downey, of Chestertown, Md., on Saturday afternoon, March 26.

The ceremony took place at 4:30 o'clock in St. Paul's Methodist church with Dr. Denver C. Pickens officiating. The church was beautifully decorated with white lilies, stock, palms, ferns, smilax and white candles.

Charles L. Briner sang two selections, "I Love You Truly" and "Because," accompanied by Julius B. Littman at the organ, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Duchess satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice and full skirt extending into a long train. She wore a fingertip veil of imported illusion with a heart-shaped lace bonnet outlined with seed pearls. She carried a hand bouquet of white roses, with white ribbon and sweetpea streamers. A single strand of pearls was her only jewelry.

Betty Lou Hinebaugh, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant. Joseph W. Hinebaugh, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Her maid of honor wore a gown of California Sunshine Angelskin with matching net headdress. She carried an old fashioned hand bouquet of spring flowers with gold and orchid streamers.

Mrs. Hinebaugh, mother of the bride, was attired in a navy costume with which she wore a corsage of pink rosebuds and sweetpeas.

Mrs. Downey, mother of the groom, wore a wine costume with black accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

The ushers were Wendell Turney, Wayne Sowers, Chester Starr and Clifford Brockson.

After the church ceremony a reception was held at the William-James Hotel. A tiered wedding cake ornamented with a miniature bride and groom centered the refreshment table. Aunts of the bride presided as follows: Mrs. Guy Hinebaugh, the coffee; Mrs. Joseph E. Helbig, the wedding cake, and Mrs. Harold Rook, the punch.

The bride presented her bridal bouquet to her great aunt, Mrs. John G. Robinson in honor of her seventy-fourth birthday.

Clean Up or Be Cleaned Out Is New Slogan

The slogan "Clean up or be cleaned out" is tragically true, D. T. B. Symons, Director of the Maryland Extension Service, said in launching the 1949 spring clean-up week. "Carelessness about the farm and in the home results in fires and accidents that are costing Maryland farmers thousands of dollars and many days of lost time," he declared. Figures for last year show that 90 per cent of farm fires are caused by carelessness.

No particular week has been designated, but the Director urged every farm family to plan a definite time during which all the buildings on the farm are to be checked. Fire prevention and accident prevention should both be kept in mind. Outdoor accident hazards should be corrected and tools and equipment should be put in safe working condition.

Inside Your Congress

Ralph W. Gwinn, M.C.

Minimum Wage Law

The committee on Education and Labor in Congress has taken another step into socialism. We march on down the road to serfdom under the Lesinski banner bearing the slogan "Minimum Wage Law," H. R. 3190. It sounds humanitarian. It pretends to do for the people what they cannot or will not do for themselves. Like all demogogic promises of government to fix prices, its sole practical purpose is to rob one group to benefit another that has the most votes in it.

This administration under the Lesinski Bill proposes to make all employers engaged in interstate commerce pay the apprentice, the learner, the slow worker, the handicapped or injured veteran, the old, the part-time worker, even the baby sitters at least 75 cents an hour for 40 hours a week and $1.12½ for overtime. If the father and mother are engaged in interstate commerce while the baby sitter sits 75 cents an hour for 40 hours a week and $1.12½ per hour for all overtime must be paid unless specifically exempted exempted from the bill. The law denies to all such persons the right to work at all unless they can induce simebody to pay the legal rate. If they can't, then they must go on the relief rolls. They dare not take even 73c. an hour. The bill is actually a compulsory unemployment bill. That is planned economy. That is socialism in any country, including America.

To illustrate how it works. We have more than 6,000 country weekly newspapers. Traditionally they employ many newsboys and paper carriers. They employ apprentices to learn the printing trade. The testimony showed that there are more than 23,000 G.I.'s learning the printing trade and working for less than 75 cents an hour while they are learning. Instead of going to school at taxpayers' expense, they learn a trade and get a little comuensation while they learn. The secertary of the Newspaper Association testified that this arbitrary government management of the small newspaper business from Washington would revolutionize it, destroy some of it, and cause tens of thousands to be unemployed. Everyone knows that a learner breaks more machinery on a farm than he is worth for the first six months or a year. No farmer can pay 75 cents an hour to boot. When the government fixed the price of grain, feed went so high that beef and butter producers could not pay it. Farmers went out of business. The public got less beef and butter at higher prices. When the government fixed the price of rent so as to rob the little property owners, the property owners liquidated, went out of business, stopped renting and quit building any new apartments. The result has been that the tenants have robbed themselves and have gone out on the streets and into the arms of the rent chislers.

This is the way all humanity suffers under socialism around the world. A moral breakdown of government ultimately hurts worst of all the learner, the apprentice, the least productive, the low income group, the pensioners. They become unemployed and unhoused and unfed first of all—dependents on the government.

What sense does it make for the government to decree that you cannot legally sell ½ bushell of apples for less than 75 cents when the public will pay only 50 cents? The government stops trade by making it impossible for one group to do business with the other. It should be obvious that we must all trade with each other at prices each can pay. No one but the people themselves dealing in and exchanging goods and services with each other freely can know just what a seller will take or a buyer be willing or able to pay. That's what we call doing business in a free economy as against the planned or socialist economy. The labor committee is in great disagreement and may refuse in the end to vote out the Lesinski Bill. When shall we Americans reverse the trend?

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Waste

Those disposed to be skeptical that a real reorganization of the executive branch of the Government along the lines recommended by the Hoover Commission would save the great sum of $3,000,000,000 annually, at the same time increasing efficiency, are referred to the single item of Federal publicity and publications. This is more or less an incidental activity of the Government. Certainly, it is not one of its major or more costly functions.

Yet, even a casual study will convince any open-minded man that in this field alone many million dollars of totally unnecessary expenditures can be lopped off with wholly healthful results. For here is waste, inefficiency, duplication, absurdity, unintelligence and lack of all sense either of restraint or proportion, at their almost incredible worst. Recently, in a Senate speech Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, presented a factual picture of this Federal publication business which ought to have had more attention than it got. It revealed an utterly indefensible situation, the continuation of which indicts the intelligence of our people and calls into question the soundness of our system.

It is not possible in this space adequately to present the facts as laid down by Senator Bridges, but it is worth while to recite some of them. In the first place, while the records of the Government Printing Office are complete, that is not true of the multitudinous agencies and departments which operate publishing plants of their own. For these there is no cost accounting system, no way of discovering the cost or the volume of their activities. All we know is that the cost runs into the hundreds of millions and that many thousands are employed. In the past ten years the Government Printing Office has delivered 133,582,867,587 copies of printed matter. Last year 12,000,000,000 of such copies were delivered, which is nearly double in 1939 figure.

This includes all types of printed matter and for all departments. But it does not include the immense quantities of material turned out by the departments and agencies themselves. No one can even estimate the magnitude of what these have printed on their own presses. However, in 1947 the Joint Committee on Printing established that there were 133 Government printing plants and 256 Government duplicating plants throughout the country. One department had 44 such plants; another, 21; another, 23. One agency had 100 duplicating plants; another, 43. In all, there were 32 agencies with such plants. In one city there were 25; in another, 25; in Washington, 61. In this are not included the Government Printing Office operations, which has nine plants of its own.

Last year, says Senator Bridges, the superintendent of documents issued free of charge, for these agencies, 61,979,102 publications. How many millions more the agencies issued for themselves can only be surmised. Daily from these agencies there is a constant flow of pamphlets and documents. Some of these are necessary and intelligent, but a very large portion are neither. The output of one agency often contradicts another or duplicates it. The mails are cluttered up with them, and they are scattered throughout the Union. It is impossible to tell whether the cost of distribution is higher than the cost of manufacture or vice versa. But, just as there is no way of getting full figures of the cost, there is, as of now, no way to co-ordinate, direct, restrict or supervise these tremendous publication activities, no inconsiderable part of which are pure propaganda.

As evidence of mismanagement and bad judgment, tons of undistributed publications dating back many years are piled up in storage warehouses of the printing office. Other unknown tons have been transferred to agency warehouses or sold as waste paper. During the past two years the printing office condemned over 10,000,000 publications. No one knows how many were condemned by the agencies themselves. Hoover Commission investigators found wide-spread evidence of undistributed publications. Many hundreds of thousands of copies of some publications were found which had been lying around for years—untouched and unwanted.

Conceding that some of the Government pamphlets convey useful information and are justifiable, Senator Bridges gives a long list of silly ones which sustain his contentions. He asserts that if the Senate—and, particularly, the Appropriations Committee—will not limit their scrutiny to printing and binding funds but probe into the cost of research, writing, editing, distributing and other hidden costs, a very large waste can be eliminated. "Here," he declares, "is a field in which, without any attempt to censor, great savings can be made without disservice to anyone except the budding authors who have no other outlet for their unwanted wares."

The Soviet warned that the North Atlantic treaty means war on the Soviet Union.

American farmers produced 200 million bushels of soybeans, setting new record.

Senator Tydings said the University of Maryland should be required to submit a detailed budget to the legislature.

35 Marriage Permits Granted During Week

Thirty-five marriage licenses were issued during the past week from the office of Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit Court, bringing the total for the month thus far to 122. Five of those issued were marked "don't publish."

Last week there were 33 licenses issued and 3 marked "Don't Puglish."

Facts On State Tax Cited for Local Farmers

Three facts about the Maryland State Income tax which every farmer should know were listed today by Earl E. Miller, of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Marketing at the University of Maryland. They are: (1) every farmer with gross sales of $5,000 or more or a net income of $1,000 for a single person or $2,000 net income if married, must file, (2) the return shiuld be sent to the Comptroller of the Treasury, Income Tax Division, Annapolis, by April 15 for those filing on the calendar year, and (3) the tax on ordinary income has been changed to 2 per cent instead of the 2½ per cent printed on the tax blanks.

Mr. Miller also reminded farmers to use the form 510 "Schedule of Farm Income and Expenses" and that a resident of Maryland must consider his entire income even though part may have been earned outside the state. Personal exemptions remain the same as for last year; they are $1,000 for an individual, $2,000 for a married person living with spouse, and $400 for each dependent.

Willys-Overland Cuts Entire Line of Cars

Willys-Overland motors have cut prices on all cars from $25 to $270. This includes the line of jeeps, passenger cars and two- and four-wheel drive trucks.

Factors in the price reductions were listed as important in steel and other supplies, easing material shortages, results of the company policy of maintaining its basic models instead of making annual model changeovers, and the company's "functional design which eliminates wasteful use of materials in frills."

Announcement of the price reduction is made today in an advertisement by the Hesen Service Garage.

By J. Glenn Beall

The one-vote margin by which the Democrats were able to kill any kind of pension bill in this session for veterans of World War I yet may plague them in days to come as the veterans of that war feel more keenly the economic stresses and strains of modern life.

Average age of a World War I veteran today is 58, according to statements made by spokesmen for veterans' organization last week. Thus, hundreds of thousands of the World War I veterans no doubt already are in need of the pension money that Congress could give to them and most others will be in need of it in the next several years.

Contrary to many reports, the proposal to give pensions to veterans would not have cost $100 billion, or even an appreciable fraction thereof, during my lifetime or yours. This might be what it would cost in a hundred years, or in 50 years, but since when has it been a valid argument against a bill to say what it will cost 25 or 50 years from now? If that is the case, we might argue against any proposal by pointing out that during the next thousand years it will cost trillions of dollars to operate the government.

The facts are clear, at least to many Congressmen. These facts are that the veterans of World War I performed a notable service for their country, serving in the armed forces with the possibility of giving their lives for their nation. Now, many of them are aged and in need. The nation owes these men some reward, over and above the social security that accrues to any and all citizens. Pension plan is the best method yet suggested thus to reward these aging veterans. The issue being that clear, at least to me, I voted for the pension proposal, which had been amended drastically so as to make it acceptable to every major veterans' organization. I will vote for such a pension plan again, when and if the Democratic leadership allows it to come before the House of Representatives.

In connection with veterans' affairs, some pretty solid rumors have been going the rounds in Washington to the effect that the Veterans' Administration is planning to put off paying veterans of World War II the $2 billion in refunds on premiums for wartime insurance.

These refunds, which are due to some 14,000,000 veterans, should have been paid long ago. The Veterans' Administration, accused of holding up the payments until next year so that the Democrats will get the political goodwill resulting from the repayment, denies any such thing, of course. But it is more than passing strange that such payments should not be forthcoming, in spite of the administration's cries of involved bookkeeping and other excuses.

Three years have passed since V-E Day. This huge sum has been held by the administration. It has been drawing interest. It was collected from men who were serving their country at the peril of their lives. Millions of them could use their refunds now. Yet, we are told that getting these checks out presents a gigantic accounting problem.

On such a protest, the government could refuse to pay its workers on time. Any company that does business with numerous people has a gigantic bookkeeping and accounting problem. But it doesn't use the problem as an excuse not to pay its bills on time.

Several Congressmen are going to be working to learn why the veteran's Administration has not paid the refunds. They are going to see to it that, in case the payments are held up until next year, the Democrats get the blame for being such bungling bookkeepers. Certainly, no political benefits should accrue to a political party which admits that paying veterans their own money is such a huge problem that it takes four years just to make insurance refund.

I attended meetings of the House District of Columbia Committee when the sales tax legislation was reported out and the Public Works Committee when the Committee reported H. R. 3662 which authorizes the procurement of sites and planning for public buildings.

Rules of Thumb For Dairymen

Dairymen interested in measuring the efficiency of their farm production now have two "rules of thumb" to use as guides. The more efficient dairymen in the state are those who are shipping 50 gallons of milk daily for each full-time man employed in the dairy business, according to Joe Pou, Extension Dairyman at the University of Maryland. As another guide, he states that one gallon of milk should be produced daily for each acre of cropland and pasture used in feeding the dairy herd.

Such measures are important, he says, because dairymen now have an investment in machinery and other overhead per cow higher than ever before in the history of our country. Fifty years ago, a good dairy farm could be established for $3,000. Twenty years ago the cost was $8,000 but today the out-of-doors machinery alone costs $10,000 and farm wages are 280 percent higher than before World War II.

Most dairymen have more invested in their business than many businessmen in other industries. This means that dairymen must apply the best business practices if they are to make a satisfactory living.

Cites Income Differences

To emphasize the point, Mr. Pou reminds farmers that last year the average cow in Maryland returned only 28 cents per hour for the labor spent in keeping her. This is based on most recent state production figures which show that 5,350 pounds of milk and 214 pounds of butter fat was the average output per cow. This is in sharp contrast to the $1.32 per hour returned by the average cow in Maryland's Dairy Herd Improvement Associations. Animals in these associations averaged 8,225 pounds of milk and 349 pounds of fat.

Pou recommended that dairymen set their goals for a herd average of at least 10,000 pounds of milk and 400 pounds of butterfat. A herd producing at this level will return about $1.74 for each hour spent in caring for it.

Federal price support for the 1948 potato crop probably will cost the government $200 million or above.

29 Highway Fatalities

A traffic collision statistical report for February shows that 29 people were killed throughout Maryland as against ten fatalities for February, 1948. There were 784 accidents throughout the state.

There were 3,988 arrests in Maryland and 7,624 warnings. In Garrett county there were 84 arrests and 194 warnings. Seventy-six were convicted. There was one fatal accident at night in the county.

Frederick Thayer Is Named Editor of Oakland High Paper

Frederick Thayer was the students' choice as editor in the recent school-wide election at Oakland High School. Miss Emily Martin, a close second in the election, automatically became the assistant editor. Speeches were given by the candidates on March 16 and 17 in each room and the election was held both days. The ballots were tabulated by the adviser, Miss Cogley, and the editor, Barbara Winters.

Fred and Emily will help edit the remaining issues of The Acorn this year and will have the summer to choose their staff and plan their work.

Both Fred and Emily were introduced in the preceding issue of The Acorn which stated that they had been selected for their journalistic abilities and dependabilities. They are also well known throughout the school for their activeness in various extra-curricular activities.

Attend Press Convention

Among the seven persons who attended the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Convention, these two went to several of the meetings held in New York. Here they gathered information that will help them to edit the paper more efficiently and correctly.

for a timely new kind of operating economy

GAS economy is written all over every inch of a new Studebaker's flight-streamed structure.

No burdensome dead weight squanders any of the gas you buy.

How much this runs into savings, any owner of a postwar Studebaker will tell you. Stop in and get the names of some people to talk to about it now.

Safe Disposal of Fluorescent Lamps

"Cuts caused by broken fluorescent tubes are a new health hazard that has received too little attention," warns Dr. William F. Reindollar, Acting Chief of this Department's Division of Industrial Health. "This hazard has become increasingly prevalent with the more widespread use of fluorescent lighting in stores and factories and also in private houses.

"The tubes are coated on the inside with a powder which contains the element beryllium. If particles of this powder enter a wound caused by the sharp glass edges of broken tubes they may cause severe irritation of the skin that delays healing and may even result in ulcers. In addition, where large quantities of these burnt out tubes are broken up for disposal it is possible to breathe in enough of the harmful dust to injure the lungs.

"To minimize possible ill effects the State Department of Health recommends the following disposal methods. With these precautions it should be possible to destroy worn out tubes without personal injury.

"Where just one or two tubes are to be disposed of, they can be placed in a burlap bag, immersed in a tank or trough of water and broken up with a hammer or length of pipe. The bag should be buried wet without removing the contents.

"Where a large number of tubes are to be disposed of, they may be broken in an exhaust-ventilated crusher and the fragments wet down before removing. Ultimate disposal may be made by burying, or dumping in deep water a safe distance from shore.

"Whenever it is necessary to handle or break fluorescent tubes, heavy leather gloves and goggles should be worn. Care should also be taken to avoid breathing in dust from the beryllium coating."

Over 13 Million Protected

Over 13 million workers have earned life-time protection under old-age and survivors insurance, according to the Cumberland office of the Social Security Administration. Although they they may never work again in employment covered by the Social Security Act, these 13 million are permanently insured, because they have worked 10 years or more in covered employment.

The amount of the payments, however, depends upon the total wages received and the length of time worked in social security jobs as shown by the worker's wage record at the time benefits are claimed.

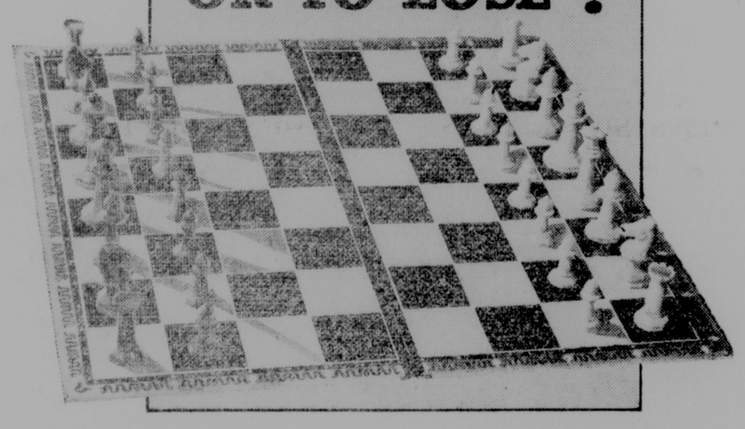
TO WIN... OR TO LOSE ?



Much deliberation and thoughtful planning is involved in moving one of these chessmen. People who play this game spend many hours contemplating the next move. Often a player finds his move has proved futile, and frequently he discovers his play has cost him the game.

In chess, we are not always able to foresee the move that lies ahead. If we lose, we merely chalk one up for the other side and forget about it.

But in another more serious game we are not able to treat our failures so lightly. In the game of life, we cannot deliberately ignore and forget our errors.

In life also, we are faced with our inability to foretell the correct move, but here the outcome is more important. This is why we must put our faith in something greater, something more sure than mere human speculation.

We who live in the Christian era are blessed with great gifts of inspiration and guidance—the Bible and the Church. Through them our lives may be made victorious. But the choice is ours ... to win, or to lose!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Mark 8:27—9:1, 31-34; Luke 9:28-36, 51.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Philippians 2:5-11.

Trail of The Cross

Lesson for April 3, 1949

THE TURNING-POINT in Jesus' career was dramatic. But the few friends who were present did not then realize what it meant. On a vacation journey, Jesus put to his most intimate friends this question: "Who do men say that I am?" Peter's answer, "Thou art the Christ," may sound obvious to us, but was not obvious then.

Dr. Foreman

It was sensational, so much so that Jesus did not want the publicity that would come to him if that name "Christ" were freely circulated. For the word "Christ" meant nothing less than "King." To the Romans it would sound like treason; but to the Jews it would sound like Judgment Day.

When Peter said, "You are the Christ," he was implying also: "You are immortal. You are the coming conqueror of the world. You are not in the same class with any other man. You will do for mankind what no other hero has ever done."

* * *

God's View and the Devil's

ON ALL THAT glowing devotion Jesus' next announcement fell like icy rain. In the ears of those friends of his it sounded like the bell of death. Never before had Jesus told them anything like this, and they must have found it hard to belive. For he had not a word about a throne, nothing about success, nothing about mastering the world. Quite the contrary. He must "suffer many things . . . be rejected . . . be killed." If they heard the words "rise again" too, the words made no impression.

For Jesus had announced what to them seemed impossible, absurd: He, the Christ, would be killed! Small wonder that Peter broke out—No, No! But Jesus would not compromise. He even called Peter "Satan" for thinking as he did.

The Christian church agrees with Jesus, not with Peter. We realize today, as Peter himself did afterwards, what the Cross of Christ means.

Buddha, founder of a very different religion, died in old age of overeating. Can you imagine Jesus doing that? Suppose Jesus had taken Peter's advice and made arrangements to retire comfortably where he would never see a cross? Then we never should have heard of him. He would not have been worth hearing from.

* * *

One Cross is Not Enough

YES, WE KNOW now that the Cross of Christ is important. But we are a good deal like Peter, after all. For we do not listen to what we do not like to hear. And the next words of Jesus, on that historic occasion, must have sounded then as they do now, most chilling of all. "Whosoever would come after me, let him take his own cross and follow me." In Jesus' time no one was ever seen carrying a cross who was not already under sentence of death and on his way to be executed.

Translated into modern terms, what Jesus said would sound as horrible as this: Any man who wishes to follow me must take his seat on the electric chair . . . must take his place in the lethal chamber . . . must put his neck in a noose . . . and follow me.

One cross is not enough. There must be other crosses. My road is a death-march. I want for my followers only those who are willing to take the same trail.

* * *

Trail of the Cross

SUCH WORDS sounded harsh then; they do still. But in the light of the centuries, we can see what Jesus meant, better than that little band of frightened men around Jesus who did not want to hear the words "suffer . . . die." Jesus was not advocating pain for pain's sake.

Why did Jesus set his own face toward the cross? The Christian answer is, He did it—for others. Now what is wrong with the world today? It isn't that we don't wish our neighbors well; but the trouble is, we don't want to be bothered, our good-will is too tender to stand any strain, we will do anything for other people provided it doesn't hurt.

But the world can be saved only as men and women imitate and multiply the spirit of the crucified Christ.

Farm Clean Up Week Scheduled April 3 - 9

Maryland farmers and farm organizations are being urged to aid in the annual observance of national Farm Cleanup Week, set this year for the week of April 3 to 9.

Purpose of the project is to reduce livestock and poultry losses caused by disease, parasites and injury.

By taking a little time for cleanup of lots and buildings now farmers can add materially to their 1949 livestock and poultry profits, the American Foundation of animal health, advised.

Heading the list of cleanup measures were:

"Clean and disinfect livestock quarters, particularly those where young animals or birds are to be born or housed.

"Clean out refuse in barnyards and feed lots. Old piles of manure and rubbish may be heavily infested with livestock parasites.

"Drain or fence off low, muddy spots in yards and pastures to protect stock against the germs and parasites that thrive in stagnant water.

"Remove or destroy old straw stacks that harbor parasites and germs. Scatter the straw or plow it under.

"Pick up and remove nails, glass and other sharp objects which might cause skin wounds and infections, or might be swallowed by livestock.

"Move young animals to fresh, clean ground as early as weather permits, and around weaning time have pigs vaccinated against hog cholera. Check also on the advisability of vaccination against other diseases which may be problems in the area."

Million Dollar Climax To Brilliant Career

Under the above heading a daily newspaper in Ashland, Kentucky, received the following eulogy on Sen. N. U. Bond, now residing in St. Petersburg, Fla. Senator Bond, an uncle of Mrs. Ralph E. Weber, south of town, is known to many of the older residents of this area. The eulogy reads:

"The million dollar Sears, Roebuck building under construction on Ninth street, North, by Senator N. U. Bond and his family of St. Petersburg, Florida, is a suitable and fitting climax to the successful and brilliant career of Senator Bond.

"Some half century ago, while in his early young manhood, Senator Bond began business in a small and modest way which developed into proportions far beyond his fondest hopes.

"Springing from pioneer parents in their native state of Pennsylvania, he inherited the spirit of adventure and daring. The forests and wilderness, the rough, rugged mountains and the great expanse of wide-open spaces were interesting and fascinating to him. They seemed to offer a challenge to the force and skill of men to utilize them to the use and needs of mankind.

"His own personal experience, his logical mind and keen foresight afforded a clear conception of the possibilities for success in the timber business as well as the probabilities of failure.

"He made his beginning in his native state of Pennsylvania. Soon he followed the forests into other states in search for more and better timber. By chance he came to Kentucky, and there he found, not only suitable forests, timber and coal deposits, but he found much more, viz: The treasure of his heart and the apple of his eye.

"Here it was that he wooed, won and wed the lovely then Miss Martha Johnson Medlock, the present charming and gracious Mrs. N. U. Bond. She was not only a companion and 'help-meet,' but for all these years she has been, and still is, his sweetheart wife.

"She developed into a business associate, and together they considered, discussed, decided and disposed of many important phases of the business. Senator Bond frequently gives Mrs. Bond credit for many wise suggestions of both action and nonaction which proved to be very beneficial.

"In his logging and lumber business Senator Bond built and operated one hundred miles of standard gauge railroad on one single job. Many men were employed, and in all the years he never had a strike of his workmen. One of his great assets, and probably the greatest except brains, was his ability to get along with and deal with all classes of people. He worked in the woods and mills with his men and could do and did do, with his own hands some of the hardest and most difficult work. He never asked his men to do any work too hard or too dangerous for himself. This gained and held the complete respect and confidence of his workmen.

"He attributed much of his success to the application of his three rules of action. He says one or another of these rules will always get results:

Rule No. 1—The Golden Rule.
Rule No. 2—The Golden Rule.
Rule No. 3—The Golden Rule.
('Do unto others as you would have others do unto you.")

"Senator and Mrs. Bond have three fine and worthy sons, all of whom served in the late war with honor and distinction. All of them are now aggressive young business men, and with their elegant wives and children live in St. Petersburg.

"The small business started a half century ago has developed and expanded until it is now an 'empire'—land, coal, buildings and other property. However, not without half a century of diligent work and sacrifice,—not without the nerve-wracking uncertainties and risks of such undertakings,—not without many struggles and threats of failure. And, not without the guiding hand of foresight.

"Now, it is fitting and proper that such an 'empire' and such career should have a distinct and dignified finish. This modern Sears, Roebuck building of strength and beauty makes the capstone and finish of an exceptional, outstanding and brilliant career of business, politics and society—a million dollar climax to the brilliant career of Senator N. U. Bond, St. Petersburg, Florida."

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 73. OAKLAND'S HUNDREDTH YEAR THE REPUBLICAN'S SEVENTY-THIRD OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., APRIL 7, 1949. NUMBER 6.

Lengthening Shadow . . .

Get a clear picture of the map of the United States in your mind, or better still get a copy of a map and place it before you as you ponder the alarming growth of Federal expenditures.

For quite some time now we have been calling attention to the threat to our way of life, of the growing burden of debt and taxation, and the extension of governmental activities into the field of private enterprise.

Now with the map before you study the following facts:

In 1929 federal spending amounted to less than two thirds of the personal income of the inhabitants of California.

By 1947, Federal expenditures were approximately equal to the total personal income of all the inhabitants of California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and about four fifths of Texas.

Federal expenditures amounted to $121 per family in 1929, $250 in 1938, and about $984 in 1948.

Remember that these figures represent the spending of the federal government only. When state and local government spending is added, the total amounts to some 30 percent of our national income. In other words, the American people devote nearly one-third of their working time and effort to supporting their various governments.

Information above originally appeared in the New England Letter, published by the First National Bank of Boston, and also appeared with colored maps in the March issue of the Reader's Digest. The bank gladly gave permission to use the material, and the maps.

But we really don't need the colored maps to make us realize where this country is heading if its citizens keep up the present trend of "The Gimmies."

Everyone can see how quickly the balance of the states could be swallowed up by Federal expenditures if the tendency of legislators and the indifference of the people continue.

New Recruiter Named

M-Sgt. John M. Wieder has been named as recruiter for the army and army air force in this area, it was announced last Thursday. He succeeds M-Sgt. Frank Robbins, who was relieved of his recruiting duty as of that day, and assigned to the military air transport service, Andrews Air Force base, Washington, D. C.

Sgt. Wieder will be attached to the main office at Martinsburg, W. Va. He comes to Oakland from Parkersburg, W. Va., his home town, where he commanded the army and air force recruiting station for over two years. He is married and the father of three children. He plans to bring his family to Oakland in the near future.

Will Remain Here

Rev. Austin F. Schildwachter, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Parish, announced this week that he would remain in Oakland.

He recently received a call to become rector of the Episcopal church at Havre de Grace, but has declined to accept the call, preferring to remain in Oakland for the time being.

Ford Cuts Prices

The Ford Motor company fell in line with a downward price trend in the auto industry and announced reductions from $12 to $120 on Ford, Lincoln and Mercury cars. Some truck models are reduced $10 to $40.

Discuss Atomic Energy With Speaker

GENERAL ASSEMBLY ENDS SESSION

The General Assembly of Maryland closed doors on its 1949 session Monday afternoon at 5:32, and also concluded its last biennial session.

Beginning next February 1, the General Assembly will meet every year with sessions on even-numbered years for 30 days, just for budget work; and odd-year meetings to continue as now for 90 days.

In contrast to past sessions adjournment came with practically no demonstration.

Governor Lane sent the Legislature his farewell message and told Senators and Delegates they had accomplished the "most constructive single year's advancement in mental hygiene since the state first assumed responsibility for the care and treatment of the mentally ill."

The governor referred to legislation reorganizing the mental institutions under one-man rule and appropriating almost $20,000,000 for new buildings. Lane also singled out acts which set up a $50 million credit pool and a $20 million fund to be distributed on the basis of school enrollment both for the construction of new schools.

Lobbyists' Carnival

A Sunpaper correspondent, Thomas O'Neill, who has covered the political scene for 22 years, wrote that the Legislature was one that "had no self esteem," and that "voting control of both branches rested with a faceless group of seat numbers content to cede their authority and responsibility to political stringpulier, unblushing puppets. The inescapable result was a lobbyists' carnival."

Sanitary District Law On Deep Creep Repealed

A partial list of the outcome of various bills introduced in the legislature by the Garrett county members has been reported by Delegate R. E. McIntire.

The law designating that portion of ground around Deep Creek Lake as a Sanitary District and providing for a tax on the property owners which was passed at a previous legislature, was repealed.

A bill affecting Garrett county was the school measure providing for a $20,000,000 fund for school buildings. According to a letter to the legislators from Governor Lane, this would provide Garrett county with $282,000, which he stated was as a gift, "requiring no repayment," but Delegate McIntire said, according to the bill the County Commissioners are required to levy 1.2 cents per hundred the first year and 6 cents per hundred thereafter until the amount is paid.

Other bills introduced which got nowhere:

A five-person School Board.

Placing the juvenile court cases under the circuit court, the same as the state-wide measure, as amended; originally placing the cases under the direction of the magistrates.

A senate bill allowing commissioners to buy $50,000 worth of machinery without regulations.

A School bill allocating specific amounts to be spent at specific places, passed house only.

Bill not allowing any new beer retailers to locate within 500 feet of church, passed house, killed in senate.

Strip Mine bill, passed house.

Bill to exempt Garrett County from forest conservancy act.

Oakland crossing bill. Now remains just as it was formerly, requiring crossing man.

Will Exhibit Century-Old Piano

A century-old piano, which has lately come into the possession of Bern Nally, is being polished and tuned so that it may become an interesting feature of Oakland's Centennial celebration this year, August 8 to 14.

Firmly believing that it will be considered a valuable "museum piece" of furniture when all available information about its early manufacture is learned from the famous piano manufactures and from historical accounts of the origin of those musical instruments, nevertheless, the owner is not at all interested in disposing of it right now at any price.

As the result of considerable research it is almost a certainty that the piano was manufactured sometime prior to 1847, probably in Germany, and that it is one of the first types of a grand piano in the transition from an early harpsichord. The piano's key action is described as that made by Johan Baptist Streicher, as of 1824.

The piano is the work of Carl Julius Gebauhr, whose name is inscribed on it above the keyboard, who worked in Konigsberg, in Prussia. It has 82 keys, with straight strings. Around his name is inlay of red and yellow brass, copper, mother of pearl in eight different colors and other materials yet to be identified. The wood, either mahogany or rosewood, is beautifully grained and matched. The piano is numbered 840.

At one time, between 1840 and 1847, the piano passed through the hands of William Knake, a piano manufacturer, who went into business in 1834. The present piano company in this country of William Knabe is probably from the same family. A manufacturer who repaired one of the keys put his mark of 1847 upon the repair part.

Mr. Nally is certain that the piano has been in Oakland for eighty years, being formerly the property of the late Harry Davis, proprietor of the European hotel here for many years. The present owner obtained the instrument from Donald Davis, a son, at a nominal cost.

Last Saturday when the above picture was taken at his home, Mr. Nally was carting around a huge volume on piano manufacturers obtained from the Pratt Library the previous day. He seemed so well versed in his subject that he was accused of having stayed up all night to read the book, but it was later recalled that a number of years ago he had learned about pianos while a dealer in second hand furniture. He removed the entire keyboard of the instrument with ease, just to show the various markings on the inside, and knew the history of the manufacturers involved in its past. He already has contacted several piano manufacturers including Steinway, who appear very much interested in its antiquity.

Teacher Dies Suddenly

Odar A. Watson, teacher in the Oakland High school for the past five years, died suddenly at his home in the Rudy Apartments, Second street, on Saturday afternoon. Death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Watson was a son of the late Joseph J. and Margaret Morgan Watson and was born in Marion county, W. Va., July 23, 1880. He was aged 68 years.

He was a graduate of Fairmont State Normal, Fairmont, W. Va., and also a graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan college, Buckhannon. He was principal of the Miller School at Fairmont, served as superintendent of Preston county schools, was principal of the Main street grade school at Buckhannon, and was connected with the West Virginia State department of Education for fourteen years. He was also instructor in Buckhannon High school and for the past five years had taught in Oakland High school where until this past year he was coach of basketball and other athletic activities.

A veteran of World War I, he served in company I of the 38th infantry division as a first lieutenant. He was a member of the American Legion at Oakland, and also a member of the Forty and Eight organization.

He was also a member of Terra Alta lodge No. 106, Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, and St. Paul's Methodist church, Oakland, being a part-time teacher of the men's bible class.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elwanda Smith Watson, and one daughter, Nancy Lou, by this marriage; also two daughters and one son by a previous marriage: Mrs. Margaret Helen Wilson, Mrs. Laura Jean Craig, both of Clarksburg, W. Va.; and Paul M. Watson, Hillsboro, Ohio; four grandchildren; two half-sisters and one half-brother, Bernice Watson, Pearl Watson and William Watson, all of Detroit, Mich.

Funeral services were conducted from St. Paul's Methodist church on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in charge of Dr. Denver C. Pickens, pastor, after which the body was taken to Buckhannon, W. Va., where the services at the grave were conducted by the Masonic lodge of Buckhannon. Pallbearers here were members of the men's bible class as well as the Oakland Masonic lodge.

Atomic Energy Is Explained by Speaker at Chamber Dinner

Around one hundred persons who attended the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting last Thursday night are now able to give a comprehensive and detailed report on their government's "atomic energy enterprise." Or are they?

At least they have been exposed to fissions, atoms, uranium, plutonium, radiation, radioactivity, neutrons, and just plain old electricity.

The remarks before the group were made by Francis E. Blake, training branch of the atomic energy commission, of Washington. Mr. Blake, a former resident of Frostburg, was well versed in his subject. His thirty page address is too lengthy to repeat in full, or give even a summary.

Some of his remarks follow:

"The Atomic energy enterprise depends primarily upon the fact that fission, or splitting of certain atoms of some of the heavier elements of nature may occur." x x x When the nucleus of either uranium-235 or plutonium is hit by a neutron, a neutral particle of the atom, it may break into two parts as a sort of atomic explosion in which a large amount of energy is released. More important, additional neutrons are also released during this explosion which may collide with other atoms, thereby causing other fissions to occur, the release of more neutrons causing more fissions, and so on, so that a chain reaction may be set up releasing not just the energy from a single atom, but from countless numbers of atoms.

"If the fissionable atoms are distributed among a large amount of non-fissionable material, then the chain reaction may proceed slowly and under control.

"This newly acquired knowledge of another of nature's great universal forces holds promise of unlocking for us fields of knowledge at which heretofore it was possible only to guess. Our social, political and economic life in all probabilitty will be profoundly affected by the changes which will be wrought by the full development and application of nuclear energy.

"On its benign side the use of the radioactive isotope has already led the way to significant enlargement of our knowledge of certain diseases. Through the use of Isotope the biochemist is daily enlarging the field of information of the chemical processes of the living organism."

The work of the atomic energy commission and what people were getting as a return on their huge investment in atomic energy was explained at length by the speaker. He said the average citizen had an obligation to become informed and to keep informed on the atomic energy enterprise so that he can keep it in line with what he thinks it ought to be, "as the greatness of our American Democratic system has always been in responsiveness of our government, to the will, desires and wishes of the people."

State Foresters Planting Trees

About 20,000 tree seedlings are being planted in area state forests, according to William A. Parr, district forester.

Parr said the trees are being planted in order to utilize unused fields and to provide small game with cover.

About 2,000 white pines were planted in Allegany county and the balance are being planted in this county.

Around 2,000 spruce trees have been planted in Potomac State forest at Deer Park, and the other 16,000 trees are to be planted in the Swallow Falls State forest. The trees include 7,000 white pines, 3,000 red pines, 1,000 Scotch pines and 5,000 hemlocks. All trees, Parr said, are seedlings, two years old or older. They are being planted by about eight regular forestry workers. Only 2,000 trees were planted in the same area last year, and prior to that no trees had been planted in state forests and parks since before World War II.

BALUCH GIVEN 12 YEARS IN PEN

Broadwater Found Guilty of Manslaughter, Given Suspended Sentence

A sentence of 12 years in the Maryland penitentiary was passed on Andrew Baluch, 40-year-old tavern keeper last Thursday afternoon in the Circuit court here.

Baluch was found guilty of second degree murder of Meno Durst 27, of Grantsville, by a jury last Wednesday evening after three hours of deliberation.

After sentence was pronounced by Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., Cumberland, and Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish, of Hagerstown, the state dropped a second charge of assault with intent to kill in connection with the wounding of Victor Hollada, 32, also of near Grantsville, and also dropped the charges of sale and possession of alcoholic beverages, against Mrs. Baluch. The court issued an order instructing the sheriff to confiscate and destroy the illegal beverages, consisting of several cases of wines and whiskies.

Durst and Hollada had gone to the Baluch tavern one day last November, and Baluch fired four shots from two .38 calibre revolvers through the door.

Guilty of Manslaughter

Robert Broadwater, of Swanton, arraigned on a charge of manslaughter by truck, was tried before the court and found guilty. He was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction. Sentence was suspended, however, on condition that he refrain from drinking.

The court indicated the suspended sentence was given in view of the fact that Broadwater is regularly employed and that he has a wife and five children and also a 78-year-old uncle dependent upon him.

Broadwater was allegedly the owner and driver of a truck which plunged into Savage river last December. Two passengers, Aden C. Wilt, Jr., 34, of Swanton, and Samuel Lewis Darr, 46, near Westernport, were drowned.

Criminal cases were completed in the court last Thursday with the conclusion of the Broadwater case. Several civil cases are to be heard on or near April 16.

He said he would work with other organizations in an attempt to get bleachers erected there and to eventually make a playground area for that end of town.

Two Roads Projects Again Under Way

Two Garrett county roads projects are under way again, one north of Oakland, and one south of Oakland.

The first is route 219, heading toward the lake from Oakland, and which was halted last fall on account of the cold weather.

The Garrett county project south of town, which is expected to be completed this year, will open a new and more direct highway from the eastern end of route 50, to Oakland, coming through Gormania, Steyer, White Church, and Mt. Lake Park.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the State Roads commission, said the project would cost $268,000 and requires relocation of two and one-half miles of highway.

Basic Facts of Growth Hold Secret of Cancer

Scores of scientists throughout the United States, working under American Cancer Society grants, are shaking down the ancient secrets of growth—normal growth and growth gone wrong.

With more than $9,000,000 of the Society's funds allocated to this research so far, considerable progress has been made in a dozen different scientific fields. Surgery and radiation remain the only sure cures for cancer; but even the hopelessly advanced cases have been enabled to live longer—in comfort and usefulness.

More important than the help being given the present day patient is the hope held for the 18,000,000 others now alive who will die of cancer unless control measures are devised. Important discoveries in all likelihood will come from basic research into the factors controlling growth—enzymes, hormones, vitamins, habits, viruses, infectuous organisms of all sorts.

Once the basic facts of cancer are known, the world will come upon an era of health and potential prosperity. The age of growth control well may be more revolutionary than the age of the spht atom. Under growth control:

The chemistry of most diseases can be reversed;

Infectuous diseases will be controlled;

Wounds and sores will heal rapidly and surely;

Physical and mental monsters will be rare;

The products of the earth will be more abundant than man now dreams possible;

The world will be a better, happier place—if the spirits of men can keep pace with technological advances.

In the series of brief articles to follow some of these advances will be described.

Progress toward the goal of growth control will be described in a series of articles on research to appear here during April, "Cancer Control month."

Support research! Give today to the American Cancer Society!

Baumgartner, Harry L. Stemple, Ralph Pritts.

A new public relations committee was named consisting of Emeric Dusis, chairman; Stemple, Shartzer and Mayor Hinebaugh.

Pass Resolution

A resolution was passed at the regular meeting requesting the State Roads commission to hard-top the shoulders on Third street, between Green and Center. The resolution pointed out that the commission had jurisdiction in the matter and expressed a hope for early consideration.

Request Deed

Walter W. Dawson and Emroy Bolden were before the council in reference to money for band expenditures and also in regard to the town turning over an outright deed to the property on Third street, adjacent to the Coca-Cola plant, upon which the firemen plan to erect a building. The council agreed but stipulated that if the fire department organization ever ceased to exist that the lot would revert to the property of the town.

R. L. Smith appeared in regard to improvement of the road leading to his residence. The audit of the books of the clerk-collector and treasurer by Harland L. Jones, was approved. Mayor Hinebaugh was authorized to renew the garbage contract with J. Edward Tasker at last year's contract price.

A permit was granted to Mrs. Edna Ruff to erect a 4-room dwelling on Bartlett street, size 26 by 28 feet, one story, frame, with brick shingles and composition roof.

The Moose lodge revised its permit and reduced the request to a building one-story in height on their lot on the East side of Third street, adjacent to the Arthur Savage garage, the size to be 40 by 80, of cinder block and brick construction. The lodge was granted a permit last year for a two-story building there.

The town authorized the clerk-collector to borrow $7,000 to pay for the town garage, recently erected.

Receipts were below average, and included $493.41 for water, $173.34 for taxes. Expenses amounted to $6,636.28 and included $3,250 for a roller, $330 for refunding bond coupons, $429.30 for a carload of pipe. Movie tax amounted to $102.65.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Brenneman celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home at McHenry, on Sunday, April 3rd, with an open house in the afternoon and evening, when some hundred friends and relatives called.

Their eldest son and his wife from Akron, Ohio, joined the other two children, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Duckworth and Mr. and Mrs. Webster Brenneman, of McHenry.

Also attending were Mrs. Brenneman's sisters, Mrs. John A. DeLawder, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. E. A. Weimer, of Hudson, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartley Wilson, of Blackstone, Va.; Mrs. James Y. Wilson, Washington; and her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Brison Glotfelty, Addison, Pa.; Mr. Brenneman's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brenneman, of Akron.

Mr. and Mrs. Brenneman were married at Mt. Lake Park in 1899 by Rev. J. E. Johnson, and have lived in Garrett county most of their lives. Mr. Brenneman served two terms in the House of Delegates at Annapolis from 1939 to 1945.

Delightful refreshments were served. The wedding cake, sent from Washington, graced one end of the table with a punch bowl at the other end, centered with a bowl of yellow roses. The house was decorated with yellow roses sent the hosts in memory of the occassion.

A.A.U.W. Branch Learns of Pottery

A sound moving picture, "Clay, Hands and Fire," showing the manufacture of Spode china, was seen by members and others interested at the monthly meeting of the Garrett Branch of the A.A.U.W., on Monday evening at the Parish House. Mrs. S. T. Naylor gave a sketch of the history of English dinnerware in Wedgewood and Miss Ruth Keller spoke on the history of Spode.

It was noted by the speakers that dinnerware is rather a recent product, although the art of pottery is as old as civilization. It was pointed out that it was less than 200 years ago that English potters produced what is now known as English earthware.

Josiah Wedgewood and Josiah Spode were the first among potters who experimented until they found the formula which produced ware comparable to that imported from China.

Spode perfected the process of underglazed printing for decoration which process made china less costly to produce and brought it into the reach of the general public.

Two pieces of Wedgewood were on display for those present, a Jasper green vase with cameo relief in white, which was characteristic of Wedgewood, owned by Mrs. S. T. Naylor; and a Wedgewood meat platter, over 150 years old, having descended through the family of Mrs. Charles Keller, of Grantsville.

It was announced the branch was sponsoring an appearance of Stanwood Cobb, Washington, D. C., educator and lecturer, and writer of books on education and psychology. This will be in the form of a joint Parent-Teacher association meeting of Elementary and High school, on April 21st. The public is invited.

A.A.U.W. members plan to attend a luncheon at the William-James Hotel on April 30, sponsored by the 4-H club of Oakland, at which time a Danish exchange student will be the speaker.

Homemakers' Board To Meet April 22nd

The Executive board of the Garrett County Council of Homemakers' clubs will meet at the home of Mrs. Frank Spoerlein in Accident on Friday, April 22, at 10:30 a. m. Miss Venia M. Kellar, assistant director of Extension Service in Maryland, will be a guest Action will be taken on the revision of the Constitution and By-Laws.

Miss Eleanor K. Dearborn, Home Demonstration agent, held a work meeting in picture framing in the Extension office for members of the Oakland Homemakers' club last Friday.

A similar meeting will be held in the U. B. aid hall, Loch Lynn, Thursday, April 7, for the members of the Mt. Lake Park-Loch Lynn and Vindex clubs.

The House passed a bill repealing the 63-year-old Federal tax on yellow oleomargarine by a vote of 287 to 89. It now goes to the Senate.

A twister hit the Uniontown area, damaging the Country club and several homes.

Seedlings Distributed

Around 96,000 trees are being distributed to Garrett county farmers through the Soil Conservation service. About 75,000 were distributed in Allegany county.

They are distributed without charge to farmers cooperating in soil conservation programs. Wildlife food and shelter shrubs totaling about 28,000 seedlings, have been divided among farmers in the two counties.

Garrett County's Bucket Brigade

Another feature story, with pictures, appeared Sunday, April 3, in the magazine metrogravure section of the Baltimore Sunday Sun.

The story by Ralph Reppert, concerns the making of maple syrup and sugar on the farm of Guy S. Stanton, Grantsville. Pictures are by A. Aubrey Bodine. The front cover of the magazine is a view of the surrounding country from one section of the grove, showing a collection being made from the trees, to be put into the tank cart, standing nearby. Within the article itself are pictures showing the gathering of the syrup, by Hubert D. Stanton, the arrival of the tank cart to the sugaring camp where the sugar water will be unloaded, showing the tapping of the trees and inserting the spile in the hole, testing the syrup by Guy Stanton, and pouring the syrup into the molds for the various forms of sugar.

The story of maple sugar making is told about every year, but still continues to be of utmost interest to readers.

Here it is, only the third of April and yet one of Maryland's harvests is practically over.

A mere dribble of "maple water"—and this not the best—remains to be gathered from the groves of Western Maryland and boiled down to syrup and sugar.

Traditionally, sugaring begins in Garrett County the week of Washington's birthday, and runs through March and on briefly into April—until the swelling buds signal a halt.

During this time a day's work starts in early morning, when the air is so cold and clear that the ring of an ax or the clatter of a farm wagon can be heard a mile or more. And the fires beneath the boiling vats bloom vivid and pink through clouds of steam until late at night.

But the preparations for all this begin long before Washington's birthday, for all the equipment has to be scoured and made ready. On the Guy S. Stanton farm, near Grantsville, this equipment includes:

The big vats in which the maple water will be stored temporarily, or boiled down to syrup and sugar.

The keelers, which are four-gallon buckets of white pine that catch the water as it drips from the trees—galvanized buckets have only begun to replace wooden ones at Stanton's.

The spiles are slender 3-inch tubes that are driven into the maples to serve both as spouts for the trees' oozing water and as hooks to hang the keelers on. Here metal has almost entirely replaced the old-time spiles, made by hollowing out elder or sumac stems.

Mr. Stanton has 206 acres, and 90 of these are covered by maple groves, in which 900 to 1,000 trees are tapped every spring. Each tree is hung with one to three keelers; 1,450 were put out this season.

Many maple sugarmen hang from four to six keelers to a tree, and one Garrett countian has a maple on which he regularly hangs sixteen or eighteen, but Mr. Stanton believes such heavy tapping might harm the trees.

A sugar maple can be tapped, Mr. Stanton says, as soon as it attains a diameter of 10 or 12 inches. A tree that size is about 50 years old, and it can be expected to yield annually for 200 years. Tapping, the sugarman comments, apparently has no effect on the growth or life span of the tree. The tapping holes seal themselves soon after the spiles are withdrawn.

With his equipment ready, the sugarman stands by, ready to tap his trees at the proper cue from the weather. Maple water begins to run when the first thaw sets in. At the first sign of the thaw, Mr. Stanton and his men load the heavy farm stoneboat with stacks of keelers, throw on a box of spiles and set out for the maple groves.

With braces and bits they bore holes in the trees, 2 or 3 feet above the base and at least 6 or 8 inches from any previous year's hole. They hammer a spile into each hole, and hang the keelers on and cover them with sheets of tin.

In good sugaring weather the dripping maple water fills the keelers in 24 hours. An average tree yields 40 to 50 gallons in a season; some of the "good leakers" have yielded 100 to 125.

The average tree's 40 or 50 gallons of water produces one gallon of syrup—which, by Government standards, must weigh eleven pounds. A gallon of syrup, in turn, boils down to about eight pounds of sugar.

The first run of maple water is considered the best. The syrup from this run is pale, golden and clear, and most delicate in flavor. It brings a higher price. Also, its sugar content is the highest of the season.

If the thaw continues, the maples generally yield freely for three or four days, then slow up. When this happens, the sugarman hopes for bad weather. If the thaw is followed by a few days of freezing cold, the trees will yield freely for another three or four days when the next thaw sets in. In Garrett county the season usually runs to five or six thaws and freezes.

The worst possible kind of spring, from the sugarman's standpoint, is a very brief and clean-cut one. For sugaring is over when the buds on the maples swell.

At that time, instead of "maple water" the trees yield "buddy sap," a yellow fluid that is extremely difficult to work. "It'll sour quicker'n milk, and it'll gum up the tanks if you look at it crosswise," in the words of one sugarman. Furthermore, syrup from buddy sap is inferior in flavor. In Garrett county sugaring usually "saps off" during the last week of March or the first week of April, although it has continued as late as April 25.

Once the main "maple water" run is under way, the sugarmen are hard pressed to keep abreast of it. The liquid from each of Mr. Stanton's 1,450 keelers must be collected daily. For this work the sugar crews use two horse-drawn gathering tanks, one of 210-gallon capacity, the other only slightly smaller.

In these tanks the maple water is hauled to the "camp." The camp on Mr. Stanton's farm was erected by the present owner's father in 1883 and is still sturdy, although the surfaces of its weathered, silver-gray timbers are so soft they can be scored with a thumbnail.

The camp is made up of several processing shacks grouped under one roof, and nestled against the side of a hill. A road to an unloading lodge runs along the hillside directly above. Here the horse-drawn tanks discharge their maple water into a receiving vat, from which it runs down through a series of hollowed logs to storage and boiling vats in the shacks.

The maple water demands constant attention during its processing. It will "set" or sour, if allowed to warm up too long before being boiled. (Each season the Stantons let one barrel of it set into vinegar, then mix this half-and-half with their apple cider vinegar. This mixture, they say, is much better than straight cider vinegar.)
